Strange BUT TRUE

• It was the 37th president of the United States, Richard M. Nixon, who made the following sage -- and somehow appropriate -- observation: Ó sure there are dishonest men in local government. But there are dishonest men in national government too.

• Pasta has been around since 5,000 B.C., and it was invented in China, not Italy.

• If you're planning a visit to the United Kingdom, you might want to keep in mind this rather obscure statute. It's illegal to stand within 100 yards of the reigning monarch if you don't have socks on.

• A groundhog can move 700 pounds of dirt in a single day.

• When the two-and-one-half-hour finale of the groundbreaking television show ÒM*A*S*HÓ aired on Feb. 28, 1983, advertisers paid a hefty $450,000 for a single 30-second spot. That was $50,000 more than the same spot cost at the Super Bowl that year.

• We all know what a disaster is, but did you know where the word came from? The base of the word is Òaster,Ó which is Latin for Òstar.Ó The word ÓdisasterÓ originally meant Òan unfavorable aspect of a star,Ó reflecting the ancient notion that the motions of heavenly bodies affected terrestrial events.

• Baseball players didnÕt have numbers on their uniforms until 1929, and it was the New York Yankees that were the first to adopt the practice.

• On Sept. 1, 1836, Narcissa Whitman, a missionary, arrives in Walla Walla, Wash., becoming one of the first Anglo women to settle west of the Rocky Mountains. In 1847, a measles epidemic killed many of the Cayuse Indians. In retaliation, a band of Cayuse killed 14 people, including Narcissa and her husband.

• On Sept. 4, 1886, Geronimo, the wiliest and most dangerous Apache warrior of his time, finally surrenders in Skeleton Canyon, Ariz. Geronimo never learned to use a gun, yet he armed his men with the best modern rifles he could obtain and even used field glasses to aid reconnaissance during his campaigns.

• On Sept. 2, 1923, aftershocks and out-of-control fires rock Tokyo, Japan, and the surrounding area following an 8.3-magnitude earthquake. In total, 143,000 people died in the disaster. The Imperial Hotel, designed by Frank Lloyd Wright, sank 2 feet into the ground but still managed to stand

• On Sept. 3, 1939, Britain and France declare war on Germany. The first casualty of that declaration was the British ocean liner Athenia, which was sunk that evening by a German submarine.

• On Aug. 31, 1955, William G. Cobb of the General Motors Corp. demonstrates his 15-inch-long "Sunmobile," the world's first solar-powered automobile. When sunlight hit 12 photoelectric cells made of selenium (a nonmetal substance with conducting properties) built into the Sunmobile, an electric current was produced that in turn powered a tiny motor.

• On Aug. 30, 1963, a "hot line" between Moscow and Washington goes into effect to speed communication between the governments of the United States and the Soviet Union and help prevent the possibility of an accidental war. The hot line was never really necessary to prevent war, but it did provide a useful prop for movies about nuclear disaster, such as "Fail Safe" and "Dr. Strangelove."

• On Aug. 29, 1982, the Swedish-born actress and three-time Academy Award winner Ingrid Bergman dies of cancer in London on her 67th birthday. Bergman was best known for her role as Ilsa Lund in "Casablanca."

Q: I sold Avon products during the 1970s and have at least two dozen crystal and floral plates in the Cape Cod pattern. I would like to sell them. -- June, Salem, Mo.

A: Avon began as California Perfume Company in 1886. The first Avon items were introduced during the 1920s, but it wasn't until 1939 that many of its collectible products were being marketed on a national basis. To market your plates, I recommend you contact the National Association of Avon Collectors, Inc., P.O. Box 7006, Kansas City, MO 64113. The club publishes an excellent newsletter, "Avon Times," which might be helpful.

Q: I have a collection of hardcover books, in excellent shape with original covers. I hope to give them to my daughter and would like to find out current values. I have attached a list. -- Sheila, Palm Coast, Fla

A: My favorite way to determine the value of a certain book is to go to the excellent website www.abe.com. Type in the title of the book and its author, and a list will appear of dealers throughout the country who are offering that particular book for sale and the price they are asking. There also are several excellent price guides, including "Official Price Guide to Books" by Marie Tedford and Pat Goudey, and "The Antique Trader Book Collectors Price Guide" by Richard Russell.

Gordon Lynn Stalnaker, 60, Weston, W.Va., was found not guilty on possession of marijuana and possession of paraphernalia charges. He reportedly came into the District Court building in May with pipe in his pocket. Garrett County sheriff's deputies were the arresting officers.

FOUNDATION SUPPORTS BIG BROTHERS BIG SISTERS – The Community Trust Foundation (CTF) recently donated $1,000 to Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies. The funds will be used for a campaign to recruit additional mentors. Accepting the check, left to right, are "little sister" Kodee McKenzie and Lauren Seippel, director of Big Brothers Big Sisters of the Alleghenies. Serving Allegany, Garrett, and Mineral (W.Va.) counties, CTF is an organization committed to building "vibrant, strong" communities by working in partnership with donors and community groups providing leadership to address community issues. The foundation maintains a legal structure enabling individuals and families to express their charitable wishes without being subjected to the reporting and accounting requirements personally. "The CTF model is widely used across Maryland and nationally to facilitate local charitable initiatives," said a foundation spokesperson. "A range of fund options are available to meet the unique needs of donors." To learn more about CTF, tax exempt IRA withdrawal, and how to establish a charitable fund, individuals may e-mail info@ctfinc.org or call 301-876-9172.

Energy Efficiency Grants Given To Help Businesses

The U.S. Department of Agriculture Rural Development has awarded seven grants totaling $112,562 to help small businesses in rural areas, including Garrett County, improve their energy efficiency with solar panels, U.S. Senators Barbara Mikulski and Ben Cardin announced Friday.

The grants were awarded through the Rural Energy for America grant program, which provides funding for energy audits, renewable energy development assistance, and energy efficiency improvements.

The following grants were awarded in Maryland to assist farmers, ranchers, and rural small businesses in developing renewable energy systems and making energy efficiency improvements. All seven of the grants will help with the installation of solar panels.

- Tri-State Wind & Solar LLC, Garrett County, $16,177.
- The Hendricks McGinnis Farm Partnership, Baltimore County, $15,730.
- Warrener Enterprises LLC, Baltimore County, $20,000.
- Berrywine Plantations Inc., Frederick County, $8,750.
- Copyquik Printing and Graphics LLC, Washington County, $20,000.
- Revo Energy Inc., Wicomico County, $11,905.
- Claire Bear Farm, Worcester County, $20,000.

"Small businesses are the backbone of our economy, and the cornerstone of our communities," Mikulski said. "These grants will help rural family businesses and small businesses in Maryland become more energy efficient. Not only will they save money on energy costs, but they will be able to invest in growing their business, supporting their community and creating jobs."

"Thanks to this funding, our farmers and rural small businesses can embrace renewable energy to lower costs and build a more sustainable future," said Cardin, a member of the Senate Small Business and Entrepreneurship Committee. "Small businesses are at the heart of job creation and our economy here in Maryland, so a win for them is a win for all Marylanders."

The USDA Rural Development program is committed to helping improve the economy and quality of life in rural America. The Rural Energy for America Program provides grants for energy audits, renewable energy development assistance, and for agricultural producers and rural small businesses to purchase and install renewable energy systems and make energy efficiency improvements.

More information about the program is available at http://www.rurdev.usda.gov/Energy.html.

GCCAC, Head Start Seek Students For Child Ed. Programs

The Garrett County Community Action Committee Head Start and Early Head Start programs are currently accepting applications for early childhood education programs for the 2011-2012 school year.

Head Start/Early Head Start is designed to provide children ages 6 weeks to 5 years with comprehensive early childhood development and educational services. Families who have children with disabilities are encouraged to apply. According to the 2010 Maryland Model for School Readiness Report, 92 percent of all the 4-year-old children that participated in the GCCAC Head Start program entered school "ready to learn."

Head Start and Early Head Start services are provided by highly trained staff. All centers are accredited and licensed by the Maryland State Department of Education.

The Head Start/Early Head Start programs promote the GCCAC goal of creating a positive attitude about the value of education among working families and young people, thereby increasing the number of Garrett County families who are economically self-sufficient.

Interested parents may call Family Services staff at 301-334-9431 or 1-888-877-8403 (toll free) for Head Start or 301-334-4211 for Early Head Start to make an appointment, to complete an application, or to get more information.

Schools Open, Teacher Shortages Evaporate, Enrollment On The Rise

Maryland public schools began opening this week, as more than 1 million students prepare to start the 2011-2012 school year. Students returned to Garrett County schools yesterday.

All Maryland school systems will be in session before September for the second straight year. By the time all schools have opened their doors on August 30, more than 850,000 K-12 students will fill classrooms, and another 250,000 children will be involved in some form of pre-K, Head Start, or licensed childcare program.

Maryland's highly regarded public school system, ranked first in the nation for the third straight year by the leading education newspaper, is now under the direction of interim state superintendent Bernard Sadusky. The state's system is involved in its third wave of reform, implementing the $250 million Race to the Top program that is designed to strengthen educational standards, build a new technology infrastructure, improve teacher and principal preparation and evaluation, and provide support to low-performing schools.

"Our state continues to invest in its future by providing cutting-edge educational programs for our students," Dr. Sadusky said. "The new school year is exciting for students and educators alike. We look forward to another safe, productive year in Maryland classrooms."

Teacher Shortages Abate

While spot shortages exist in certain fields and certain schools, most classrooms have been filled with highly qualified teachers.

Race to the Top Program Moves State Forward

Maryland last fall received one of the coveted Race to the Top grants, bringing $250 million to the state and launching reforms in curriculum, assessment, and educator evaluation

Piloting Evaluations

Seven school systems will pilot new teacher and principal evaluation systems this school year, which include student growth as 50 percent of the measure.

Curriculum Incorporating National Standards

More than 6,000 teachers this summer took part in the Educator Effectiveness Academies, which focused on the Common Core State Standards that are designed to help raise the bar for students.

New Environmental Literacy Regulations

This year's freshmen are the first who will have required environmental literacy standards as part of their graduation requirements.

More Charter Schools

Assessment Scores, AYP

According to a release from the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE), school systems throughout the state are focusing on continuing the progress made over the past eight years, as Maryland School Assessment scores in both reading and mathematics have risen dramatically across the state. At the same time, the achievement gaps between students in certain racial subgroups have continued to shrink.

The federal No Child Left Behind Act requires that all students be proficient in reading and mathematics by the year 2014. To that end, the performance bar rises on an annual basis, a goal for schools known as Adequate Yearly Progress (AYP). Each year, those academic performance goals become more difficult to reach, according to the release. New figures for elementary and middle schools, released earlier this summer, found that most schools are meeting those rising targets, and that achievement is on the rise across Maryland. High school and system level AYP data will be released later this fall.

U.S. Education Secretary Arne Duncan announced this summer that he intends to offer some flexibility regarding key provisions of No Child Left Behind. MSDE says it is interested in the secretary's

Weather Trivia

What caused the worst weather-related aircraft accident?

Answer: In 1977, two planes collided on a runway killing 582 people in thick fog.

Weather History

Aug. 19, 1788 - A small but powerful hurricane inflicted great havoc upon forests along a narrow track from New Jersey to Maine. A similar storm track today would cause extreme disaster in the now populated area.

Aug. 20, 1910 - The "big blow up" of forest fires finally came to an end in Idaho. A record dry August fueled 1,736 fires which burned three million acres and destroyed six billion board feet of timber. The fires claimed the lives of 85 people, 78 of whom were fire fighters.

Detailed Local Forecast

Today we will see partly cloudy skies with a 30% chance of showers and thunderstorms, high temperature of 75°, humidity of 58%. West wind 5 to 8 mph. The record high temperature for today is 87° set in 1983. Expect partly cloudy skies tonight with an overnight low of 59°. The record low for tonight is 38° set in 1953. Saturday, skies will be mostly sunny with a high temperature of 77°, humidity of 48%. Skies will be partly cloudy Saturday night with an overnight low of 60°.

Health Foods Class Scheduled At GC's Grantsville Center

Mimi Hernandez, a nationally known speaker and educator on herbalism, nutrition, and holistic health topics, will offer a class titled "Functional Foods for Optimal Health" through the Northern Outreach Center (NOC) of Garrett College in Grantsville. Classes are slated for four consecutive Mondays, beginning on Sept. 12, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Coordinator of the Appalachian Center for Ethnobotanical Studies at Frostburg State University, Hernandez will review credible research that indicates many clinically demonstrated potential health benefits from food components.

She will talk about some of the foods touted for their health promoting or disease preventing properties to encourage students to make better informed decisions about what to eat.

Hernandez, who is a professional member and council representative of the American Herbalists Guild, received her master of science degree in herbal medicine from the Tai Sophia Institute in Laurel. She has introduced Appalachian Mountain roots at several events around the country.

For more information on this course, persons may contact NOC program coordinator Terry Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Anyone interested in registering for this course may contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

In Loving Memory of

CONNIE HUMBERSON

January 30, 1947 - August 23, 2004

Connie, Darling, we were entwined just like the Bible said we would be. Connie, you were A-B-C- and D. You loved A - angels, B - butterflies, C - carousels, and D was your dogs, and you cannot forget your grandkids. The day Jehovah God took you, He took you very kind, gentle, and sweet. I have thanked Him for that. Darling, you were always here for me. You would always make everything OK. Darling, the tears won't stop. Yes, my beautiful Connie Sue, your earrings are still in and your hair looks great. Darling, our bags are still packed for Boston. Connie, Darling, Happy 48th Anniversary to you, my "Golden Lady," "Earth Angel," fairest of them all. Darling, you keep talking about getting our vows renewed, this is the year, let's get it done. Darling, I say please and thanks to God a lot. Darling, I am still waiting and looking for one of your notes sealed with a lipstick kiss. Sweetheart, I know you're watching me from a faraway place. Darling, you always said to keep the lights on for you. Sweetheart, the lights just keep getting brighter. Love you, hurry home.

Love Always,
Richard

LIBRARY

One World – Many Stories was the Summer Reading Program theme that was celebrated on Aug. 5 with a party held in honor of the children who participated. They were served lunch, played games, and were presented certificates and awards. A bag of goodies was also given to each, with a surprise for any younger siblings at home. Students also went on a shopping spree for free books. First-grader Ruth Bennett and kindergartner Celeste Fry tied for first place in reading this summer.

Adults were involved in the program for the first time, and 16 signed up to participate. They also had their own celebration with dinner, desserts, and games. Lynda Hopkins read the most books. Each were given a prize for participation.

The quilt that was donated by Loretta Wotring, stitched by patrons, and finished by patron Winnie, was won by Sandra Larue. She was also one of those who stitched and is very active in the CEOS with reading to the children over the summer.

Terra Alta Civic Club will celebrate its 40th anniversary in October. The library has been chosen as the location for the event. There will be a member representing the club each day with information. The dates will be on posters and aired on the radio.

Laughing Elk (Ron Duckworth) was at the library yesterday, Wednesday, for a special presentation. He is a storyteller and has been employed at the Old West Museum for over 10 years. He dresses in period clothing and helps educate students about Native Americans.

Earl Slaubaugh is working with the staff on a display for Sept. 11. He has visited many sites and met several individuals who are connected to family and friends affected by the 2001 disaster.

Donating books, pamphlets, children's DVDs, and reading materials were Laura Sypolt, Dorothy Wiles, Penny Kelly, Yvonne Weden, Marcia Rust, Konni Miller, Patricia Laing, Doug Auvil, Jay Beigel, Larry Jarvis, Helen Brandon, Connie Groves, Carol Bennett, Joe Armstrong, Bill Menheim, Linda Wilson, Lawrence Sypolt, and Cindee Cramer.

Brookside Church To Host "Happy Hands" Puppetry

The Brookside Church of the Brethren in Aurora, W.Va., will host the Happy Hands for Christ puppet team on Sunday, Aug. 28.

GARRETT COUNTY
UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND EXTENSION
Solutions in your community

by Lynn Little, Extension Educator, Family and Consumer Sciences University of Maryland Extension

A trip home to visit family and friends is often a highlight of summer. However, these trips also can make us aware of some of the difficult aspects of aging.

Challenges arise when it becomes necessary for an older person to begin thinking of changing where they live. One of these challenges is how to de-clutter and downsize belongings. Homes that contain generations of memorabilia can be overwhelming. Everyone has personal belongings such as wedding photographs, a baseball glove, or a yellow pie plate that contain meaning for them or for other family members. Paring down and transferring such items are often difficult decisions. The process of sorting is tedious, as well as emotionally and physically draining.

Planning ahead is one way to lessen the pain of downsizing. This allows the sorting and downsizing to be done with less intensity and stress. In addition, better communication usually occurs when the sorting and downsizing takes place over time and not all at once.

One effective approach is focusing on one collection at a time. For example, tackle the photo collection. Today's technology allows for consolidation and duplication of photographic images. Photographs and other images can be scanned and duplicated with comments about each image. The use of technology is a way to get several generations involved. Imagine the joy of creating a CD or video of photographic images that are larger and clearer than the original. This approach to sorting and downsizing decades of stuff encourages sharing and may help defuse potential conflicts. Furthermore, the owner gets to enjoy sharing memories with others.

There is also the potential for misunderstanding during this sorting and downsizing. One of the most successful ways to avoid misunderstanding is to work extra hard on good communication among everyone. The key to successful communication is listening more rather than talking, and clarifying anything that is unclear. If each person gets to choose something especially important to him/her, then negotiating about items of less importance may be more amenable.

When negotiation is not successful, a time-out period may be needed for the passion to cool so that an amenable agreement can be reached. The important thing to remember is that even the sorting process is creating lasting memories. It is the choice of all involved as to whether the memories include fun and family bonding or strife and discord. Communication and time are the keys to creating pleasant memories.

Visit "Who Gets Grandma's Yellow Pie Plate" at www.yellowpieplate.umn.edu for a guide to passing on personal property. This is an issue impacting families, regardless of their financial worth, heritage, or cultural background. Decisions about personal belongings, also known as non-titled property, are often more challenging than decisions about titled property or financial wealth and may lead to family disagreements.

In Loving Memory of
BARRY E. BEACHY

It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many more years.

We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye,
before you closed your eyes.

Sometimes it's hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod,
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you.
Life has never been the same.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried,
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

Sadly, missed by:
Mom and Dad

BACK TO SCHOOL NIGHT

Southern High School's Back-To-School Night will be held on Monday, Aug. 29, from 5 to 7 p.m. Parents and students are encouraged to attend and meet with teachers and staff.

HIGHLANDER YEARBOOKS AVAILABLE FOR PICK-UP

The 2011 Highlander Yearbook will be distributed to current Southern High School students during lunch shifts on Monday, Aug. 29. Graduates who purchased a yearbook may pick them up starting at 2 p.m. Yearbooks will only be released to the graduate or a parent/guardian. There are a limited number of extra yearbooks for sale. Those interested in purchasing one may see Ms. Zumpano. The yearbooks are priced at $65.72.

SEASON ATHLETIC PASSES FOR STUDENTS

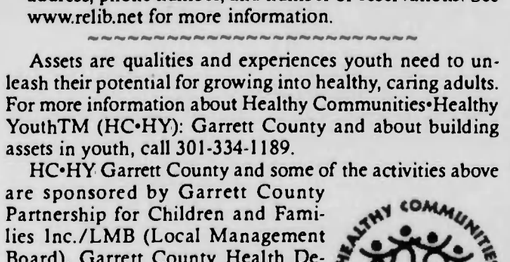
The athletic department at Southern High School will once again offer a yearlong season pass to all students at a discounted price. The cost for the pass is $30. Passes will allow students to attend all regularly scheduled home games (playoff games are not included). At this price, students who would potentially attend all games, save more than $90. Students will be required to show their passes in order to gain entrance into events.

Any student interested in purchasing a season pass may complete the form available from athletic director Matt Redinger and in the main lobby of the high school. Completed forms, along with payment, may be returned to the main office or mailed to the address found on the form.

Southern High School will also be offering adult season passes for all sporting events in 2011-12. The price of adult passes will be $120. Those interested in further information may contact Joy Thrasher at 240-321-4550.

2011 SENIOR EDITIONS FOR SALE

A limited number of 2011 Senior Editions are still available for purchase. Those interested may contact Heather Savage at the high school. The cost is $10.



Featuring events that build assets in youth and promote community involvement:

SATURDAY, Aug. 27

• Cherry Glade 5K Run/Walk and Kids' Fun Run, Cherry Glade Mennonite Church in Bittinger, 9 a.m. All are invited to participate in the third annual run/walk for adults and one-mile "fun run" for kids. The event begins at 8 a.m. with a mini-health fair. In addition to the run/walk, there will be a bake sale and car wash, with a picnic at noon. Proceeds will benefit Diane Beitzel, who is in need of medical procedures and care. For more information and a registration packet, persons may go to www.cherryglade.org or call 301-245-4250.

• Garrett Open/Recovery Race, Savage River Lodge, Mt. Aetna Road, 9 a.m. This 5K run features a looped course over maintained hiking trails, and benefits Garrett Trails and Garrett County Steps to Better Health. Cash prizes will go to the first place male and female winners, and non-cash prizes awards will be given to the top three male and female winners in each age group. Registration is $20. More information: garretttrails.org or 301-616-6300.

FRIDAY, Sept. 2

• Homeschoolers @ the Library, Ruth Enlow Library in Oakland, 2:30-3:30 p.m. Ham radio will be the topic for this home-school gathering. Free. (301-334-3996)

FRIDAY, Sept. 9

• Grandparents Celebration, Friendsville Town Park Pavilion, 11:30 a.m. Seniors 55 years and older are invited for a free chicken dinner, courtesy of the Friendsville Community Watch program. Pre-registration is required by Sept. 5; call 301-746-5842 or 301-746-4240.

SATURDAY, Sept. 24

• Ruth Enlow Library Bus Trip to the National Book Festival, National Mall in Washington D.C., departing 6:30 a.m. The National Book Festival, sponsored by the Library of Congress, is free and features award-winning authors, illustrators, and poets. Charter bus transportation is $50 per person ($30 for those with a student ID). The registration deadline is Sept. 10. To register, persons should call 301-334-3996, ext. 106, and provide name, address, phone number, and number of reservations. See www.relib.net for more information.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Friendsville Zoning Appeals Board will conduct a public hearing on September 12, 2011, at 7:00 p.m. In the Friendsville Town Hall. The Board will review a request made by Jonathan D. Bell for a Variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance with regard to lot density, lot width, and side setback. The Bell property (tax map 300, parcel 1143) is located at 643, 645, 647 & 649 Water Street in a TR (Town Residential) zoning district. Specifically, Mr. Bell would like to subdivide the lot which consists of a single family residence and a 3-unit multi-family dwelling, thereby creating two lots, each housing one of the structures. Each of the proposed lots has a proposed lot size, lot width, and side setback smaller than that allowed in the ordinance. All interested persons are invited to attend this meeting.

PUBLIC NOTICE
Noise Level Limits of Vessels

The Secretary of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) proposes to amend Regulations .03 and .08 under COMAR 08.18.03 Noise Level Limits of Vessels.

A person may not operate or give permission to operate a vessel on the waters of the State that emits a maximum noise level exceeding 90 dB (a). On the waters of Deep Creek Lake and from the mouth of the Northeast and Elk Rivers to include all tributaries including the Bohemia River and the C&D Canal, a person may not operate a vessel in such a manner to exceed the following vessel noise levels:

(a) For engines manufactured before January 1, 1993, the maximum noise level may not exceed 90dB (a).

(b) For engines manufactured on or after January 1, 1993, the maximum noise level may not exceed 88dB (a).

A person may not own, operate or give permission to operate on the waters of the State a vessel manufactured after January 1990, that is not equipped with a muffler or system which muffles or suppresses engine noise to the established limits in Regulation .03 of this chapter. On the waters of Deep Creek Lake and from the mouth of the Northeast and Elk Rivers to include all tributaries including the Bohemia River and the C&D Canal, a vessel must operate with a continuous muffler or noise suppression system and may not operate a device that bypasses, reduces or eliminates the effectiveness of a muffler or engine noise suppression device or system.

Comments may be sent to Michael Grant, Regulations Coordinator, Department of Natural Resources, Boating Services Unit, 580 Taylor Avenue, E-4, Annapolis, MD 21401, or call 410-260-8013, or e-mail to mgrant@dnr.state.md.us, or fax to 410-260-8453. Comments will be accepted through October 24, 2011.

ORDER TO DEMOLISH STRUCTURES

To any persons who may have an interest in the property located at 715 East Reese Street (Account Identifier #005561) in Oakland, Maryland, please be advised that you are hereby being ordered by the Code Enforcement Department to demolish both structures located upon the property. Both structures located on the property have been declared Dangerous Buildings by the Town of Oakland via Resolution R2009-18. Both structures have also been placarded as dangerous buildings.

It is the judgment of the Code Enforcement Officer that these dangerous structures cannot be repaired so that they will no longer exist in violation of the Dangerous Buildings Ordinance (Chapter 103 of Town of Oakland Code). It is also the judgment of the Code Enforcement Officer that these structures have become or are so dilapidated, decayed, unsafe, unsanitary, or which so utterly fail to provide the amenities essential to decent living that they are unfit for human habitation or are likely to cause sickness or disease, so as to cause injury to the health, safety or general welfare of those living therein; and that these buildings, or parts thereof, which are so deteriorated that they may fail and injure members of the public or their property; and that these buildings which because of their condition are unsafe, unsanitary, or dangerous to the health, safety, or general welfare of the people in the Town, including the fact that these buildings are abandoned and deemed to be fire hazards and attractive nulsances dangerous to children.

The demolition shall commence within 30 days of the date of this order and during the demolition the buildings shall be cordoned off by an appropriate fence or barrier sufficient to keep members of the public away from the dangerous buildings, and the buildings shall be completely demolished, the site cleared of any foundation or other excavated areas shall be filled in so as not to represent a danger to the members of the public within no more than 120 days of the date of the order.

If the occupants, owners and/or all other persons having an interest in the property fail to comply with this order within the time specified herein, the Code Enforcement Officer shall cause these buildings or structures to be demolished, and shall cause the full cost of such demolition to be charged against the land on which the buildings existed as a municipal lien and cause such cost to be added to the tax due as an assessment against the buildings and/or land upon which the buildings stand or did stand, and such tax and assessment shall attach to the land and be collectible as any other tax and/or assessment.

In addition, the Town of Oakland shall have the option of proceeding to recover the said costs in a suit at law against the owner or other interested persons.

It shall be unlawful for any person to fail to comply with this order. Failure to comply with this order shall be a municipal infraction, subject to municipal infraction fines. Each day such failure to comply continues beyond the date stated for compliance shall be deemed a separate offense.

It shall be unlawful for any person to remove any NOTICE from this property, or any building upon this property.

TRUSTEE'S SALE OF IMPROVED RESIDENTIAL REAL ESTATE
214 Pritts Road, Swanton, MD 21561

Under and by virtue of a Judgment of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, passed on February 2, 2011, in the proceedings No.11-C-10-11370, Civil Action in said Court, wherein Marla Dawn Sines is the Plaintiff and James Alvin Sines is the Defendant, the undersigned, being authorized and directed to sell the property hereinafter described, does hereby give notice that on at the Alder Street entrance of the Garrett County Court House, Oakland, Maryland, I will offer for sale at public auction to the highest bidder the following property, all of that piece or parcel of land situate in Election District 18 Garrett County, Maryland, containing 60,112 square feet, more or less, believed to be improved by a 1,512 sq. ft residence, known as 214 Pritts Rd., Swanton, MD, being the same as conveyed in deed from Albert & Stephanie Winner dated September 3, 1991, and recorded in Liber 569, Folio 678, respectively, among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland. The land is Parcel 222 on Tax Map 67.

Friday, August 26, 2011
AT THE HOUR OF 3:00 P.M.

Terms of Sale: Deposit of TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS ($10,000.00) shall be paid at sale, balance at settlement, which shall be within fifteen days after final ratification of sale, time being of the essence. Both payments shall be cash, certified or cashier's check. The Trustee makes no representations and/or warranty whatsoever regarding the title or any other matter with respect to the property, either express or implied, including but not limited to: the nature, condition, quality and quantity of the land, suitability of use and/or purpose, description of the property and/or improvements, if any. The Property will be sold subject to all easements, conditions, liens, restrictions, rights of redemption, covenants, encumbrances and agreements of record affecting the same, and such state of facts that an accurate survey or physical inspection of the Property might disclose. The Property will be sold subject to all existing building, zoning, wetland, and environmental problems and or violations which may exist on or with respect to the Property, if any. Purchaser at the sale shall assume the risk of loss with respect to the Property as of the time of sale. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the property. Taxes, and any other payable public charges and assessments will be adjusted to the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the Purchaser. All costs of conveyance and settlement, including incidental settlement costs, including transfer taxes and recordation taxes, shall be paid by Purchaser. Time is of the essence as to Purchaser. In the event the Purchaser fails to settle as required, in addition to any other legal or equitable remedies available, Substitute Trustee may declare the entire deposit forfeited and resell the property at the risk and expense of Purchaser. In such event, Purchaser shall be liable for the payment of any deficiency in the purchase price, all costs and expenses of resale, reasonable attorney fees, and all other charges due. In the event that Trustee is unable to convey marketable title the sale is null and void and Purchaser is not entitled to any legal or equitable remedy, other than the return of the deposit, without interest and any and all other claims of the Purchaser are hereby released. Other terms and conditions may be announced at the sale. The information contained herein is offered for informational purposes only. It is Purchaser's obligation to obtain an Independent investigation of the Property. The Trustee does not make any representations or warranties with respect to the accuracy of this information and Purchaser holds them harmless from same. The Trustee reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

INVITATION TO BID GARRETT COUNTY LANDFILL LATERAL EXPANSION

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, will accept sealed bids for the expansion of the Garrett County Landfill located at 3118 Oakland Sang Run Road in Oakland, Maryland. The construction project includes phased construction of Cells 4 and 5. The work includes but is not limited to the following: clearing and grubbing; excavation; installation of clay liner and geomembrane; installation of geocomposite and protective drainage layers; installation of leachate collection/transmission system; and topsoil/vegetative stabilization. A bid bond or certified check in the amount of 5% of the total bid amount shall be submitted with each bid. A performance/payment bond in the full bid amount will be required of the successful contractor. For additional information about this project, visit the Garrett County Purchasing Department web site at www.garrettcounty.org/purchasing/currentbids.aspx.

A Pre-Bid Meeting will be held at 10:00 a.m. on Wednesday, August 31, 2011, in the Commissioners' Public Meeting Room located at 203 South Fourth Street, Room 209 in Oakland, Maryland.

Bid documents and specifications may be obtained in person from the Garrett County Purchasing Department, 203 South Fourth Street, Room 208, Oakland, Maryland 21550. The cost of the bid specifications and drawings is $100.00 per set and is nonrefundable. All out of town contractors must pre-pay for shipping and the cost of the plans. Inquiries may be made by calling 301-334-5003.

Sealed bids must be submitted to the Garrett County Purchasing Department, 203 South Fourth Street, Room 208, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on or before Thursday, September 15, 2011, at 1:30 p.m. (local time). Sealed bids will be publicly opened and read aloud in the Commissioners' Meeting Room at 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, September 15, 2011. All bidders are required to submit three (3) copies of their bid documents at the time of submission. All bids submitted should be enclosed in a sealed envelope and should be clearly marked "Garrett County Landfill Lateral Expansion Bid" on the outside of the envelope. Any bids received after the time due will not be considered for award and shall be retained as documentation for the bid file.

The Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County, Maryland, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all bids, to cancel this invitation to bid and to waive technicalities in any part deemed to be in the best interest of Garrett County.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
Of Valuable Improved Real Estate
located In Garrett County, MD
at 267 Mosser Road, Unit 4
McHenry, Maryland 21541

Under and by virtue of a Power Of Sale contained in a certain Deed Of Trust from Danny D. DeAngelo and Pamela M. DeAngelo to Stanley L. Merson and S. Lynne Pulford, Trustees, dated December 23, 2004, and duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 1088, at Folio 550, docketed for foreclosure in Civil No. 11-C-10-011857, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed Of Trust having appointed Martin L. Goozman and Jeffrey W. Bernstein as Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the said County and of having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the holder of the Note secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the front entrance of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Courthouse, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on Friday, September 9, 2011, at 1:30 p.m.

all that Property described in the said Deed Of Trust as follows:

All the real property situate in Election District No. 18, Garrett County, Maryland, known as:

CONDOMINIUM UNIT NO. 4, THE LANDINGS AT MOSSER CONDOMINIUM, as shown on the plat of said The Landings at Mosser Condominium being filed in Plat Case DKM 3, Page 176 A-G, one of the Plat Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Together with the undivided interest in the common elements of The Landings at Mosser Condominium attributable to Unit 4, and the buildings and Improvements thereon and the rights, roads, ways, waters, privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

Subject to the Declaration and By-Laws of The Landings At-Mosser Condominium dated October 12, 2004, and recorded in Liber 1071, Page 100, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, as the same shall be amended from time to time.

Subject to a covenant and restriction that no portion of the property shall be sold or leased to any Lending, Banking, Credit or Mortgage Institution as set forth in Liber 957, Page 244, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Parcel Identifier: 06-035442

The Property will be sold in "AS-IS" condition, subject to all conditions, restrictions, easements, covenants, rights-of-way and agreements of record affecting the Property, and subject to whatever an accurate survey or inspection of the Property would disclose, without any express or implied warranty of any kind.

A deposit of $17,500.00 cash, certified or cashier's check, payable to the undersigned Trustees, shall be required at the time and place of sale. The balance of the purchase price shall bear interest at the rate of 3.25% per annum from the date of sale to the date of delivery of payment to the Substitute Trustees. No deposit shall be required of the noteholder where the noteholder bids on the Property at sale and payment of the purchase price by the noteholder shall be made by crediting the purchase price against the foreclosure costs and expenses and the indebtedness secured by said Deed Of Trust. In the event that settlement is delayed for any reason, including, but not limited to, exceptions to the sale, bankruptcy filings by interested parties, court administration of the foreclosure sale or unknown title defects, there shall be no abatement of interest.

Adjustment of all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments, annual front foot benefit charges and deferred connection fees, if any, shall be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Condominium fees and/or homeowner's association fees, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale. Title examination, conveyancing, transfer taxes, recordation tax and all other costs of conveyance and settlement shall be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents.

The Property is sold subject to the right of any persons in possession of all or any part of the Property under recorded or unrecorded leases or rights of occupancy, if any. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the Property.

Compliance with the terms of sale shall be made and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid within ten (10) days after final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, unless said time is extended by the undersigned Trustees in their sole and absolute discretion for good cause shown, time being of the essence: otherwise the deposit shall be forfeited and the Property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. In the event of resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any benefit, surplus proceeds or profits resulting from such resale.

The Trustees are not liable, individually or otherwise, for any reason. If title to the Property is not or cannot be transferred consistent with the terms hereof for any reason, the Trustee's liability is limited, at its sole discretion, to return any deposit, without interest, thereby rescinding the sale, and there is no other right or remedy against the Trustee at law or in equity.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Garrett County Board of Education is required by its own policy and by Federal and State Law to annually notify eligible students and parents who have children attending public school of the policy regulating the handling of student records and the information contained within them. Board of Education Policy #474.20 and Procedures #474.21, the "Confidentiality of Student Records Policy", establishes the guidelines that the Garrett County Public Schools employ.

The provisions of this policy are intended to preserve the right of students and parents to have full access to all official records about the students which are maintained by the Garrett County Public Schools, to have removed from these records any information about the student which is determined to be inaccurate or misleading; to enjoy confidentiality and privacy in regard to the disclosure of information contained in those records to outside agencies; and to provide for efficient student records management.

Individual pupil records maintained by teachers or other school personnel under the provisions of this policy are to be confidential in nature, and access to such records may be granted to professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching guidance/counseling, or consulting situation. Individual student records, with the exception of such records as are designated as permanent, and with such other exceptions as provided by law, should be destroyed when they are no longer able to serve professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of individual students in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation.

School officials with legitimate educational interests have access to a student's educational record. These school officials include contractors, consultants, volunteers, and other outside service providers with legitimate educational interests used by the school district to perform institutional services and functions. These persons must be under the direct control of the disclosing institution and are subject to the same conditions on use and redisclosure of educational records as govern other school officials.

Institutions of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County shall not permit access to, or release of education records of students, or personally identifiable information contained herein (other than directory information), without the written consent of the parents of the eligible student with the exception of disclosure without consent as required by Federal law, and/or State law and bylaws. Education institutions of Garrett County: however, shall make the cumulative records of a student available to officials of other elementary or secondary schools or another school system in which the student seeks or intends to enroll. The institution of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County will forward without consent cumulative records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

Directory information means the student's name, address, telephone number, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, dates of attendance, and other similar information. Directory information may be made public without the consent of parents or eligible students. Student records limited to directory information and student addresses may be made available at the discretion of the principal for legitimate educational purposes, such as, post-secondary schools and Armed Services Recruiters, for the purpose of informing eligible students of post high school educational opportunities, to businesses officially recognized by the schools as requiring legitimate contact for purposes of graduation activities, yearbook production, and alumni associations of schools in the organization of class reunions. A parent or guardian may refuse to permit personally identifiable information from being designated as directory information by informing the school in writing of their refusal within the first two weeks of the school year.

The policy goes on to spell out the types of data in a pupil record, the types of student records, and how the records are transferred between schools, individuals, institutions, and agencies.

If access to a student's records is desired by an eligible student or parent, he/she should contact the appropriate school principal. In most cases, there is a charge for copies of student records.

Additional information may be obtained by accessing the policies and procedures on the Garrett County Board of Education website or by contacting the Pupil Services Department at 301-334-8939.

Sam And Helen Roth To Celebrate 50th

Sam and Helen Roth will soon celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. The couple were married on Sept. 2, 1961, at St. John's Lutheran Church in Red House by Rev. Luther Seibert.

The couple have three sons – Dennis, Dave, and Darren – as well as five grandchildren and one great-grandson.

The couple's family have invited all friends and family to attend a wedding anniversary celebration on Saturday, Sept. 3, at the home of Dennis Roth. The home is located on Route 219, ½ mile from the Maryland line. The party will begin at 4 p.m. The Roth family has requested that no gifts be purchased.

Schools Open

Enrollment Rising

Enrollment in Maryland public schools has been on the rise for the past three years. After reaching a high point of 869,113 students in 2004, enrollment fell to 843,861 by 2009. Since then it has rebounded, reaching 852,211 last school year.

Maryland's student population also has experienced major changes over the years. Maryland has been a majority-minority state for several years. White students represent 47 percent of the student population, followed by African American students, who make up nearly 36 percent. Hispanic students represent almost 12 percent of the student body; Asian students nearly 6 percent; and mixed race students – a new addition to the database this year – make up about 3 percent.

Almost 47 percent of Maryland's elementary students qualify for free or reduced-price meals, compared to 36 percent a decade ago. The percentage of elementary students receiving English language services has doubled in just five years to nearly 10 percent.

Teacher Hiring

Maryland school systems this week are winding down the hiring process for the 2011-2012 school year, with few shortages reported. Maryland schools are scheduled to welcome approximately 2,995 new teachers and classroom personnel this fall, and an informal survey last week found that several hundred positions remained unfilled.

The number of new teachers is more than 600 fewer than that of last year, and far below the number hired several years ago. Nearly 8,000 new hires were made for the 2005-2006 school year, for example. Although the teacher staffing problems that affected many Maryland systems in recent history have evaporated the past two years, local systems report some shortages in the areas of chronic need: special education, world languages, technical education, and high school science and mathematics.

Maryland schools also have dramatically increased the percentage of classes taught by highly qualified teachers. More than 92 percent (92.7 percent) of classes in Maryland last year were taught by teachers with advanced or standard professional certification in the subject area they were teaching. In 2003 that percentage was 81.4 percent.

Maryland also has 1,976 nationally board certified teachers, ranking 14th in the nation. The state welcomed a record 302 new nationally board certified teachers last year, the nation's seventh largest tally.

Race to the Top

Maryland's third wave of education reform is embodied in the successful Race to the Top grant initiative, and the state has instituted changes made over the past year to improve instruction, strengthen teacher certification, and build a stronger data system, according to the MSDE. The latest reforms came 20 years after the work of the Sondheim Commission to begin the state's school accountability program. Maryland's Voluntary State Curriculum, strengthened funding through the Bridge to Excellence Act, and new student-level accountability programs followed a decade later.

There are a number of new program reforms coming to Maryland education, the MSDE reports. The state joined the Common Core State Standards movement, which will are designed to lead to improved instruction and strengthened assessments. Legislation increased the number of years before a teacher can get tenure from two to three, and began the process of improving teacher and principal evaluation.

Maryland also is building a statewide technology infrastructure that links all data elements with analytic and instructional tools to monitor and promote student achievement.

Common Core State Standards

The MSDE in June accepted Maryland draft Common Core Curriculum Frameworks for English/language arts and mathematics in grades K-12. This summer, more than 6,000 educators from Maryland schools took part in the state's largest-ever professional development program to introduce teachers and principals to the new curriculum: the Educator Effectiveness Academies.

Funded through the Race to the Top program, the academies focused on the new Maryland Common Core State Curriculum Standards and Framework, as well as the relationship between the state's vision of Science, Technology, Engineering, and Mathematics (STEM) education and the Common Core. Academy participants became immersed in Common Core State Standards and will use their experience to provide feedback to MSDE.

Master teachers from across the state led the academics. Four-member teams from schools attended the academies and will now serve as resources as they produce one-year transition plans for their schools. Academies also will be held during the summers of 2012 and 2013.

New assessments, based on the Common Core, will be used in 2014-15.

Educator Evaluation Pilots

Maryland's Educator Effectiveness Council this summer approved initial recommendations for a Statewide Educator Evaluation system. The recommendations defined aspects of teacher and principal evaluations, set general standards, provided local system flexibility with state approval, and established a framework for evaluation.

The system, which will include student growth as 50 percent of an educator's evaluation, will be piloted in seven systems this upcoming school year and in all 24 school systems in 2012-2013. School systems piloting the evaluation process this year are: Baltimore City and Baltimore, Charles, Kent, Prince George's, Queen Anne's, and St. Mary's counties.

The council is scheduled to reconvene this December to review the progress being made in the pilots.

New Environmental Requirements

The Maryland State Board of Education over the past year approved new graduation requirements in environmental literacy affecting this year's incoming freshman class.

The requirement does not necessitate a specific course for students. In most cases, students will have additional learning standards added to pre-existing courses. Local school systems will certify to the state that each student entering ninth grade this fall will have received instruction in environmental literacy before graduating in 2015.

New Financial Literacy Standards

The state board also approved a program of instruction in financial literacy that goes into effect this September. Local school systems are required to provide an instructional program in personal financial literacy in the elementary, middle, and high school learning years aligned with the Maryland State Curriculum for Personal Financial Literacy Education.

The curriculum is organized by grade bands of 3 to 5, 6 to 8, and 9 to 12. Each student will have the opportunity to participate in the personal financial literacy program to prepare him/her to make informed financial decisions.

New Charter Schools

Seven new public charter schools (none in Garrett County) will open in Maryland this fall, bringing the total number of charters in the state to 50. Maryland's charter schools will enroll close to 20,000 students this fall.

School Start Dates

All Maryland schools opened, or will open, in August, according to the following schedule:

Aug. 22 – Dorchester (grades 1-6 and 9), Prince George's, and Somerset.

Aug. 23 – Anne Arundel (grades 1-6, and grade 9; all grades Aug. 24), and Talbot.

Aug. 24 – Allegany, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Garrett, St. Mary's, and Washington.

Aug. 29 – Baltimore City, Baltimore County, Charles, Frederick, Harford, Howard, Kent (K-9; all grades on Aug. 30), Montgomery, Queen Anne's (1-9; all grades on Aug. 30), Wicomico (1-6 and 9; all grades on Aug. 30), and Worcester.

Aug. 30 – Carroll.

PASSES GAVEL TO NEW POA PRESIDENT – After deciding not to serve another year as president of the Property Owners' Association of Deep Creek Lake Inc., outgoing president Lou Battistella (left) has passed the leadership of DCL's oldest established POA to board member Troy Ellington (right). The group's board of directors voted this past Saturday on the election of officers for the 2011-2012 term at a special board meeting, held immediately following the general membership meeting. Ellington has been a POA board member since 2004 and served most recently as the Water Quality Steering Committee chairman. He is retired, after a professional career of 40 years as an electrical engineer specializing in communications via orbiting satellites. Ellington and his wife Betty became full-time residents of Garrett County in 2000. He also serves as chairman of the Garrett County Planning Commission. The other 2011-2012 POA officers are Roger Titus, first vice president; Marge Mahood, vice president, membership; Kathy Gemberling, vice president, strategic planning; Krista McGowan, secretary; Robert Hoffmann, assistant secretary; Tom Myers, treasurer; and Chris Nichols, assistant treasurer. In addition to the officers mentioned above, the following individuals are serving as POA board members: Battistella, Susie Crawford, Scott Johnson, Smiley Kessler, Ed King, Ed Neff, Nancy Railey, Gary Shafer, Bob Sutton, and Barry Weinberg.

NUMBER 1 MOVED TO NEW HOME – With appropriate pomp and circumstance, the noble Number 1 fire truck of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department, a 1930 American LaFrance pumper, was on Tuesday officially housed in its new home, the soon-to-be-opened Garrett County Museum of Transportation. The museum, a project of the Garrett County Historical Society and funded significantly by the Naylor Family Trust, is set to be officially launched later this month, although the doors were opened for the firefighters and many residents who attended the evening ceremony. While some were saddened at the thought of Number 1 no longer being driven, officials explained that the engine can indeed still be used in parades and other events, as it now has a special gas tank that can be quickly attached or removed as needed. (The vehicles in the museum cannot have any gasoline in them, for fire safety.) See more photos on the back page of this section. Photo by John McEwen.

Man Sentenced To Three Years For Negligent Homicide

Thomas Ray Beeghly, 48, Oakland, was sentenced in a recent District Court hearing to three years in the Division of Corrections for negligent homicide by motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol per se. Judge Leonard J. Eiswert then suspended two years of the sentence and ordered Beeghly to be on probation for three years after he is released from the Garrett County Jail. He was also fined $1,000 with $750 suspended.

Beeghly was the driver of a 2002 Chevrolet pickup truck that crossed the center of the road as he was driving eastbound on Maryland Highway on Jan. 1. His truck struck a 2005 Ford Ranger pickup truck head-on as it traveled westbound. The driver of the Ford Ranger, Mary Jane Kope, 84, Aurora, W.Va., died from injuries sustained in the collision.

Garrett County sheriff's deputies and accident reconstructionist Sgt. Dan Duggan investigated to determine the cause of the accident. Blood testing of Beeghly showed a blood alcohol content of .20. Once all data were compiled and presented to state's attorney Lisa Thayer Welch, she filed the criminal information at the District Court and an arrest warrant was obtained.

Beeghly appeared in the District Court on June 6 and entered a guilty plea.

UNTIL NEXT YEAR – The 2011 Garrett County Fair has come and gone, with hundreds of local livestock owners possibly breathing a sigh of relief. Many long hours...days...months are devoted to the preparation for the annual event by hundreds of Garrett County residents. A compilation of photos and contest results can be found in this week's issue as a tribute to all for their hard work dedicated to ensure a successful week at the fair each year. Kira Rinker (pictured) is one of the many children who showed livestock this year.

Columbia Gas Inc. Launches Pipeline Project In Kitzmiller

Columbia Gas of Maryland Inc. recently launched a $900,000 pipeline improvement project in Kitzmiller. During the project, which will involve approximately 130 customers, Columbia Gas will replace more than 8,000 feet of existing steel pipe with state-of-the-art plastic pipe.

The entire project is planned in three phases and expected to be completed by 2013. Phase I is currently under way and expected to be completed by this fall. Phase II and III will follow in the next two years.

"Though vital infrastructure projects such as this one, Columbia Gas is clearly demonstrating its commitment to providing customers with a safe, reliable, and modern natural gas distribution system," said Greg Radabaugh, project manager. "We also want to extend our sincere thanks to the local residents and business owners for their patience while we complete this important infrastructure upgrade."

According to Columbia Gas, plastic pipe has proven to be superior to steel pipe for the distribution of natural gas. Plastic pipe is generally immune to the stress of ground movement and does not corrode.

"The infrastructure upgrade work will require a temporary interruption of natural gas service for individual customers while service is connected to the new gas main," Radbuagh noted. "Columbia Gas will make personal contact with customers prior to shutting off service and to schedule

McHenry Property Owners Object To Mandatory Water Service Hook-Up

The Garrett County commissioners held a public hearing on Saturday morning at Garrett College to receive comments on proposed fee and policy changes to the McHenry Water System. About 200 people attended the two-hour event, with more than 20 voicing their concerns. Most objected to a waterline connection mandate.

Chairman Gregan Crawford said over 1,500 postcards were mailed to McHenry area property owners, notifying them about the hearing.

"This is part of the standard DPU policy from this point on," Crawford said about the Department of Public Utilities informing people about such events.

The proposed changes include reducing the connection fee from $2,800 to $2,000 and allowing property owners up to five years to connect to the system. Those who do so within that time period could spread the connection cost over a 15-year period at a 1 percent interest rate. After the five-year deadline, the term would be 5 percent for 10 years. This amortization policy would apply only to McHenry Water System connections.

"These proposals change the amortization flexibility, time frame, and payment structure, and significantly lower the connection rates," Crawford said.

Though the hearing was about connection/user fees and the connection/amortization policy, most of the public comments centered on the fact that numerous property owners will now have to abandon their private wells and pay the county to install water lines to their homes, connect them to the McHenry system, and supply them with water.

"This was crammed down our throats," said Kim Knox, who lives off Pysell Road.

Several speakers indicated their wells are in good working condition and provide good tasting water. Some wondered if the public system would provide enough water/water pressure for household use and fire suppression.

"I've never, since this started, felt like I knew what was going on," said Pysell Road property owner Marie Broadman about the expansion project.

The previous board of county commissioners held a public hearing on Dec. 7, 2010, on expanding the McHenry Water Service District to include Sandy View Court, Winding Estates Drive, Grand Estates Drive, Quiet Quail Way, Golf Drive, Ruffed Grouse Lane, Sandy Shores Road, Fern Loop, Wisp Mountain Road, Fantasy Lane, Barbara's Way, Susan's Way, Marsh Hill Road, Pysell Road, Deep Creek Drive, Gravelly Run Road, Ridgeview Valley Development, Sweet Rewards Development, a portion of Mosser Road, the Garrett County Airport property, and McHenry Business and Technology Park.

No written or verbal commentary about the proposal was received at the hearing, and Commissioners Ernie Gregg and Fred Holliday approved the boundary changes.

"We didn't request it; we didn't even have a vote on whether it should be done or not," Gravelly Run Road resident Goldie Pratt said on Saturday about the expansion. "As a taxpayer, I think we should have had that right."

Following a public hearing in March and in accordance with Title 9, Subtitle 652 (i) of the Environment Article of the Annotated Code of Maryland, the current commissioners unanimously approved making improvements to existing and new areas of the McHenry service area. The system's water customers will pay for the $2.8 mil-

Stoner Set As Autumn Glory's Grand Marshal

Baseball player Tobi Stoner will be the grand marshal of Garrett County's 44th annual Autumn Glory Festival Grand Feature Parade scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 15. The parade is set to begin at 1 p.m.

A native of Garrett County, Stoner attended Southern High School, where he was a first-team, all-area infielder and pitcher. During his tenure at SHS, the Rams won back-to-back area titles and had a 43-4 record in Stoner's last two seasons. He played at Garrett College before attending Davis and Elkins College (W.Va.). There he was named Male Athlete of the Year in 2006.

That same year, Stoner was drafted by the New York Mets in the 16th round and played for the Mets' double-A affiliate in Binghamton, N.Y., and its triple-A team in Buffalo, N.Y. Stoner was called up to the New York Mets in 2009. He is currently playing in the triple-A division.

Stoner will be holding a Meet and Greet at 11 a.m. during the Autumn Glory Craft and Gift Sale at the exhibit hall at the Garrett County Fairgrounds, Sunday, Oct. 16.

The Autumn Glory Craft and Gift Sale is presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and sponsored by Susquehanna Bank. The 44th annual Autumn Glory Festival commemorative posters will also be available for purchase that day at the exhibit hall for $10 each.

The Autumn Glory Festival will run from Oct. 12 through 16 in Garrett County with a kick-off reception at Wisp Resort and two large parades, concerts, an Oktoberfest celebration, the Mary-

AGF Grand Feature Parade Forms Are Due By Sept. 16

Applications from organizations wanting to participate in the Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade are due by Friday, Sept. 16, the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce announced this week.

Participants can be drill teams, majorette/twirling groups, drum and bugle corps, marching musical units, and stationary musical units. Professional, commercial, or amateur floats are also welcome.

The annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade will be held on Saturday, Oct. 15, at 1 p.m. in downtown Oakland. The parade will again be sponsored by First United Bank & Trust.

Vehicle access passes to the parade route will once again be issued to parade participants.

"The annual Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade not only offers businesses the opportunity to celebrate the beauty of the county, but it also gives local companies a wonderful opportunity to gain exposure in the community," said Nicole Christian, chamber president/CEO. "We invite you to participate in this wonderful celebration of autumn."

Completed applications may be faxed (301-387-2080), e-mailed, or delivered to the chamber office at the Visitors Center in McHenry by 5 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 16. Applications that come in late, and are accepted, will be added to the end of the parade line-up.

Those who did not receive an application are asked to contact Sarah Duck at 301-387-8746 or at sarah@garrettchamber.com.

For the past three years, travelchannel.com has listed the Autumn Glory Festival and Garrett County as one of America's three "Best Autumn Road Trips," and in 2008, the baltimoresun.com listed Garrett County as one of the top five locales for fall

Friendsville Man Sentenced To Five Years For Assault

A 34-year-old Friendsville man was sentenced in Garrett County Circuit Court on Monday for a first degree assault charge to five years in the Division of Corrections, with four years suspended.

For reckless endangerment, Ryan Lee Sines received a concurrent two-year sentence, with one year suspended. In addition, $545 court costs were imposed. Once he is released from jail, Sines will be on probation.

He was convicted by jury members in July, who heard evidence of the crimes, which occurred in January at his residence along Teets Road. According to the state's attorney, investigation revealed that Sines assaulted and battered his girlfriend when she arrived at their residence that morning.

She said Sines had assaulted her with a .22 caliber rifle that he had pointed at and then discharged near her in the bathroom of the residence. Although Sines originally denied a weapon was involved, state troopers

Accidental Fire Loss Estimated To Be $45,000

A heat gun was deemed the cause of an accidental fire that caused an estimated $45,000 loss at a property in Swanton Sunday afternoon.

Firefighters from the Deer Park, Oakland, Kitzmiller, and Bloomington volunteer fire departments were summoned to the residence of Kevin Lipscomb, 3368 Swanton Hill Road, at 3:26 p.m. after a passerby saw smoke coming from the two-story wood-frame dwelling and called 911.

According to a report released by the state fire marshal's office, some 40 firefighters responded and brought the fire under control in about 20 minutes. The area of origin was the kitchen, where the heat gun was found. Investigators estimated the loss to the structure to be $25,000 and the loss of contents, $20,000.

The owner of the property was unknown at the time the report was released.

There were no injuries reported.

Free Vaccines Made Available To Elem. School Children

The Garrett County Health Department has partnered with the Garrett County Board of Education to make free influenza vaccinations available to all qualifying elementary students in the county this fall.

"Influenza is a serious disease," said Rodney Glotfelty, Garrett County health officer.

"The number of deaths from influenza varies each year. Revised estimates range from 3,000 to as many as 49,000 per year.

"It's also serious in children and results in high fevers, chills and muscle aches, requiring bed rest and numerous days away from school."

Nasal spray flu vaccine (FluMist™) will be administered by the Health Department staff to qualifying elementary school-age children free of charge at each

Local Arrested On Numerous Sex Offense Charges

An Oakland man was arrested Wednesday by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on numerous sex offense charges.

David Dale Collins II, 27, was charged with sexual abuse of a minor, third-degree sex offense, fourth-degree sex offense, and second-degree assault. The charges stem from an allegation that Collins inappropriately touched a 12-year-old female within his household. He was taken into custody to await a bond hearing.

THE PULSE STILL QUICKENS, 10 YEARS ON – A newspaper reporter's intent should always be to avoid assuming the feelings of any reader, but surely it is safe to say that this image still does quicken the pulse, or cause some emotional response, in nearly every person who views it. The day was of course Sept. 11, 2001, and this photo was taken by Matthew Sincell, who had moved to that area on Sept. 10, and woke up that morning to no cell phone service, and then looked out his window. The 10th anniversary of the terrorists attacks is on the horizon, and we at The Republican are seeking stories from those Garrett Countians (former or current residents) who were that day in the area of any of the three locales: New York City, the Pentagon, or Shanksville, Pa. While we appreciate the sentiments of all readers about that fateful morning, we do ask that those contributing be persons who were actually in the vicinity of one of these areas, either at the time of the events, or within a few days. Witnesses may send 500-word (or fewer) essays about what they experienced, and perhaps what the attacks have meant to them or the country since that day. Persons may post those comments on the Sincell Publishing/The Republican newspaper Facebook page, e-mail them to marym@therepublicannews.com, or mail them to The Republican, PO Box 326, Oakland, MD 21550. The essays must be in the office of the newspaper no later than Wednesday, Sept. 7. If a sufficient number of essays are received, the combined story of these accounts will be in the Sept. 8 issue as part of this newspaper's tribute to the 10-year mark.

Franchot Reports Loss Of Revenue From Hurricane

Maryland comptroller Peter Franchot announced yesterday the revenue impact of Hurricane Irene's wrath on Ocean City to state coffers. According to analysis from the comptroller's Bureau of Revenue Estimates, Maryland lost more than $2 million in direct revenue over the past weekend, which includes an estimated $1.75 million in sales tax revenue and $150,000 in withholding taxes because of the evacuation of Ocean City.

Officials estimated a $60,000 loss in gas tax revenue, as weekend trips were canceled, and also report that roughly $45,000 of toll revenue at the Chesapeake Bay Bridge went uncollected as trips were postponed and the bridge was closed during the peak of the storm. Additionally, Ocean City lost nearly $40,000 of admissions and amusement tax revenue from its many attractions and events.

"Ocean City is one of Maryland's most powerful economic engines, and a lost weekend at the height of the summer tourist season will certainly have an effect on our state's finances, just as they have taken an obvious toll on businesses that are already dealing with tough economic times," said Franchot.

"Given the disastrous impact of this storm on other parts of our country, however, I am profoundly grateful that Ocean City and the state of Maryland as a whole weathered this storm with minimal injury or loss of life. I am also thrilled that Ocean City is open for business once again and with beautiful weather on the horizon, I encourage all Marylanders to take advantage of the last weeks of summer and head back to the beach," he added.

Franchot asked the Bureau of Revenue Estimates to study the storm's economic impact so that, if necessary, the information could be incorporated into the next round of revenue estimates, which are scheduled to be released in mid-September.

Garrett County's annual Autumn Glory Festival landed in the international spotlight four years ago when the travel web site MSN.com listed it among the top fall festivals in the world. The Autumn Glory Festival beat out Festival d'Automne à Paris (#5) and Munich's Oktoberfest (#7) – in addition to a bevy of domestic celebrations, including San Francisco's Dias de los Muertos.

"Music, parades, and awesome colors are at the center of this festival," noted the site.

For the past three years, travelchannel.com has also listed the Autumn Glory Festival and Garrett County as one of America's "Three Best Autumn Road Trips." In 2008, baltimoresun.com listed Garrett County as one of the top five locales for fall foliage.

Baptist Church To Host "Visionary" Family Conference

Pleasant View Baptist Church will host a "biblical family conference" on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 9 and 10, and presented by Dr. Rob Rienow, international speaker, author, and founder of Visionary Families.

Three sessions have been scheduled for the conference: "Visionary Marriage," Friday, 6:30–9 p.m.; "Visionary Parenting," Saturday, 9:30 a.m.–noon; and "Never Too Late: Encouraging Faith in Your Adult Child," Saturday, 1–3:30 p.m.

Rienow attended Wheaton College, then completed a master of arts in theology at Wheaton College Graduate School, a master of divinity at Trinity International Divinity School, and a doctor of ministry in Christian leadership at Gordon Conwell Theological Seminary.

He married his wife Amy in 1994. They have six children and live in Wheaton, Ill. The couple's Visionary Family Ministries is designed to inspire parents and grandparents to disciple their children, help couples create mission-driven marriages, and equip churches to build Bible-driven ministries.

Rienow served as youth and family pastor at Wheaton Bible Church for 18 years. he is the author of God's Grand Vision for the Home, Visionary Parenting, and When They Turn Away: Drawing Your Adult Child Back to Christ. He and his wife also wrote Visionary Marriage.

Pleasant View Baptist is located two miles south of Oakland along Rt. 219. To register for the conference, persons may visit pleasantviewbc.org or call the church office at 301-334-8515. Child care will be available to those who register.

Oakland Man Arrested On Theft, Burglary Charges

An Oakland man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies Tuesday on several theft and burglary charges.

Robert Vaughn Winters, 41, has been charged with one count of first-degree burglary, two counts of second-degree burglary, one count of felony theft, and two counts of misdemeanor theft. The charges stem from related incidents that occurred in the Oakland area in late July of this year. Winters was released from custody on three $5,000 unsecured bonds.

Handicap Permit Stolen From Car; MSP Seeking Info

Maryland State Police are investigating the theft of a handicap parking permit that was reportedly taken from a vehicle parked in Grantsville.

Sometime between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Wednesday, an unknown suspect(s) entered a 2007 black Dodge Nitro that was parked on Hershberger Lane. Anyone with information is asked to contact the McHenry Barrack at 301-387-1101.

Sheriff's Deputies Respond To Two-Vehicle Accident

Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated a two-vehicle accident that occurred last Friday at the intersection of Garrett Highway and Jeffery Lane.

Investigation revealed that Paul Taliaferro, 61, Moundsville, W.Va., had been traveling north on Garrett Highway, when he collided with a vehicle operated by Sara Ashby, 18, Oakland, who was stopped at a pedestrian crosswalk. No injuries were reported at the scene. Taliaferro was charged with failure to control speed to avoid a collision.

lion project through an ad valorem tax.

On May 20, the county mailed letters to property owners within the McHenry Water Service District, notifying them that improvements had been made, that they must connect to the system, and what the cost would be for connection and water usage. Title 9 requires that households/businesses hook up to public water/sewer systems if the lines are within a certain distance of their properties.

Title 9-647 enables governing bodies to create/change a service if they find that the creation/change is necessary for the existing and future health, safety, and welfare of the public in general, and if it is feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

Several speakers at Saturday's hearing noted the financial hardship that the mandatory connection would place on property owners, especially senior citizens, given the current economic climate.

"It's prohibitively expensive," Broadman said.

She noted her family's home is located more than 400 meters from a new water line. She estimates it will cost between $10,000 and $15,000 to run lines to her home, plus connection, water meter, and other fees.

Deep Creek Drive resident Robert Kelly said the project was "definitely" being implemented at the wrong time

"The economic fiscal situation for the state and county continues to decline," he said. "State unemployment has risen for the past quarter, and a deficit of $1 billion has been projected by the governor for 2012. This in turn could mean programs now funded by the state will be passed down to Garrett County"

He indicated the expansion will drain the limited resources of local homeowners, especially since many have had three extremely difficult financial years.

"It is time to make adjustments which reflect the economic realities now and for the imminent future," Kelly said, adding that higher and more local taxes are likely in the forecast.

He said he spoke to dozens of other homeowners who are concerned about the negative impact of the project. Based on their thoughts, he came up with a detailed composite plan to lessen the financial burden on property owners, especially retirees. It includes deferment of mandatory connection to 10 years, lower connection costs, and hardship provisions.

Numerous audience members voiced their support for what they have dubbed "The Robert Kelly Plan."

Several speakers asked why the district was expanded in the first place. Some speculated that it was to help developers sell property that does not perk. Others indicated it was to benefit county coffers.

"How dare you be so greedy, all the way around," Sandra Freedman told the commissioners.

She owns an undeveloped lot along Marsh Hill Road and must pay the county a quarterly inactive-user fee.

"I would like my inactive-user fee payment returned because I did not use one drop of water; there is not a building on this lot, and I think it's totally unfair," Freedman said.

The commissioners will leave the record open on the proposed McHenry Water System policy changes until Friday, Sept. 16. An audio recording of the hearing has been posted on the county's web site: garrettcounty.org.

In addition, the commissioners, county administrator, and DPU administrative staff reviewed questions presented at the public hearing, and interpretation and pertinent answers will be posted on the web site for public review.

Any questions may be addressed to the commissioners' office, and additional public commentary is welcome, the county administrator noted. The office phone number is 301-334-8970.

located the rifle in the bedroom, as well as a hole in the floor of the bathroom. Sines then admitted he had handled the gun, but denied pointing it at his girlfriend, the state's attorney said.

In other court proceedings this week, Shane Lee Fazenbaker, 19, Oakland, admitted in Circuit Court that he had violated his probation. Judge Jim Sherbin then reimposed the suspended sentence of 17 months, but resuspended 15 months. After serving two months, Fazenbaker will again be on probation.

He was placed on probation in April after pleading guilty to felony theft and serving 30 days of an 18-month sentence. The Division of Parole and Probation reported that Fazenbaker violated his probation by testing positive for a controlled dangerous substance (CDS) and not attending Health Department treatment.

In an unrelated case, Michael Lynn Park II, 22, Oakland, admitted to violating his probation by failing to submit to drug testing, testing positive for a CDS, and failing to attend group counseling at the Health Department.

Sherbin then reimposed the 10-month sentence to the Garrett County Jail that was previously suspended.

Park was originally placed on probation in January 2010 after pleading guilty to theft and after serving 60 days of an 18-month sentence. For a prior violation of probation, the court had reimposed six months of the sentence and ordered Park back on probation after serving that sentence.

In another court case, William Thomas Harless, 29, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to second degree assault and to alcohol beverage intoxication/endangerment. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea.

Sherbin then sentenced Harless for the assault to 18 months in the Garrett County Jail and suspended 16 months of the sentence. A concurrent 30-day sentence was imposed for the alcohol intoxication charge.

Harless was arrested and charged by Garrett County sheriff's deputies who responded to a fight at the Oakland Elks Lodge in February. After arriving, officers attempted to control Harless and keep him from approaching another man with whom he was exchanging comments in the parking lot and, in that process, Harless shoved one of the deputies

During the investigation, officers learned that Harless and a second man had been arguing and fighting inside the facility among a crowd of people, including one disabled person who was nearby and was struck during the events.

Also in Circuit Court this week, a violation of probation case against Dustin Charles Wiland, 25, Baltimore, was dismissed. State's Attorney Lisa Thayer Welch explained that the only basis for the violation was non-payment of court costs, which Wiland had satisfied.

Process Should Be Changed...

"This was crammed down our throats" is one comment made at a public hearing held Saturday at Garrett College regarding the expansion of the McHenry Water System. Some 200 persons were in attendance, many of whom who were outraged by the proposed fee structure, and particularly with the mandate that residents in some 20 service areas are required by law to hook up to the system, at their expense.

A case may be made that in order to adequately accommodate future development in these McHenry areas, a water system will be a necessary piece of infrastructure, as individually drilled wells will not be able to provide a dependable, consistent supply of water as development expands. However, most of the residents at the hearing reported currently have wells – which they paid to drill – that are functioning just fine and provide excellent water. Now these people are essentially being told by county government, "Well, sorry, but you have no choice but to abandon your perfectly good well and hook up to the new system, and, oh yeah, we are going to charge you $2,000 to do so."

No wonder they are outraged. No wonder they are feeling that this has been crammed down their throats. Many of the folks who live in these areas are on fixed incomes, and some are facing expenses way beyond even the $2,000 hookup fee, as they will also be required to cover the cost of the piping from the system into their homes.

There were also complaints voiced about how things were handled from the beginning of this project, and frankly, some of those seem legitimate. There was a hearing held way back in December (which was properly advertised) for the purpose of "amending the boundaries of the McHenry Water Service Area," a topic that seems rather benign, so much so that not a single person showed up to testify. Thus the amendment was approved. This was the final meeting of the outgoing county commissioners.

So work began on the system, and another hearing was held in March to present the system improvements and associated costs. Again, notice of the hearing appeared in this newspaper, in compliance with the law; however, there were no individual letters sent to the affected property owners. They finally received letters in May, after the project was completed, explaining the fees and telling them that they must connect to the system. Some then noticed an extra fee attached to their real estate tax bills that arrived the first of July, even though they were not yet even connected to the system.

The current commissioners have essentially inherited this situation, and are trying to soften the financial blow to these residents by cutting the hookup fee from $2,800 to $2,000, and by giving the users many years to pay off the fee at very low interest. However, it seems that state and county regulations regarding the public hearing process need to be changed. When a project of this magnitude is proposed, government officials should be required to send individual letters to the property owners at the very beginning, before a nickle is spent and before the first spade of dirt is turned, to let them know specifically how it will affect them.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

Many times I have read letters to the editor from people thanking others who have helped them in some way. Now it's my turn.

The other day, my &*(&@! husband used the ATM machine at the bank and forgot to retrieve his bank card after the transaction. There was another person waiting in line behind him who must have picked up the card and took it over to the sheriff's office. Subsequently, the sheriff contacted us, and my husband was able to go over and pick up his debit card.

We would like to sincerely thank the person who turned in the card to the sheriff, as well as the sheriff's office for contacting us, and let them know how much their actions were appreciated. It would have been very easy for anyone to clean out our bank account using that card. That would likely have been the case anywhere but Garrett County. It is good to know that most people here are very honest and will do the right thing when necessary.

So, you know who you are, even though we don't. Please be assured that your kind actions did not go unnoticed. Once my husband recovers from his bruising, he assures me he'll keep better tabs on that card!

To the Editor:

I just read an article in the Cumberland Times-News (Aug. 31) about six firms that have bid to do a study on improving the pedestrian/bike path system in Allegany County. Why doesn't Garrett County do the same? We are in sad shape when it comes to any kind of walking or bike paths in Garrett County. My wife and I have to go to Allegany County (Cumberland) or Pa. (Ohiopyle) to find any decent bike/walking trails that are good for everyone to use.

Our public transportation system in Oakland is a joke – no trains, planes, or buses. When you think about it, there is no way to get to Oakland/Deep Creek Lake by any form of public transportation. In a time when we could use all the tourism we can get, what are we doing to improve our situation?

I know we have mountain biking on the mountain for a fee, and some good hiking trails in our state forests, but nothing allowing a walk around the lake or a bike trail that parallels our rail tracks like Cumberland has. And there does not seem to be anything in place to improve anything.

Isn't it time for us to follow Allegany County's lead and conduct a similar study?

Charlie McLaughlin

To the Editor:

Introducing elk into Maryland's western counties is a very bad idea. Eastern elk are browsers and will destroy young trees by peeling the bark and eating the leaves. We do not have enough open space for animals of that size, and hunting is not allowed in our state parks.

Farmers are already concerned with deer and bear ruining their crops with little or no compensation. It is also hard to keep deer fenced out of gardens and lawns, and elk would be even worse.

Elk would be a hazard on our highways as well.

Sincerely,
H.G. Kolb

To the Editor:

Tucked away on page B-10 of the August 25 edition was mention that a Garrett County company is receiving a rousing $16,000 to have solar panels installed, out of a total of $113,000 handed out in Maryland by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, with suitable fanfare by Mikulski and Cardin. No doubt that handout will provide several Joules of energy.

Trouble is, there is too much dependence on government grants, and not enough initiative in the private sector. The energy that can be saved through little, tiny expenditures and only modest attention is enormous. Nearly everyone complains about the high price of gasoline, but how many people check their tire pressure regularly? Very few seem to know that proper tire inflation can improve gas mileage by 3%.

Consider this direct comparison with the $16K solar project: If 1,600 people in Garrett County went to the hardware store and spent ten bucks for a couple rolls of weather stripping to go around their doors, the total energy saved would be measured in megawatt-hours. Solar panels shut off every night, but weather stripping keeps on saving for years.

There are dozens of other minor things any business, any homeowner, any renter can do. Conserving your own energy is both cheaper and easier than waiting around for a tiny morsel of pork from the federal trough.

Cordially yours,
Tom Sheahen

To the Editor:

The Board of County Commissioners would like to clarify the August 25 letter to the editor written by Sidney Nazelrod in which he voices his opinion on code enforcement action taken against his businesses in the town of Loch Lynn Heights.

It should be pointed out that the code enforcement action relative to Mr. Nazelrod and his business locations is not action taken by Garrett County government. Violations of municipal ordinances are under the jurisdiction and authority of the Municipal Code Enforcement Office, which is funded by the municipal governments in Garrett County and is under the administration of the Garrett County Mayors Association. The board encourages Mr. Nazelrod to coordinate this administrative matter with the code enforcement officer.

It is important that the readers of The Republican be aware of accurate information on any matter. Thank you.

To the Editor:

One person and one aluminum can.

Remember how an election was lost by one vote? Or the horse that lost one shoe caused a war to be lost? How about one person thinking his or her aluminum can doesn't matter if it is trashed or sold? The aluminum in one single can is worth up to 2½ cents. Here is an example of what that one can represents, with 30 cans weighing one pound.

The 2010 census counted 30,097 residents in Garrett County. If each person used one aluminum 12-ounce can on one day and threw it into the trash, that would equal 1,003 pounds. Prices paid for cans may vary from $0.50 to $0.75 per pound, so the cans thrown away were worth up to $752. Don't forget – one can per day.

Multiply that by 30 days of tossing aluminum cans into the trash, and the month total is $22,573. For one year of tossing into the trash, the total is $270,873.

Imagine each person in the county is only using one 12-ounce can per day and giving it the toss. Comprehend if two cans per person per day were to be thrown. Or three.

Money like that is needed for many community or youth groups, rather than buried in a landfill. All it takes is recycling, or a group collecting the cans and selling them. This income can subsidize curbside recycling.

There are many facts about recycling, but the most important is to want it and use it. Recycle everything and make the landfill an event of the past.

The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company's Ladies Auxiliary is sponsoring a "Family Portrait Project" as a much-needed way to raise funds, so that the fire company can better serve our community.

Classic Camera has agreed to provide its services for our project this year.

On behalf of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company's Ladies Auxiliary, we are asking each family to please help us out with $40, which will entitle you to receive a certificate for a 10"x13" color portrait. The certificate is transferable, so you may give it to a family member or friend as a gift.

The portraits will be taken at the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company facility on Saturday, Oct. 8, from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m., with portrait pick-up planned for two weeks later. You will be notified in advance of the dates.

Please make checks payable to Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company's Ladies Auxiliary or DCVFCLA.

We appreciate your support. If you have any questions, please feel free to call the auxiliary or Arlene McKenzie at 301-501-2440.

Members of the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company's Ladies Auxiliary thank you.

To the Editor:

My mother died March 18 from complications from surgery. Her memorial service was conducted by Burdock's Funeral Home in Oakland. She had asked for a simple graveside service to be attended by family, with no viewing.

On the morning of the funeral, I heard that she was to be brought to the gravesite in Burdock's van and not his hearse. Upset about this, I made some calls and got that changed. When I arrived at the gravesite there was no tent set up to shelter the bereaved from rain or shine, no artificial grass to keep people out of the dirt, and not so much as a chair present for my mom's ailing brothers and sisters. When I asked why the vault was not yet in the ground, I was informed that after the service she would be placed in the vault. Again I spoke in protest and told Burdock if they couldn't do it the right way that I would go and get some ropes and do it myself. Luckily they had the device on hand to respectfully lower her casket into the vault when the service was over.

Everyone present felt this was the most disrespectful funeral we had ever attended. We were also led to believe that my mom had gone to Mr. Burdock and signed over her insurance policies to him to pay for her funeral.

I then found out that a member of my family was actually responsible for the layout of her funeral, and that my mother actually never met with Burdock's. This family member then received the insurance money and spent it, leaving Burdock's the cost of burying my mother.

I am guilty of slandering Burdock's Funeral Home. I hope this letter will make it clear to all that Burdock's provided all that was requested of them, and in no way should be held responsible for this situation. I should have known better because Burdock's has buried my family members since I can remember, and never once was there ever a complaint made or any disrespect shown. Blame falls completely on my family and me for not getting more involved, and letting a known thief handle the funeral and the insurance money.

I apologize to Burdock's Funeral Home and its staff, and thank them for providing a service to our family. Hopefully with the help of others we will correct this matter.

Yours truly,
Charles McCrum

To the Editor:

I received an invitation to attend a public meeting just 8 days prior to the event, which was at Garrett College on Aug. 27 regarding McHenry water. There was no phone number, and I checked the public notice in the paper and the same was true.

Senior citizens need a phone number to call without having to call various numbers to find an agency. I was already committed to a meeting in Frederick and was not be able to attend. I travel to every county in the state and I am aware of various issues through the state.

I am a little shocked at the bureaucracy I have found with this water issue. First, is it even legal in a rural area where residents have their own wells and septic systems to infringe upon their property and require them to hook into a public water system they do not need? Some of these residents have spent thousands of dollars to drill wells within the last 10 years.

Secondly, how can our county charge $38.98 in advance in real estate tax bills for McHenry water, a service they are not receiving and that has not been officially approved?

Commissioners, as you are going from meeting to meeting bragging we are debt free in this county, is it even necessary to charge a fee a year in advance in this economy?

This is rural Garrett County. We are not Chicago mafia.

I am told a fire hydrant was removed without informing the residents of the Sunset Ridge community, and when confronted, the county did put a fire hydrant in the community. I am thankful for that as I myself had claimed that fire hydrant on my homeowners' insurance as within the 1,000 feet.

When Commissioner Glotfelty was alive, he went to many meetings claiming the county appreciated its senior citizens, and proposed to help them with their tax burdens. As I continue my investigation of this matter, I would venture to bet these residents are all senior citizens.

If you are a senior citizen and you feel your constitutional rights are being abused, please call me and I will seek help for you. Growing old is not easy and one does not need government bureaucracy to make life more difficult.

Concerned Citizen,
Ruth Umbel

I recently read in The Republican and Times-News that Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series will kick off the season with Squonk Opera's "Astro-rama."

Very interesting name, Squonk. Few readers realize that the squonk is a rare and endangered species in these parts. It is described in the seminal compendium of "creatures of the wild," titled Fearsome Critters by the noted ethnozoologist Henry Tryon (whose veracitude is unquestioned), who in 1939 first described the squonk (lacrimacorpus dissolvens) as "probably the homeliest animal in the world and knows it. It is a most retiring, bashful, crepuscular animal garbed in a loose-fitting, wary, singularly ill-fitting skin." It's call is a mournful wailing, and it

Terra Alta Man Charged With CDS Possession

A West Virginia man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies early last Thursday following a traffic stop on Hutton Road, Oakland.

Deputies stopped a silver Subaru Baja for traveling 68 mph in a posted 50 mph zone. The driver was identified as Allen Bryon Hymes Jr., Terra Alta. A search was conducted after a K-9 alerted to the vehicle. A marijuana smoking pipe with marijuana inside was reportedly located inside the vehicle. Hymes was charged with CDS possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, and speeding.

He transported to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing.

sheds bountiful tears because of its ugliness.

Old-growth hemlock stands are its desired habitat, the hemlock stands were largely removed from this region beginning in the mid-1800s. It was last reported in the Swallow Falls State Park area in the early 1900s. However, since some hemlock regrowth has occurred, the squonk could be returning to its native haunts.

A word of caution: If one happens to trap a squonk and attempts to transport it in a gunny sack to show off to the home folks, once in the sack it dissolves into a teary mess.

I am presently composing a descriptive list of such creatures so that any unwary traveler in the wild hereabout does not suddenly confront them and suffer a heart attack, or worse yet, become a victim of an attacking creature.

There are more than cougars out there, so be careful!

To the Editor:

The recent county commissioners' meeting agenda was replete with multiple considerations for raising taxes and fees, but very little effort was made to discuss cutting costs. I am convinced the commissioners do not get it – at all.

We remain mired in the worst economic disaster in our lifetimes. Fundamental changes need to be made in the way we all do things. For the foreseeable future, Garrett County will have to get used to lower income from property taxes. There is wide acceptance that real estate prices are not yet done falling, yet our commissioners are already busy raising other fees, trying desperately to keep their heads above water financially. Sounds eerily similar to the owners of Lodestone Golf Course, and a number of local realtors and builders, and I believe these folks are all simply in denial.

If these commissioners are not constantly involved in deciding what programs to cut and eliminate, then they are simply not doing their jobs. This talk of revenue enhancement through raising fees is a finger in the dike and shows a remarkable lack of imagination. Tough, unpopular decisions need to be made. Significant cuts to the size of government mean a loss of services and more jobs lost in the short run, and making those difficult decisions requires real strength of character. I had hoped these guys would be up to the task, but they seem more interested in incrementally increasing the cost of being in Garrett County for everyone else rather than truly attacking the problems we face – a sorrowful display of unenlightened leadership.

What if Garrett County was the first in the state to cut property tax rates, to cut government programs, to cut its own budget? What if we bit the bullet first in Maryland and truly led by example, making our government smaller and reducing our taxes. For one thing, folks downstate might think that we know how to govern – they might take a look at owning or retiring here. Then, county housing prices might quit falling or even begin to grow, which would increase overall revenues for the county.

We need to rethink what we expect from governance and what price we want to pay for it. It is what the elections last fall told us all about the direction needed in politics. It's a message our commissioners did not get.

To the Editor:

I must say, Mr. Krewson, that I enjoy reading your letters. I am, however, completely at a loss in attempting to understand how you can call me a small-minded homophobe, then deny that you called me a name, and immediately afterward reinforce what you called me. But wait. Oh, I get it now. It's only when a conservative or someone on the right does it that it qualifies as name calling.

To address some of your issues, let me be clear. I did not in any way state an opposition to education or higher learning. Education is a wonderful thing. The problem is that in too many cases our youth are being indoctrinated with the very kind of things you are promoting, while at the same time fundamental Christianity is being mocked and ridiculed. That's what I'm talking about, and I daresay you know that's what I meant.

Next you accuse me of being enraged. Really? No, I am not an angry person or enraged about anything. In fact most people consider me extremely laid back and easy-going. But I am very much saddened to see the direction our country is going.

I stand by my statement as to being railroaded about the LGBT lifestyles, because the media and entertainment industry constantly bombard us with stories and programs depicting this as normal and wholesome.

Who is railroading me? Really? Can I not have my own opinion and beliefs?

I totally agree with you that the Bible has been misused many times to support some misguided agenda. Has it ever occurred to you that you may be doing the same? Come on, my friend, you are grasping at straws. God will not be mocked. His word is eternal and it stands rock solid. I would invite you to read Matthew, chapter 5.

I'm sure that in your "well reasoned and informed opinion," I am also a racist. Not even close. I have a son-in-law who is not only black, he is a native of Ethiopia. He is 100% a part of our family, and I count him as my own son. Plus he comes from a good Christian family.

I also had a black co-driver when I drove a truck whom I appreciated more than any of the white drivers I worked with.

God bless you, Mr. Kewson. Many people are praying for you.

To the Editor:

I know the current wisdom of the Tea Party is Cut Spending – Reduce the Deficit!

I agree. However, the Tea Party wants to cut salaries, retirement benefits, health care, etc., of those rascals we call teachers, policemen, firemen, and any other public servants they deem to be overpaid.

These Tea Partyers must be really, really wealthy to not care about the rest of us peons. I guess their children all go to private schools, hopefully chauffeured. We wouldn't want their dainty feet to walk on the same earth we walk on. Can someone send me an application, because that's the lifestyle I want!

However, the United States spent $689 billion on defense last year. That means we spent $2,208 for every man, woman, and child for defense. For your reference, the two most populated countries in the world – China and India – respectively spent $89 and $34 for every man, woman, and child in their countries for their defense.

We spend 25 times more than China and 65 times more than India on defense per capita. Does this sound a little excessive to you?

Don't get me wrong, I am in favor or a strong defense, but let's look at this in another way. If you multiply the total population of Garrett County (30,096) times the per capital defense spending of $2,208, that equals a total of $66,462,752. That is almost the entire budget of Garrett County for 2011.

Okay, folks, here are the carpenter's spending cuts:

I know we are the United States of America, but we spend in actual dollars 6 times more than China does on its defense. Think of it this way – If we just spend 5 times the amount China does, we would save $103,000,000,000 a year! I don't think this is as good as my plan to get rid of the carbon dioxide, but give it a chance. Just think, we might even create some jobs with this too.

For the Tea Party fans, here's another one of my favorite slogans: "Politicians are like diapers – they need to be changed often, mostly for the same reason." That's right up there with "Get a brain, you morons."

Hurricane Irene Gone, But Holiday Travel Still Expected To Be Curtailed

In the midst of all the doom and gloom Marylanders have been facing over the last few weeks from natural disasters to a down economy, one positive piece of news is that Hurricane Irene has passed Maryland and Ocean City officials have re-opened the boardwalk – just in time for the Labor Day holiday weekend.

"Fewer Marylanders have indicated they will take a Labor Day holiday getaway this year; however, a favorable weather forecast for the last unofficial summer weekend could lead to a last minute uptick in travel especially since last weekend was a wash out, literally, due to Hurricane Irene," commented Ragina C. Averella, manager of Public and Government Affairs at AAA Mid-Atlantic.

AAA Mid-Atlantic is projecting nearly 604,000 Marylanders will travel during the Labor Day holiday weekend, a 2.7 percent decline compared to 2010.

"With Maryland schools opening one to two weeks prior to Labor Day, travel volume for this weekend traditionally is not as strong as the other two summer holidays, Memorial Day and Fourth of July," said Averella. "Thus while the economy and higher travel costs are key factors in the decline, the holiday falling on the 5th of September is a contributing factor to the decrease as well. Typically, the later the Labor Day holiday falls on the calendar, the less inclined families may be to travel as children will have already returned to school."

Travel by all modes of transportation are forecasted to decline, although the drop in automobile travel is very nominal at less than half a percent (0.4 percent) compared to that of last year. As is typical with holiday travel, automobile remains the dominant mode of choice.

While Maryland's average cost for a gallon of gasoline is approximately 37 percent higher than last year's, prices had been on a downward trend since early August, averaging 13 cents a gallon less as of last Thursday compared to the cost at the beginning of the month.

However, Maryland, as well as nationwide average costs have been creeping up since Friday, primarily due to Hurricane Irene and concern over potential supply disruption as east coast refineries prepared to shutdown. Today's average price for Maryland is $3.55 a gallon, 2 cents higher than Friday's price and 16 cents less than motorists were paying on this date a month ago late July.

Analysts with the Oil Price Information Service (OPIS) expect prices to drift slightly higher based as a result of natural disasters, geo-political and economic issues, which occurred over the past week.

Based on a survey of traveler intentions:

•The average distance traveled is expected to be 722 miles round-trip, a 4 percent decline versus 2010 and 114 miles more than the nationwide average for holiday travel.

•Marylanders will be staying closer to home, which is consistent with the decline in air travel. Sixty-eight percent intend to log between 50 and 400 miles round-trip compared to 50 percent in 2010, while 7 percent will travel over 1,500 miles round-trip Last year 24 percent traveled over 1,500 miles round-trip.

•The majority of the state's travelers, 53 percent, intend to travel alone or with one other adult, while 18 percent of respondents expect to travel with family, which is not surprising since Maryland children are back in school. For comparison, travel with families ranked higher for the July 4th holiday at 39 percent, while 37 percent had indicated plans to travel alone or with one other adult.

•Median spending is expected to be $879, which is 20 percent higher than last year, and $177 or 25 percent more than the median spending nationwide.

•Shopping (55 percent), visiting friends and relatives (54 percent), dining (52 percent) and touring/sightseeing (42 percent) were named as the top four primary activities.

"As we witnessed for the July 4th holiday, the Marylanders whom will be traveling for the Labor Day holiday seem to have deeper pockets and are intending to spend more during their last summer getaway," said Averella.

AAA's projections are based on economic forecasting and research by IHS Global Insight. The Labor Day holiday travel period is defined as trips that include travel of 50 miles or more round-trip away from home during the period from Thursday, September 1 to Monday, September5.

Event Slated To Rally Community Back To Church

Faith United Methodist Church, 6639 Cranesville Road, Terra Alta, will hold "Rally Day" on Sunday, Sept. 11.

A meet-and-greet session with doughnuts, muffins, milk, hot chocolate, and coffee will take place at 9:30 a.m., followed by a worship service at 10 a.m. and Sunday school/adult Bible study at 11 a.m.

"Rally Day is the time for all the community to rally together and invite our families and friends back to church, Sunday school, and adult Bible study," explained a church member.

She added that summer is almost over; school has started; and vacations are over.

"This is the perfect time for the family to come back to church, or begin for the first time," she said. "Special things will be happening on Rally Day. Don't miss it."

The worship service will include special prayers and songs to commemorate the 10th anniversary of the 9/11 tragedies. A patriotic balloon launch will take place after Sunday school and adult Bible study

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Let's face it. The job of teaching children is not quite as easy as it was when we were growing up. It is much harder, given the massive social changes that we are going through. Parents are extremely pushed just to keep their household up and running. With many parents out of jobs, they are under extreme stress, which takes a toll on their well-being and health, and on their marriages. Money pressures many to work longer hours or take a second job. This causes stress beyond enduring and lost sleep because of relentless worrying. Too many marriages are pushed to their limit, and often one partner feels he/she has to make a major change in his/her life.

During a major recession, many husbands no longer preserve their one most important role of chief breadwinner, especially when our construction industry is slowing and almost collapsing. The field that many men work in has been cut back sharply And female workers have much lower unemployment, especially the higher educated women, who are faring much better.

I know for a fact what kind of strain that puts on a marriage. Some husbands in that position choose to simply end their marriage. But that is rarely a positive move in terms of a family's economy, because it costs twice as much to maintain two households instead of one. Every kind of bill is doubled. And the tax situation gets worse when their children become even more expensive.

So the best environment to raise children – two parents with decent income – is rapidly becoming an endangered species. That causes many children to be very stressed out, just when their education is getting increasingly demanding. Not that I could ever help my kids with their high math work, plus they knew much more about working on computers even when they were quite young.

When children reach middle school and high school levels, they are confronting a large number of new challenges, largely social. That is when they need desperately to feel that they are accepted by their peers. That is when the ultimate dangers of unbearable bullying rear their ugly heads. This sometimes leads to a deadly outcome: suicide. Too many young people do not feel that they meet the expectations of their peers. For some reason, they are not average in some way, because of different cultural backgrounds, or some aspect of their appearance. Overweight kids are victims of bullying, and smaller, lightweight boys are at risk for someone suggesting that they have questionable masculinity, or alleging that they are gay

They hear plenty about some groups being "inferior" or "bad." A prominent public figure pronounced it loudly and clearly on television and via all kinds of media.

That brings me to another thing that is extremely changed – the rise of high tech communication replacing ordinary face-to-face, person-to-person interaction. There are far fewer deep, meaningful connections between young people. And it is much easier to say something hateful to someone by using a keyboard and not seeing their face to see their reaction. The consequences of their cruel behavior does not hit home to them. When someone text messages a hateful remark, there is no one to hear it like in the old days, when it was said aloud in front of other kids or in a school setting.

Often, kids on both ends of this kind of behavior are locked in their bedrooms, out of sight of their parents. So some parents are unaware that either their child is a bully or a victim of bullying. And the parents are less likely to know the peers of their children, because so much socialization is on social networks, not by interpersonal interaction, so they rarely set foot in any friend's home or have any kind of interaction with their friends' parents.

During my growing up years, my socialization largely went on in Bittinger: 4-H, church youth group, and even expanded wider to county-wide events. Still, there were plenty of adults who knew each of the kids, and their parents, too. So there was little that did not reach my parents' ears.

My peers and I had many concerned adults who interacted with many kids, and each took their responsibility seriously to promote good behavior in those kids who were under their supervision. The more concerned adults in children's lives, the more advantages they have, and there is far less risk of parental abuse.

When any new baby appeared in my church, there was a whole mass of women who felt almost worshipful of it. I, of course, was lucky enough to have many close aunts and uncles and two sets of involved grandparents. My daughters are evidence of how valuable siblings are. My three girls are so close to each other, as well as seven cousins who are almost as close to them as siblings. But most children live much more isolated lives, which leads to many kinds of problems.

Nowadays, children are much more dependent on their parents to guide their social development. And when those parents are very challenged by many pressures, they are often unable to perform their parenting duties fully

The next defense is their teachers. And that is why the increasing class size is destructive, not only to the learning that goes on, but it also affects the ability of teachers to know all their students very well, well enough to notice when something is wrong with a student, and then take action to address the problem. If a major problem in a child's life is not addressed, it makes it very hard, and maybe impossible, for that child to be able to learn.

That is perhaps one major reason for America's declining test scores, and any number of social problems that are too common these days, just when it looked like programs would help this isolation and disconnection of living in the 21st century The only hope for everyone is the many possible people who meaningfully connect to each one.

That is why I am happy that Caitlin and Mere are active in the WVU Collegiate 4-H Club and Young Democrats, because in them, they get to know young people with similar interests, and are able to bond with them more deeply than on a superficial level, and their friends become my girls' friends. And having more people on campus who have a significant bond with them makes them safer and looked out for.

They have also gotten acquainted with some valuable adult contacts that might be helpful in their adulthood in their careers. Both of them have excellent social skills, including the ability to reach out to the less fortunate students, like the young Egyptian girl that Caitlin befriended. Obviously, she felt a little lost at West Virginia University as a Muslim girl.

There is no day that I remember during my life as full of hope and joy as Jan. 12, 2009, when Obama was inaugurated as our president – not even when JFK became our president.

I am sure that Secretary of State Hillary Clinton is probably overwhelmed by all the flood of challenges that have been laid on her desk, many without easy answers. That is why she said she didn't want to do the difficult job of secretary of state in Obama's second term, not because she had problems with the Pentagon's leadership. She was just ready for a change, especially with the prospect of her having a fun new role perhaps being a grandmother. Who can blame her for that?

But it may be a little soon to hope for that any time soon, because her daughter Chelsea is still enjoying being a newlywed wife, and she and her husband should enjoy that for a while before their lives change when a baby enters the picture.

I wish I knew who sent me the book and DVD about Roberto Clemente. I just started to watch the DVD. It deeply moved me.

I'm a little sorry that I did not feel that rare East Coast earthquake. But I know one person in the Bittinger area who did feel it – Cheryl Bender. And my Caitlin felt it in Morgantown during her first day of her graduate school job. It happened during a staff meeting.

My friends in Virginia definitely noticed, and some people in Grantsville felt it, as did a friend of mine in McHenry Among the damages were some major cracks on the top of the Washington Monument. But it was startling that it affected New York City I'm glad I was not up there when it shook the Big Apple.

I just watched the last game in a four-game series between the Pirates and the now first-place Brewers. So that means they split the series. But it would take lots of wins to catch up with the Brewers. They still have enough time. Whether they can use it well enough is hard to tell

Adorable Adoptables

SMALL GRAINS CROP INSURANCE DEADLINE APPROACHING

The Raleigh Regional Office, USDA Risk Management Agency (RMA), reminds West Virginia small grains producers that Friday, Sept. 30, is the final date for those not currently insured to apply for crop insurance on wheat or barley. Current policyholders likewise have until Sept. 30 to make any changes to their policies.

Prices for 2012 wheat and barley will be determined by the Commodity Exchange Price Provisions and posted on the following RMA web site: http://www.rma.usda.gov/tools/pricediscovery.html. For more information, persons may log on to the RMA web site at http://www.rma.usda.gov, or contact a local crop insurance agent as soon as possible.

piece of my heart got hammered by Hurricane Irene. The first one is my old neighborhood in Manhattan, the Lower East Side. It is both the oldest neighborhood and the poorest in Manhattan. It was one area that was under the evacuation area. It is a major part of the city where new immigrants live, and it had one of the best delis in New York City.

The other place is about as different as possible: Newport, Rhode Island. It is the center of the old-money, wealthiest people in America. I made my debut as a grand prix groom there. It was on the most beautiful farm I have ever seen in my life, built only of stones. There were miles of stone fence and a strikingly beautiful stone barn.

Even though I have a somewhat adventurous spirit, I am glad I am safe in the Allegheny Highlands from this monster, Hurricane Irene. But I am almost sick with worry about my Claire, who plans to move from her apartment in Arlington, Va., perhaps into Washington, D.C.

I was lucky that Brenda Ruggiero showed up just in time to alert me that a Steelers game will be played this evening. She must be more on the ball about football than I am. I love baseball, but I also like football.

Mystery Writer To Present Program At Local Libraries

West Virginia mystery writer Lauren Carr will present "Fact in Fiction" at three Ruth Enlow Library locations on Thursday, Sept. 29: Grantsville, noon; Accident, 3 p.m.; and Oakland, 6 p.m. Sponsored by the Friends of Ruth Enlow Library, the event is free and open to the public.

Carr is the author of the Mac Faraday mystery series, which is set at Deep Creek Lake. Each of her REL appearances will include discussions about fiction writing, a reading from her latest book, Old Loves Die Hard, and information about doing research work.

"Often new fiction writers are under the misperception that they're exempt from doing any research," Carr said. "That isn't so, especially nowadays since so much information about any and everything is right at our fingertips. Writers who don't have their facts straight in their books are perceived not only as unintelligent, but lazy."

She said research does not have to be a chore.

"When I started out writing over two decades ago, research meant spending the day at the library digging through reference books," Carr said. "Recently, in less than a half an hour, I found on the Internet the details of a security system in a mental hospital for the criminally insane."

To illustrate the "fun side" of fact collecting, Carr will share photographs and material from a research trip to the Writers' Police Academy in North Carolina.

"The academy offers the most hands-on, interactive, and educational experience writers can find to enhance their understanding of all aspects of law enforcement and forensics," Carr said.

In Old Loves Die Hard, Carr continues the rags-to-riches story of Mac Faraday, an underpaid homicide detective who inherits $270 million and an estate at Deep Creek Lake from his birth mother on the day his divorce becomes final.

Old Loves Die Hard is Carr's fourth murder mystery novel. Midwest Book Reviews described it as "an excellent and fast paced read that will keep the readers guessing."

She wrote her first book, A Small Case of Murder, after giving up her writing career to be a stay-at-home mother. A Small Case of Murder was named a finalist for the Independent Publisher Book Award.

Carr's mysteries can be purchased online through Ingram, Baker & Tailor, Barnesandnoble.com, Amazon.com, and bookstores. They are available in print, Kindle, E-Book, and audio format, including MP3 download.

For more information about her upcoming library appearance, persons may contact Bonnie Winters at 301-334-3996, Ext. 117.

For more information about Carr, one may visit laurencarr.webs.com or e-mail her at writerlaurencarr@comcast.net.

JENNY LIND PORTRAYAL SLATED – The Preston Community Arts Center, 123 W. Price Street, Kingwood, W.Va., will commemorate the 10th anniversary of the 9/11 tragedies by presenting another, happier event that occurred on that date 161 years prior: Jenny Lind's American debut performance on Sept. 11, 1850, in Lower Manhattan, near where the World Trade Center towers later stood. Free and open to the public, the program is scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 11, at 2 p.m. at the center. JoAnn Peterson (pictured) will portray the opera star in a first-person presentation of the West Virginia Humanities Council History Alive! Program, a means of exploring history by "interacting directly" with noteworthy historical characters. Dubbed the Swedish Nightingale, Lind inspired Hans Christian Andersen to pen "The Ugly Duckling," was befriended by Queen Victoria, was a generous contributor to Harriet Beecher Stowe's anti-slavery movement, and was the first woman memorialized in Westminster Abbey's Poet's Corner. During Peterson's presentation, audience members will hear about Lind's life and adventures on her American tour and be able to ask questions. While Peterson is a seasoned actor and vocalist, the program is not a concert. Peterson has performed at West Virginia Public Theatre, writes and directs murder mystery plays, and provides entertainment for groups and organizations.

MISS HISTORIC MARYLAND'S Outstanding Teen 2011, Sara Zeng, represented Garrett County over the summer during Miss Maryland week at the Maryland Theater in Hagerstown. During the talent portion of the Miss Maryland's Outstanding Teen competition, Zeng played Chopin's "Fantaisie Impromptu" on the piano. She placed as a top-10 finalist and also won the overall top talent award. Zeng will perform her piano selection on Garrett College's stage on Saturday, Nov. 5, during the Miss Historic Maryland scholarship pageant. Young women ages 17 (who are high school seniors) to 24 years may apply to compete for the Miss Historic Maryland 2012 title. Girls ages 13 to 17 (but not high school seniors) may apply to compete for the Miss Historic Maryland's Outstanding Teen 2012 title. As an opportunity to perform in public, young girls ages 5 to 12 may apply to participate as Miss Historic Maryland's Princesses. More information is available via misshistoricmd@hotmail.com and the Miss Historic Maryland Scholarship Organization Facebook page.

G'Ville Center To Hold Line Dancing Class

Goldie Pratt is slated to teach a line-dancing class at the Grantsville Senior Center for a total of six weeks. Classes are scheduled from 11 to 11:45 a.m. on Sept. 7, 21, 28 and Oct. 5, 12, and 19.

There will be no charge to attend the class. Those interested in further information may contact Lois Ford, 301-895-5818.

The Remedy To Play At Last Little Yough Fest Event

Popular local band The Remedy will give the final concert of the 2011 Little Yough Summer Music Festival this Friday, Sept. 2, at 7 p.m. in the Mtn. Fresh Pavilion in Oakland. Food vendors will set up at 6 p.m.

Admission to the concert is free, but donations will be accepted to help defray the cost of the series.

Seating is limited, so those attending the event may want to bring lawn chairs or blankets.

Yard Sale To Be Hosted By Southern Band

The Southern Garrett High School Marching Band will host a yard sale this weekend, Friday, Sept. 2, and Saturday, Sept. 3, at the Sisler Tree Farm, located behind the Pineview Veterinary Hospital along Rt. 219, just north of Oakland.

The sale will involve a wide variety of items donated by a number of band parents and staff members. There will be household items, collectables, clothing, and toys.

The proceeds will all benefit the band, which is just beginning its competitive marching season.

The sale will begin at 8 a.m. both days, and be in operation until 6 p.m.

The band is under the direction of Joshua Elmlinger, and involves nearly 40 students.

FSU Series Will Present Chinese Acrobats Of Hebei

Frostburg State University's Cultural Events Series will present the athletic artists of the Chinese Acrobats of Hebei on Saturday, Sept. 24, at 8 p.m. in the Cordts Physical Education Center Main Arena.

"The traditions of Chinese acrobatics, magic, and juggling originated over 2,000 years ago in the Hebei region of ancient China," said a spokesperson for the group. "The Chinese Acrobats of Hebei carry on these traditions in a dazzling show that includes such traditional feats as hoop diving, hand balance, contortionism, chair stacking, martial arts, foot juggling, plate spinning, the Chinese Poles, and the comically delightful Lion Dance. With their unbelievable feats of agility and strength, spectacular costumes and props, and a lush musical score, the Chinese Acrobats of Hebei will present a gravity-defying blend of martial arts, contortionism and aerial movement that will captivate the entire family."

Tickets for floor seating are $16 for adults and $11 for youth under 17, while those for bleacher seating are $10 for adults and $7 for youth. Corporate and group discount rates are also available.

For more information, contact the Cultural Events Series box office at 301-687-3137 or visit CES' webpage at ces.frostburg.edu.

The Cultural Events Series is sponsored in part by the Allegany Arts Council with funds from the Maryland State Arts Council, and is supported by a grant from MSAC, an agency dedicated to cultivating a vibrant cultural community where the arts thrive.

Southern Golfers Swinging For AMAC Win, State Tournament

Ryan Wolf, head coach of Southern High School's golf team, has made his expectations for this season clear: "We want to win the AMAC (Appalachian Mountain Athletic Conference) and send some golfers to the state tournament."

To that end, the Rams have started the season out strong, taking first-place wins in three tournaments at Fore Sisters Golf Club, at their own invitational held at the Oakland Golf Club, as well as at the Cumberland Country Club.

In each outing, Southern was led by Evan Friend, one of three golfers Wolf has high hopes for. He finished each tournament with top individual honors. The other two players, Billy Gindlesberger, and Ian Brantner, have also proven themselves able golfers.

"We have some really dedicated athletes that have been playing all summer," said Wolf. "They have a desire to be the best golfers in the region."

The head coach has cited Northern and Petersburg high schools as the two biggest threats to improving last season's 23-13 record.

"The schedule is short with about three matches per week. If any one of the top players has any problems, it could have a profound effect on our success for the season."

Southern's next match is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 7, at Maplehurst Country Club. Tee-off is set for 1 p.m.

Elks Lodge Slates Soccer Shoot At Loch Lynn Fields

Elks BPOE #2481, Oakland, will hold its annual soccer shoot on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Loch Lynn soccer fields. The rain date is Sunday, Sept 11.

Sign up will take place at the fields on the day of the shoot. Proof of age is not required at registration. Competitors may come anytime between 1 and 3 p.m. to shoot.

All boys and girls under the age of 14 as of Aug. 1 may participate in this "shooting skills" contest. The age groups for the competition will be U-8, U-10, U-12, and U-14.

Trophies will be awarded for first, second, and third place and will be presented on the day of the shoot at 3:30 p.m.

The two highest shooters in each age group will move on to the Elks district shoot and may qualify for the state and regional shoots.

Pizza and drinks will be provided during the local event. For more information, persons may call Chris Missimer at 301-387-2009.

Steelers Open CAYFL Slate With Victory

The Division I Northern Steelers opened their Cumberland Area Youth Football League season with a convincing 30-12 victory over the host Braddock Warriors on Saturday

Aaron Rodeheaver amassed 206 yards of rushing and two touchdowns on only a dozen carries, and also passed for a third six-pointer, to lead the Steelers' offensive effort.

Rodeheaver put the first points on the board when he scored on a 65-yard touchdown run in the first quarter. The two-point conversion kick was no good.

The Warriors knotted the score at 6-6 early in the second period when Darion King-Ottaviani rambled 52 yards for a touchdown. The conversion kick failed

The Steelers answered with a 6-yard touchdown pass from Noah Werner to Jake Vernon midway thorugh the second period, and Vernon's successful conversion kick put the Steelers on top for good at 14-6.

The Warriors rallied for their second touchdown just before intermission when King-Ottaviani broke loose for a 24-yard scoring run. The kick was no good, and the score was 14-12 at halftime.

Rodeheaver capped a Steeler drive in the third quarter with a four-yard scoring run, and Vernon's kick made it 22-12.

The final touchdown of the day was recorded when Rodeheaver connected with Logan Fratz on a 32-yard scoring pass in the fourth quarter. Vernon again booted the two-point conversion.

Defensive standouts for the Steelers were Logan Yommer, who had an interception, Saylor Wampler, and James Lewis. Pacing the Warrior defense were Carsen Imes and Brendon Dougherty.

The Division II Steelers were shut out in the second game, 7-0, by the Warriors. Scoring for the winners was Gavin Dehaven via a one-yard touchdown dive in the second quarter. He also ran successfully for the conversion.

Cayleb Broadwater, David Bittinger, and Ryan Weimer were standouts on defense for the Steelers.

The Steeler squads will host Mountain Ridge this Sunday.

Southern Football To Open Tomorrow Against Allegany

The Southern High School varsity football team is primed to kick-off its 2011 season tomorrow evening (7 p.m.) as host to the Campers of Allegany High School.

The Rams, coached by Steve Savage, hope to improve on last year's record of 6-4.

2011 NORTHERN HIGH SCHOOL VARSITY HUSKIES

Small, Senior-Oriented Husky Team To Open Against Smithsburg Friday

"Quality, not quantity" is how Northern High School varsity football coach Phil Carr describes his team, which will open its 2011 campaign this Friday at home against Smithsburg

Coach Carr, who is entering his 15th season as head coach of his alma mater, is once again facing a challenge typical of a small high school – low team numbers.

"We really have only 22 guys on the varsity team," he said, "and there are another two dozen who are playing junior varsity. So it will be crucial for us to stay healthy."

One bright spot is that 15 of the varsity Huskies are seniors, most of whom have a lot of game experience already and who will be looking to improve upon last season's record of 6-5, which included a playoff game.

"Our team is definitely senior-oriented this year, and practices and scrimmages have been good," Carr said. "The work ethic and leadership up to this point have been very good.

"We have a lot of experience in the skill positions, and we have pretty good team speed," he continued. "Our biggest hit by graduation was on the offensive and defensive lines, but so far it looks like we have found some guys to step into those positions."

Among the top Huskies lost to graduation were Jake Bosley, Garrett Rayner, Nick Owens, and Jason Opel. Key returnees are quarterback Pat Sines, receivers/defensive backs Cody Rodeheaver and Kyle Rosenberger, tackles Zach Meyers and Justin Durst, free safety Chris Murdock, and running back/linebacker Josh Mason.

The offensive line is probably the biggest pre-season question mark for Carr and his staff, as only one starter is back from last season.

Others expected to start on offense are Alex Baker at running back, Jeremy Bender at the slot position, Dan Sisler at center, and Shawn Snyder and Sean Kamp at the guard positions.

Defensively, other starters are expected to include Mason, Baker, and Kamp at linebacker, Ty Owens and Zach Merrill at defensive end spots, and Aaron Broadwater at the other tackle position.

"Our goal will be the same that it always is," Carr said, "first to get back into the playoffs, and then work hard to advance deeper into the playoffs."

The Huskies, whose season was ended by Mountain Ridge last year in a regional semifinal, will face another tough Smithsburg team this Friday, a squad that Carr expects will include at least 40 varsity players and is expected to return to the playoffs this season.

"We have beaten Smithsburg only one time in our series with them," Carr said. "We have been preaching to our kids that this is a playoff game, right out of the gate. I think that if we limit our mistakes, stay healthy, and can move the ball on offense, we will have a chance to pick up a big win."

Carr's staff this year consists of assistant coaches Frank Ewing, Scott Jones, Bob Moranduzzo, Jamie Workman, Jon Houser, Marcus Rugg, Dan Van Nosdeln, and Mike Fike, along with trainer Terry Stough.

Friday's kickoff at the NHS athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

Sober Winner Of Two More Races

Jen Sober of McHenry captured two more first places in area 5K runs over the past two Saturdays, as she was the fastest female in Andrea's Memorial Run in Barton on Aug. 20, and then finished first among the female runners in the Garrett Open/Recovery Run at Savage River Lodge this past Saturday

Sober, 38, recorded a time of 19:28 in the Barton event and was 10th overall among approximately 150 participants.

In the Garrett Open race, Sober was third overall among 29 runners, with a time of 22:54.

Parker Jacobs, 43, McHenry, took first place overall with a time of 22:37, while Steve Green, 44, also of McHenry was second, recording a time of 22:53.

McHenry's Scott MacLennon, 21, finished fourth overall in 24:05. Andie Myers of Oakland, 33, was 12th overall, recording a time of 29:23.

In the one-mile walk, Robert and Sandra Smith of Oakland, 61 and 60, placed first and second with respective times of 15:35 and 15:37.

Proceeds from the event benefited the Garrett Trails organization and the Garrett County Steps to Better Health.

OVER 110 RUNNERS AND WALKERS from five states completed the 5K and 1-mile kids' run at Cherry Glade Mennonite Church near Accident last Saturday. All proceeds will benefit Diane Beitzel (below) of Grantsville, who was diagnosed with acute transverse myelitis in 1986 and has been confined to a wheelchair since then. She is currently facing several new medical issues, and will undergo additional testing in the future. Proceeds will help to cover her medical expenses and to make handicapped-accessible improvements to her home. In the 5K men's division, winners were Adam Travis, Fowler, Mo., first place; Craig Baer, Fort Hill, Pa., second place; and Seth Mast, Grantsville, third place. In the women's division, winners were Christine Carpenter, McHenry, first; Jolen Custer, Swanton, second; and Cindi Long, Meyersdale, Pa., third. Kids' run winners were Tyrell Maust, Accident, first; Isaac Graber, Accident, second; and Ethan Tice, Grantsville, third. Runner photo by Kevin Spradlin. Beitzel photo by Miriam Maust.

Garrett County Fishing Contest Winners Named

The Garrett County Fishing Contest, sponsored by Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, is now under way

There were two winners for the week ending August 13:

Smallmouth bass: 2 lbs. 3 ozs., 16½", caught by Ryan Roszell, Oakland.

Chain pickerel: 2 lbs., 19", caught by Bruce Hutchison, Greensburg, Pa.

There were also two winners for the week ending August 20:

Northern pike: 7 lbs. 8 ozs., 32", caught by Mary Ann Krewson, Kennett Square, Pa.

Smallmouth bass: 1 lb. 4 ozs., 14½", caught by Pat Pool, Elkridge

Weekly winners are awarded a certificate, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, catches must be taken to Deep Creek Outfitters Hardware and Bait House at 32 Outfitters Way, McHenry

Rams, Huskies Finish Strong At Rocky Gap

Southern High School golfer Billy Gindlesberger shared low medalist honors after shooting a 38 on Wednesday in the seven-team match held at Rocky Gap Lodge and Golf Resort. The Rams ended the match two strokes behind Fort Hill, which took first-team standing with a score of 173.

After Southern, Mountain Ridge was five shots back with 178, followed by Northern High with 184. The final three teams were Keyser (204), Allegany (207), and Frankfort (222).

Evan Friend shot a 41 for Southern, while Northern was led by Caemen Feller, who finished with a 44.

Keyser's Logan Stanislawczyk was his team's top finisher with a 49, Keegan Ott and Devin Storey shot lowest for Allegany with 51s, while Blake Barker led Frankfort with a 52.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

GOODNIGHT, IRENE...
by Dan Muss

Last Saturday it was clear from a look at the weather radar map for the NE USA that our wind here at Deep Creek was determined by the outermost band of the monster storm, Hurricane Irene. The hurricane had just hit North Carolina, but conditions here did not look that bad, with wind 5-10 NE, the direction one expects from the counterclockwise air movement around the eye of the storm. But when we got out toward the slot, the wind was over 10 and it was gusty and kept shifting. We were close-hauled, but I had trouble keeping the boat on point. A gust would hit us and I would ease the mainsheet to keep us level when, suddenly, we'd get a huge header, our sails would empty, and we had to scramble back in as I bore off to our new course. After five minutes of this I was tired and I told my wife Carol that it was too much for me; we were going back in.

Our club was missing a dinghy driver, so we sailed back to the dock, unrigged, and readied the boat for the mooring. I drove the dinghy around to pick up our sailboat and towed it out to our mooring. I'm still not sure how it happened, but as I tried to motor away from the mooring, the mooring ball got caught by our engine. As we looked at the situation, it became obvious that the mooring ball riser, the line from the anchor chain on the bottom of the lake to the mooring ball, was caught under the motor stalk. We were stuck. I felt like an idiot!

We hailed the shore, and Dan Rubel and his friend Tim came to our rescue in the club's utility boat. We were finally able to raise the engine while Tim reached down under the water and freed the riser... we were loose. I still felt like an idiot.

In the Gold Fleet, going into the last weekend of the July-August Series, Bruce Spinnenweber had a solid lock on first place. Coraor, Schaefer, and Mahan stood in second, third, and fourth, respectively, with only three points separating second from fourth place. Other sailors, such as Dave Meehan, Wolffe, and Gauthier, were one or two races short of qualifying, but had a chance of moving into the money positions with a weekend of solid racing.

To avoid the wicked shifty winds in the slot, PRO Keith Spinnenweber and assistant Gellar set a short windward-leeward, three-lap course in the Green Glade area of the lake. The combination of difficult winds, a narrow racing area, and a large number of mark roundings meant boat handling ability would be the key to success for the day.

The Lothrops, with Stephanie at the helm and Bruce crewing, had a good start, but felt their boat was sluggish. They pulled up their centerboard and released a clump of weeds! Their boat was now moving well, but they had dropped far to the back of the fleet.

As Wolffe was sailing downwind, his boom hit and broke the stay on Frank's boat sailing to windward. With Frank's mast down, Wolffe dropped his spinnaker and sailed up again to make sure the Franks were all right. Wolffe then dropped out of the race. (Frank was back out to race on Sunday in a borrowed boat!)

On Sunday the winds were even stronge,r and the Masters decided not to go out. There were only nine boats racing, including Ellen Tran in the Silver Fleet, with Dorothy Tuel and Debbie McCombs crewing. As they sailed for the windward mark, Tran was in second place, not fazed by the gusts of wind coming out of the north. As they tacked, they were slammed by a puff and over they went. They crawled to the high side of the boat and brought it back up again. As soon as they were upright, they got slammed again from the opposite side and over they went.

Tuel swam to the top of the mast to prevent the boat from going "turtle." McCombs hung on to the rail in hopes of making it to the high side while Tran made her way to the centerboard, but couldn't reach it from the water. So McCombs went into the water and, with her longer arms, pulled the centerboard down and the boat righted. Tran was able to get back into the boat and man the helm, while Don and Barbara Griffin, auxiliary patrol, picked up Tuel. McCombs got herself back on board and they sailed home.

The first rule of sailboat racing is to help another boat in trouble; that's exactly what the other two Silver Fleeters did. The teams of Jim Munford/Gordy Clefton, and Mark/Jill Bennett suspended their race to check on the capsized boat. After they knew they were all right, they continued the race.

Those three women did a great job in handling a difficult situation. And, believe it or not, they looked on the experience as a great adventure... and fun to boot!

Many thanks to my reporters Bruce Lothrop and Debbie McCombs! This weekend is the Commodore's Cup.

DNR Announces Details Of Late Waterfowl Seasons

The Maryland Department of Natural Resources has announced the 2011-2012 late waterfowl hunting seasons.

"Most waterfowl hunters who provided their input were supportive of the proposed seasons and bag limits, including a 60-day duck season and a 45-day migratory Canada goose season," said Paul Peditto, director of DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Service.

Waterfowl hunters may take up to six ducks per day during that season's three segments: Oct. 15 through Oct. 22, Nov 12 through Nov 25, and Dec. 13 through Jan. 28.

"Most duck populations that migrate to Maryland are in great shape due to favorable habitat conditions across the continent," said Larry Hindman, DNR's waterfowl project leader.

"As a result, duck hunters should find good numbers of ducks across the region this season."

The DNR has stated that the Canada goose hunting season will include a daily bag limit of two geese and will be split into two segments: Nov 19 through Nov 25, and Dec. 15 through Jan. 28.

The number of breeding Canada geese (Atlantic population) was significantly higher this spring, increasing from approximately 154,000 pairs in 2010 to 194,800 pairs this season. However, a cold spring on the Ungava Peninsula contributed to a slightly reduced nesting effort, with fewer eggs laid compared to a normal nesting year. Maryland will maintain a maximum 45-day goose season.

Greater and lesser snow geese and Ross's geese are collectively referred to as "light geese." These birds have become so abundant that they are causing harm to wetland habitats throughout their range.

During the conservation order season, hunters may use unplugged shotguns, and electronic calls, and hunt from a half-hour before sunrise to a half-hour after sunset, with no daily bag or possession limits. The "light goose" conservation order season will run from Nov. 28 to Dec. 10 and then again from Jan. 30 to April 14.

Hunters are required to purchase a Snow Goose Conservation Order Hunting Season Permit to participate in this special season.

All waterfowl hunters, including landowners who are license exempt, must possess proof of purchase of the 2011-2012 Maryland Migratory Game Bird Stamp (HIP certification permit included). They are available at dnr.maryland.gov/service/license.asp or by calling 1-800-918-2870.

All waterfowl hunters age 16 and over must also possess the Federal Migratory Bird Hunting and Conservation Stamp (federal duck stamp), while hunting waterfowl. Federal duck stamps are available at most U.S. post offices, National Wildlife refuges, and some DNR sport license agents. Hunters may purchase an electronic federal duck stamp from Maryland DNR sport licensing agents.

Hunters may also purchase a stamp by either calling toll-free 1-800-DUCK499, or 1-800-STAMP24, or by ordering online at www.duckstamp.com. The federal duck stamp must be signed across the face by the hunter to be valid, but it does not have to be attached to the hunting license.

More information about the Maryland 2011-2012 late waterfowl hunting season dates and bag limits may be obtained at dnr.maryland.gov/huntersguide/lwfchart.asp.

Hunters Special Shoot Slated At Potomac-Garrett

Potomac-Garrett State Forest will hold its annual Hunters Special 3-D Shoot on Sunday, Sept 11, from 8 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Potomac-Garrett State Forest archery range behind the forest headquarters.

Those who participate will get to shoot at targets depicting deer, bear, African game, exotic game species, buffalo, and a motorized moving target at distances of a maximum of 30 yards. The cost is $10 for adults, $7 for youth ages 12-17, and free for those 11 and under.

For more information, persons may telephone the forest headquarters at 301-334-2038.

would like to express our sincere appreciation to all the nurses & staff at the Schwab Cancer Center, Dr. Zaman, Dr. Watkins, and Dr. Moen who took such good care of our mother during her illness. Also, thank you to Hospice of Garrett County for your help during our mother's final days.

Thanks to Carol and Lynn Newman and the staff at Newman Funeral Homes for their outstanding service during this difficult time. Our deepest gratitude to Pastor Randy Nairn for a wonderful service and being there for us.

To our family, friends, and neighbors: Thank you for all the cards, flowers, food, visits, memorial donations, and all the help and support you gave us in our time of sorrow.

Special thanks to all our Hill Top, Fruit Bowl, and Farmers Market employees for everything you did during our mother's illness and following her passing. Also, thank you for your help and support during the loss of John Swauger, one of our 'Hill Top Family.'

OVFD MEMBERS PAY RESPECTS TO OLD #1 – Members, both current and retired, of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department donned their dress uniforms Tuesday evening in order to usher the oldest truck in the fleet to a new home along Liberty Street in Oakland. The 1930 American LaFrance pumper, known as "Old Number 1," was officially housed in the new Garrett County Museum of Transportation, set to open later this month. The long-serving pumper was accompanied by several engines of the fleet, and driven to her new home by retired fireman Joe Helbig. Town officials and many residents attended the ceremony, during which OVFD chaplain Manning Smith offered brief words of commemoration and prayer. "The Garrett County Historical Society is greatly honored to house such a significant piece of equipment," said Bob Boal, president of the Garrett County Historical Society, which is building the museum. Shown above center, standing on Number 1, are John Feather, chief of the OVFD, and retired member Denny Murray, former assistant chief. At far right is a shot of the pumper safely housed. Huskies Set To Return Seven With Varsity Experience To V-Ball Squad

With its season opener approaching, the Northern High School girls' volleyball team is optimistic thanks to the return of seven players with varsity experience – of which three have made the varsity roster for two years – and a revamped coaching regime.

New head coach Laura Wilburn enters the fray with plans to challenge her team to post a winning record and for one of her seasoned veterans to obtain first-team, all-area status, an accomplishment she admits hasn't been done at Northern for a long time.

As for the atmosphere of Wilburn's program, she plans to do no less than "nurture an environment where players are challenged to develop personal excellence."

These goals seem less lofty when one considers four returning prospects on the Husky roster: Tabitha Beasom, Kayla Porter, Miranda Beasom, and Kaitlyn Yommer.

"With this lineup we have height on the front line, strong hitting ability, good setting, and good hard serving," stated Wilburn.

NHS GIRLS' VOLLEYBALL SCHEDULE

Date	Opponent	Loc.
9/8	Southern	Away
9/12	Keyser	Home
9/15	Mtn. Ridge	Home
9/20	Frankfort	Away
9/21	Allegany	Home
9/22	Bishop Walsh	Home
9/29	Fort Hill	Home
10/3	Hampshire	Home
10/5	Allegany	Away
10/11	Keyser	Away
10/13	Bishop Walsh	Away
10/17	Meyersdale	Home
10/19	Southern	Home

Wilburn feels that Porter, who is expected to play the left front position, and Tabitha Beasom could really set the tone for the season.

"With great stats from last year, I look forward to seeing [Porter] step up her game and really lead the team," said Wilburn.

"Returning player Tabitha Beasom (who will probably fill the middle back position) has the ability to cover a lot of ground, I look for her to be high on assists in setting this year."

The biggest road blocks in the team's way include the opponents Wilburn considers "most difficult" (Frankfort, Mountain Ridge, and Fort Hill), as well as a general concern for consistency, respect, and team support for all players.

In preparation for the tough games on the schedule and to stave off any potential lulls in intensity, Wilburn has installed a strict work-out schedule that includes major conditioning. It began on Aug. 13.

"I want them to know there is no "I" in team," she explained.

Northern will face its first opponent, Southern High School, in an away game next Thursday at 6 p.m.

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Seaman Apprentice Sean A. Sisler, son of Jean M. and Randy W. Sisler, Oakland, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the eight-week program, Sisler completed a variety of training, which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork, and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of honor, courage, and commitment.

Sisler is a 2008 graduate of Southern Garrett High School.

"With FluMist we have a very safe and effective product that can be administered without the pain of a needle stick, making it much more acceptable to children," Glotfelty said.

"School-based immunization can also protect other family members and reduce the spread of influenza in the community at-large."

A second dose of the vaccine will be given four weeks later to students under the age of 9 who have never received a flu vaccination in previous years. Flu vaccine consent forms and information sheets explaining the benefits, risks, and side effects of the vaccine will be sent home to parents.

To be eligible for the vaccine, students must be in good health and meet the following criteria:

- Two years of age or older (enrolled in an elementary school within Garrett County).
- No medically significant chronic or long-term illness or immune system problem.
- No history of severe allergy to an egg product.
- Not receiving medicine containing aspirin.
- No past history of Guillian-Barre syndrome.
- No previous allergic reaction to nasal flu vaccine.
- Not receive any live virus vaccines for the month prior to, or month after, vaccination.
- Not living with anyone who has severe immune problems because of: bone-marrow transplantation, intense chemotherapy, or advanced AIDS/HIV infection.

Students who do not meet the requirements for nasal spray flu vaccination may be able to receive injectable flu vaccine from their health care provider or from the Health Department.

Additional information about this project may be accessed by calling the Health Department's FluMist Hotline at 301-334-7698 or 301-895-3113.

Additional information about any of the vaccines is available at www.garretthealth.org/clinicians/seasonal.htm.

BROAD FORD ELEM. HONORS TOP VOLUNTEER – Rebacca Snyder was presented with a plaque of appreciation last Tuesday for her five years of volunteer service at Broad Ford Elementary School. The plaque was presented to Snyder by the school's principal, Dawna Ashby (pictured left). "Snyder has gone way beyond the ordinary," said Ashby. "She volunteers four and five days a week even during the summer. She is an exceptionally gifted person and Broad Ford is very fortunate to have her as part of the Broad Ford School family."

Garrett Hospital Participating In Info Exchange

Garrett County Memorial Hospital officials recently began submitting data to CRISP (Chesapeake Regional Information Systems for our Patients). CRISP was designated as the Maryland Health Information Exchange (HIE) and is a way of instantly sharing health information among doctors, hospitals, labs, radiology centers, and other health organizations.

"HIE allows delivery of the right health information to the right place at the right time, providing safer, more timely, efficient, patient-centered care," noted a hospital representative.

Sharing of information through CRISP provides the physicians immediate access to important patient health information without involving multiple phone calls, mailings, or faxes.

"Using HIE can help avoid additional testing and procedures," the representative added.

Patients can choose to opt out of the CRISP Health Information Exchange and not have their health data searched. To opt out of CRISP or for additional information, people can go online to crisphealth.org, call 1-877-952-7477, or e mail hie@crisphealth.org.

Loch Lynn Girl Brings Home Trophy From Nat'l American Miss Pageant

Kayla Lowdermilk, Loch Lynn, participated in the National American Miss pageant for the state of Maryland in Reston, Va., on Aug. 12 and 13. This was her first pageant competition.

Competing in the Junior Pre-Teen level, Kayla placed third runner-up out of 65 contestants in her category. She was also selected as first runner-up for "Miss Personality."

For the title, girls are scored 30 percent on their personal introduction, 30 percent on formal wear, poise, and appearance, 30 percent on communication skills in an interview, and 10 percent on participating in a community involvement project on pageant weekend. Promoting natural beauty in girls, makeup is not allowed on younger participants during the event.

Kayla also competed in the pageant's optional talent contest. She performed a vocal solo, singing "Inside Your Heaven."

Kayla is 10 years old and is a fifth grader at Yough Glades Elementary School. She is the daughter of Joyce (Thomas) Lowdermilk of Loch Lynn and Rickey Lowdermilk of Oakland. She is the granddaughter of Brenda Thomas, Carroll Thomas, Rick Lowdermilk, and Patty Aronhalt.

Kayla is a member of the "Tumbleweeds" at Brenda's Body Shop. She plays on teams of the Oakland Girls Softball League and the Mtn. Top Soccer Association. She is also actively involved with the Kidz Factory at Loch Lynn Church of God.

Kayla has been a Miss Maryland Princess for four years. The Miss Maryland Prince and Princess program is designed for children ages 3-12. It is not a competition. Through this program, children can become involved with the Miss Maryland pageant and are provided opportunities to serve as role models for their peers throughout the state.

"From her experiences with this pageant (Miss Maryland), Kayla was inspired by her mentors and wanted to compete in a pageant herself," Joyce said. "Her Miss Maryland mentors who have made such an impact on her life are Erin (Muir) Cowan, Victoria Hume, Stephanie Kelman, and Alyssa Todaro."

She added that Kayla's princess stage experience in the Miss Historic Maryland Scholarship Organization also inspired her decision to compete in a pageant.

"The pageant advice Kayla received from Caressa Frazee Ledford helped prepare her for this endeavor," Joyce said. "Caressa and Kayla practiced several hours per week for about two months."

The Miss Historic Maryland Scholarship Organization is currently accepting paperwork for its Miss, Teen, and Princess divisions. The pageant will be held during the first weekend of November at Garrett College. All interested applicants (or scholarship sponsors) are asked to contact Ledford at misshistoricmd@hotmail.com.

Class Scheduled To Help With Personal Budgeting Goals

Learning to budget for short- and long-term goals is the topic of a class offered at the Garrett College Southern Outreach Center (SOC) in Oakland on Wednesday, Sept 28, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Instructor John Pucciano will outline the methods by which an individual can develop a personal budget to help stay on track for current financial needs as well as how one can create a comprehensive budget that will provide a road map for longer-range planning.

This course particularly targets those who are considering purchasing a home and those who have recently become first-time buyers.

Pucciano, an accomplished business leader, has over three decades of classroom experience as a management and leadership trainer and facilitator.

For more information or to register for this class, persons may call the Continuing Education & Workforce Development Division of Garrett College at 301-387-3069.

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY.

That Was Then; This is Now

by Peggy Santamaria

As students register for the fall 2011 semester, Garrett College is, in some ways, quite a different place than it was when Ann Elliott registered as the first student at Garrett Community College in 1971. However, the mission and tradition remain unchanged.

The curriculum offered to the first students who enrolled consisted of an arts and science transfer program, with emphasis on humanities, social science, science-mathematics, teacher education, or business administration; a business occupational career program; a secretarial science career program; and a general studies program.

In 2011, students may choose from a menu of over 40 programs of study, some of which are in disciplines unheard of 40 years ago. Among those would be the state-of-the-art Internet technology courses now available. The newest such program at Garrett College is the associate of science in engineering degree in electrical engineering.

The Adventure Sports Program is another one that would have puzzled the students of 1971. At that time, the term "adventure sports" was unknown, and didn't reach popular usage until the 1990s.

Another term unheard of in 1971 but pervasive today is "online." Forty years ago that term described people waiting outside a theater, or elementary school children waiting to go out to the playground.

Today's college students have more options available for scheduling classes. Though the students in 1971 could choose to take day, evening, or Saturday classes, the students of 2011 may also choose the more flexible option of taking classes online, or as hybrid classes which combine online and classroom sessions. Students can also take certain accelerated credit-earning courses much closer to home at the Garrett College outreach centers in Grantsville and Oakland.

The 1971 GCC campus dining experience involved either a brown-paper bag or a Servomation meal. Today, the Lakers Cafe, operated by Jearbryo's Restaurant, serves breakfast, lunch, and dinner, and features a daily special.

In 1971, students spent several weeks using furniture borrowed from the local fire hall and a nearby church until all the new furniture was delivered. Today's students will spend several weeks waiting for the opening of the Garrett College Community Aquatic & Recreation Complex.

Over the decades, Garrett College has expanded, adding new facilities and offering new curricula. However, the student-focused approach to education has remained unchanged, as class sizes are kept small and student-to-teacher ratio held at an average of 11 to 1.

The start of the fall semester will usher in a new beginning. Garrett College students will embark on an educational journey that will form their futures, just as Ann Elliott and her classmates did in 1971. There will again be goals set, plans laid, and obstacles overcome, just as there were 40 years ago. So perhaps that old proverb is true that "the more things change, the more they stay the same."

To share information about a personal Garrett College experience, one may go online to www.garrettcollege.edu/mygc.

Those Were The Days: Reflections Of GCC's First Student In '1971

by Peggy Santamaria

When Garrett Community College opened its doors in 1971, Ann Elliott, a 1971 graduate of Southern High School, was the first student to register. Nearly four decades later, she recently reflected on the benefits of her decision to attend the fledgling institution.

Ann recalled a number of reasons for choosing to attend GCC.

"It was a small college with small classes, so I thought it was a better environment to start my college experience," she said.

The cost of attending was also a plus, she noted, as was staying in the area that she loved.

"There were 13 students in the first graduating class at Garrett Community College, with a wide variety of ages included in the group," she said.

Something Ann didn't realize at the time was that she was about to play a role in the formation of new school.

"I didn't think much about it when I applied, but I was also going to be involved in creating the student culture and environment at the college," she said. "Being involved at the beginning was a great opportunity to help lay the groundwork for the college experience there through setting up the student government, intramural activities, athletics, and more."

Elliott said that the small number of students at Garrett added a special dimension to her education.

"The learning experience is much more intimate in this type of college environment. We were taking classes alongside individuals who had been or were currently working; individuals who had raised families, as well as classmates of the same age," she recalled. "As a result, a student heard a lot of different perspectives that added to the learning experience. We were a close-knit group that had a lot of fun together."

Though the menu of courses available at Garrett was limited in 1971 compared to what is offered in 2010, a student could earn an associate's degree in liberal arts or business, or take non-credit courses.

"My ultimate goal was to graduate with an AA degree, continue on to a 4-year college, and become a physical education teacher in the public school system," Ann said.

In later years, Ann would change her professional goals, but she never lost sight of the benefits of the education she received at Garrett Community College.

"I thought the education that I received at Garrett was first-class," she said. "The president of the college and the initial group of instructors were top-notch. There was definitely a commitment by everybody working at the college, from the president to the Servomation (food vendor) folks, to make Garrett Community College a success."

Elliott also says she believes that a student will get out of a college experience only as much as he or she puts into it.

"I couldn't think of a better place to start my college experience, and I certainly wouldn't trade it. And not everybody can say they have had snowball battles with the president of their college!" she added.

Garrett College has grown significantly in size and scope since Ann Elliott registered as its first student 39 years ago. But she knows that the qualities that enriched her education remain a constant.

"I hope that the students attending Garrett now really appreciate the education that they are able to receive," she said.

GC PRESIDENT GREETS FIRST GCC STUDENT – Ann Elliott, the very first student to register at brand new Garrett Community College in 1971, stopped by the McHenry campus last week to meet current Garrett College president Dr. Richard MacLennan. Elliott was part of the first wave of students, faculty, and staff that helped define the traditions of Garrett College. Above, Dr. MacLennan welcomes Elliott back to her alma mater.

Southern High School's athletic department has announced that inductions will once again be taking place in the Southern High School Football Hall of Fame after a three-year absence. The 2011 Hall of Fame ceremony will take place at 7 p.m., prior to the home contest against Moorefield on Sept. 9. Details outlining the 2011 inductees will be forthcoming. The athletic department will also begin accepting nominations for future classes at this time. Nominations may be sent to: Southern High School c/o Athletic Department, 345 Oakland Drive, Oakland, MD 21550.

GUIDANCE NEEDS SENIOR E-MAIL ADDRESSES

The guidance office has requested the e-mails of all seniors and their parents. Those interested in receiving information throughout the school year regarding college and scholarship information, as well as other important senior-related news, may e-mail their counselor so their names can be added to the mailing lists. Last names A-G may e-mail nbell@sh.ga.k12.md.us; last names H-Q may e-mail kdavis@sh.ga.k12.md.us; and last names R-Z may e-mail bsincell@sh.ga.k12.md.us.

BACK TO SCHOOL DANCE

A Back-to-School Dance will be held on Friday, Sept. 2, in the cafeteria followmg the Southern versus Allegany football game. It will take place in the SHS cafeteria and run until 11 p.m. Cost for the dance will be $3 per person. Those students intending to bring out-of-school guests should see Mr. Biggs no later than the morning of the dance.

TALENT SHOW AUDITIONS

Talent Show auditions will be held Tuesday, Sept. 13, on the stage. Both individuals and groups are encouraged to audition: Groups must include at least one SHS student to qualify. The performance dates for the show are Oct. 5, 6, and 7. Those interested may see Mrs. White for more information.

VOLUNTEER FAIR

On Thursday, Sept. 22, from 3 until 7 p.m., Garrett College will sponsor a volunteer fair in order to assist participants in doing charitable work. This event is designed to assist individuals in completing their service learning hours, which are required for graduation. Those with questions may contact Judy Carbone at 301-387-3046. Additional information may be found at www.garrettcollege.edu/volunteer.

HIGHLANDER YEARBOOKS AVAILABLE FOR PICK-UP

The 2011 yearbook was distributed on Monday, Aug. 29. Those who ordered and paid for a yearbook, but did not receive it, may pick it up from Ms. Zumpano in Room 1252. Those who are not sure whether they have paid for their yearbooks may also see Ms. Zumpano. There are extra yearbooks on sale for $66. They will be sold on a first-come, first-served basis.

SEASON ATHLETIC PASSES FOR STUDENTS AND ADULTS

The athletic department at Southern High School will once again offer a yearlong season pass to all students at a discounted price. The cost for the pass is $30. Passes will allow students to attend all regularly scheduled home games (playoff games are not included). At this price, students who would potentially attend all games save more than $90. Students will be required to show their passes in order to gain entrance into events.

Any student interested in purchasing a season pass may complete the form available from athletic director Matt Redinger and in the main lobby of the high school. Completed forms, along with payment, may be returned to the main office or mailed to the address found on the form.

Southern High School will also be offering adult season passes for all sporting events in 2011-12. The price of adult passes will be $120. Those interested in further information may contact Joy Thrasher at 240-321-4550.

2011 SENIOR EDITIONS FOR SALE

A limited number of 2011 Senior Editions are still available for purchase. Those interested may contact Heather Savage at the high school. The cost is $10.

SEPTEMBER SUN – As September begins, the sun appears in front of the stars of Leo, moving a degree a day eastward relative to the stars. In the early hours of Sept. 17, the sun enters the star group Virgo, where it stays through Oct. 30. Both of the above star groups are nearly lost in the sun's glare in September. The star group Libra is to the east of Virgo, so it sets after the sun, appearing low in the western dusk. The star group Cancer (to the west of Leo) rises before the sun and is visible low in the eastern dawn. In early September, sunrises in Garrett County are at about 6:48 a m., while sunsets are at about 7:45 p.m. (13.1 hours of daylight). Around the end of September, Garrett County's sunrises are at about 7:10 a.m. and sunsets occur at about 7:05 p.m. (11.9 hours of daylight). So during September, the stars are last seen at around 6 a.m. (early dawn) and then reappear at about 8:30 p.m.(late dusk).

SEPTEMBER MOON – September starts with the moon appearing as a crescent in the western dusk sky On Sept. 4, the evening moon appears half full (like a tilted "D"). Along the straight or left edge of the moon, the sun there is rising, lighting up the crater rims and mountain ranges. The moon appears very full on the evenings of Sept. 11 and 12. (Actual time of full moon is Sept. 12 at 5:26 a.m.) This is the harvest moon, the full moon closest to the first day of fall (Sept. 23). The full moon rises at sunset and sets at sunrise. Following the harvest moon, the moon rises only a half-hour later each night, supplying extra evening moonlight for the next four days. On Sept. 16, you will see a very bright, steady point of light below the moon in the late evening sky; this is the planet Jupiter. On Sept. 20, the moon appears half-full in the southern dawn sky, resembling a reversed "D." In the eastern dawn on Sept. 23, the crescent moon appears below and to the right of the planet Mars. On Sept. 27, the moon passes south of the sun, swinging from the morning side to the evening side. In the last two days of September, the moon can be seen as a slender crescent low in the western dusk.

SEPTEMBER PLANETS – The five nearest planets are easily seen by eye, four of them shining steadily in contrast to the twinkling stars. Of the five, Mercury is usually the most difficult to see, at a low angle to the sun and very close to the horizon. Mercury can be seen very low in 6 a.m. eastern sky in early September in the star group Gemini. Brilliant Venus is at too low an angle to the sun to be easily seen. Saturn is also lost in the sun's glare. In September, Jupiter is rising in the east at about 10:15 p.m., which drops to 8:15 p.m by month's end. w

SEPTEMBER STARS – The Big Dipper is well placed in the north-northwest so it "can hold water or soup." The two end scoop stars point rightward to the North Star, a modest star about halfway up in the north. If you extend the Big Dipper's handle outward, you come to the golden sparkling star Arcturus, low in the west. The brightest evening star is white-blue Vega, nearly overhead. In the second half of September (when there is no bright early evening moonlight), the Milky Way can be seen as a ghostly arch running from the northeast across the top of the sky down into the southwest.

SEPTEMBER PROGRAMS – The Frostburg State Planetarium reopens with its free public planetarium programs on Sundays at 4 p.m. and 7 p.m., beginning Sept. 11. The September program is titled "Moons' Curiosities," covering the peculiar features of the moons orbiting the sun's planets. Also included is an introduction to the evening skies of September and October. This 45-minute program will continue through the remaining Sundays in September and then there will be a new program for October. Also featured is a following tour of the Science Discovery Center, where there is a large display of preserved animals from five different continents. To receive a Planetarium schedule (or bookmark), persons may telephone 301-687-7799 and give name and mailing address. This bookmark includes a small FSU map showing the Planetarium and the nearby parking areas. Persons may also access the Planetarium section of the Frostburg State web site at www.frostburg.edu/planetarium.

Have you ever worried about losing your job, or facing a serious illness, or making a terrible mistake? If you have faced and survived any these fears then you are likely thankful for each and every day you have your job, your health, and your talents. Remember to thank God for these things as well. Also, remember to pray for those who are less fortunate. Praise God at His House this and every week for all your blessings.

Conversation Is a Two-way Street

Few people these days seem capable of engaging in a genuine conversation where there is the reciprocal give and take of speaking and listening. Most of us take conversations to be opportunities for monologues punctuated by boring interruptions, those interruptions being the other person's turn to say something. Remember that we have two ears and only one mouth, and that is roughly the proportion in which we should listen and speak. Listening takes real effort; it is not simply keeping quiet, but actively working to understand the other person. As Steven Covey has nicely put it, "Seek first to understand, then to be understood." How many of us ever actually have a real conversation with God, where we stop to genuinely listen to what He is trying to tell us? Of course we aren't likely to hear Him audibly, but He does speak to us, in many strange and wonderful ways.

"My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me."

Patrick Wilson's road to becoming 'Gifted'

By Jay Bobbin

Patrick Wilson

Q: Watching the ads for the new fall show "A Gifted Man," I know I've seen Patrick Wilson before, but I can't recall where. Can you help? –Jane Stephens, Milwaukee

A: Broadway patrons have had chances to see the musically inclined actor onstage in such shows as "Oklahoma!" and "The Full Monty," both of which brought him Tony Award nominations. Since appearing in the HBO version of another stage hit, "Angels in America," he's had roles in quite a few movies, and he had a certified box-office hit earlier this year with the suspense tale "Insidious."

Wilson also appeared recently as the fellow TV news producer boyfriend who tossed Rachel McAdams' BlackBerry in his freezer in the comedy "Morning Glory." His other screen credits have ranged from independent features ("Hard Candy," "Little Children," the current "The Ledge") to big-budget productions ("The Phantom of the Opera," the 2004 take on "The Alamo," "Watchmen," "The A-Team").

Q: Will they ever show the last episode of "Friday Night Lights" again? We left on vacation and disconnected our TV/DVR. –Helen Ridings, Lake Worth, Fla.

A: It'll be shown again, but that's going to take a while. Now that the (finally!) Emmy-nominated series starring Kyle Chandler has ended its runs on NBC and DirecTV, its five seasons of episodes have been picked up by ESPN Classic, which is running two episodes each Thursday. That started in July, so you're probably looking at early spring of next year for the show's finale to turn up there. If you don't want to wait that long, the drama's final season is available on DVD, as are all of its preceding seasons.

Q: I would like to know what happened to Allison Payne of WGN News. –Edna Cleinmark, Streamwood, Ill.

A: The longtime anchor is in the process of parting ways with the Chicago "superstation" due to health issues that she has had for some time. Those have included the loss of her voice and several ministrokes. At this writing, Payne's final newscast – ending her 21-year run at the station – was expected to be sometime this month. However, she has said she hopes to continue her broadcasting career in some form.

Birding BITS

Black-Capped Chickadees

These tiny birds, known as the "acrobats of birds," are easy to identify by their black cap and white cheeks. Their song, a simple whistled "fee-bee," also is easily identifiable. Invite these spunky birds into your yard with suet, sunflower chips and peanuts. Then enjoy the show!

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was way back in the 17th century when noted Scottish scholar Patrick Young made the following sage observation: "The trouble with weather forecasting is that it's right too often for us to ignore it and wrong too often for us to rely on it."

• If you've watched many old Westerns, you've doubtless seen Native Amerieans scalping their enemies. You probably don't realize, though, that the brutal practice didn't originate with the Indians. When the Dutch and English settlers were trying to clear out the natives, they were paid a bounty for each scalp they brought back. The Native Americans adopted the practice only after the Europeans' errival on the continent.

• The country's first pizzeria opened in 1895 in, unsurprisingly, New York City.

• Those who study such things say that 70 percent of Americans have visited either Disneyland, in California, or Disney World, in Florida. • If you want to have an especially memorable - and chilly - vacation, consider heading to Finnish Lapland. There, more than 150 miles north of the Arctic Circle, you can stay at the Kakslauttanen Hotel. The quarters aren't luxurious, but the sights are amazing. All the accommodations are geodesic glass igloos, offering amazing views of the aurora borealis.

• When Andrew Jackson was running for president in 1828, his opponents called him a stubborn jackass. Jackson was proud that he was known for obstinately sticking to his guns, so he started using the image of a donkey on his campaign materials. The Democrats have been using that symbol ever since.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 7, 1813, the United States gets its nickname when a New York newspaper refers to "Uncle Sam." The name is linked to meat packer Samuel Wilson, who supplied barrels of beef to the United States Army during the War of 1812. Wilson stamped the barrels with "U.S." for United States, but soldiers began referring to the grub as "Uncle Sam's."

• On Sept. 6, 1847, writer Henry David Thorcau moves in with Ralph Waldo Emerson in Concord, Mass., after living for two years in a shack he built himself on Walden Pond. In 1854, his collection of essays, "Walden, or Life in the Woods," is published.

• On Sept. 10, 1919, almost a year after the end of the First World War, New York City holds a parade to welcome home Gen. John J. Pershing, commander in chief of the American Expeditionary Force, and some 25,000 soldiers who had served on the Western Front. • On Sept. 11, 1930, Katherine Anne Porter's first collection of short stories, "Flowering Judas," is published. During her lifetime, she published 25 stories and one novel, "Ship of Fools," which took her more than two decades to complete.

• On Sept. 5, 1958, Boris Pasternak's romantic novel "Dr Zhivago" is published in the United States. The book infuriated Soviet officials, but admirers of Pasternak's work began to smuggle the manuscript out of Russia piece by piece. The book won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1958. • On Sept. 9, 1965, Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Sandy Koufax hurls the eighth perfect game in major-league history, leading the Dodgers to a 1-0 win over the Chicago Cubs at Dodger Stadium. Koufax retired after the 1966 season at just 30 years old because of arthritis in his elbow.

• On Sept. 8, 1974, President Gerald Ford pardons his disgraced predecessor Richard Nixon for any crimes he may have committed or participated in while in office. The Watergate scandal erupted after it was revealed that Nixon and his aides had engaged in illegal activities. With impeachment proceedings under way, Nixon became the first American president to resign.

Q: I have a set of flatware in the Towle Craftsman pattern, service for 12. Can you help me determine how much this set is worth? -- Marcia, Southbury, Conn.

A: Towle Silversmiths of Newburyport, Mass., began in 1857 as Towle & Jones, but the companyÕs heritage goes back to the 17th century. In 1679, William Moulton II left Hampton, N.H., and settled at Newbury, later Newburyport, where he became a trader and, perhaps, did some work in silver. That was the beginning.

I found your pattern referenced in WarmanÕs ÔSterling Silver Flatware: Value & Identification GuideÕ by Mark F. Moran (Krause, $24.99). Your pattern was introduced in 1932 and was extremely popular because of its modern, clean design. Some of the values listed in MoranÕs price guide for this pattern are salad fork, $34, iced-tea spoon, $40, tablespoon, $65; and fork, $27.

Q: I have a collection of hardcover books, with original covers and in excellent shape. I hope to give them to my daughter and would like to find out current values. I have attached e list. – Sheila, Palm Coast, Fla.

A: My favorite way to determine the value of a certain book is to go to the excellent Website www.abe.com. Type in the title of the book, its author and a list will appear of the various dealers throughout the country who are offering that particular book for sale and the price they are asking. There also are several excellent price guides, including ÒOfficial Price Guide to BooksÓ by Marie Tedford and Pat Goudey, and ÔThe Antique Trader Book Collectors Price GuideÓ by Richard Russell.

HURRICANE RAINFALL
by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. After the hurricane passed, the situation actually got worse in some areas, because of flooding. How come the rainfall was heavier afterwards?

A. Any hurricane contains a great deal of concentrated energy, and when it falls apart, that energy has to be dissipated somehow. Heavy rainfall is the usual final phase.

As a tropical wave proceeds westward off Africa and across the Atlantic, moisture is drawn up from the warm tropical ocean surface into the clouds above. That process continues for a week or more as a "tropical depression" grows into a "tropical storm." Winds begin to move in a circular pattern and the wind speed picks up. That rotary motion results in a lower pressure at the central spot around which the rotation takes place. The wind speed might be 30 or 50 or 80 mph, but the forward drift of the center spot is typically only about 10 mph.

Each year, a few tropical storms eventually develop into full hurricanes. When an "eye" forms, not only are there fast swirling winds, but the center is a region of very low atmospheric pressure. That acts like a huge vacuum cleaner hose that: a) raises the ocean surface, and b) draws water vapor up very high.

Only when that water vapor rises above the troposphere into the stratosphere does it cool enough to condense into droplets, adding to the clouds. When water condenses from vapor into liquid (even tiny droplets, as in clouds), there is some energy released (the heat of vaporization, 41 kiloJoules per mole). That energy has to go somewhere, and usually it goes into increasing the wind speed. A positive-feedback cycle is at work.

Even though there is heavy rain as the hurricane moves slowly forward, there is still an enormous amount of water vapor coming up and being added to the clouds. That feedback cycle is why hurricanes intensify from category 1 to 2 to 3, etc. As a hurricane moves into cooler ocean, less heat means less evaporation, and the category number declines.

When the eye comes ashore ("landfall"), the bulge in the ocean surface becomes what is called the storm surge, and that causes additional damage in coastal communities. As it moves further inland, the "vacuum cleaner hose" is shut off (no more ocean) and the winds begin to diminish. But they're still able to do a lot of damage. Recently, Irene was a category 1 hurricane as it hit North Carolina, but was downgraded to only a tropical storm by the time it reached New York. If a storm goes back out over the open ocean, the source of energy is restored and it can regain strength. That sometimes happens when a hurricane crosses a peninsula like Florida.

Nevertheless, in all cases there is a great deal of water (both vapor and droplets) high in the sky, and it all has to come back to the surface in the form of rain. In some general sense, if the storm is very large in size (regardless of its category), then you know ahead of time that the rains will be heavy and sustained when the storm finally dissipates. But just how far it will go and where the most water will drop is guesswork. A 600-mile-diameter storm advancing at only 15 mph can rain in the same spot for two days.

The details of storm movement are very difficult to predict; the irregular shape of land gives the computer models more challenges than the open flat ocean. It is helpful when a storm moving over land picks up speed and moves rapidly inland. That happened in our area several years ago when a hurricane proceeded inland over Virginia and toward West Virginia and western Maryland as it weakened. By the time the storm went overhead (we're at 2,500 feet altitude) it was moving so fast that the tremendous downpour lasted less than an hour.

Receiving a foot of rainfall after a hurricane is not unusual. In the final stage of a tropical storm, the streams and rivers have to collect all that rain, and en route to the sea is where major flooding occurs. In 1998, Hurricane Mitch struck Central America and stalled over the mountains. It dropped over six feet of rain, washing away mountainside villages, leaving more than 11,000 people dead. Then it went back into the Gulf of Mexico, regained strength, and did more damage elsewhere.

VFW Plans Two Contests For Local Students

The Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 10077 (Deer Park) has announced that it will conduct two contests for local students, grades 6-12, which will afford them the opportunity to win "hundreds and possibly thousands of dollars in cash, bonds, and scholarships at the local and national levels."

Through these initiatives, sponsored annually by the national VFW organization, as well as its Ladies Auxiliary programs, local contest winners' entries will be sent to the district level for competition against other district winners.

Last year, four Garrett County students won prizes at the district level, before their entries were advanced to the state level. Those who win at the state level are permitted to continue on to the national competition.

Prizes at the local level are set at: $300 for first place, $200 for second place, and $100 for third in both contests.

The first competition is the Voice of Democracy contest, available to high school students. Entries should consist of a short, typed essay, an audio recording (3-5 minutes long) of the essay, and a completed entry form. The theme for this year's Voice of Democracy: "Is There Pride in Serving in Our Military?"

The deadline for entry is Tuesday, Nov. 1. Entries should be submitted to VFW Post 10077 in Deer Park.

The second competition being sponsored is the Patriot's Pen contest, which asks those in grades six through eight to submit essays of 300 to 400 words along with their entry forms. The theme of the essay: "Are You Proud of Your Country?"

The deadline is also Nov. 1.

All Garrett County students in grades 6-12 are eligible to enter these VFW-sponsored contests. All local middle and high schools are participating in the event, though any public or home-schooled students are free to enter the contest directly and may contact Post 10077 at 301-334-9109 or Wayne McCaughey, contest chairman, at 301-387-3225.

77-Year-Old Children's Charity Changes Name

The local children's charity known for 77 years as the League for Crippled Children Inc. has announced it will change its operational name to "The League – A Children's Place." The change will go into effect today, Thursday, Sept. 1.

According to a statement released by the organization, its mission continues to be to provide free care to children with disabilities. What began as a polio clinic in the late 1920s has evolved into an ongoing legacy of programs that offer the "highest quality of care by a professional and benevolent team for children in need of a wide range of therapies and treatments."

The League has spent its long history identifying and serving such needs to over 50,000 children.

"The board of directors chose the new name to better reflect the expanded services of The League, as well as the broader focus on childhood developmental issues," stated Mary Reinhard, president. She said the new name is also intended to be more user friendly for children and their families.

The League serves children from birth to age 21 in Maryland, West Virginia, and Pennsylvania with free services in orthopedic, physical, orofacial, and speech therapy. The League has announced that it will soon add occupational therapy to this list of services. The League operates and manages the Scottish Rite Children's Speech-Language Disorders Clinic.

A spokesperson has stated that the group has been very fortunate throughout the years to have been the beneficiary of tremendous community support from businesses, organizations, and individuals.

"It is only through that faithful support that the mission of The League continues. Known to many simply as "The League," the newly named The League – A Children's Place looks forward to the next 77 years of serving and caring for the needs of local children."

Those interested in more information on The League – A Children's Place may call the office at 301-759-5200.

GCMH Extern Nursing Program Offers Experience

The Garrett County Memorial Hospital Nursing Extern Program allows nursing students to work in the hospital under the direction of an experienced, registered nurse mentor between their junior and senior year of college in order to obtain valuable experience and skills.

The most recent participant to take advantage of this summer program was Juliana Gustafson of Keyser, W.Va. Gustafson attends Saint Francis University in Loretto, Pa.

Like all who utilize the program, Gustafson spent four weeks in the medical/surgical unit, one week in the operating room, one week in the emergency department, and one week in the family-centered maternity suite.

Externs perform all aspects of nursing duties with the exception of administering medications and starting IVs. Upon completion of the program, GCMH presented Gustafson with a $500 scholarship.

The program typically accepts two externs each year. Among other requirements, applicants to the program must currently be enrolled in a program that prepares candidates for a registered nursing license which is approved by the state board of nursing. Those interested in more information may contact Amanda Simmons at 301-533-4391.

Make Informed Decisions Before Cancer Screenings

by Diane Lee, PIO
Garrett County
Health Department

Prostate cancer is the second leading cause of cancer deaths in men in the United States.

Although it is not yet known how to prevent prostate cancer, the key behaviors in cancer prevention – not smoking, healthful diet, physical activity, and maintaining the proper weight – can help to lower the risk of many types of cancer, while also reducing the risk of heart disease, diabetes, and stroke.

Prostate cancer screening is done with a blood test that looks at the level of prostate specific antigen (PSA). It also includes a digital rectal exam (DRE), where a doctor feels the prostate gland with a gloved finger. Most health insurance will pay or help pay for the cost of these tests.

According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, one in six men in the U.S. will be diagnosed with prostate cancer during his lifetime and one in 33 will die from it. In its 2011 Cancer Facts and Figures, the American Cancer Society (ACS) estimates that 5,060 men in Maryland will be diagnosed with prostate cancer and 710 will die from it this year. In the U.S., approximately 240,890 men will be diagnosed and 37,660 will die from it in 2011.

Experts on prostate cancer disagree about whether men should be screened regularly for prostate cancer with the current tests. One reason is that the test can find abnormalities for several reasons other than prostate cancer. Therefore, it is essential that men are provided information about the benefits and risks of prostate cancer screening before they are screened, so they can make their own informed decision based on their personal values and preferences.

The Garrett County Health Department would like to encourage men to speak with their health care provider to learn about their personal risks for prostate cancer, options for screening, the potential benefits, and the complications of diagnosis and treatment in order to make an informed decision about their health. It is very important that men communicate with their doctors concerning these issues.

The chance of a man getting prostate cancer increases with age. Approximately 60 percent of prostate cancer is diagnosed in men over the age of 65. Other risk factors are race and family history.

Prostate cancer disproportionately affects African-American men, who are, according to the ACS, more likely to be diagnosed at an advanced stage of prostate cancer and are twice as likely to die from it as white men. Prostate cancer is less common among white, Hispanic/Latino, Asian/Pacific Islander, and American Indian/Alaska native men than in African-American men.

Family history of prostate cancer is another risk factor, as about 5 to 10 percent of men with prostate cancer have a family history of the disease. Having a risk factor means that a man has a higher chance of getting the disease than a man without the risk factor; however, most men with risk factors do not get prostate cancer

Prostate cancer may cause no symptoms at all or may cause blood in the urine, the need to urinate frequently (especially at night), weak or interrupted urine flow, pain or a burning feeling while urinating, and constant pain in the lower back, pelvis, or upper thighs. Men should consult with their health care provider if any of these symptoms occur.

LADIES OF THE LAKE HOST STATE LEGISLATORS – The Ladies of the Lake organization racantly prasanted a packet of information on challenges facing Deep Creek Lake to Maryland state delegate Maggie McIntosh, chair of the Maryland General Assembly's Environmental Matters Committee. The packet, developed by Friends of Deep Creek Lake, asks the committee to secure funding for watershed protection. During their visit, the Environment Matters Committee briefly toured Garrett County to study various aspects of Marcellus shale drilling. They also had lunch with 20 citizens from the area, Md. state senator George Edwards and Md. state delegate Wendell Beitzel at the home of Paul Roberts and Nadine Grabania, owners of Deep Creek Cellars. Later, the committee viewed an underground storage tank in Accident and dined at the home of Ruth and Wendell Beitzel. The following day committee members went to a site in West Virginia where fracking of a well was under way. Pictured above, from left, are: Jane Aery, Natalie Atherton, McIntosh, and Barbara Beelar.

Community Days Slated Sept. 9-11 In Markleysburg

The Markleysburg (Pa.) Henry Clay Volunteer Fire Department will host the annual Markleysburg Community Days the weekend of September 9-11. Events will kick off Friday night with a parade at 7 p.m., followed by food, children's activities, and musical entertainment.

The first Run For Your Life 5K run/walk will debut Saturday at 9 a.m. The race will begin and end at the Markleysburg Borough fire hall. It is coordinated by Julie Friend of Markleysburg as her high school senior project.

Friends said that she hopes to promote health and fitness in the community, and raise money for melanoma cancer research. Proceeds from the race will go to the University of Pittsburgh Cancer Institute Melanoma Program.

Trophies and medals will be awarded to the top finishers. Souvenir sport bags, T-shirts (while supplies last), pedometers, gift certificates, and other items will be given to all finishers. Snacks and refreshments will be available for participants following the race.

More information about the race is available online at www.runforyourliferace.info. Same-day race registration will begin at 7:45 a.m.

Other Saturday events will include the Mountain Area Tractor Ride at 10 a.m., food, beverages, and a "cash bash" at 5 p.m. A community church service will be held Sunday at 11 a.m., followed by a Gospel Sing at 12:30.

Chamber Seeking Nominations For AGF Ambassador

The Garrett County Chamber of Commerce is seeking nominations from chamber members for the 44th annual Autumn Glory Festival's Honorary Golden Ambassador.

The person earning this honorary title will be announced during the Autumn Glory Kick-Off Reception presented by the chamber on Wednesday, Oct. 12. Clear Mountain Bank is the sponsor of this annual event, and Wisp Resort is the entertainment sponsor.

Members interested in nominating someone for ambassador are asked to contact Sarah Duck, Garrett County Chamber of Commerce, at sarah@garrettchamber.com or 301-387-8746 to receive a nomination form to describe how this nominee has contributed to tourism in Garrett County and its trademark festival, Autumn Glory.

The nomination form is also in the September "Chamber Chit Chat," which is sent to all chamber members.

Members are asked to send completed forms to sarah@garrettchamber.com by close of business on Friday, Sept. 16.

JOHN JANKALSKI

MARY ANN VINCENT

BETTY WOLFORD

Garrett Memorial Honors Volunteers

John Jankalski has been selected as Garrett County Memorial Hospital's Volunteer of the Month for August. Also recently honored were Betty Wolford and Mary Ann Vincent.

Jankalski began volunteering at the hospital in February at the VIVA (Volunteers In Various Areas) information desk. He also has received special training to operate the hospital's mail machine to process the outgoing mail.

"John is a very dedicated volunteer," said Jessica Lucas, Volunteer Services. "He dedicates two days a week to the hospital, and is always willing to fill in when needed."

Wolford and Vincent are Previous Volunteer of the Month honorees. Wolford has been a volunteer in the Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop since 2000. She became the auxiliary president in July 2008.

"Betty is a very active volunteer, she helps with bake sales, special fundraising projects, and chairs the executive committee of the Loar Auxiliary," Lucas said.

Vincent volunteers her services at the VIVA information desk. She has the responsibility of assisting the public to where they need to go within the hospital.

"Mary Ann is very friendly and really cares about others, which is exactly what we look for in volunteers," stated Lucas.

Garrett County Memorial Hospital has established the Volunteer of the Month Program for its volunteers. When an employee, volunteer, patient, or visitor observes a volunteer displaying extraordinary caring behavior, he/she may fill out a Volunteer of the Month nomination form.

Each volunteer who receives a Volunteer of the Month nomination during a month's time will have his/her name placed in a drawing where a randomly selected individual will be awarded: the preferred Volunteer of the Month parking space, a discount to the Loar Auxiliary Gift Shop, a Volunteer of the Month certificate, and public recognition.

Anyone interested in volunteering at Garrett County Memorial Hospital may call Lucas at 301-533-4041.

Goal Setting Is Topic Of Class Offered At SOC

John Pucciano, an accomplished business leader and educator, will teach a class on the role and benefits of goals at the Garrett College Southern Outreach Center (SOC) in Oakland on Wednesday, Sept. 21, 5:30 – 8:30 p.m.

With over three decades of classroom experience as a management and leadership trainer and facilitator, he has taught at the graduate and undergraduate levels as well as for the U.S. Navy.

During this class session, Pucciano will explain why attainable goals help keep individuals and organizations moving forward. Students will discuss ways to set a goal that is attainable by examining strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats.

They will also explore how goals, which are identified correctly, may not be accomplished because there is a lack of planning and strategy regarding achievement.

While digging into the goal-setting process, students will write measurable goals and strategize the best approaches to realizing goals.

For more information on this course, or to register, persons may call the Garrett College Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Welding Classes To Begin Next Month At GC

Garrett College is introducing a new workforce development certificate in welding. This is available through a series of eight classes scheduled for two evenings per week over a nine month period from September through May.

To earn the certificate the student must successfully complete 222 hours of training. This series of classes is covered under the Occupational Scholarship for 2011 high school graduates, as well as those who earned the GED this year.

The training is designed for beginning or intermediate welders who want to develop a broad base of skills in preparation for an entry level welding career.

Fall classes in the series are Welding I, Welding Math, and Print Reading for Welders. Welding II, Intro to AutoCAD, and Machine Tool Orientation will follow in the winter semester, followed by Work Habits/Work Ethics for Industry and a final Welding Project class.

American Welding Society certification testing is available for students who are interested. Classes may be taken as a series to earn the certificate or individually to meet student interests.

Students who have previously successfully completed Welding I and/or Welding II are welcome to enroll in the remaining classes to earn the new Garrett College workforce development certification in welding.

For additional information or to register, persons may call 301-387-3069.

NEW PASTOR WELCOMED – Mountain Top Christian Assembly of God congregation recently welcomed Pastor Kevin Bodey and his wife Jennifer as their new senior pastors. They were officially installed on Aug. 21. "The congregation is excited about the new ministry opportunities that the Bodeys bring to their church," said a spokesperson. The church is located near Mtn. Lake Park at 2655 Maryland Highway. Service times on Sundays are Sunday school, 9:30 a.m., worship and children's church, 10:30 a.m., and evening worship, 6 p.m. Bible study is held on Wednesdays at 7 p.m.. For further information, persons may call 301-334-8422.

Keep Your Investment Working Hard — All Year Long

On September 5, we observe Labor Day, which is dedicated to the social and economic achievements of American workers. Of course, if you're like most people, work is essential to your life, both as a means of personal fulfillment and as a necessity for achieving your financial goals, such as a comfortable retirement. But if you're going to attain those goals, you'll want your investments to work as hard as you do.

For that to happen, you'll need to take these steps:

• Know your investment objectives. Whether you work in an office, a manufacturing plant or any other venue, your goal is to produce a clearly identifiable result. And the same should be true for the way that you invest. In other words, you should know exactly why you own every single one of your investments — because only then will you have a clear, unified strategy for achieving your desired outcomes.

• Keep investing. As a diligent worker, you show up to work every day because you know that this type of consistency is necessary for success. A similar principle applies to your investing "career." By investing steadily, year in and year out, you have a much better chance of reaching your objectives than if you were to take periodic breaks. Of course, when the financial markets are volatile, it can be tempting to take a "timeout," but this stop-and-start approach can lead to missed opportunities. For example, if you jump out of the market when it's down, you might miss out on the early stages of the next rally.

• Build a productive portfolio. Generally speaking, the most industrious workers are also the most productive ones. And just as productivity is an asset in the working world, it's important in the investment world, too. Strive to own a mix of investments in a balanced portfolio, based on your risk tolerance, time horizon and long-term goals.

• Develop your investment skills. To truly be a good worker, you need a set of skills, such as initiative, the ability to make decisions and the willingness to work on a team. However, throughout the course of your career, you may also need to add new technical proficiencies so that you can stay on top of developments in your field and maintain your productivity. As an investor, you also need some "core competencies," such as patience, discipline and the ability to prioritize goals. But you also need to stay current on financial products, the economy, the markets and changes in tax- and investment-related laws. To help expand your knowledge base and receive timely guidance, you may want to work with a financial professional.

Labor Day comes just once a year. But by keeping your investments working hard 365 days a year, you can keep making progress toward the lifestyle you've envisioned.

HUSKY Notes

U.S. SENATE YOUTH PROGRAM FOR JUNIORS AND SENIORS

High school juniors and seniors are invited to apply for the U.S. Senate Youth Program. This program is designed to introduce interested students to the functions of the federal government and the U.S. Senate during an all-expenses-paid week in Washington, D.C. To be eligible, students must serve in one of the following elected positions/groups during the school year:

1. Student body president, vice president, secretary or treasurer.
2. Class president, vice president, secretary or treasurer.
3. Student council representative.
4. Student representative to district, regional, or state level civic or educational organization.

Students serving in one of the above positions must be elected by their peers in order to be eligible. Students are eligible to apply only once during their high school years. The deadline for interested students to sign up in the Counseling Center is Sept. 14.

Seniors: Applications for the Maryland General Assembly Student Page Program are available in the Counseling Center. This program allows selected students from each county in Maryland to serve as student pages for two nonconsecutive weeks in either the state senate or house of delegates. Seniors who have an interest in state government are highly encouraged to apply. Selection is based on the following criteria:

1. Demonstrated interest in government and history
2. Record of good conduct.
3. Competence, courtesy, and reliability
4. Appropriate dress and personal grooming
5. Ability to be outgoing and willingness to meet people.

Interested students may complete an application and submit it to Mrs. Douds with a resume that consists of personal information, career goals, academic achievements, attendance, school/community activities, work experience, and references. The deadline for completed applications and resumes is Friday, Sept. 23.

VISITING COLLEGES

A representative from Alderson-Broaddus College will be at Northern High School on Monday, Sept. 12, at 9 a.m. Anyone interested in meeting with this representative may sign up in the Counseling Center before 3 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 9.

SERVICE LEARNING OPPORTUNITY

Garrett College will hold its Volunteer Fair on Thursday, Sept. 22, from 3 to 7 p.m. The event will allow individuals to identify volunteer opportunities with charitable organizations. The fair is designed to help students fulfill their community service requirement. Additional information may be found at www.garrettcollege.edu/volunteer.

Reduce, Reuse, And Recycle Over The Labor Day Holiday Weekend

by Kim Madigan, recycling coordinator

Garrett County Department of Solid Waste & Recycling wants to remind everyone that recycling during the holidays is fun and rewarding for the whole family. Whether you are home, camping, boating or visiting with friends and relatives, reducing, reusing, and recycling can be done with ease.

The following steps allow children and adults to participate in recycling activities together:

1. Emphasize recycling at any picnic, family reunion, party, or camping trip you attend by placing recycling containers or totes near the beverages being served. Mark the containers with signs for aluminum cans and glass bottle recycling.

Announce to everyone that you are collecting recyclables and that the cans and bottles should be emptied prior to putting them into the containers; where you have located the containers; and, you may even want to mention if you are recycling for a specific cause or project.

Involving the crowd in your project makes it fun for everyone.

2. Only buy what you really need to take to the family event, or picnic, or for boating and camping trips. If you frequently take boating or camping trips, write a list of items needed that would make your next trip more comfortable, pleasant or downright outstanding, so that duplicate items are not purchased and transported unnecessarily.

3. Reuse decorations from year to year. A lot of the plastic decorations can be neatly packed away and used over and over again.

4. Use plates, silverware, bowls, pans, and platters that are not disposable.

Note: If you are using disposable products, try to purchase the products made with recycling content and those which use less packaging.

5. If camping over the holiday weekend, use rechargeable batteries for your electronic needs (e.g., flashlights or radios); and solar-powered products for your outdoor lighting needs (e.g., lanterns, overhead, emergency or decorative.)

6. Use plastic or reusable totes for carrying your supplies to your family event, boat or camping trip. If using cardboard boxes, save to be used for taking home supplies.

7. Remember to clean up the event/camping area before leaving and heading for home. Taking the trash out and retrieving your recyclables is a must.

Some camping areas have a designated recycling center (e.g., check out the new recycling center at the New Germany State Park). Always leave the property in a neat and orderly fashion. No one wants to arrive at a trashy site.

There are seven conveniently located refuse and recycling sites in Garrett County. Please visit www.garrettcounty.org or call 301-387-0322 for a location nearest to you.

Collection site hours are Monday–Friday, 7 a.m.– 6 p.m., Saturday, 9 a.m.– 6 p.m., and Sunday, noon–6 p.m. The county landfill hours are Monday–Friday, 9 a.m.–4 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. –3 p.m., with the Scale House closing at 4 p.m.

Read. Then Recycle.

TRUSTEE'S SALE
Of Valuable Improved Real Estate
located In Garrett County, MD
McHenry, Maryland 21541

Under and by virtue of a Power Of Sale contained in a certain Deed Of Trust from Danny D. DeAngelo and Pamela M. DeAngelo to Stanley L. Merson and S. Lynne Pulford, Trustees, dated December 23, 2004, and duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 1088, at Folio 550, docketed for foreclosure in Civil No. 11-C-10-011857, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed Of Trust having appointed Martin L. Goozman and Jeffrey W. Bernstein as Substitute Trustees by instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the said County, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the holder of the Note secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the front entrance of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Courthouse, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on Friday, September 9, 2011, at 1:30 p.m.

all that Property described in the said Deed Of Trust as follows:

CONDOMINIUM UNIT NO. 4, THE LANDINGS AT MOSSER CONDOMINIUM, as shown on the plat of said The Landings at Mosser Condominium being filed in Plat Case DKM 3, Page 176 A-G, one of the Plat Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Together with the undivided interest in the common elements of The Landings at Mosser Condominium attributable to Unit 4, and the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, roads, ways, waters, privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

Subject to the Declaration and By-Laws of The Landings At-Mosser Condominium dated October 12, 2004, and recorded in Liber 1071, Page 100, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, as the same shall be amended from time to time.

Subject to a covenant and restriction that no portion of the property shall be sold or leased to any Lending, Banking, Credit or Mortgage Institution as set forth in Liber 957, Page 244, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Property will be sold in "AS-IS" condition, subject to all conditions, restrictions, easements, covenants, rights-of-way and agreements of record affecting the Property, and subject to whatever an accurate survey or inspection of the Property would disclose, without any express or implied warranty of any kind.

A deposit of $17,500.00 cash, certified or cashier's check, payable to the undersigned Trustees, shall be required at the time and place of sale. The balance of the purchase price shall bear interest at the rate of 3.25% per annum from the date of sale to the date of delivery of payment to the Substitute Trustees. No deposit shall be required of the noteholder where the noteholder bids on the Property at sale and payment of the purchase price by the noteholder shall be made by crediting the purchase price against the foreclosure costs and expenses and the indebtedness secured by said Deed Of Trust. In the event that settlement is delayed for any reason, including, but not limited to, exceptions to the sale, bankruptcy filings by interested parties, court administration of the foreclosure sale or unknown title defects, there shall be no abatement of interest.

Adjustment of all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments, annual front foot benefit charges and deferred connection fees, if any, shall be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Condominium fees and/or homeowner's association fees, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale. Title examination, conveyancing, transfer taxes, recordation tax and all other costs of conveyance and settlement shall be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents.

The Property is sold subject to the right of any persons in possession of all or any part of the Property under recorded or unrecorded leases or rights of occupancy, if any. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the Property.

Compliance with the terms of sale shall be made and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid within ten (10) days after final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, unless said time is extended by the undersigned Trustees in their sole and absolute discretion for good cause shown, time being of the essence; otherwise the deposit shall be forfeited and the Property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. In the event of resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any benefit, surplus proceeds or profits resulting from such resale.

The Trustees are not liable, individually or otherwise, for any reason. If title to the Property is not or cannot be transferred consistent with the terms hereof for any reason, the Trustee's liability is limited, at its sole discretion, to return any deposit, without interest, thereby rescinding the sale, and there is no other right or remedy against the Trustee at law or in equity.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Friendsville Zoning Appeals Board will conduct a public hearing on September 12, 2011, at 7:00 p.m. in the Friendsville Town Hall. The Board will review a request made by Jonathan D. Bell for a Variance from the terms of the zoning ordinance with regard to lot density, lot width, and side setback. The Bell property (tax map 300, parcel 1143) is located at 643, 645, 647 & 649 Water Street in a TR (Town Residential) zoning district. Specifically, Mr. Bell would like to subdivide the lot which consists of a single family residence and a 3-unit multi-family dwelling, thereby creating two lots, each housing one of the structures. Each of the proposed lots has a proposed lot size, lot width, and side setback smaller than that allowed in the ordinance. All interested persons are invited to attend this meeting.

ORDER TO DEMOLISH STRUCTURES

To any persons who may have an interest in the property located at 715 East Reese Street (Account Identifier #005561) in Oakland, Maryland, please be advised that you are hereby being ordered by the Code Enforcement Department to demolish both structures located upon the property. Both structures located on the property have been declared Dangerous Buildings by the Town of Oakland via Resolution R2009-18. Both structures have also been placarded as dangerous buildings.

It is the judgment of the Code Enforcement Officer that these dangerous structures cannot be repaired so that they will no longer exist in violation of the Dangerous Buildings Ordinance (Chapter 103 of Town of Oakland Code). It is also the judgment of the Code Enforcement Officer that these structures have become or are so dilapidated, decayed, unsafe, unsanitary, or which so utterly fail to provide the amenities essential to decent living that they are unfit for human habitation or are likely to cause sickness or disease, so as to cause injury to the health, safety or general welfare of those living therein; and that these buildings, or parts thereof, which are so deteriorated that they may fail and injure members of the public or their property; and that these buildings which because of their condition are unsafe, unsanitary, or dangerous to the health, safety, or general welfare of the people in the Town, including the fact that these buildings are abandoned and deemed to be fire hazards and attractive nuisances dangerous to children.

The demolition shall commence within 30 days of the date of this order and during the demolition the buildings shall be cordoned off by an appropriate fence or barrier sufficient to keep members of the public away from the dangerous buildings, and the buildings shall be completely demolished, the site cleared of any foundation or other excavated areas shall be filled in so as not to represent a danger to the members of the public within no more than 120 days of the date of the order.

If the occupants, owners and/or all other persons having an interest in the property fail to comply with this order within the time specified herein, the Code Enforcement Officer shall cause these buildings or structures to be demolished, and shall cause the full cost of such demolition to be charged against the land on which the buildings existed as a municipal lien and cause such cost to be added to the tax due as an assessment against the buildings and/or land upon which the buildings stand or did stand, and such tax and assessment shall attach to the land and be collectible as any other tax and/or assessment.

In addition, the Town of Oakland shall have the option of proceeding to recover the said costs in a suit at law against the owner or other interested persons.

It shall be unlawful for any person to fail to comply with this order. Failure to comply with this order shall be a municipal infraction, subject to municipal infraction fines. Each day such failure to comply continues beyond the date stated for compliance shall be deemed a separate offense.

It shall be unlawful for any person to remove any NOTICE from this property, or any building upon this property.

Dan Hauger, Code Enforcement Officer

September Is Campus Fire Safety Month

As a new semester begins on college campuses throughout the state, Maryland state fire marshal William E. Barnard reminds students to take actions to protect themselves and their friends from the devastating effects of fire. An estimated 85% of fire deaths occur in off-campus apartments and homes, which is where three-fourths of college students live. This is the primary reason why the state of Maryland has declared September as Campus Fire Safety Month.

"Unfortunately, most college students do not fully realize how quickly a fire can grow out of control," said Barnard. "Studies have shown that one has an average of three minutes from when the first smoke alarm sounds to escape. Students need to realize they are not invincible, fires do happen in campus-rclated settings, and they can take proactive steps to protect themselves no matter where they live."

Many fatal fires involving college students have four common elements: missing or disabled smoke alarms, careless disposal of smoking materials, alcohol consumption, and a lack of automatic sprinkler systems.

Carelessly disposed-of smoking materials remain the leading cause of fatal fires in all residences, including rental properties where college students live, according to the National Fire Protection Association (NFPA). Students also fall victim to fires started by unattended open flame devices, such as candles.

The influence of alcohol, although not condoned by college administrators, is sometimes a factor in college-related activities. Studies show that alcohol decreases inhibition and impairs judgment, which can increase a student's risk of not waking to the sound of a smoke alarm and potentially not surviving the effects of fire.

Missing or dead batteries are the leading cause for smoke alarms not working properly.

Barnard offers the following safety tips for both parents and students when heading off to college:

•Check for the proper installation of working smoke alarms. These devices provide early warning no matter where the fire starts, giving more chance for escape.

•Test smoke alarms monthly and replace the batteries as needed.

•Look for housing that is equipped with automatic sprinkler systems. Not every residence hall or rental property has them.

•Know at least two ways out of any building.

•Properly dispose of smoking materials in ashtrays and ensure they are completely extinguished. Always check cushions in chairs and sofas for smoldering cigarettes.

•If using extension cords, use only UL-listed cords, and don't overload the electrical outlets.

•Never leave candles or other open-flame devices unattended and keep combustibles away from their location. Always extinguish the flame prior to leaving the room.

THE JACOBS BROTHERS of Dillsburgh, Pa., will appear at Maranatha Assembly of God, 176 Springs Road, Grantsville, on Friday, Sept. 9, at 7 p.m. The gospel music group has been together since 1962, traveling millions of miles, hosting international tours, and producing more than 50 albums. The group is composed of two brothers, Bob and Mike Jacobs, who are original members of the group that started in East Berlin, Pa. The third member, Mike Lawver, joined the group in 1972, and is from McClure, Pa. The concert is open to the public free of charge, but a freewill offering will be accepted. For more information, persons may call 301-895-5300.

Mtn. Lake Church To Host Patriotic Program Sept. 11

All are invited to attend a special patriotic tribute to America at the Mountain Lake Independent Baptist Church, 1005 Broadford Road, on Sunday, Sept. 11, at 7 p.m. The program will be a one-hour multimedia presentation titled "This is My America."

"This will be a celebration of that which is good about America," said a church spokesperson. "We will recognize and honor the powerful Christian influence great men and women of the past have had upon the formation of who and what we are as a nation."

For more information, persons may telephone 301-334-3234 or go online to www.mlibc.org. There will be no admission charge, and a nursery will be provided.

Town Hall

OAKLAND

The next town meeting is slated for Tuesday, Sept. 6, beginning at 7 p.m. at the town hall. Brandon Wolf will be a guest at the meeting.

The meeting will open with the approval of the Aug. 1 and Aug. 29 meetings' minutes, followed by the financial reports for July and August and the utility bill adjustments.

Resolution R2011-08 – Support for next phase of River Hill will be discussed. A review of the truck bids (water, sewer, street) and the lift bid (street department) will be conducted. The Public Safety Mural will also be reviewed and discussed, as well as the Station Engineering Proposal. The B&O Committee is recommending Century Engineering for the project. A discussion on the sludge removal from the wastewater plant will also be held.

The meeting will close following the approval of bills, a mayor update, and committee reports.

Annual 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale Totals Result In Over $300,000

The Garrett County Livestock Association has released the seller/buyer statistics from the 4-H/FFA Livestock Sale at the Garrett County Fair. A total of $307,570.95 was generated at the sale.

Farm Credit of the Virginias added additional funds to goat and steer prices.

Katelyn Gnegy Receives Title Of 66th Garrett County Farm Queen

Katelyn Gnegy was crowned as the 66th Garrett County Farm Queen during the traditional crowning ceremony at the Garrett County Fair. Annie Graham was the first runner-up.

Katelyn is the daughter of Daniel and Mary Gnegy of Oakland. She is a 2011 graduate of Southern High School, where she was a distinguished honor roll student and vice president of the National Honor Society. She achieved perfect attendance from kindergarten through her senior year of high school.

Beginning this fall, Katelyn will attend Garrett College. She will major in bioengineering, and then plans to further her career with a doctorate in veterinary medicine.

"After veterinary school, my lifelong goal is to have my own large animal practice," she said. "This has been my dream since I was a little girl. Aside from my career, I would like to have a family of my own and continue to be a part of the farming industry. I want to be a 4-H volunteer leader to support the younger generations and provide them with the many opportunities of 4-H that I have been able to experience over the past 11 years."

Katelyn and her family live on a 209-acre farm, which is used for various areas of agriculture, including raising livestock and vegetables and producing hay. She started with a business raising Suffolk sheep, and currently has a flock of 80. In addition, she has a chicken flock and sells free range eggs to the public. Since she was 8 years old, she also has had a rabbit business called "Katelyn's Rabbit Hutch," raising and selling rabbits for all purposes.

Katelyn is an 11-year member of the Country Explorers 4-H Club and a three-year member of the Oakland FFA Chapter. She has been a member of the Mountain Fresh Produce Association for six years, and is also a member of the United Junior Suffolk Sheep Association and the Maryland Sheep Breeders Association.

Annie is the daughter of Chuck and Becky Graham of Oakland. She will be a freshman at Garrett College this fall, where she plans to study math and science, eventually earning a bachelor of science degree in animal nutirition and agribusiness.

"I one day would like to be an animal nutritionist for farmers throughout our county, helping them to make correct feed rations for their animals, while also having my own farm where I will raise and sell club calves and sheep," she said.

She is a member of the Red House 4-H Club, the Fairview Church of the Brethren Youth Group, and the Garrett County Livestock Association.

ans Memorial Trophy, is given in memory of Evans, who excelled in the three-day jumping events. She was killed in a car accident several years ago.

Nikki Capan was the recipient this year, riding Blueberry Jammin. The award was presented by Evans' daughter, Caroline Evans.

The second award, the Gerald Glotfelty Command Trophy, was given to Kelsey VanSickle, who rode her horse Classic Bunns and won for the second year in a row. The award was presented by Warren Glotfelty.

Gerald Glotfelty was the owner of the Double G Ranch. He raised draft horses and was instrumental as a fair board director for the Garrett County Fair for many years.

9th Scholarship Presented By Sweet Rewards

The Sweet Rewards Scholarship Award was presented again this year by Don and Pam Adams of McHenry. They have agreed to provide this award for 20 years.

This marked the ninth year that the award has been presented. Participation in this program has continued to grow, from three participants the first year to 12 participants this year.

Don and Pam live in Carroll County, but have been active weekend residents in McHenry over the last 30 years. In 2002, they purchased Klotz Farm, and renamed it Sweet Rewards Farm.

As they refurbished the farm, they decided to implement a scholarship program to students raising goats, as they also raise pygmy and Boer goats, as well as red angus cattle, at their farm in Carroll County.

The couple noted that, while the 4-H and FFA members in Carroll and Garrett Counties take their programs seriously, Garrett County students show pride and promote their program with a higher level of intensity. For this reason, as well as others, Don and Pam decided to sponsor this annual scholarship program in Garrett County.

This year, 10 4-H members applied for the scholarship award. The requirements are that the student must be 18 years old or under, must have participated in a 4-H or FFA goat program, and must submit an essay.

Essay requirements include explaining how raising goats has helped the member learn personal self-discipline and skills that he/she might not have gained by not raising animals. Also required was an explanation of how working with 4-H or FFA has built the member's leadership skills.

This year's award was presented to Warren Wright with a score of 222 out of 240. Each 4-H and FFA member who participated received a framed certificate of achievement, and the winner received a framed certificate of excellence and a check for $500.

Other applicants were Ryan Weimer, Nicole Pysell, Dalton Jeffries, Lane Savage, Jordyn Sines, Cheyenne Bagley, Kaya Rinker, Michael Greene, Jacob McCrobie, Isaac McCrobie, and Alana Harman.

Past winners of this scholarship include Catlin Carrico, Lacie Berkebile, Katelyn Gnegy, Samantha Rose Schoenian, Levi Lantz, Amanda Beitzel, J.B. Gnegy, and Aaron Lantz.

All 4-H and FFA members involved in a goat program are encouraged to participate next year. Persons may see a 4-H or FFA leader or contact Wanda Guard at the extension office for an applicant letter.

4-H Engineering Results Released

From computers to farm tractors, 4-H members had the opportunity to participate in six engineering contests prior to and during the Garrett County Fair.

During the computer contest, members tested their skills of computer knowledge and parts. The bicycle contest challenged members to ride bicycles through various skill courses as well as identifying bike parts and taking a knowledge test. In the small engine contest, the challenge was to identify the parts of a small engine.

During the electricity contest, participants created a strobe light timer from an electronic kit. After the kit was constructed, members were tested on their knowledge of electricity and electricity components.

The Earn and Learn contest challenged members to operate a lawn tractor through an obstacle course and to identify parts related to the lawn care business. The tractor operator contest required members to operate a tractor and manure spreader through a series of obstacles, and back a wagon into a shed with only 12 inches of clearance.

The results of the engineering contest were as follows:

COMPUTER

Junior

1. Wesley Dixon, 2. Madison Spurrier, 3. Trenton Evans.

1. Payton Dixon, 2. Theo Evans.

Senior

1. Levi Lantz, 2. Mikail Perrine.

4-H Robotics Competitions, Activities Held

The 4-H stage was alive all week with robotic competitions and demonstrations.

Monday night featured the first Garrett County Junior Maryland State 4-H Challenge, which will be an annual event. Three teams from Garrett County created LEGO NXT robots to recycle items on a four-foot square playing field. The teams also had an interview with judges to explain how they built their robots. The final part of the competition was to complete a community service project and present the project to the public at the competition.

The Cyclones finished with the highest point total. The team included 4-H members from the Bear Creek and Shepherds Flock 4-H Club (team members were Dawson Bender, Miranda Bender, Kristen Bender, and Baird Mead).

Second place went to the Red House Recycling Roaches from the Red House 4-H Club (team members Wesley Dixon, Payton Dixon, and Jacob Schrock).

Finishing third was the Country Explorers 4-H team (members Andrew Hauser, Jacob Hauser, Gertrude Tesar, and Peter Tessar).

All three teams plan to travel to the Maryland State Fair to participate in the Maryland State 4-H Challenge.

Tuesday night robotic activities included the WeDo's, which are small motorized LEGO kits that allow the members to make up to 12 different functioning models.

Wednesday night featured demonstrations of the Seapearch Underwater robotics, and Thursday featured SUGO, which combines LEGO and sumo wrestling. Members build SUGO bots out of the NXT LEGO kits, then see which can push its opponent off a three-foot circle. The robots use light and infared sensors to determine where the edge of the playing field is and where their opponent is located.

TIME FOR A BATH – Brian Savage is pictured spinning up buckets mud as he attempts to travel as far as possible in the annual mud bog event held at the track. Savage traveled a total distance of 93.1 feet. Additional information was unavailable.

On Friday evening, the 4-H Senior Maryland State 4-H Challenge team from Garrett County demonstrated its robot, which uses the Tetrix metal robotic platform along with the NXT to build a robot that is a maximum of 18 feet wide and tall. The Senior Challenge robot must pick up common recycling items such as bottles and cans and place them in recycling areas on a 12-foot-square playing field.

The Senior Team will compete at the Maryland State Fair. The winning team from that fair will move on to the National 4-H Engineering Challenge.

Team members include Kevin Haenftling, Nathan Tichnell, Aaron Lantz, and Levi Lantz.

Special thanks to the Garrett County Fair, the Garrett County Livestock Association, and to Farm Credit of the Virginias for their extra support.
Thank you to our auctioneers: Leonard Custer, Bob Custer, Joe Friend, Brent Fratz and Dale Broadwater and to all of the volunteers whose hard work made this sale possible!

ONE OF THE MORE STRENUOUS COMPETITIONS, the horse pull requires not only strength, but speed. First place winners in the event were Billy Howard, Acme, Pa., light weight, and the Warnick Brothers, Grantsville, heavy.

LEADING HER PIG IN THE RIGHT DIRECTION is Tallynn Friend during the Pee Wee Showmanship contest.

THE QUEEN'S ADORING FANS were there to cheer her on after the official crowning on Sunday night. 2011 Farm Queen Katelyn Gnegy is a member of the Country Explorers 4-H Club, and can often be found assisting younger members such as Kira and Krista Rinker.

AN ICE CREAM BREAK was a mandatory part of the fair each day at 3 p.m. for Tina Green and her grandson Brent Friend.

HIS LEGS MAY BE SHORT, but Oscar still managed to make it to the pet show. He was entered by Lilah and Bailey Schmidt.

SITTING PRETTY FOR SWEETS – Annie Fratz's pig apparently has a sweet tooth, and is happy to sit still for a peppermint treat.

BEST OF SHOW – Farm queen Katelyn Gnegy is shown during the lead line contest, where she modeled her outfit, which won a 4-H best of show ribbon.

A VELVETEEN RABBIT? Not exactly, but this one is definitely real! Brady O'Brien keeps his rabbit calm as they await their turn at the show.

GOOD THINGS COME IN SMALL PACKAGES, such as this little pony and its friend McKenzie Wilt.

SHANKSVILLE MEMORIAL IN THE MAKING – The drive to Shanksville, Pa., from Garrett County is probably an hour or so, but the flying time between that now-hallowed ground and that of this area is just moments. When the plane came down in Shanksville on Sept. 11, 2001, so close to the mountaintop, the fear already present was keenly intensified for Garrett Countians. The unfolding tragedy was suddenly close at hand. There will be two days of commemoration at that location this weekend, with President Barack Obama to speak, as well as former presidents George W. Bush and Bill Clinton, and Vice President Joe Biden, among others. The drawing above is that of the memorial now being built. Information about the site can be found at http://www.nps.gov/fini/parkmgmt/memorialdesign.htm. Today's issue of The Republican features a special tribute to the 10-year anniversary of the attacks, complete with essays by local persons who were eyewitnesses to the events, as well as information provided by the Newspapers in Education institute. The commemoration ceremonies at Shanksville are open to the public. The schedule and other information is included in today's issue, and can also be found at www.nps.gov/fini/index.htm.

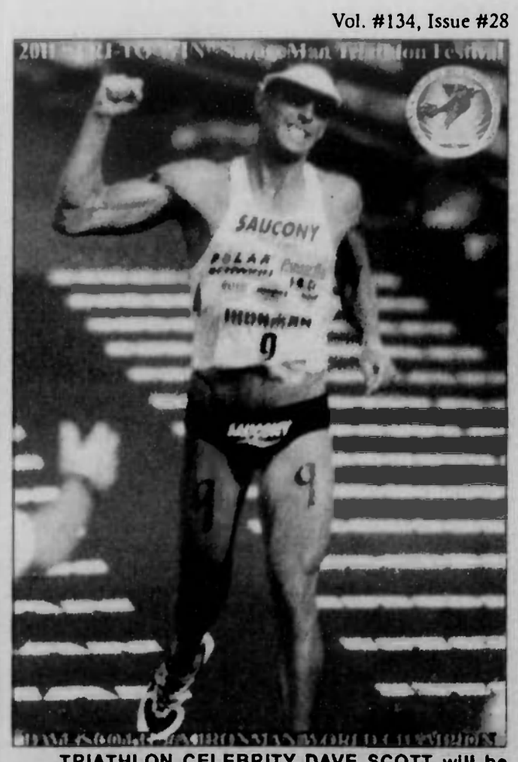
McHenry Water System Follow-Up Hearing Scheduled

The Board of Garrett County Commissioners will conduct a follow-up public hearing on the McHenry Water System – Water Connection and User Fees and Connection Amortization Policy on Saturday, Oct. 1, at 9 a.m. in the Garrett College auditorium.

According to a release from the commissioners' office, this hearing is scheduled to review and receive public commentary to consider changes to the existing policy and to address questions on expansion of service to the water district.

Also, the commissioners and the Department of Public Utilities staff have compiled answers to a number of questions that were presented during the public hearing on August 27. These are now available on the Garrett County Government web site at www.garrettcounty.org.

Interested persons who have questions on this matter are encouraged to attend the October 1 hearing, and prior to that date may contact the Department of Public Utilities at 301-334-6983, or the county administrator or the commissioners at 301-334-8970.



TRIATHLON CELEBRITY DAVE SCOTT will be among the elite participants in the 5th annual "Tri-To-Win" SavageMan Triathlon Festival, slated for Sept. 17 and 18, with the start and finish at Deep Creek Lake State Park. Scott is a triathlon legend, having been the champion of the famous Ironman six times. He is joining a field of numerous other accomplished athletes, such as John Kenny (USA) and Zach Ruble (USA), SavageMan 2nd and 3rd placers, respectively, in 2010; Josh Beck (USA), considered one of the world's top duathlete champions in running and cycling; and Susan Williams, two-time SavageMan 70.0 victor, women's course-record holder, and the USA's only Olympic triathlon medalist ever (Athens 2004). See story.

Brenda's Body Shop Launches '11 Dance Project: "Hoop Hope Hooray"

The students and members of Brenda's Body Shop are once again planning a community event to support the House of Hope. This is the third year Brenda Brosnihan, owner of the business, has spearheaded a community-wide event to engage residents in a fitness activity while at the same time raising money for a selected charity.

This year the community dance project is called "Hoop Hope Hooray." Brosnihan said participants will learn an easy-to-follow dance using the hoop as a prop.

"We have created a dance for the young and the young at heart," she said. "No hula hoop skills are required, but there will be a portion of our Hoop Hope Hooray classes during which we will share tips to help even the most 'hula hoop challenged' become hoop masters in no time."

Although this toy made its debut in the 1950s, the hula hoop had been around for hundreds of years, she said.

"People have been playing with different versions of hula hoop since the days of ancient Egypt, over 3,000 years ago, when children would fashion circles from dried grapevines and swing them around their waists, rolled them on the ground, and tossed them into the air," Brosnihan said.

Money is being raised for the local charity from the sale of custom-made hoops, T-shirts, pledges, and sponsors.

"Since the House of Hope never seeks or accepts government funding of any kind, this ministry has always relied solely on the generosity of the community," Brosnihan said. "This is a remarkable grassroots organization, which provides a wide variety of services."

Sister Mary Ann Mazza and Sister Joanna Sinko of the House of Hope said the people of Garrett County and the many volunteers make it successful.

"We are so very grateful to Brenda's Body Shop and to all who will participate in Hoop Hope Hooray," the sisters said. "This is a real blessing."

The House of Hope has been in existence since 1978, assisting local residents in times of crisis and need.

Brenda's Body Shop first hosted the Thriller dance event two years ago, and last year performed the Pink Glove Dance.

"We are extremely proud of our efforts to inspire community spirit and participation," Brosnihan said. "Our events for the House of Hope within the past three years has raised over $50,000. Our collective total for the charity exceeds $100,000 with an additional $40,000 going to other charities. It is a real sign of the generosity, concern, and compassion our community demonstrates time after time."

Tickets For AG Kick-Off Event Now Available

Tickets for the 44th annual Autumn Glory Festival kick-off reception are now available. The reception will be presented by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce on Wednesday, Oct. 12, at the Lodge at Wisp Resort.

Along with the annual announcement of this year's Golden Ambassador, the event includes the coronation of the Autumn Glory king and queen and recognizes the festival sponsors. Clear Mountain Bank is the official sponsor of the reception. Local music group The Remedy will be the evening's entertainment, sponsored by Wisp Resort.

"This prestigious event provides an elegant, yet lively atmosphere to kick off the Autumn Glory festivities," said chamber president Nicole Christian.

Each attendee to the reception receives a 44th annual Autumn Glory commemorative poster and a collectible Autumn Glory pin that entitles the holder to priority seating on the bleachers near the viewing stand for the grand feature parade on Saturday, Oct. 15.

The evening begins with a 6 p.m. social hour featuring complimentary beer and wine and a cash bar available. The sit-down dinner begins at 7 p.m., with the

Garrett Mentors To Soon Return To School; More Volunteers Needed

With the beginning of a new school year, the volunteers of Garrett Mentors Inc. (GMI) will soon be back in local elementary schools serving as mentors and study buddies with local children, and GMI director Tricia Cheesman said that more volunteers are needed for the program.

GMI is a non-profit, school-based, one-on-one mentoring organization serving children in kindergarten through the fifth grade in all nine of Garrett County's elementary schools.

"GMI encourages caring adults to be mentors and 'inspire by example' as they meet weekly with their 'study buddy,'" said Cheesman. "The mentor is a stable adult figure evaluated and approved by the GMI staff who serves as a role model, friend, confidant or helper. The mentor goes to the school on the day of his or her choice, and spends one hour with the child. He or she has lunch with the student, assists with homework, works on a school project, plays an educational game, or may just talk, all the while developing a caring relationship."

Cheesman said that the study buddies also participate in various experiences throughout the year with planned activities, ranging from fishing to attending a rehearsal of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra. GMI's focus this year is to teach the children firsthand about the Civil War in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of the war, with a trip to Gettysburg planned.

"Our mentors come from all walks of life," Cheesman said. "They range in age from 24 to 81. They may be working fulltime or may be retired, but they all have two things in common – they love children and know the value of education. The mentor shares his or her knowledge and experiences and helps to teach skills necessary to help the children succeed and live

Barn Dance And Silent Auction To Benefit Mentors

Garrett Mentors Inc., a non-profit organization that provides adult mentors/study buddies for local elementary school students, will hold its annual Barn Dance and Silent Auction on Saturday, Sept. 17, from 5 to 9 p.m. at the Ridgeview Valley Barn in McHenry.

"We depend greatly on the kindness and generosity of our community," stated Tricia Cheesman, GMI director, adding that the program currently serves 102 children in the county's nine local elementary schools.

Tickets for the Sept. 17 event may be purchased at Marvin's in Oakland or by calling the GMI office at 301-334-1783.

Grand Opening Of New Museum Set For Sept. 24

The ribbon-cutting ceremony and grand opening of the new transportation museum of the Garrett County Historical Society in downtown Oakland has been scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 24.

The museum was constructed with funds donated by the Howard and Audrey Naylor Family Trust, with additional monies for sidewalks and landscaping coming from state grants obtained through the town of Oakland.

According to Robert Boal, society president, while the official opening of the museum is set for Sept. 24, a "soft opening" will begin on Monday, Sept. 19, with the public invited to visit the museum between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m.

The museum will also serve as a host for the 66th annual Glidden Tour of Antique Cars, in which nearly 270 antique vehicles from a wide area are expected to participate. The cars will be parked in front of the museum and all along Liberty Street on Wednesday, Sept. 21.

The Sept. 24 ribbon-cutting will be held at 2 p.m. Next week's issue of The Republican will carry a photo feature of the new museum.

Athletes From Across The Globe Register For 2011 SavageMan Race

The 5th annual "Tri-To-Win" SavageMan Triathlon Festival, slated for Sept. 17-18 at the Deep Creek Lake State Park, has attracted athletes from 32 states – including California and Hawaii – Washington, D.C., and numerous foreign countries such as Canada, Great Britain, Ecuador, Costa Rica, and Australia. Olympians and world champions will be arriving in Garrett County next week for the three-pronged athletic competition.

This event, which has become internationally renowned as one of the most difficult triathlons in the world, is organized and produced by the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation. Proceeds from the event will benefit the foundation as well.

Philip Graves (GBR) and the Desiree Ficker (USA) will be back to defend their 2010 victory performances, with Graves setting both new overall SavageMan 70.0 course and 55.7-mile bike records; and Ficker a new 13.1-mile run record.

The 2011 starting field will also include John Kenny (USA) and Zach Ruble (USA), 2nd and 3rd placers respectively in 2010; as well as the featured triathlon legend, six-time Ironman World Champion Dave Scott (USA).

Josh Beck (USA), considered one of the world's top duathlete champions in running and cycling, and who posted a sub-6:00 minute run record on the SavageMan 13.1-mi. run course in 2010, is returning for his 5th consecutive race.

Fronting the women's field is two-time SavageMan 70.0 victor, women's course-record holder, and the U.S.'s only Olympic triathlon medalist ever (Athens 2004) Susan Williams.

In the March 2010 Triathlete magazine, an article was published titled "The 100 Best Races in the World," in which the SavageMan 70.0 was the lead-in two-page feature preface highlight, and was given the "Editor's Choice" distinction of "Number One Hardest Race on Earth!"

Greg Safko, president of the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation and race director, said the two-day festival has "built a loyal following and solid reputation among athletes worldwide seeking a very unique lifetime experience."

He also reported that post-race surveys taken by athletes indicate that 100% of athletes recommend the SavageMan Triathlon Festival to others.

DCL Park Visitors Advised Of Closings, Crowding For Fest

The roads of the Deep Creek Lake State Park, as well as the boat ramp and beach area, will be heavily congested for most of the weekend of Sept. 17 and 18 as a result of the 5th annual SavageMan Triathlon Festival.

The competition will begin and end at the Deep Creek Lake State Park beach area. Visitors should expect traffic congestion and a large number of people moving throughout the park from 6 a.m. until late afternoon each day, officials said.

There are more than 500 athletes registered to participate each day of the event, which is a fundraiser and a melanoma cancer awareness campaign of the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation. For additional information, persons may go to the event web site at savagemantri.org/

The swim event begins and ends at the park's beach. Boaters should plan to recreate in other parts of the lake away from the Meadow Mountain Bridge and the shoreline of the state park. Other segments of the race use the roadways and service road throughout the park.

Visitors who anticipate using the boat ramp during the Sept. 17-18 weekend are encouraged to be watchful for athletes crossing through the ramp area, and are asked to access the ramp as late in the day as possible.

For more information, persons may call the park office at 301-387-5563.

Friendsville Man Charged After Fleeing Police

A Friendsville man was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies last Tuesday evening after he attempted to flee from them on a three-wheel ATV.

Jeffery Miller Jr., 28, was traveling on Noah Frazee Road near Sand Spring Road, Friendsville, at approximately 6 p.m. when deputies attempted to execute a stop on the vehicle. Miller attempted to elude officers by fleeing at a high rate of speed to Blue Goose Road, where he was eventually apprehended. Deputies charged him with attempting to elude a uniformed officer, attempting to elude an official police vehicle, driving on a suspended license, negligent and reckless driving, operating an unregistered and uninsured vehicle, possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, and failure to stop at stop sign.

Miller was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await an initial appearance before a District Court commissioner.

TIME TO GET YOUR HOOP ON – For the third consecutive year, the students and members of Brenda's Body Shop will take part in a community fitness event that will benefit the House of Hope. Brenda Brosnihan, owner of the business, has announced this year's effort, titled "Hoop Hope Hooray," which involves the famous hula hoop toy. Participants will learn an easy-to-follow dance using the hoop as a prop, and will also decorate their own hoops to their liking, as shown in the photo. Throughout the effort, participants will be seeking sponsors and donations, with all proceeds to benefit the House of Hope, a local organization that assists residents in times of need and crisis. See story. In the front, seated, are Sofie Gearhart and Kailey Nugent. Holding the banner, from left, are Brianna Evans and Alex Longest, with Madi Hazelwood in back. Standing from left are Rachel Harvey, Marley Merrick, Jordyn Sines, Morgan Tasker, Jian Travis, Sunni Royce, Grace Hoffman, Samantha Swift, Kenzi Smith, and Lauryn Glotfelty.

Accident Man Sentenced To Year In Garrett Co. Jail

Jeremy Colt Moyers, 28, Accident, was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail in a recent Garrett County Circuit Court hearing by Judge Jim Sherbin upon his guilty plea to driving on a revoked license, attempting to flee on foot, and driving at a speed greater than reasonable charges. Related charges were dismissed upon his plea and 10 months of the sentence were suspended. Fines totaled $800 with $250 suspended, and upon his release from jail, Moyers will be on supervised probation, to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation.

Moyers was arrested and charged by Maryland State Police in March after they responded to the area of Rock Lodge and Mosser roads for a reckless operation of vehicle complaint. A Jeep had reportedly been seen in the area, and when officers turned to investigate, driver Moyers sped up and fled on Mosser Road until he was traveling approximately 80 mph. He then turned into a private driveway, jumped from the vehicle, and began to run on foot. He was taken

Man Sentenced To One Year On CDS Charge

A Grantsville man was sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail by Judge Leonard J. Esiwert in a recent District Court proceeding. Marvin Lucas Bowman, 29, was found guilty on a possession of not marijuana charge and not prosecuted on a possession with intent to distribute narcotics charge. Judge Eiswert suspended 10 months of his 12-month sentence and ordered him to complete two years of supervised probation upon his release from jail. This will be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation.

Bowman was the driver of a vehicle stopped in April by Garrett County sheriff's deputies and then searched by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force. A scan of the vehicle recovered a spoon with heroin residue, numerous hypodermic needles and syringes, and several stamp bags of heroin. Bowman then informed police that he was in possession of an additional 33 stamp bags. He was taken into custody without incident.

In other court news, Clifford Frank Elliott Jr., 39, Oakland, was found guilty on a violation of a ex parte/protective order and sentenced to 90 days. He was given credit for 76 days served. He reportedly broke into a Mtn. Lake Park home that he was previously ordered to not enter. He was not prosecuted on a fourth-degree burglary charge. In a separate case, he was found guilty on a disorderly conduct charge and sentenced to a 60-day consecutive sentence. He was not prosecuted on fourth-degree burglary and theft less than $1,000 charge. Both incidents, one in April and one in June, were investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Jesse F.A. Liller, 28, formerly of Grantsville, was given a stet verdict on a possession of marijuana charge stemming from an search and seizure executed by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in 2006. The conditions of his stet are that he obey all laws.

Troy Allen Ashby, 41, Terra Alta, W.Va., was found not guilty on second-degree assault, disturbing the peace, and two counts of reckless endangerment charges. In a separate case, he was not prosecuted on obstructing justice, second-degree assault, stalking, and violation of a peace order charges. Both cases stem from domestic disputes in Bloomington investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this summer.

Cassie Rae Ashby, 30, Keyser, W.Va., was found not guilty on second-degree assault and disturbing the peace charges that stem from a May domestic dispute investigated by GC sheriff's deputies.

DUI/DWI

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent District Court proceedings, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Zachary Aaron Kincaid, 33, Colorado, was found guilty on a DWI charge stemming from a traffic stop by GC sheriff's deputies in March. He was sentenced to 90 days with 88 suspended. He was placed on two years of supervised probation and fined $750, of which $500 was suspended. He was not prosecuted on a DUI charge.

Brandon David Georg, 23, Maryland, was given a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict on a DWI charge stemming from an April traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies. He was sentenced to 30 days suspended and fined $500 with $300 suspended. He was also placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DUI per se charges.

Kelly Dawn DeWitt, 35, Md., was given a stet verdict on DUI and DWI charges that stem from a traffic stop in June by Maryland State Police.

Two Arrested On Drinking And Driving Charges

Two drivers were arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies this past week for driving under the influence of alcohol. The following incidents are unrelated.

Deputies responded to Steiding Church Road at approximately 1 p.m. last Thursday for a reported motor vehicle accident. Investigation revealed that Lurene Barnard, 66, Westernport, had been traveling west, when she lost control of the vehicle and traveled into a ditch. She was charged with driving under the influence, driving while impaired, and negligent driving. Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department and Southern Rescue Squad also responded to the scene.

In a separate incident, deputies stopped a vehicle last Friday evening on Roanoke Ave., Loch Lynn, for a registration violation. The driver was identified as Rodney Lee Welch, 41, Loch Lynn, and investigation revealed that he had consumed alcoholic beverages prior to driving. He was given field sobriety tests before being placed under arrest. He was charged with DUI, DWI, and driving with expired vehicle registration. He was later released pending trial.

Omission Noted In Thank-You Ad

In the Garrett County Fair section that was part of this newspaper last week, an advertisement thanking those who assisted with creation of the publication did not include the name of Trish Wilt. The omission is regretted, as Wilt's continual contribution has been "greatly appreciated over the last several years," according to Don Sincell, editor of The Republican.

into custody upon repeated demands from the trooper giving chase. After identifying the driver as Moyers, the trooper confirmed that Moyers' license had been suspended and revoked by the MVA.

In other court news, a theft charge against Dustin Robert Klotz, 21, Grantsville, was placed on a stet docket, with the conditions being that he return the victim's bow, have no contact with the victim, obey all laws, and pay $585 in court costs. Klotz was charged last December when the victim applied for charges with the District Court commissioner alleging that Klotz had come into possession of his bow through a third person and then had sold it rather than return it as promised.

Board Of Ed. Announces Sept. Meeting

The Garrett County Board of Education will hold its regular monthly meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 13, beginning at 4 p.m. The meeting will be held at the BOE's central office in downtown Oakland.

Marcellus Shale Drilling To Be Meeting Topic

The Savage River Watershed Association (SRWA) will hold its bimonthly meeting at 7 p.m. next Thursday, Sept. 15, at Route 40 Elementary School. The program topic for this month is titled "Marcellus Play in Pa. and the Coldwater Conservation Corps," to be presented by David Sewak of Trout Unlimited. The public is welcome to attend.

The process of hydraulic fracturing, used in Marcellus shale gas drilling, has raised many concerns about the potential for impacts to surface and ground water resources. In efforts to address these concerns in Pennsylvania, citizen actions are being taken through volunteer monitoring programs that could be a model to develop a monitoring program in Maryland.

Sewak will present information about the Pennsylvania Council of Trout Unlimited Cold Water Conservation Corps' volunteer program to monitor the impacts of Marcellus shale gas drilling on surface water resources.

Sewak is Trout Unlimited's Pennsylvania Marcellus shale field organizer, coordinating a project dedicated to educate, organize, and mobilize the commonwealth's sportsmen and women. Before coming to TU, he worked for four years as manager of Fly Fishing Shows, a national consumer show circuit for dedicated fly fisherman. In this role he managed the daily activities of a small business.

Prior to his foray into the business world, he worked for 12 years in the conservation realm focusing on Abandoned Mine Drainage, recreational trail development (both land and water trails), river conservation planning, community parks, and tourism.

Sewak is a graduate of Randolph-Macon College, where he earned a bachelor of arts degree in history. He has served on the Stonycreek-Conemaugh River Improvement board since 1996, serves with Mountain Laurel Trout Unlimited (maintaining the web site and electronic correspondence), and is a Somerset Conservation District board member. He is married to Kristin Sewak, who is founder and executive director of Natural Biodiversity, a non-profit organization effectively managing invasive plants and restoring native habitats in southwestern and south-central Pennsylvania. They are the parents of three children.

SRWA is a group of local landowners and other citizens dedicated to preserving and enhancing the rural nature and natural resources of the Savage River watershed. Members assist interested landowners and public land managers with environmental stewardship efforts and educational outreach.

Anyone who is concerned about the Savage River watershed is invited to join. SRWA meetings are held at Route 40 Elementary School, just west of Frostburg at 17764 National Pike on the third Thursday of odd-numbered months, beginning at 7 p.m. For more information, persons may contact SRWA via e-mail at srwadirector@gmail.com or by phone at 301-689-7156.

The SRWA is a nonprofit charitable organization. Donations may be sent to: Savage River Watershed Association, PO Box 355, Frostburg, MD 21532.

CIVIC CLUB OF OAKLAND GEARS UP TO CELEBRATE 100 YEARS – For a century now, the GFWC Civic Club of Oakland has worked to make a positive difference in Garrett County, with a long history of community improvement, assistance to area children, and support of a wide range of local organizations, among many other projects and efforts. The 85-member group is now engaged in planning a celebration of its 100-year milestone, marking the 1911 founding of the club by Thekla Fundenberg Weeks. A Century of Commitment dinner dance will be held on Saturday, Oct. 1, from 6 to 10:30 p.m. at Dutch's at Silver Tree, Deep Creek Lake. Members of the community are invited to join with the club at the event, during which Sounds Fun Entertainment will provide music selections ranging from the 1920s to the 1990s. The dress is festive attire/business casual, a spokesperson said. The ticket price per person is $50, and ticket reservation is due on Sept. 20. To obtain tickets, persons should e-mail gfwcoakland@gmail.com, or mail a check to GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, P.O. Box 167, Oakland, MD 21550-0167. The club began celebrating its 100-year birthday in July at a picnic, held at the Deep Creek Yacht Club. Shown above serving the cake from left, are Ellen Fritz, Jo Gallagher, and Sandy Hill. More information about the club and the celebration will be published as the event nears.

the phenomenal attraction to western Maryland for the race," Safko said.

There are a multitude of viewing areas in Deep Creek Lake State Park and across Garrett and Allegeny counties for the general public, he noted. Volunteers to help out with the event are still in need.

"Volunteering doubles the fun for spectators to experience this one-of-a-kind international sporting event up close," Safko said. "And our volunteers are key to ensuring a safe and successful event for participants from around the country and world, as well as supporting the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation's mission."

For further information on volunteering, persons may visit www.savagemantri.org/volunteers.html. For course maps and daily activities, persons may go to the primary SavageMan web site at www.savagemantri.org.

To review necessary brief safety secondary road closures, persons may visit: www.savagemantri.org/road_closures.pdf. Another article concerning road closings is published in today's issue of The Republican as well.

Safko said the 2010 race raised nearly $100,000 in donations by individual "Champion" athlete fundraisers who utilized personal race fundraising web sites to enhance awareness for melanoma skin cancer and the foundation's mission of education, advocacy, and research. He said the melanoma foundation greatly appreciates the "broad slate of sponsors" who are providing services and support for the 2011 event, most notably Maryland's Department of Natural Resources, Railey Mountain Lake Vacations and Railey Realty, among numerous community organizations and businesses, and national sponsors, listed throughout the race web site.

"Besides attracting the world's most accomplished and savvy triathletes to test themselves and compete on this very challenging and unique triathlon course, we also hope to inform them and their donors that melanoma skin cancer is the #1 most common cancer among 25- to 29-year-olds, and is a very insidious and formidable skin cancer that if not prevented or detected early is extremely fast and lethal," Safko said. "We're very proud that our Tri-To-Win signature fundraising event for the foundation is supported by a multitude of athletes to further the JMNMF mission of melanoma education, advocacy, and research."

The SavageMan 70.0 signature event feature a 1.2-mile swim in Deep Creek Lake; followed by the bike stage featuring nearly 5,800 feet of vertical climbing and the "most savage ascent" in all of triathlons: the Westernport Wall, and Big Savage Mountain summit over the Eastern Continental Divide; and culminating in twice tackling the 6.5-mile loop run course along the shores of Deep Creek Lake and State Park Road, to end with a lake-side finish.

The SavageMan Triathlon courses are the work of course founder and architect Kyle Yost.

"First of all, SavageMan is the toughest of the tough," said Yost. "There will be endless debate on the Internet about which race is harder than which, but no one who has done SavageMan ever claims there is another tougher. While the bike course gets all the attention, the run is a real challenge, too. SavageMan was created simply because the venue, and in particular the roads and severe climbs for the bike course, were simply too wonderful for an event to not exist there. And, in line with our 'participant experience first' mission, we strive to really put on an event that stands above all the rest, and that effort has paid off."

Many triathletes now recognize the famous vertical challenge – the "Westernport Wall," at just four blocks, though not particularly long, features an average grade of 25% and a maximum pitch of 31%.

"Ascending the final block of the Wall takes a bit of skill, luck and a lot of true savage determination," Yost said.

Those successful and able to complete the race are memorialized with a personally engraved name brick, placed at the Wall. There are now 252 bricks at the location, along with only nine "legacy" bricks for successful climbers of all four previous races.

In addition to the 70.0-mile event, the festival features the SavageMan 30.0 Olympic-distance triathlon to complement race offerings and fundraising opportunities. See the web site for the complete schedule.

USPS Needs Restructured...

The financial state of the U.S. Postal Service continues to decline, as the loss for this year is projected to be somewhere around $11 billion. It was announced this week that unless there is some form of restructurmg or yet another government bailout, the service may simply stop operating sometime this winter. If that happens, we in the newspaper business might as well close our doors as well. Without mail delivery, we would be sunk, as the other carriers (UPS, Fed Ex, et al.) are not designed to make such bulk, house-to-house deliveries.

As noted before in this column, the USPS is, like a number of businesses, being negatively affected by the Internet, as people now write e-mails instead of letters, most bills can be paid online, and various other items once sent through the mail are now being sent electronically. The volume of mail has dropped over 20% in the last five years, and continues on its downward spiral.

The other major problem for the USPS is directly connected to its union labor force. The service employs over 650,000 people, with whom it has a variety of compensation and benefit commitments. Postal Service jobs are among the best paying when compared to those of most other private organizations, but fulfilling those commitments is another reason the service is in such a black hole. Eliminating employees, which is one thing a private business would do, is pretty much off the table as well, again because of commitments with the union. Also, cutting USPS workers right now would simply add to the country's already high unemployment rate.

However, it seems that the situation is becoming so dire that a complete restructuring, which would mean closing post offices (which is happening) and cutting positions, is going to be necessary, barring a government bailout. A bailout would not only be extremely unpopular, but also a temporary fix.

The Postal Service is ultimately going to have to do what many of the rest of us in business are forced to do because of the advances(?) in technology – restructure, eliminate positions, cut costs wherever possible, and generally become more efficient. Even with all of that, it is quite possible that within the next few decades there will be no justification for a hard-mail delivery service. Its fate will be the same as that of blacksmiths and wheelwrights – and quite possibly, those of us who print newspapers.

It's our guess, though, that the government will in some way provide that bailout, to a certain extent throwing good money after bad, and at least delay any kind of restructuring of the USPS until our economy is on much more solid ground.

To the Editor:

Last September, Garrett College hosted the inaugural Garrett County Volunteer Fair, featuring local nonprofit organizations. The response to the fair was so encouraging that the second Garrett County Volunteer Fair will be held Thursday, Sept. 22, from 3 to 7 p.m. in the college gymnasium.

The planning committee hopes to make this an annual event. Guests will have the opportunity to learn about each organization's needs and what volunteers can do to help. All participating organizations will have a table with handouts and sign-up sheets.

Garrett College and the other sponsoring organizations pride themselves on being community resources, and the volunteer fair is an opportunity for people to discover how they can provide support to very worthy community organizations.

The Volunteer Fair will feature many local organizations, including Special Olympics Maryland, the Youghiogheny River Watershed Association, Garrett Mentors, HART for Animals, Diakon Adult Day Services, Garrett County Memorial Hospital, Our Town Theatre, and many others – each looking for volunteers of all skill levels and all amounts of time to commit.

As a nurse who has worked over 32 years in civilian, then military, hospitals, I am awestruck by the extraordinary hours volunteers devoted to the hospitals – simply for the joy of assisting the patients. The number of hours volunteers gave was nothing short of phenomenal. They sought no reward or personal gain, but simply wanted to serve with pride in behalf of their community.

Over the years, my focus as a nurse has been on "prevent if we can, cure if we must." Volunteering is preventative. Research findings by the Corporation for National and Community Health showed that giving just 100 hours a year to volunteering reaped extraordinary health benefits.

Just as important, the study demonstrated that older volunteers were the most likely to garner the greatest benefits from volunteering. The findings showcased that those who volunteer live longer, healthier, and happier lives. Specific health benefits include reduced risk for depression, lower mortality rates, increased longevity, greater functional ability later in life, increased sense of accomplishment and purpose, and decreased incidence of health disease.

I urge all who are reading this impassioned letter to join us on Thursday, Sept. 22, where you can sign up and reap the multitude of benefits volunteering clearly offers. Garrett County needs you to make our county a better place!

For more information on the Volunteer Fair, call 301-387-3046 or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu/volunteer.

To the Editor:

After having a great Sunday dinner, I decided to put some numbers together about the meal my wife had prepared. Having planted her garden back in May and early June, I have watched (and sometimes helped) her with the hoeing and weeding. It seems like I could see her almost every day nursing the plants along. And then in a few weeks, we began to have lettuce, spinach, and peas. How good the veggies tasted!

A little later, the cucumbers and tomatoes were our daily salad. By August, the sweet corn and beans were in full swing, so picking and canning was her work of the day and night. There was a bucket of beans and a pan of shelled beans by every chair on the back porch, in the sun room, and even in the living room where she would shell beans until she fell asleep. Not to forget the basement, where she did the canning and freezing of the prepared food.

Here are some of the numbers I put together. For every bean planted, there was from 10 to 19 pods. Each pod had 4 to 9 beans, averaging 50 to 79 beans for every bean planted. A pretty good return, yes? Not that good when you put $1 in the bank or stock market. Remember every pod had to be opened and each bean had to be pushed out.

For the corn, one seed planted makes one ear, sometimes two. There are 12 rows of corn and about 40 kernels per row. That is an average of 480 to 500 grains of corn for every grain planted. Great return!

For those of you who don't have a wife or grandma who plants a garden and tends it and cooks it with loving care, you don't know what good food really tastes like.

A thankful husband of 53 years,
Charlie Mason
Oakland

P.S. Our wedding anniversary is Sept. 13. Seed is kept to plant the next year, and some of our bean seed was handed down from our grandmothers. Some other seed came from the Colorado Indians, dating back to the Anasazi Indians who lived in Cliff Palace at what is now the Mesa Verda National Park.

Cindy's Fund has reached an important milestone by donating over $105,000 to Garrett County cancer patients. These funds have gone directly to the patient and the health department.

We are a non-profit organization with no administrative costs, comprising lots of hard-working volunteers. Besides supplementing funds for cancer screenings at the Garrett County Health Department, Cindy's Fund assists Garrett County cancer patients with miscellaneous expenses such as gas cards, nutritional supplements, hotel stays, medications, etc. With the current economic situation, Cindy's Fund is getting more requests than ever for assistance.

Our upcoming fundraiser is called the Mountain Man Food Challenge Pigout. We are partnering with Archie's Barbeque in a food challenge. The event will take place on Saturday, Sept. 24, at Archie's in McHenry from 4 to 8 p.m., with the actual food challenge beginning at 6 p.m. Contestants must eat the platter of food within one hour, with no bathroom breaks.

We are currently recruiting "piggies" to participate in the challenge. Registration forms can be picked up at any Garrett County branch of First United Bank, at Archie's Barbeque, or online at www.cindysfund.org or www.archiesbbq.com. Archie's will also be offering a barbecue buffet.

This event will be held rain or shine, as we will be under a tent, with music by Jonny Rock and with local radio personality Jim Van as emcee. If you would like to be one of our piggies, please complete and mail your registration form. If you just want to cheer on your favorite piggy and have a delicious dinner, I'm sure it will be an entertaining evening.

Cindy's Fund is grateful to be able to assist Garrett County cancer patients. If you or someone you know need help with cancer expenses, please call 301-616-0567. We hope to see you on Saturday, Sept. 24, at Archie's.

To the Editor:

I would like to address this letter to the selfish, uncaring individual who ran over our beloved family pet right in front of our house on Saturday, Aug. 27.

How could you? Did you give any thought to whom she might belong... that she was part of our family? We are devastated. I keep asking myself who could do something so thoughtless? At the very least, you should have stopped and moved her off the road.

I feel terrible if I accidentally hit a chipmunk, so I can't imagine the guilt I would feel if I hit someone's pet. One thing I know for sure is that I would never hit someone's pet and just speed on down the road.

We have a fenced-in back yard and we are not sure exactly how Foxy got out that day. We never let our dogs run free because of the traffic in front of our house. This still does not excuse the coward who killed our dog and thought so little of it. He/she just kept on going.

Oh, and just to let you know, while you were speeding past our place, killing our dog, we were preparing to attend a funeral for one of our parents. Certainly a day we'll never forget.

I pray that you learn something from this.

To the Editor:

This letter is to thank a fellow carpenter, Mr. Krewson, for his efforts to express the other side of an often one-sided discussion here in Garrett County.

It eludes me how we "Christians" can be so un-Christ like in many of our attitudes concerning our fellow man. How quickly we become judgmental and so cocksure of what the Bible says when, in fact, depending on the chapter and verse, the Bible can be all over the map. There's lots of fruit to pick in the orchard of Christianity, and what we choose is often just a matter of taste and convenience.

The Old Testament is full of God's anger mixed with a heady amount of violence and intolerance written by men who wandered lost in the desert for years on end. A Garmin would have been a welcomed miracle and saved a copious amount of footwork.

When confronted with a choice of hypocrites, I tend to favor those found in a bar. The music is better, the beer is cold, the company is no worse, and they're just a bunch more fun.

To the Editor:

I attended the meeting with the commissioners at Garrett College to hear the discussion on the proposed water system. Several issues concern me and should be clarified before any "final plan" is implemented.

The most serious issue is the general need for the water system when most of those testifying have an adequate supply of quality water. Any proposed system requiring substantial public funds must provide some added value to its citizens. The expenditure does not appear to benefit the majority of our citizens, and requiring everyone to both pay for hookup and abandon perfectly safe wells defies logic. Homeowners should be assured they may continue using their wells until the wells fail to meet required water standards and should not be required to pay for water not needed.

A second concern was partially addressed at the recent meeting. When a proposal of such financial significance to homeowners is developed, it would be wise for the county to contact each potentially affected homeowner through the mail as it recently did for the college meeting. Those who are away part of the year and/or have others managing their property were not aware of the scope of the project.

This plan is not in final form as indicated by the reduction in hook-up cost announced at the college meeting. I support the request by others for additional meetings as changes develop. Much discussion has been around the cost of the water line up Graveley Run Road to Ridgeview Valley. While there are not many completed homes, no one has indicated whether each of the vacant lots will be required to pay the same fees. An empty lot requires about the same "new water" as a home with a perfectly good well. If installation is deferred on such lots, then the same option should be available for others. There are also special situations such as mobile home communities and recreational vehicle parks with common water systems which should be addressed equitably.

Finally, I hope the force behind this water system is not merely the need to raise revenue. Those wishing or Absolutely Charming Has The Most Charming Home Décor!

Absolutely Charming Gifts and Home Decor opened in downtown Oakland in April and is quickly becoming a destination shopping experience.

The owner, Crystal Boone, brings over 15 years of retail experience to the shop. Crystal was the prior owner of The Christmas Shop in Thomas, West Virginia.

The shop offers a variety of products for your home: from Amish made furniture and candles to prints and glassware. They also have a growing line of specialty foods. Their best sellers are Peridies peanuts, the best Virginia peanuts on the market! Cajan, honey roasted, chocolate covered...

You can make a gourmet tasting dinner with the Slick Ricks spices. The spices are all natural, no MSG, no nitrates. Steak seasoning, Red Hot Spice and Black Spice are just a few of the many to choose from.

Some of their favorite products are the Wyne Chymes, made from recycled wine bottles, all natural Milk House Candles made from soy and beeswax, football serve ware and WVU pumpkins for your fall decorating.

While the men are gearing up for hunting season, buying their supplies, the ladies can come to Absolutely Charming and purchase their fall decorations and take home a can of peanuts for their hunters snacks.

Show this advertisement with your purchase and you can register to win one of two $50 gift certificates to be given away on September 25.

"Like" Absolutely Charming on facebook to be entered in their weekly giveaway. They will draw a name from their friends on Facebook for a $25 gift certificate for the next four weeks. Follow their Facebook page to see what is coming up special for the Autumn Glory Festival.

Absolutely Charming is located at 119 S. 2nd Street (Downtown), Oakland, MD. Open Monday thru Friday, 10 am - 5:30 p.m., Saturday, 10 am - 5 pm. 301-334-3011.

CHARLES J. FRAZEE

Charles Jefferson Frazee, 91, formerly of Friendsville, passed away peacefully with his wife Anna and daughter-in-law Norma by his side on Friday, Sept. 2, in Malabar, Fla. Charles had been living in Florida for the last two years, to be near his son Charles "Jack" Frazee.

Born Nov. 28, 1919, in West Leisenring, Pa., he was a son of the late Clark Jefferson and Daisy (VanSickle) Frazee. He was also preceded in death by three brothers, Emerson Frazee and two infants; and one sister, Ruby (Frazee) Ryan.

Charles was always called "Pap" by his son and grandchildren. He was in the 908th Quartermaster Army Co. during WWII, from 1941 to 1945. He lived most of his life in Friendsville, working for many years in Youngstown, Ohio, in the steel fabrication business, while commuting back to his family on weekends. He worked many jobs after leaving the steel business.

He loved to take trips with Anna, enjoyed hunting, and as he grew older with Anna, loved riding at dusk to see how many deer they could see. He was happy being near his son, grandchildren, and their families, when he moved to Florida.

Charles was a member of Asher Glade Church of the Brethren and for many years helped with the care-taking responsibilities at the Asher Glade Cemetery

He is survived by his wife of 70 loving years, Anna Elizabeth (VanSickle) Frazee; one son, Charles Jackson Frazee and wife Norma, Malabar, Fla.; four grandchildren, Clark W. Frazee, Daniel L. Frazee, Alexander W. Frazee, and Mary-Marie A. (Frazee) Kroeger; eight great-grandchildren, Emily, Jack, Chandler, Jaden, Adam, Owen, Charlie, and Lucy, all of Orlando, Fla.; three sisters, Mabel Griffith, Bernice Rodeheaver, and Dolores Miller, all of Friendsville; one brother-in-law, Bob Miller, Friendsville; one sister-in-law, Shirley (BS) Frazee, Friendsville; and several nieces and nephews.

Friends were received at Newman Funeral Home, Friendsville.

A service was conducted on Wednesday, Sept. 7, at Asher Glade Church of the Brethren, with the Rev. Ed Moore officiating.

Interment was held in Asher Glade Cemetery, where military graveside rites were accorded by area veterans' service organizations.

Condolences may be sent to the family at www.newmanfuneralhomes.com.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

There is another major natural disaster in Texas and Oklahoma – a massive wildfire is raging there. The last time this kind of string of natural disasters struck America was in 1980 when Ronald Reagan was president. We had a terrible draught, then dreadful wildfires.

At last, the big 9-11 commission issued its report. The first thing it said was that anything created in a crisis moment is unlikely to be well thought out. And in fact, we can see many problems in the Homeland Security initiative. But it wasn't a complete failure, and in the decade since Sept. 11, 2001, it is greatly improving compared to when our intelligence agencies were a mess, with very little cooperation and communication among the various parts.

The commission gave fairly high marks to the latest airline screening system. But the response to the Sept. 11 attacks did require deficit spending.

It is not unusual for my birthday and a presidential election to coincide. I am 100 percent certain that it happened in 1960, when JFK was elected president.

Small businesses do not see a demand for their products or services, except things like plumbers. If you have a toilet or hot water heater gushing water out into your home, you can't say, "I can't afford to fix that right now." That would mean that your carpets would be ruined and your home would be unlivable.

And those lucky Americans who still have a decent job can't say, "I will not buy a tank of gasoline at this price." No, of course not. They just have to bite the bullet. If not, their family will face a life without income. Believe me, I know the pressure of needing to buy something very expensive like fuel to heat my home. When we have sub-zero temperatures outside, that is a necessity, not a choice. It can't wait until the price comes down.

Which industries seem to enjoy a boom during these rough financial times? The first is the lottery. I myself spend a few dollars on tickets in the Mega Millions lottery. People like me, who are too poor to live a decent life, will seize any tiny chance to improve our financial position.

The other is the liquor business. See how many people hope to drown their sorrow with the highest proof beverage they can get. So maybe that is one possible revenue for cash-strapped states, counties, or towns: Arrest more drunk drivers and fine them heavily.

When I first visited New York City on the NHS class of 1971 senior trip, as we approached the Big Apple, we were urged to look at the Empire State Building. That used to be the keynote of the New York City skyline. But in the late 1970s when I first lived outside New York City in the horse country in central New Jersey before moving into the city, there was a different skyline featuring the awesome Twin Towers, the World Trade Center. And that is how I prefer to remember them, standing enormously high and proud, towering over everything. I am sad to say that I never went up into them when I lived only a mile or so from them –about as close as I now live to Bittinger.

Once again, happy birthday to Cyndi Kolbe. She has the worst birthday date – Sept. 11. This coming Sunday is the tenth anniversary of that disaster.

We enjoyed a rare visit from all of my Glotfelty aunts: Helen Englar (not a rare visit), her sister Betty (Boo) Hummel from Olympia, Wash. (definitely a very rare treat), and the youngest, Dorothy Quintance of Schenectedy, N.Y. and her second son Paul and his new bride Allison of Chicago. Allison was on her first visit to Maryland. Paul followed the frequent path of many cousins, being an English professor as well as continuing to play in a band.

They all have more in common with me than anyone I see often. They took a walk to visit their favorite spots on the home place, like the foundation of the house where they were all born.

Dot told a little story about her birth. When my grandparents told my father Robert that he had a new sister, he said he hoped for a set of twin boys. He sadly did not get a chance to see the twin boys of his son Rodney. It is such a shame that he did not get a chance to know his 10 simply wonderful grandchildren, because he loved children. Of course, his oldest grandchild Robby Glotfelty strongly resembles both his father and his grandfather, especially when they were small. They were all delivered by the local midwife Mandy Orendorf, mother of Alma, the long-standing housekeeper and caregiver to both of my Glotfelty grandparents.

It is amazing that Helen and Betty are in their 80s. They seem to have hardly aged in all the long years I've known them.

Dot and her granddaughter Hannah are headed to East Africa to teach English. It sounds like such a wonderful place to visit. It is beside a large lake.

The weather rapidly changed from unbearable heat, which caused a bad heat rash on my chest, something that is completely new to me and very unpleasant. I treated it aggressively with various over-the-counter remedies, and it seems to be resolved, maybe because it is so cool that it is very close to cold.

Yes, Labor Day traditionally marks the end of the summer season, But this seems a bit extreme and too rapid a change to be real autumn. And it was pretty wet, too.

I saw worse around 1982 or so when we got a killing frost on Aug. 12. It was when my green bean crop was at its peak, and suddenly one morning all I had was just a big patch of bleached slimy plants. It was very unfortunate, because one of the main vegetables I canned was green beans. Most winters, we used at least 20 quarts of them. Of course, that was not a good year for tomatoes, either. That was freakish.

Even if we do have a short growing season, it usually at least stretches from Memorial Day to Labor Day. Most years, it's longer. This cool snap was not close to the freezing mark, thank goodness. But it doesn't feel even remotely like summer anymore. That is always hard to accept, but we have no choice.

Drew Daniel Pochet, the son of Mike and Lea Pochet, was baptized during the worship service at Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Sunday.

Sunday School classes for children at Emmanuel will resume this Sunday, Sept. 11. Classes will begin at 9 a.m., and all children are welcome to attend.

The annual Bittinger Parish retreat is scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 25, from 1 to 6 p.m. at Uno's Restaurant. Everyone is invited to attend, to share their thoughts for the ongoing ministry, to brainstorm for the future of the parish, to register their concerns, and to revel in the successes.

Dinner will be provided at the close of the event. The Mutual Ministry Group will meet Thursday, Sept. 15, at 7 p.m. at the parsonage to make plans for this retreat.

A joint Reformation Sunday service will be held with the Bittinger Parish, the Accident Parish, and Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church. The service will be at Emmanuel on Oct. 30 at 11 a.m. A planning meeting for this service is scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 18, at Emmanuel at 7 p.m. Anyone willing to help with this service is encouraged to attend.

An intergenerational Bible study called "Stitches and Scripturers" will begin Sept. 12 at 6 p.m. at Emmanuel. Additional dates will be Sept. 26, Oct. 17, and Oct. 31.

Mentors will help beginners learn to knit a scarf and a dish coth. Study discussion will include Bible passages using the term "knit" and the stitches that will be learned each evening. All members of the community of any age or gender are welcome. Participants are encouraged to call 301-245-4249 so that arrangements can be made for mentors for each beginner.

Adorable Adoptables

MANY ANIMALS NEED HOMES – Duke, a 5-year-old male Rottweiler mix, is one of many dogs currently available at the Garrett County Animal Shelter. The shelter is also caring for a female beagle-hound which was picked up near Shawnee Trading Post with no collar, as well as two beagle mixes, a hound, a brown/white pitbull (picked up in the lake area), and a black Lab mix. One dog from last week was adopted and several were taken by HART to rescues. The shelter also has many cats available for adoption. "A male longhaired tabby with white feet was picked up near the bowling alley in Oakland. We hope his owner is looking for him," stated a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "If you are thinking of adopting a pet, think about the time and money it takes to care for it throughout its lifetime. You will need to take your newly adopted pet to the veterinarians to get a checkup, vaccinations, and to be altered." For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday. The shelter also is in need of newspapers; persons may drop them off Monday through Friday. Northern GOP Women To Meet

The Northern Garrett Republican Women will meet at the home of Ruth Umbel, McHenry, on Thursday, Sept. 22, at 6 p.m. The time and date have been changed from what was scheduled previously.

Ruth Umbel will present the program based on Americanism, which will follow a light meal. The gift basket will be provided by Carolyn Ganoe, Sharon Kyle, Catherine Spiker, and Connie Burdock.

SWANTON NEWS

DINNER/YARD SALE

A buckwheat cake, pancake, and sausage dinner and yard sale will be held this Saturday, Sept. 10, at the Swanton Community Center, with the dinner beginning at 4 p.m., and the yard sale set to begin at 8 a.m. Anyone may bring their own table to set up for the sale.

GRANDPARENT AND RALLY DAY

Otterbein United Methodist Church will celebrate grandparents this Rally Sunday, Sept. 11, with a hay ride to the Camp Agape site directly following worship. A picnic will be held with paper products, hot dogs, buns, and drinks provided. Those attending should feel free to bring chips, cookies, or a covered dish to share. All are invited to bring a friend or two.

UMW PICNIC AND AUCTION

The United Methodist Women will hold a picnic and auction on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at 6 p.m. at the Swanton Community Center. Those attending should bring items for the auction, as well as a covered dish to share.

The fall UMW district meeting will be held at Bethel United Methodist, Mtn. Lake Park, beginning at 9:30 a.m. All women are invited to attend.

HOMECOMING

Swanton Otterbein United Methodist Church will hold its all day Homecoming meeting on Sunday, Sept. 18, beginning with Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship followed by a covered dish meal with singing and a praise service at 2 p.m.

Anyone who wants to play and/or sing should contact Lois at 301-387-5929 to sign up. All are welcome.

HOAGIE SALE

Otterbein UMC will hold a hoagie sale to benefit the local family whose home burned and to repair the church cross. All hoagies orders must be in by Sept. 16 by calling Lois at 301-387-5929 or Dotty at 301-387-6952. Hoagies will be made at the church on Sept. 22. They may be delivered or picked up at the church between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. They are $4.50 each.

APPLE HARVEST

The annual apple harvest is set at the Burlington Children's Home beginning Sept. 22 and 23, with clean-up days. Apple peeling will begin that Saturday, Sept. 24. Swanton Otterbein UMC is set to work on Sept. 27 and 29 from noon to 6 p.m. each day. Lots of help is needed every day all week. The festival itself is Oct. 1 and 2. Many crafts and baked goods will be available with apple butter offered Monday through Sunday.

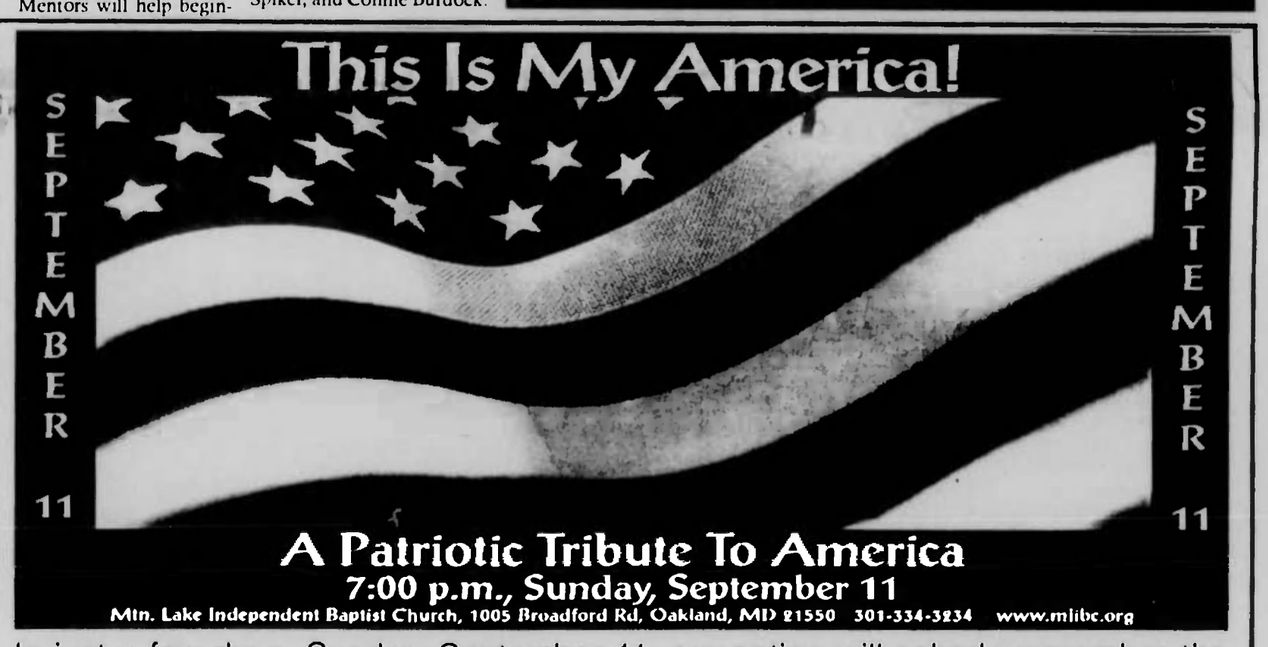
BIRTHDAYS

Those celebrating birthdays this week are Don Wolf Jr. on Sept. 15, Jean Wright on Sept. 16, and Joni Wilson on Sept. 17.

The births of two babies were announced this week, one girl and one boy.

A daughter, Eva Mae, was born to Brian and Jennifer (Pachinger) Cromer, Swanton, on Sept. 5 at Monongalia General Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va.

A son, Jose Cortez III, was born to Sue Ann James and Jose Cortez Jr., Davis, W.Va., on Aug. 26 at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.



In just a few days, Sunday, September 11, our nation will soberly remember the horrific attack on our land by foreign enemies. In one tragic morning, our nation was forever changed. Our understanding of our homeland's security has been altered with surveillance and suspicion on every hand. Our relationships with other nations around the globe have been deeply effected and with two wars (in Iraq and Afganistan) adding to the strain of our country both economically and emotionally, we find ourselves in difficult circumstances.

But there have been many positive changes also. A renewed appreciation for our men and women in uniform and the difficulties and dangers they willingly assume for the safety of our land. Appreciation for our "first responders" including our police forces, fire departments, and medical personnel. And there seems to be somewhat of a greater concern for the spiritual well being of our great country (at least in some circles.)

With all of this in mind, we are presenting on Sunday evening, September 11 at 7:00 p.m. a patriotic tribute to the United States of America. This one hour multimedia presentation is a celebration of that which is good about America. We will recognize and honor the powerful Christian influence great men and women of the past have had upon the formation of who and what we are as a nation.

You are cordially invited to this very special evening. Gifts remembering those who lost their lives 10 years ago will be given to all in attendance. Please call 301-334-3234 or visit www.mlibc.org for directions and contact information.

REMEMBERING 9/11

The Attacks On September 11, 2001

On September 11, 2001, 19 militants associated with the Islamist extremist group al Qaeda hijacked four airliners and carried out suicide attacks against targets in the United States. Two of the planes were flown into the Twin Towers of the World Trade Center in New York City, a third plane hit the Pentagon just outside Washington, D.C., and the fourth plane was crashed into a field in nearby Shanksville, Pa.

Often referred to simply as 9/11, the attacks resulted in extensive death and destruction, triggering major U.S. initiatives to combat terrorism. Nearly 3,000 people were killed during the attacks, including more than 400 police officers and firefighters and 246 passengers and crew on the four planes. This was the most deadly terrorist attack in U.S. history.

The following is a time line of that fateful day. The copy and photos were provided by the Newspapers in Education Institute.

5:45 a.m.

Hijackers Mohammed Atta and Abdulaziz al Omari pass through security at Portland International Jetport in Maine. They board a shuttle flight to Boston's Logan International Airport, where they connect to Los Angeles-bound American Airlines Flight 11.

Atta will pilot Flight 11 on its lethal course into the North Tower of the World Trade Center. Four hijackers physically subdue passengers and crew so that Atta can breach the cockpit and kill or disable the two American Airlines pilots.

Over the next hour and a half, 17 other hijackers clear security checks at Logan Airport, Newark International Airport, and Washington Dulles Airport. All presumably carry knives, box cutters or other concealed weapons on their person or in carry-on luggage. Although eight are tagged for additional screening and a gate agent flags two as suspicious, none are prevented from boarding their intended flights.

American Airlines Flight 11 takes off from Logan Airport in Boston, 14 minutes behind its scheduled departure. Seventy-six passengers, 11 crew members, and five hijackers board Flight 11. In industry terms, the Los Angeles-bound flight is "riding heavy," stocked with up to 68,400 pounds of fuel for its transcontinental run.

Al Qaeda terrorists hijack the plane at approximately 8:14 am and reroute it toward Manhattan, using the Hudson River as a navigational guide.

8:14 a.m.

United Airlines Flight 175 takes off from Logan Airport in Boston, also 14 minutes behind its scheduled departure. Fifty-one passengers, nine crew members, and five hijackers board Los Angeles-bound Flight 175.

Al Qaeda terrorists hijack the plane at approximately 8:45 am and reroute it toward Manhattan.

8:19 a.m.

Veteran flight attendants Betty Ann Ong and Madeline "Amy" Sweeney, with a combined 26 years of experience, alert ground personnel to the hijacking of Flight 11. They stay on the line for almost the entire duration of the flight after its seizure by the terrorists, relaying key details about the attack such as the hijackers' seat numbers and report that the crew is unable to contact the cockpit.

Acting on Ong and Sweeney's information, American Airlines alerts the FBI, jumpstarting the investigation that will become the largest in the agency's history

According to Sweeney, the crew attends to the safety of the passengers, providing medical care to those injured in the hijacking.

8:20 a.m.

American Airlines Flight 77, en route to Los Angeles, departs Washington Dulles International Airport 10 minutes delayed.

8:24 a.m.

Hijacker Mohammed Atta on Flight 11 mistakenly contacts Air Traffic Control. Minutes later, he makes a second unintended transmission.

8:37 a.m.

After hearing Atta's transmission, air traffic controllers contact Northeast Air Defense Sector (NEADS), a division of the military that defends North American airspace, to report the hijacking.

8:42 a.m.

United Airlines Flight 93 departs Newark International Airport after a lengthy air traffic delay on the tarmac. Flight 93 was scheduled to leave Newark at 8 a.m., within minutes of the other hijacked flights.

8:46 a.m.

Flying the plane at about 470 miles per hour, hijackers crash Flight 11 into floors 93-99, instantly killing the 87 passengers and crew on board and unknown hundreds within the tower.

The crash starts fires throughout the North Tower and funnels jet fuel down elevator shafts, igniting fireballs at the lobby and below-grade levels and burning anyone coming into contact with this combusting fuel. The impact severs all three emergency stairwells, trapping 100s in and above the impact zone.

Investment firm Fred Alger Management and professional services company Marsh & McClennan have offices in the impact zone. Thirty-five Alger employees and 295 Marsh employees perish in the attack.

Carr Futures' 69 employees, at work on the 92nd floor directly below the impact zone, also perish. Trapped by debris, they are unable to evacuate.

Bond trading firm Cantor Fitzgerald, floors 101-105, suffers the single largest loss of life, 658 employees.

— Constance Labetti, South Tower, 99th Floor

"I stood up and I just turned my body toward the window and I could see the big airline coming straight toward us. It didn't look like the plane was in any kind of duress. It was going straight toward what I thought was our building, but in actuality Tower 1 was right in front of us. I just stood frozen. I didn't move – I couldn't move. I just stood at the window. I could see it coming closer and closer. I could see their 'AA' [American Airlines] on its tail. I could see the cockpit. I could see inside the cockpit, the tinted windows of the cockpit, that's how close I was.

(Sigh) "I could see on the side some of the windows of the passengers were pulled down, and then it just bellowed into Tower 1. And, for a moment, just for that moment, I almost sighed with relief until I realized (pause) all those people that had just [been] killed in that Tower."

8:46 a.m.

The Fire Department of New York (FDNY) and New York Police Department (NYPD) dispatch units to the World Trade Center within seconds of Flight 11's crash.

On site, Port Authority Police Department (PAPD) officers begin evacuating the North Tower. PAPD headquarters in Jersey City, N.J., dispatches additional officers from other command posts to the World Trade Center.

In July 2001, the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, long-time managers of the World Trade Center, agreed to lease the buildings to real estate developer Larry Silverstein. On September 11, 2001, both Port Authority and Silverstein Properties staff are in the building working on the transition. Their expert knowledge of the towers helps Port Authority fire safety, building, and security staff coordinate the evacuation.

— Bruno Dellinger, Quint Amasis, North Tower, 47th Floor

"When I arrived at the sky lobby level there were, uh, masses of people waiting to the elevators. And for some reason I decided to go back into the stairwell. And the heat was just like, quite intense...

"The intensity of the warning signs, like the sound of the alarms, it was really like, pounding you...

"Anyway, so we went down and people were very calm.

"There were three flows of people. The regular people like me going down. The people who were coming down from the other floors and who were very badly burned – no skin, no hair, just burned. They were walking or carried down by people; helped by people.

"Screams were coming down from the stairwell, 'Emergency! Emergency!' ... And then the third flow of people was, of course, those security personnel and fire department people. Now those people were exhausted. In some of those eyes, and you could see that they knew something, and it was dangerous. They knew something.

"While there was no panic whatsoever in the stairwell, those people were concentrated, focused on doing their job. And while I was walking down, they were going up to their death. And I was walking down to live."

8:50 a.m.

President Bush is alerted around this time while visiting an elementary school in Sarasota, Fla.

8:55 a.m.

South Tower tenants instructed to remain in the building.

"Your attention, please, ladies and gentlemen. Building 2 is secure. There is no need to evacuate Building 2. If you are in the midst of evacuation, you may use the re-entry doors and the elevators to return to your office.

"Repeat, Building 2 is secure."

8:59 a.m.

As hijacked Flight 175 approaches the World Trade Center, crew members and passengers manage to contact loved ones and authorities on the ground.

At 8:59 a.m., Flight 175 passenger Brian David Sweeney, 38, leaves a message for his wife Julie. He then calls his mother, Luise, to report the hijacking, telling her that the passengers are considering storming the cockpit to wrest control from the hijackers.

Brian began the flight in the first row of coach, but makes his calls from a GTE airphone located in one of the last rows of the plane.

Machine: Beep Message 1

"Hi, Jules, this is Brian. Listen I'm on an airplane that's been hijacked. If things don't go well, it's not looking good, I just want you to know I absolutely love you. I want you to do good, go have some good times. Same to my parents and everybody. And I just totally love you and I will see you when you get there. Bye, babe. I'll try to call you."

9:02 a.m.

South Tower evacuation order: "May I have your attention, please. Repeating this message the situation occurred in Building 1 [North Tower]. If the conditions warrant on your floor, you may wish to start an orderly evacuation." — Port Authority

9:03 a.m.

Hijackers, flying the plane at 590 miles per hour, crash Flight 175 into floors 77 to 85 of the World Trade Center's South Tower, instantly killing the 60 passengers and crew and unknown hundreds within the tower.

The impact severs two of three emergency stairwells and most of the elevator cables, trapping many inside elevator cars, and cutting off escape routes.

Despite being choked with rubble, Stairwell A remains passable. However, only 18 people at or above the impact zone are known to have evacuated using this stairway.

— Constance Labetti, South Tower, 99th Floor

"I think I got to the 72nd floor, 75th floor, when we heard – we felt and heard – a loud noise. And people in the stairs start to fall down the stairs.

"And what it felt like was that some – that Tower 1 – this is what I thought – Tower 1 had collapsed onto our building. It felt like somebody took the building, shook it, and put it back down in its place.

I was holding onto the banisters really tight so I didn't fall, but a lot of people on the staircase were tumbling down. What evidently happened was our building had just been hit."

— Florence Jones, Thomson Baseline, South Tower.

"I literally thought for a moment, 'cause he tried to open the door, and all you could feel was the heat of the fire.

"I was like, 'Oh gosh, am I gonna have to jump?' Because I wasn't gonna wait for the firemen. Was I gonna have to do what I just saw people doing?

And I remember him running back across the floor and grabbing my jacket saying, 'Let's go, let's go.'"

9:05 a.m.

President Bush is alerted that a second plane has crashed into the South Tower of the World Trade Center. He now knows that the country is under attack, but information is scarce.

9:10 a.m.

The NYPD calls a second Level 4 Mobilization, bringing its total deployment close to 2,000 men and women.

Minutes later, the FDNY issues a second fifth alarm. Other companies and off-duty personnel, not directly called, respond to the attacks.

In total, more than 200 fire units, approximately 2,200 police officers, and numerous others from city and federal agencies responded to the disaster scene at the World Trade Center.

When their vehicle becomes stuck in traffic, Firefighter Gary R. Box, 37, and others from the FDNY's elite Squad 1 run through the Brooklyn Battery Tunnel to the World Trade Center Squad 1 loses 11 members on 9/11, including Firefighter Box.

On the morning of 9/11, Port Authority Officer James Francis Lynch, 47, is on medical leave, resting at his home in New Jersey.

Nevertheless, he responds to the attack on the World Trade Center, using his PAPD credentials to clear police cordons and head through the Holland Tunnel.

Once Officer Lynch arrives at the towers, he immediately sets to work. As a WTC Emergency Services officer who supervised rescue equipment within the complex, he knows that his experience and knowledge of the towers will be invaluable to the evacuation efforts. He is last seen getting air packs out of a storeroom, then ascending the stairs carrying a load of breathing masks and air tanks. Officer Lynch perishes in the collapse of the South Tower.

— Constance Labetti, South Tower, 99th Floor

"Then the firefighters started to come up and they would holler, 'Move to the right! Move to the right!' I think it was probably about the 40th floor when the firefighters started to come up.

"And I remember thinking they're – they're gonna climb all the way up to 80? I mean how? How are they gonna do that? A few people clapped, a few people wished them blessings – God blessings – and a few people patted them on the shoulders.

"People shouted out to go to the 65th floor where there's a handicap person or to – giving them information. And they just were stone faced, just looked straight ahead; they really didn't show much emotion. Couldn't imagine these firefighters going up there into God knows what."

9:32 a.m.

Flight 93 hijackers accidentally transmit a message intended for the passengers:

"Ladies and Gentlemen: Here the Captain, please sit down, keep remaining sitting. We have a bomb onboard. So, sit."

9:36 a.m.

Secret Service agents evacuate U.S. Vice President Dick Cheney and his aides from his office in the White House to the Presidential Emergency Operations Center, a Cold War-era bunker beneath the White House.

9:37 a.m.

Hijackers crash Flight 77 into the Pentagon's western facade, killing the 59 passengers and crew on board the plane and 125 military and civilian personnel inside the building. A hundred and six are severely injured in the ensuing fire.

Loaded with 36,200 lbs of jet fuel, Flight 77 ignites an inferno inside the Pentagon. The Pentagon's on-site firehouse responds immediately to the crash of Flight 77.

Firefighters from nearby National Airport (with a foam truck designed to fight jet fuel fires) and Virginia's Arlington County Fire Department arrive within minutes

Many civilian employees and military personnel evacuate the building shortly after the impact, while others felt compelled to rush into the burning building to rescue trapped and injured colleagues.

A Pentagon security camera captures the crash of Flight 77 into the building's western facade. At the time of impact, the hijacked plane flew at 530 miles per hour.

— John Yates, Army civilian, security manager, Pentagon

"Everything I touched burned my hands... I just started crawling on my hands and knees... I realized how badly I was hurt, because as I was walking I looked down at my hands and I remember seeing just strings of skin... A doctor [was] saying, 'He goes first...'"

— Louise Rogers, civilian accountant, Pentagon

"The only noise was the crackling of flames and it was just sheer devastation."

9:42 a.m.

The Federal Aviation Authority (FAA) grounds all flights over, or bound for, the continental United States. The U.S. Department of Transportation allowed national airspace to open and flights to resume two days later on September 13, 2001, at 11 a.m. EST.

9:45 a.m.

Throughout the morning, officials evacuate high-profile buildings, government offices, landmarks, and public spaces in response to rumors of escalating attacks.

9:57 a.m.

Flight 93's passengers are believed to have collectively voted to mount a counterattack against the hijackers.

Twelve of Flight 93's 40 passengers and crew manage to alert loved ones and authorities to the plane's hijacking. At least five learn about the attacks on the World Trade Center or the Pentagon.

9:59 a.m.

After burning for 56 minutes, the South Tower collapses in 10 seconds, killing hundreds of workers and first responders in the building and surrounding area.

As the South Tower collapses, dust and debris engulfs the streets near the World Trade Center. Many flee, seeking shelter in surrounding buildings.

When the World Trade Center towers collapse, huge pieces of the steel facade fall to the earth, causing enormous damage to nearby buildings and significant loss of life.

FDNY Lt. Mickey Kross, Engine 16

"We entered the stairway B, which was the core stairway in the [North Tower] building, which we were using as our attack stairs. ...

"The building [started] shaking, really noticeably shaking, and I thought maybe, you know, the elevator was coming down the shafts, maybe they cut loose. I didn't know what was going on, but I was holding on, and I was a little concerned about this. And then it stopped, and that was the South Tower going down, I found out later."

-"We're going to rush the hijackers."

— Jeremy Glick, last words to his wife from an airphone on Flight 93:

"We're going to rush the hijackers."

— Todd Beamer, his last audible words, as heard by Lisa Jefferson, as Flight 93 passengers fought to take back the plane:

"Are you guys ready? Let's roll."

10:03 a.m.

Hijackers roll Flight 93 side-to-side, rapidly diving and climbing, in an attempt to knock passengers and crew off balance as they attempt to storm the cockpit.

Eyewitnesses on the ground report the aircraft's erratic flight, ending with the sound of a crash.

To prevent passengers from retaking the airplane, hijackers deliberately crash Flight 93 in a field in Somerset County, Pennsylvania, killing all 40 passengers and crew.

10:15 a.m.

The damaged section of the Pentagon's outermost offices, known as the E Ring, collapses. No rescue workers are injured.

Several times throughout the morning, speculation and misinformation about additional hijacked planes cause the cessation of rescue operations and evacuation of emergency workers.

While the rescue effort continues, many Department of Defense (DoD) employees return to work in the unaffected half of the Pentagon. The National Military Command Center (NMCC), located on the far side of the Pentagon, coordinates the US military response to the 9/11 attacks. NMCC officers initiate a conference call with federal and military responders that continues throughout the day

10:28 a.m.

The North Tower collapses after burning for 102 minutes, killing 100s of people in the building and the surrounding area.

Of the 16,000 to 19,000 people in the North and South Towers of the World Trade Center on 9/11, the vast majority are evacuated safely. By the end of the day, all seven buildings at the World Trade Center were destroyed.

— David Brink, NYPD (Survived both towers collapsing)

"Well it was probably a half hour later that I heard the same rumblings coming down. And that was from the North Tower. I said, 'Oh jeez here we go again.' I thought 'you know, what's the chance of me surviving the second collapse? I don't know, not too good.'

"I wanted to run like hell myself down the stairwell that I was sending all those people down.

"But unfortunately, I said, 'I can't run that fast. This thing is gonna to beat me out.' So what I did was I made it down about three or four stairs and there was a little bit of a landing that was there and I just basically positioned myself there with a couple of the other guys.

"I said, 'Guys, grab the wall. You know we're going to do that same thing we did for the first collapse and I'm sure that we're going to make it. You know, we're gonna be fine.'

"So we grabbed the wall again, but this time it seemed like the collapse lasted forever.

"The whole ground was shaking. Nothing was on fire by me, but still the blinding smoke, but I was at the base of the smoke, I couldn't run anywhere. The smoke was all around me and all the debris and the cloud – the cloud of dust. It wasn't really so much smoke, but it was the dust cloud that was coming down. It was choking – it really was. I was like, oh my God, it was the closest to dying that I ever thought about.

"There were the loud noises that kept coming down from all the I-beams that were falling down all around us. And (pause), you know, eventually, what seemed – and it was only a few seconds – it seemed like a few hours, it finally ended and the smoke had cleared.

"It was a little bit better because we weren't buried this time like we were for the first collapse, but still it was an awful ride."

11:02 a.m.

New York City Mayor Rudolph Giuliani calls for the evacuation of all residents, workers, and tourists from lower Manhattan. All of lower Manhattan south of 14th Street from the Hudson River to the East River is officially closed to all but emergency personnel, creating an area known as the "frozen zone."

Throngs of people crowd onto streets, highways, and bridges to evacuate lower Manhattan. Many walk north or across bridges to Brooklyn.

Thousands leave the island of Manhattan by boat in one of the largest water evacuations since World War II.

11:45 a.m.

President Bush orders Air Force One to land at Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana, where he makes his first televised remarks about the unfolding events.

"The resolve of our great nation is being tested," he says. "But make no mistake, we will show the world that we will pass this test. God bless."

Although the President wants to return to Washington, D.C., those protecting him deem this unsafe. Air Force One heads towards Offutt Air Force Base in Nebraska, home of the U.S. Strategic Command, where Bush uses their underground secure communications network to confer with the White House, the Pentagon, the CIA, and the FBI. Although his staff will prepare for him to address the nation from the bunker, the President ultimately will insist on returning to the nation's capital.

The last commercial flight above the continental United States lands. In total, air traffic controllers guide over 4,000 commercial and private planes to airports throughout the United States and in Canada. Local authorities and residents create ad-hoc plans to provide food and shelter to stranded travelers.

— FDNY Lt. Mickey Kross, Engine 16

"I heard this very, very loud noise above me. It was just a tremendous roar. It was above. It sounded like it was coming towards, towards you. And then the wind, very, very fierce wind. It started lifting me up off the ground and so that's when I crouched down, the next thing – I just crouched down. I got to the corner of the staircase by the railing and I just got as small as I could possibly get, cause I'm not a big guy to begin with so and I literally – (sigh) – I guess the best way to describe it, I tried to crawl into my fire helmet, that's what I wanted to do just to protect myself

"I wasn't sure what was going on, I thought the building might be coming down and I figured, uh, ok this could be it. And I was a little angry, you know, it was like 'Damn it, why me? Why I'm going to die in the World Trade Center on a beautiful summer morning.'

"I just like, it's like a little denial and disbelief sets in and... then I started getting hit with stuff, you know, it was just debris was hitting me. It went dark and then the next thing was just total silence. Nothing. No wind. No noise. No light. Nothing.

"And then I started hearing noises, I started hearing like moaning and guys were starting to communicate, yell out. These were the guys I was trapped with.

"They're calling out, 'Who's there?,'

"'You guys all right?,' blah, blah, blah, and this kind of thing. And I realized I wasn't alone, 'cause when you're alone in a situation like that, that's like existential isola-

SEARED INTO MEMORIES – The world seemed to jolt askew on Sept. 11, 2001, when the acts of terrorists left citizens in a surreal and impossible-to-fathom place, amid collapsed buildings, downed airplanes, and thousands dead. This Sunday, the world will mark the 10-year anniversary with reflection, lessons learned, and hope. Photo courtesy of 9/11 Memorial Museum, gift of John F. O'Sullivan Jr.

Garrett Countians Remember, Reflect On Memories Of 9/11

While it is not customary for the editorial staff of The Republican newspaper to cover national or international news, the events of Sept. 11, 2001, while some distance away, did indeed impact the lives of every resident, and did warrant attention and coverage in our news columns. Our focus at this newspaper has always been on our own, those of our mountaintop home, who either reside here, have made their home here at one time, or have close ties to the area still. Therefore, we deemed it appropriate to ask some of our own who were eyewitnesses to these terrifying events to tell their stories of that day, and to also express how the day changed them, or how they feel the events changed the world. We were pleased to receive several essays, all of which are published below.

Pam Butler

Former resident of Grantsville, current resident of Dunkirk

In my office, near the Pentagon, I witnessed the chaos, experienced professional loss, felt the personal shock, and dealt with the tragedy personally from the terrorist attacks on September 11, 2001. I first heard the explosion of the plane hitting the building and then saw, in disbelief with other co-workers, the smoke, fire, and debris. I observed utter chaos as people ran around to get more information and to find supervisors to be informed how to respond. Immediately, everything was closed, which caused numerous traffic jams and more disorder. Buildings were secured and closed – which created even more upset as people needed re-entry after many hours of sitting in their vehicles not moving, not having food, and needing relief. Phone contact was nonexistent. Attempts were made to account for all personnel, but many were not found until later and they were the ones actually in the Pentagon who lost their lives.

On the actual day of the attack, I was in shock about the crisis, but I was kept busy in high alert mode to assist and direct personnel and do what was needed to keep everyone safe. As I stopped to look out the window, all I could see was smoke. The Pentagon had been hit and lives were lost. It seemed like a scene from a movie and I waited to hear the director say "cut" so that the smoke would lift and everything would be fine. That wasn't the case, however. When the traffic cleared and the decision was made for all of us to go home later in the evening, I remember the eeriness of the empty roads and the heaviness of the air around me. The reports on the radio were constantly updating closures and emergency information for individuals to locate their loved ones. I hurried home to my toddler and my husband. I held them tightly as the reality of the day started to hit my consciousness. I cried. Family members were finally able to reach me to confirm that I was okay.

I had a close working relationship with several of the individuals who were killed in the Pentagon. I felt the professional loss of great talented men and women as well as the personal pain of losing friends as the various memorial services were held. Months after the attack, I still had difficulties attending meetings in the Pentagon. Overnight, the environment became extremely official, intense and scary. Life as I knew it was gone. I was met daily with military personnel carrying weapons and in full combat gear. Those who used to smile and say "good morning" were cold and deliberate with little to no "human" feature – they were all business and life was serious now.

The attacks and circumstances afterward changed me forever. I process situations differently, I love more deeply, I appreciate more intensely. I try to celebrate each and every day because I realize that it can be gone in an instant. I appreciate those around me and treasure my loved ones even more.

Bob Lewis

Mountainview Drive, Oakland

I was working in my office less than two miles from the Pentagon and four blocks from the White House when the attacks came. I had passed the Pentagon on my way to work as I did every day. Like everybody we were watching events unfold on television when we got the order to evacuate. The ramp to my parking garage was jammed as were all the local streets. I grabbed some lunch at a local shop and returned to the office where I continued to watch, numbed, until the traffic cleared. I had never seen Washington so deserted – all the more chilling because it was such a gorgeous day. I couldn't drive by the Pentagon, of course, but for the next couple of years I was able to observe the daily progress until the restoration was complete. I remain impressed at how quickly and effectively the government completed the work at the Pentagon, including the wonderful memorial tribute.

Fortunately we did not lose any relatives or close friends at any of the sites that day, but the Shanksville crash still sends shivers down my spine. Had the passengers not taken over Flight 93, the flight path to either the White House or the Capitol would have gone directly over my office. I can never repay my debt of gratitude to those brave men and women who unhesitatingly sacrificed themselves to save others, quite possibly me.

Washington, D.C., and State Park Road

On September 11, 2001, I left my Washington home very early to take the Metro to a special meeting on international law at the old Patent and Trademark Office in Crystal City, Va., located minutes south of the Pentagon. The opening speaker, a visiting Dutch friend and highly respected international civil servant, began at around 9:30 a.m. by expressing personal regret for the reports of what he then thought were plane crashes in New York. He had just turned to his prepared remarks when someone entered the room and ordered us to evacuate the building immediately.

As I emerged from the PTO building, I saw hundreds standing on top of the bluff of land outside the Crystal City building. They were all facing the Pentagon and looking at the rising smoke. I tried taking the Metro back to the city. The train stopped at Pentagon City because the Pentagon station had closed. I emerged from the Metro and went into the Ritz Carlton Hotel. There was one pay phone so I lined up to call my wife. (In those days, few had cell phones.) Because the line was compressed, I overheard one lady describe escaping the Pentagon and her saying, "I came to America to escape violence." My wife reassured me that she and her elderly father were safely home from his doctor's appointment. I watched the first tower collapse on giant TV screens in the hotel.

I then recalled that a distinguished law professor and this country's leading expert on United Nations law, Professor Louis Sohn and his wife Betty, lived in the building adjacent to the Metro. When I called from the receptionist, the Sohns invited me to come up. When I entered the Sohns' apartment on a high floor, the pungent odor of burning aviation fuel pervaded their small apartment. Smoke was visible outside their living room window. Professor Sohn, a Polish immigrant who arrived here on the eve of World War II, kept shaking his head, unable to comprehend what we were seeing together on television and out his window.

At about 2:30 p.m., I decided that I would either take the Metro back into the city or walk. Mrs. Sohn gave me a red-wrapped granola bar to sustain me. Fortunately, the trains were again running into the city. Within a few hours, friends from all over the world were calling at home and the office and sending e-mails to check on our family's well-being.

Since September 11, Professor Sohn and his wife have died. I still have the granola bar on my desk to remind me of that day. Many lessons emerge from these 10 years and from my legal practice, which soon focused on anti-terrorism sanctions. One lesson seems predominant: Worldwide support for the United States and its policies results from adherence to our highest values, even when responding to existential threats from those who reject those same values.

Matthew Sincell

Mtn. Lake Park native, current resident of Park City, Utah

Ten years ago I stood in Hamilton Park looking at the New York City skyline, camera in hand, and watched the two towers smoke. I had moved to Weehawken, N.J., on Sept. 9, 2001. I remember feeling as if I were caught somewhere between sleeping and waking, as if I and the gathering crowd of people around me were moving in perpetual slow motion. I didn't know quite what was happening, but I knew deep inside that the world as I knew it was stirring. I was witnessing some great change. I found myself snapping a series of photos as each of the two towers fell. Somehow focusing on this tiny action of click, advance, click, advance, allowed me to document this moment with a certain detachment; as if looking through the camera lens made it less real. I understood intellectually that thousands of people were dying before my eyes, but emotionally it was impossible for me to comprehend. I think even 10 years later, it's impossible for me to fully comprehend. I stayed in the city for nine more years, and watched, and was a small part, I suppose, of its resilience.

I witnessed things during those nine years that have made a permanent mark on me, on my own life-fabric. In a place where hate might have been the strongest, and perhaps most justified, reaction, I found instead that there was an outpouring of compassion. First, the compassion was extended toward the families of the victims. In my own profession at the time, theatre (which immediately after the event seemed about the most useless of professions), I saw fellow actors, writers, directors, and producers begin to write and perform plays to raise awareness and money for the families of the victims. There was a forum for the stories to be written down, remembered, and examined. A couple of years later, after the initial reaction to "protect our own and lash out at Muslims" subsided, I saw plays being written that attempted to get to the heart of why and how this all happened. This was done gingerly at first, because the wound was still so fresh. In some cases it was a matter of "not yet. It's still too soon." Gradually pain shifted into compassion and then into understanding, and then into a continued attempt to separate terrorists from a religion, which at its core is a religion of peace. I saw the sun continue to rise every morning. I saw people go back to work. I saw people walking forward, with scars, but walking forward.

Ten years later on Sept. 11, and every year since, my heart aches in remembrance of what was lost, the sacrifices made by those in the towers, the rescuers, and those who continue to work at ground zero today. I think of my friend, Ray Stapleton, my housemate, who spent the better part of four days in hell, with no sleep, climbing into the rubble of the towers hoping to find some small sign of life.

I also think about what was gained. I think about the strength of the human spirit. I think of my family. I think of how impermanent, how precious, and how beautiful life is. When I want to tell someone I love them, I tell them now. Now is the moment to live life. Now is truly what we have. These are the things I think about 10 years later.

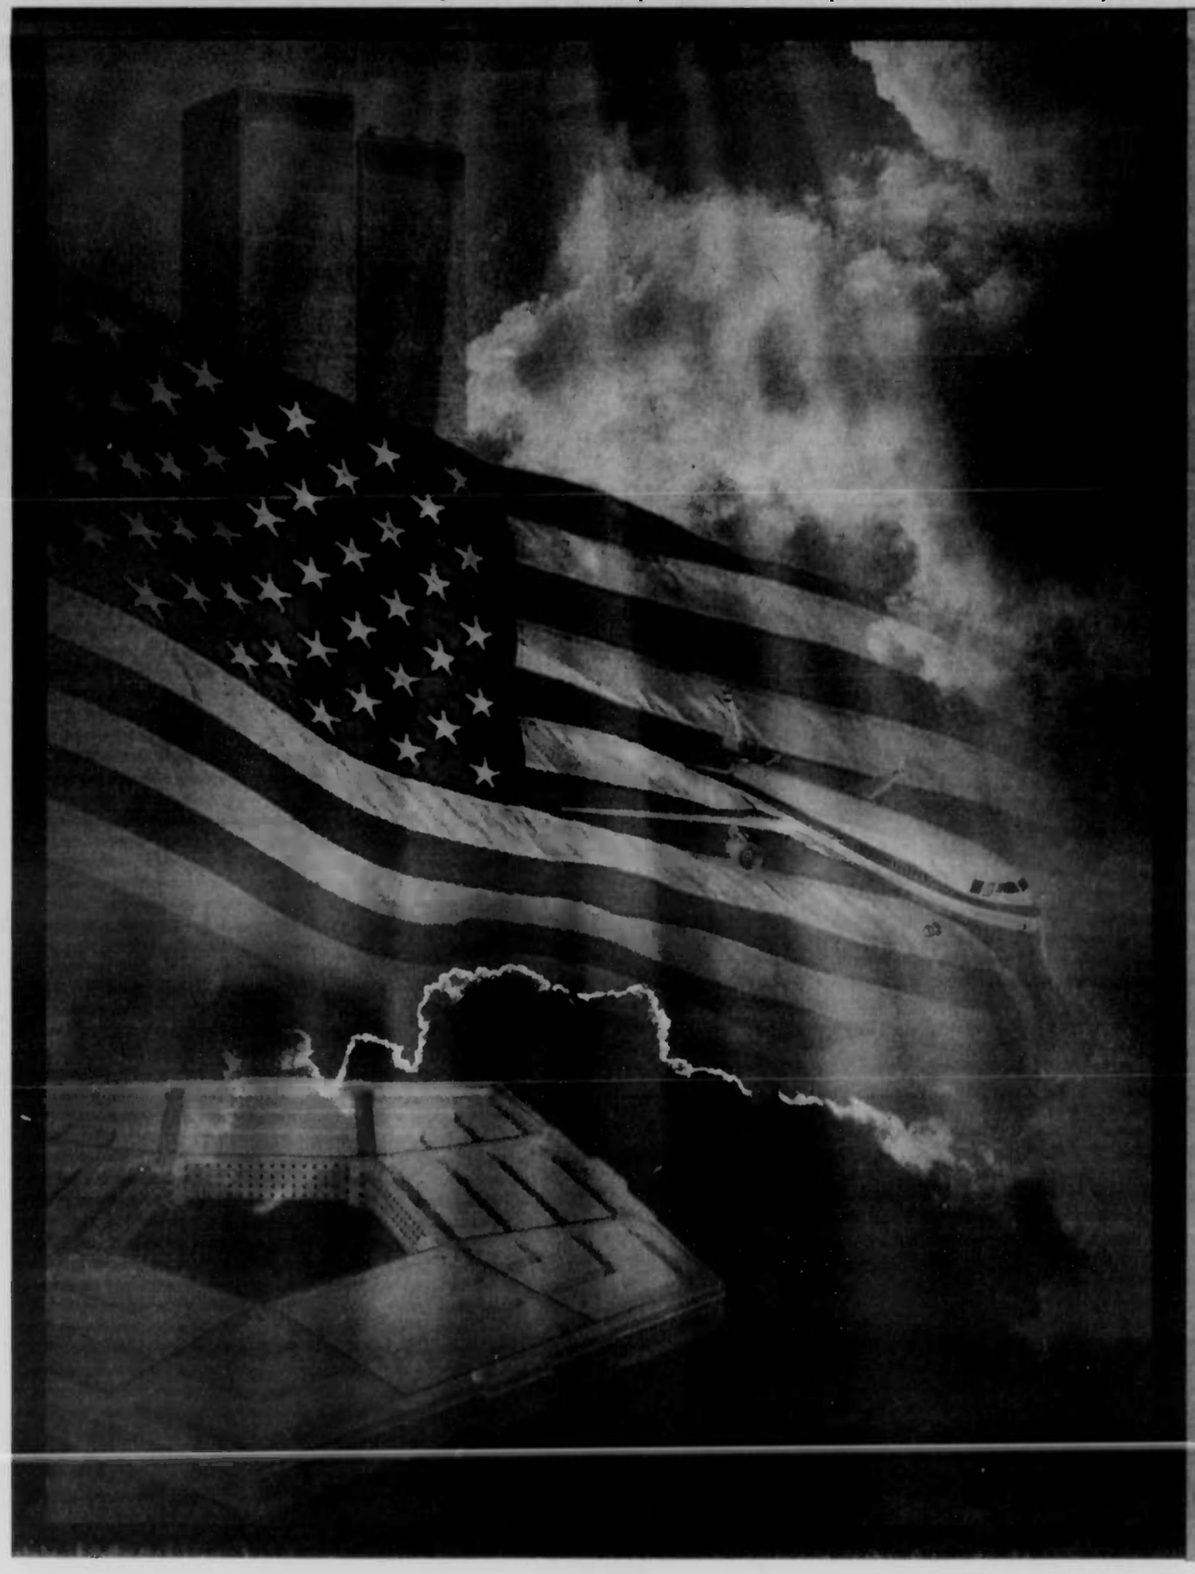
Barbara Rostosky Brygider

Former Oakland resident, current resident of Spotsylvania, Va.

On Sept. 11, 2001, I was working in the Pentagon in the Office of the Secretary of Defense in an office that created policy on how to develop, procure, and test weapon systems. All of us were watching the events unfolding in New York City on television, and we thought the first plane was an accident. When the second plane hit, we started to realize what was happening, but never thought we were in danger. I asked one of the security guards if we were at an elevated threat level, and he said no. So I don't think any of us thought we were a target and we went back to work. We heard a loud boom and felt the building shake. But even then, we did not think anything was wrong. The Pentagon was undergoing renovations, so it was not uncommon to hear loud noises and feel the building move. Then a woman came running in our office and said there was an explosion and fire, and we had to leave the building. It was all very surreal, as we left the building and saw smoke billowing out. We were all waiting outside not really knowing what had happened, but the rumor was that a helicopter had crashed into the building. There are helicopters coming and going at the Pentagon all the time and the smoke was coming from where the helicopter landing area was. I was trying to get through to my husband, who also worked in the Pentagon. Paul, a Marine, was the Military Assistant to the United States Navy Under Secretary for Installations and Environment, and he flew on those helicopters occasionally. My cell phone rang and it was my sister telling me a plane had hit the Pentagon! I was in shock, and my husband called and said he was okay, but was helping to get people out of the building. He told me to get in the car and go home, and at that time, people were yelling to get away from the Pentagon because more planes were coming. I remember horror and disbelief as it was sinking in. I remember shaking all the way home and how scary it was not knowing what would happen next, and being worried about Paul. He did not get home until dark, and he was later given an award from the Secretary of the Navy for his efforts. There is a photograph of him on that day that is on display at the Marine Corps Museum in Quantico in a special 9/11 display.

Sept. 11 was a Tuesday, and many in the Pentagon went back to work the next day. My office went back Thursday and it was amazing how desperately I wanted to go back to work, just to prove the terrorists didn't win, and we would keep going. The building was still smoking on Thursday and there was an awful smell, but we went back to work!

One good amazing thing came out of that day is my son. I was a bit of a workaholic and very into my career, but on that day, I realized there was more to life than work. My wonderful son Adam was born in February 2003, and is truly a gift – something good that came out of that awful day.



10 Years Later...

WE REMEMBER SEPTEMBER 11, 2001

A decade has passed since the terrorist attacks of September 11 shocked our nation and the world, forever changing so many lives and the course of history. Today we pause to honor the memory of those who perished, and salute those who answered the call of duty. Their courage and their sacrifice will never be forgotten.

On September 11, 2011, we remain grateful to the heroes of 9.11 and to our men and women in uniform. We remain committed to the ideals of freedom, liberty and justice for all. We remain united as Americans.

AN ACCIDENTAL MOTHER
by Katherine Anne Kindred
C. 2011, Unbridled Books, $23.95; 224 Pages
Review by Terri Schlichenmeyer

You never thought you could love someone so much.

The second your child was put in your arms, hearing the first note of a squall that sounded better than a symphony, the moment you saw this brand-new life, you were head-over-heels in love so hard you could actually feel it. Whether by birth or otherwise, no matter whether your child grew beneath your heart or inside it, you were suddenly a parent and you were in love.

But getting to that point took a long, careful time and families are fragile things, as you'll see by reading An Accidental Mother by Katherine Anne Kindred.

Kate Kindred never set out to avoid motherhood, but between two divorces, a miscarriage, and years of singlehood, it just wasn't happening. She never mourned it, though. She enjoyed her freedom, travel, and her dog Annie.

And then Kindred met Michael and his father, Jim.

Michael was just 3 years old, but had already had his fill of life's problems. His father claimed that he hadn't even known the boy existed until Michael was found playing next to his passed-out mother. Jim was divorced, waging a custody battle for his daughter, and raising Michael alone.

It didn't take long before Kindred opened her home and her heart.

But Jim seemed often to be struggling, possibly, says Kindred, because of accusations and the long, bitter battle with his ex-wife. To help out (at first) and then because she truly loved these males in her life, Kindred happily took on parenting duties: guiding Michael through childhood, making sure she attended his school events, signing him up for after-school classes, making sure he had clean clothes, basic hygiene, discipline, manners, and morals.

She and Jim were Michael's parents. Kindred loved being a mother, and Jim promised her that he would never take Michael away from her.

And then he did.

The break-up was supposed to be slow, to give the kids a chance to get used to everything, but Jim moved without warning while Kindred was away for a weekend. Not long after that, she saw 9-year-old Michael for the last time...

An Accidental Mother is a little like a car crash on an icy road: You can feel the loss of control; you know the crash is inevitable because you can see it building; you want to sound a warning, but you know you might as well save your voice because the crash is going to happen anyhow.

Kindred tells a story that every "significant other" should take to heart: mainly, that your rights to the child belonging to your "other half" are not whole. This book is mostly joyous, but readers will wonder why Kindred didn't steadfastly insist on the legal action that Jim promised and, though you know what happens, you won't be able to avoid being saddened over it.

This is not just a "mom's book": it will ring true with anyone who cherishes a child that's not his/hers. If that's you, beware: This is a book you'll love.

are currently offered at Brenda's Body Shop on Tuesdays from 6:30 to 7:45 p.m. Beginning Sept. 18, classes will also be offered on Sundays from 4 to 5:15 p.m.

There are three tiers of donations, Brosnihan said. Participants will receive an event T-shirt, hula hoop, and hoop dance classes.

"I encourage everyone to take advantage of what some call the 'happiest workout ever' with this new spin on exercise, while sharing the joys of community and charity. In the end, everyone wins," she said.

The hula hoops can be decorated by each user.

"It's going to be a lot of fun seeing all the different hoops and creative styles," she said.

The first demonstration of the dance will take place during the Autumn Glory Festival, first at the Thursday, Oct. 13, firemen's parade, before and during the grand feature parade on Oct. 15, and finishing that evening at the Western Maryland Tournament of Bands.

"We hope our exposure during the Autumn Glory Festival will increase the awareness of our project and increase participation and donations for the House of Hope," Brosnihan said.

The finale event for Hoop Hope Hooray will be a dance party on Sunday, Oct. 30, from 2 to 4 p.m. at Southern High School. There will be entertainment, prizes, and "lots of ways to 'hoop it up.'" Brosnihan said.

For more information about becoming a Hoop Hope Hooray participant, sponsor, or to make a donation, persons may contact Brenda's Body Shop or the House of Hope.

a richer, fuller life. They help build confidence and self-esteem, and help the children to discover strengths and set goals toward achieving their dreams. The mentor works to be a positive influence in a child's life and instill a thirst for learning both in traditional and non-traditional ways."

Cheesman said that each study buddy typically comes from challenging circumstances and "just need a little extra attention." She said that each is confidentially chosen and referred to GMI by teachers, counselors, and school principals.

She added that mentors and teachers agree that even one hour a week can and often does make a difference in a child's life.

"The program and the school typically see many improvements after a child participates," she said. "School attendance, grades, and behavior are among them. Schools also report improved respect for teachers and peers, and a realization that learning is a good thing. Students who have worked with a mentor have seldom been involved with discipline problems, and to date no mentored students in the program have had to be academically retained."

Garrett Mentors Inc. is supported by a board of directors led by president Rick Schiff, and GMI also has the support of "Friends of Garrett Mentors," people who may help with one or more of the children's out-of-school activities or assist with one of the organziation's fundraisers. GMI is also a member of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and collaborates with Garrett County United Way.

GMI holds two fundraisers each year – a Big Breakfast and a Barn Dance. This year's Barn Dance, barbecue, and silent auction will be held on Saturday, Sept. 17, at Ridgeview Valley on Gravelly Run Road, directly off Route 219 in McHenry.

GMI currently serves 102 children in all nine of the county's elementary schools; however, Cheesman said that there are still 20 children waiting for a caring adult to share one hour a week during the school year.

"We are interested in talking with anyone who would like to be a mentor, a friend, become a board member, or make a tax deductible contribution," said Cheesman, who can be reached at the GMI office, telephone 301-387-1783.

Southern Falls To Allegany After Last Minute Rally Falls Just Short

The Southern High School varsity football team fell just shy of a comeback against Allegany on Friday at Ram Stadium. The game, which opened the season for both teams, ended with a thrilling fourth quarter, home-team rally that involved an 83-yard scoring drive, culminating in a 5-yard touchdown run by linebacker Danny Sislo with 1:03 left in regulation.

Southern, a field goal from a tie ball game, attempted an on-side kick in the final seconds of play. The Campers recovered the ball, however, and were able to run out the clock and claim the road win, 24-21.

The loss was tough for a Rams team which won four of its first five games last season and battled to reach a 5-5 record, an improvement on 2009's 3-7 mark.

Southern was led by senior quarterback Kurt Gangler, who completed 14 of 27 passes for 192 yards, including a 12-yard touchdown pass to Kevin Colaw. Gangler did, however, throw three interceptions, his first one quickly becoming the first touchdown of the game for Alco, after that pick was returned for 75 yards by Daquan McGraw.

Southern's Mason Dick rushed for 58 yards on nine carries and scored a touchdown, while Sislo picked up 46 yards on eight carries before scoring the game's final points.

Madison Wolford scored two of Allegany's four touchdowns, one on a 15-yard run and the other one covering 65 yards. Wolford led the Campers' ground game with 122 yards on 15 carries, while fullback Ryan Morgan rushed for 61 yards on nine carries.

Camper junior quarterback Carter Imes went 5 for 13 passing for 89 yards and completed a 51-yard touchdown pass to Chris Fram.

Southern took the ball at the 20 to start the game and proceeded to move down the field on five plays, moving to the Allegany 44, before a Gangler pass was tipped by a Rams receiver and picked off by McGraw. The pick-six, at 10:05 of the first quarter, was the Campers' first touchdown of the year.

In their second possession, the Rams' offense fared far better, marching 81 yards on 12 plays to score at 3:01 of the first quarter when Gangler hit a wide-open Colaw on the right side of the end zone on a fourth-and-five play from the Allegany 12.

The big plays of the drive were a 12-yard gain by Sislo on the first play, and a 16-yard pick-up by Dick, which put the ball on the Campers 17.

Allegany took the lead right back as Imes hooked up with Fram for a 51-yard touchdown pass on the Campers' second offensive play of the season. The Campers attempt for two points failed.

The Campers led after the first quarter, 12-6, despite having possession of the ball for 48 seconds.

After the Rams were forced to punt, Allegany recovered a fumbled snap by the punter on the Southern 31. A 16-yard completion by Imes put the ball on the 15-yard line. On the next play, Wolford drove into the end zone over the right tackle.

The run for two failed, but the Campers led 18-6, despite having possession for only 1:13.

A Garrett Campbell return of a short Allegany kick gave the Rams possession at their own 49. After getting into Allegany territory, however, Southern punted from the Camper 46, with Allegany's Calman McKenzie returning it to the 27.

On second-and-eight, Wolford took an option pitch, cut back against the grain and turned on the jets to take it 65 yards for the fourth Allegany touchdown at 7:30 of the half. Allegany's kick was no good.

Undeterred, Southern took possession at its 35 and used 13 plays to make it 24-14, after Dick broke a tackle to go in for a nine-yard touchdown. The clock read 2:37 of the half.

The big plays of the drive were a 16-yard Gangler completion to Dick, a 16-yard hook-up with Derek Noble and a 14-yarder on fourth-and-eleven to put the ball on the Allegany nine and set up Dick's TD.

Allegany moved the ball from its 40 to the Southern 27, but Imes was run out of bounds at the 30 on a fourth-and-seven to turn the ball over on downs. Alco's Aniello DeStefano, though, picked off a Gangler pass and downed it at the Southern 47 and the half would end at 24-14.

The second half turned into a defensive battle with both teams going scoreless until the Rams mounted their big 83-yard scoring drive, after their defense stopped the Campers just short of a first down at the Southern 17.

The drive consisted of seven plays; the biggest gain of the drive was a 43-yard completion to Colaw to put the ball on the 10.

Southern is set to host Moorefield tomorrow evening at 7 p.m.

SOUTHERN MOUNTS RALLY – The Southern High School varsity football team nearly overcame a 10-point deficit while hosting Allegany in its season opener. The Rams marched 83 yards down the field in the final minutes of play before attempting an on-side kick. That kick was recovered by an Allegany player, who allowed the Campers to narrowly escape Oakland with the win. Pictured above center is Southern quarterback Kurt Gangler (7) scrambling away from Allegany linemen while scanning downfield for an open receiver. Pictured below is Ram Logan Stewart (10) hitting the endzone turf after breaking up a big scoring pass. See story for details.

Rams Open Soccer Campaign With Resounding 9-2 Victory Over Berlin

The boys' varsity soccer team of Southern High School opened its 2011 season with a resounding win over visiting Berlin, Pa., on Saturday.

Bryan Wilkinson and Jasper Tasker each scored a pair of goals, and Tasker also had two assists.

The Rams wasted no time getting on the scoreboard, as Nick McGettigan scored off a feed by Tasker just two minutes into the match.

Berlin knotted the score at 1-1 about nine minutes later when Max Zaverukha scored an unassisted goal.

Southern took the lead for good about 10 minutes later when Tasker recorded his first goal, unassisted. A pass from Tasker to Wilkinson resulted in his first goal, coming with about 13 minutes left in the first half, giving the Rams a 3-1 lead.

Wilkinson scored again just two minutes later, this time unassisted, and Alex Fike added another Ram goal, unassisted, with about seven minutes left in the first half.

Just two minutes into the second half, Tasker recorded his second goal of the night, unassisted, to put the Rams up 6-1. Seth Ingram and Colton Forrester quickly followed with unassisted goals for the Rams to make it 8-1.

Zaverukha got his second goal of the night with about 29 minutes to play.

Southern's Doug Isinghood added an unassisted goal with about two minutes to play to conclude the scoring.

The Rams were slated to play county rival Northern last night; however, that match has been postponed until Oct. 6 because of wet field conditions. They are scheduled to travel to Frankfort this evening, play at Allegany on Monday, and host Fort Hill next Tuesday. Start times against Fort Hill will be 5:30 (junior varsity) and 7 p.m. (varsity).

Huskies Dominate Play, But Fall To Smithsburg In Opener

Despite dominating most of the statistics in their season opener last Friday evening at home, the Northern High School varsity football team trailed in the most important one – scoring – when the contest with Smithsburg was over. For the first time in a number of seasons, the Huskies were shut out, falling 7-0 to the Leopards.

Led by quarterback Patrick Sines, the Huskies moved the ball up and down the field between the 10-yard lines, but could not punch it into the end zone. Sines completed 20 of 28 passes for 159 yards and Northern finished with 301 total yards of offense, nearly double that of the visitors (169).

The Huskies had the ball inside the Smithsburg 20-yard line three times and came away with no points. The third time was in the waning moments of the contest.

Northern's Josh Mason recovered a Leopard fumble in their own end zone with 4½ minutes remaining, giving the Huskies possession on their own 20. Sines engineered a drive to the Smithsburg 11, and on a fourth-down-and-five play, he hit Alex Baker with a pass, but Baker immediately slipped and fell just short of the first-down marker. The Leopards then ran out the final 55 seconds to preserve their win.

The Huskies also had a successful goal-line stand late in the third quarter, and the Leopards stopped the Huskies on a fourth-and-goal from the two in the first half.

The only points of the game were scored in the final seconds of the first quarter when Zach Krall capped a drive with a 1-yard touchdown carry. Clayton Layman booted the extra point, which would be the final point of the night.

Baker and Josh Mason combined for 137 yards rushing, while Cody Rodeheaver recorded eight catches for 58 yards. Baker finished with 76 yards on 13 carries, and Mason gained 61 yards on 11 attempts.

Pacing the Leopards' ground game was Krall, who picked up 88 yards on 17 carries.

Mason and Baker also spearheaded the Husky defensive unit, as Mason recorded 10 tackles to go with his key fumble recovery, and Baker finished with eight tackles and one recovery.

"If you can't score, you can't win," said Northern head coach Phil Carr matter-of-factly. "We did a great job of moving the ball up and down the field between the 10s, but just could not finish. We also had a couple of turnovers that hurt us.

"I feel that we were the better team, which makes the loss very disappointing," he added.

Even with the disappointment, Carr said he was pleased with the effort of his team.

"They played their hearts out," he said. "We had a balanced effort offensively, running and throwing the ball well, and we were strong defensively. It was also evident that our kids are in good physical condition. Our roster is so small that we have a lot of players going both ways, and they held up very well."

Carr said that his team emerged from the contest with only minor bumps and bruises.

"Josh Mason has a pretty sore knee, but he is still questionable for this week," he said.

"Our challenge this week is to make sure that we keep our heads up and bounce back from this loss," Carr said.

The Huskies will try to get into the win column this Friday when they travel to Williamsport, a team that is now 2A.

"A win against them would give us a bonus point since we are 1A," Carr said.

The Wildcats are led by sophomore quarterback Branden Jackson.

"Even though he's only a sophomore, he's a real threat," Carr said. "He can throw and he can scramble, so it will be crucial for us to keep him contained.

"We saw them in a scrimmage against Mountain Ridge," he said. "They run a spread offense, mostly from the shotgun, and they are a very athletic team."

The Leopards lost to Liberty in their season opener last week, 20-12.

"They also have very good special teams. Last week they had a 95-yard touchdown run on a kickoff, and they had two more punt returns for touchdowns called back, so that's another major area of concern to us."

Carr said that he believes Williamsport is similar in both size and speed to that of Smithsburg, so he does not anticipate many changes in his team's game plan.

"If we can just finish our drives by getting the ball into the end zone, I think we will be all right," he said.

Friday's kickoff is set for 7 p.m.

HUSKIES EDGED IN OPENER – Northern High School quarterback Pat Sines played an excellent game Friday night at the Cove, but the Huskies were edged in their opener by visiting Smithsburg, 7-0. Sines, who is pictured above picking up yardage around the left side, completed 20 of 28 passes for 159 yards, and the Northern ground game added another 142 yards, but the Huskies were unable to punch the ball into the end zone. Also identifiable in the photo above are Huskies Sean Kamp (#57) and Dan Sisler (#68). Below, Northern senior split end Kyle Rosenberger tries to negotiate his way through a pack of Leopard defenders. The Huskies will go after their first win of the season this Friday at Williamsport. Fifth Quarter Set To Follow SHS Football Games Mountain Top Youth for Christ plans to hold its "Fifth Quarter" events following Southern High School home games.

This is the second year Fifth Quarters will occur at Southern High School. MTYFC has invited all 7th-12th graders to the school's cafeteria for special activities after the home football games. Activities are scheduled to last approximately two hours.

"Fifth Quarter is making a difference by providing a safe place for teenagers to hang out Friday nights directly following Southern High School home football games," stated a spokesperson.

"These fun events will have free food and drinks, games, prizes, and give-aways. But these events are more than just food and fun activities. They afford kids the opportunity to go somewhere out of harm's way – a great alternative to drinking, cruising, or causing trouble."

The event's organizers are currently accepting sponsorship from individuals and businesses within the community. All donations are 100 percent tax deductible and may be sent to: Mountain Top Youth For Christ, PO Box 27, Oakland, MD, 21550.

Those interested in more information may call 443-691-6085 or e-mail mttopyfc@gmail.com. Persons may also visit the web site www.mttopyfc.com.

Both No. Steeler Squads Winners In Youth Games

The Division I and II Northern Steeler football teams were both victorious in their Cumberland Area Youth Football League games played Sunday on the Northern High School field against the Mountain Ridge Miners.

Behind a four-touchdown effort by Aaron Rodeheaver, the Division I Steelers won 30-23.

Rodeheaver, who amassed 217 yards rushing on 25 carries, ran for three six-pointers and threw for another.

After the Miners took an 8-0 lead via a two-yard touchdown run by Michael Livingston and two-point conversion kick by Dylan Williams early in the first quarter, Rodeheaver narrowed the gap to 8-6 later in the same period with a 17-yard TD run. The kick was no good.

The Steelers took a 14-8 lead early in the second quarter when Rodeheaver fired a 62-yard scoring bomb to Logan Yommer, and Jake Vernon booted the conversion.

The Miners regained the lead just before halftime when Dylan Shimko capped a drive with a one-yard carry and then ran successfully for the conversion, giving the visitors a 15-14 edge.

A 28-yard TD run by Rodeheaver and another successful conversion kick by Vernon put the Steelers back on top, 22-15, early in the third period, but once again the Miners responded offensively, with Dylan Williams breaking loose for a 65-yard TD run. Williams kick gave the Miners a 23-22 lead.

The Steelers won the game in the fourth quarter when Rodeheaver scored on a 25-yard carry, and Vernon again made good on the conversion kick.

Defensive standouts for Northern were Zach Bittinger, Kyle Beard, and Shay Shumaker, while the Miners were paced defensively by Lucas Lowry and Garrett Whitacre.

The Division II Steelers won the second game, 22-6, with Austin Evans scoring 16 of the home team's points on two touchdown runs and a pair of conversions.

Evans put the Steelers on top for good, 6-0, with a six-yard TD carry in the first quarter.

A five-yard scoring run by Evans, followed by his conversion kick, put the Steelers up 14-0 in the second quarter.

The Miners got on the board before halftime when Kaden McElhenny capped a drive with a two-yard touchdown run. The conversion kick failed.

After a scoreless third stanza, the Steelers tacked on an insurance touchdown, with Nate Durst scoring on a three-yard carry and Evans booting the conversion.

Evans finished with 85 yards rushing on 15 carries. Riley Brick, Travis Georg, and Kole Bennett led the Steeler defensive unit.

The Steelers will play again this Saturday against the Patriots at Allegany College of Maryland in Cumberland.

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

THE COMMODORE'S CUP REGATTA
by Dan Muss

This five-race Flying Scot regatta takes place every Labor Day weekend. The race committee consists of the two commodores of the two yacht clubs; this year it was Spenser Deakin for Deerhaven and Roger Levin for Turkey Neck. And they did a good job under trying circumstances which included, at times, very light wind and an almost constant threat of thunderstorms. Our racing guidelines call for a minimum, consistent 4-knot breeze, but here on Deep Creek Lake, in the summertime, we often go with less.

And that was what we had on Saturday morning, so the committee sent us to lunch and then called us out in a northerly breeze for a windward-leeward race. There were 18 boats sailing in the Gold Fleet, and their start resulted in a general recall; there were too many boats over the line for the committee to record. After a delay for the committee to lengthen the starting line and adjust the windward and leeward marks, the Gold Fleet started again.

Gregory was called over early, but no general recall sounded. At the pin end, Wolffe and Corson led early on; at the boat end Palmer broke away, and tacked quickly to port. Spinnenweber rounded first, with Corson and Palmer in pursuit. In the final drift to the finish, Corson pulled ahead to win, Meredith moved into second, and Palmer held on for third.

At the Masters Fleet start, the wind was swinging west which favored a pin-end start so, at one minute to go, we headed for the pin, just ghosting along and tacked onto port at the horn easily clearing the rest of the fleet on starboard. We were first around the windward mark, got the 'chute up, and headed downwind. I stayed out in the middle where the wind was on the windward leg, but the rest of the fleet went down the Holy Cross shore, picked up more wind, and we were last around the first leeward rounding. (Where did I hear something about "the first shall be last?")

Beating to the finish on starboard, we had better speed than Holloway and Riebel, but we were to leeward and, if we were to tack onto port for the favored tack, we'd have to duck them, and so they carried us all the way to Blakesley

Mike Fulmer
May 10, 1952 – September 15, 2010

There are no words to express how much I miss you. It feels like yesterday that God called you home, but I look at the calendar and it tells me it has been a year. How can that be?

The kids, grandkids and I still talk about you all the time and the grandkids share their favorite memories, but that doesn't stop our tears. We miss you very much!

Until we are together again I will continue to share the life I had with you, and through my memories our family will always have you in our hearts.

We'll love and miss you forever!

Lakers To Begin Inaugural Cross Country Season This Saturday

With the start of its first season, the Men's and Women's cross country team of Garrett College is gearing up for the 2011 NJCAA fall competitions.

"This will be an exciting time for not only the athletes and me, but for the college and community as well," said Head Coach Angie Sincell.

"For the first time, Garrett College is able to offer a sport that is popular around our community and it allows for more recognition for the school and our athletes."

Coach Sincell has run competitively for over 15 years and has served on the track and field teams as an assistant coach and long-distance coach at Loch Raven High School, Baltimore, and at Southern Garrett High School, her alma mater Sincell was an All-State runner her four years of high school and received many other honors. She holds a Bachelors of Science in Art and Mass Communications from Towson University and a Masters of Education, Curriculum and Instruction, from University of Maryland, College Park.

"This season is unpredictable," said Coach Sincell. "What I have seen thus far is a group of athletes coming together for the love of the sport and the team community. The team has been slow to build, and our peak may not come until late in the season as we continue to recruit. The main goal for myself is to create a program with a solid foundation and a sport that Garrett College and the surrounding community can be proud of. The goal for the team will be to qualify for nationals in November."

The team began with two members, but has gained in popularity and now has 11 members on its roster. On the men's team: Shane Davis, a sophomore from Oakland, was one year All-State, one year All-Region, and ran cross country, indoor-, and outdoor- track and field two years for Southern High School; Josh Armstrong, a sophomore from Oakland, was a member of the football and baseball teams at Southern High School and participates in mixed martial arts, Luis Hernandez, a sophomore from the Dominican Republic, ran indoor track his junior year of high school and played baseball for Garrett College in Spring 2011; Trevon James, a freshman from Waldorf, was a wrestler in high school; and Nigel Barnes, a freshman from Washington, D.C.

For the women's team: Lindsey Smith, a freshman from Oakland, was two years All-State and ran all four years at Southern High School on the cross country and track and field teams; Ashley Gordon, a freshman from Oakland, was one year All-State, two times All-Region and ran all four years at Southern High School on the cross country and track and field teams; Rayshel McGetchy, a freshman from Baltimore; Katie Welch, a sophomore from Oakland; Kayley Green, a sophomore from Accident, was a member of the Northern High School soccer, wrestling, and tennis teams; Brittany Reams, a sophomore from Grantsville, was a member of the 2011 Garrett Laker softball team.

"The advantages of living and training in Garrett County are obvious," said Coach Sincell.

"We have some of the toughest terrain and hills, not to mention the high altitude. The team has to build strength and endurance to simply get through training. My hope is that the athletes find the races easier than the practices."

The teams will officially open the season on Saturday by competing in the Waynesburg Invitational in Waynesburg, Pa.

Oakland Men's Golfing Results Are Announced

Charlie's Angels, a senior men's golf league at the Oakland Golf Club, played a four-man team format on Aug. 30 in which the three best scores were counted.

The first place team of Lee Maes, Don Savage, Roger Levin, and Don Wilkinson recorded a score of 182. Finishing second with a score of 187 was the team of Larry Dixon, Dean Durst, Bill Salter, and Bill Ewing. Third place went to Roger Fazenbaker, Paul Sines, Dave Lewis, and Bob Moran, who recorded a 195.

Closest-to-the-pin winners were Tom Broadwater on hole #6, Don Wilkinson on hole #9, and Dean Durst on hole #17.

The Wednesday evening Men's League played a 9-hole, four-man team format last week, with the three best scores counted. The team of Steve Liller, Jim Thomas, Bill Ewing, and Ed Roszell won first place with a net score of 93. Beau Noonan, Red Guthrie, Mike Grabosky, and Dave Moe came in second with a 96.

The closest-to-pin winner on hole #9 was Steve Liller, and Gary Willmon made the longest putt on hole #8. Beau Noonan recorded the lowest gross score, a one-under-par 35.

The Oakland Golf Club invites all members and guests to the Invitational Scramble Tournament, which will be held Sunday, Sept. 18. Players may contact the golf pro shop at 301-334-3883 for more information.

Northern Girls Fall To Fort Hill, Top Allegany

The Northern High School girls' soccer team fell to Fort Hill (3-1) after Sentinels Mariah James and Alex Marini scored second half goals to snap a 1-1 halftime tie and beat the Huskies. In its next match Northern rebounded in a 3-0 victory over rival Allegany. Both matches were away games played at Fort Hill.

To defeat the Huskies, James was assisted by Leah Yurko with 12:41 remaining and Marnini scored unassisted with 6:43 left.

Yurko had an unassisted goal in the first half. Haley Margroff scored Northern's goal in the first half on an assist from Callie Vernon.

Kloey Werner stopped three shots, while Alex Diehl made five second-half saves, both for Northern.

In the Husky win over Allegany, Sydney McFarland scored two goals and fed Gabriel Daniels on the third to down the Campers.

McFarland was assisted by Amanda Paape at 2:04 in the first half, and McFarland assisted Daniels a minute and two seconds later to make it 2-0.

Rams Go 1-1 In Labor Day Tournament

This year's soccer action began at a Labor Day tournament held at Oakland Mills High School for the Southern High varsity girls' team. The Rams played Oakland Mills in their first match, losing 5-1, and then bested Blake High in their second game by a final score of 6-0.

"The girls had a very slow start," stated Southern coach Sara Shaffer.

"I'm not sure if it was because of the long drive, but they definitely took about 15 minutes before they stepped it up."

Sophomore Annie Martin tended goal for the Rams and tallied 11 saves. Lindsay Crabtree kicked Southern's lone goal off an assist from Alli Shaffer.

Against Blake the Rams fared better, as Martin stopped all seven Blake shots on goal. Southern had 16 shots on goal. Opening the scoring for the Rams were Shaffer assisted by Lindsay Crabtree. Lexi Botterbusch scored next off an assist by Shaffer. Tess Watson also scored with assistance from Taylor Germain, as did Alex Miske, who was assisted by Kristen Yant. The last two goals came from the foot of Sophie Schwab, unassisted.

Ruffed Grouse Society Plans Local Fundraiser

The Backbone Mountain chapter of the Ruffed Grouse Society will host its third annual Sportsmen's Banquet on Saturday, Oct. 1, at the Wisp Resort (290 Marsh Hill Road, McHenry). The event will begin with a social hour at 5:30 p.m., then dinner being served at 7 p.m.

The evening will feature a live and silent auction, games, drawings, and door prizes, highlighted with a selection of firearms, artwork, and collectibles.

According to Harold Harsh, ticket chair, individual membership and dinner tickets will be $65. There is also an optional family-membership package for $90, which includes two dinners. Additional family dinners are available at $30 each.

Banquet, conservation, and sustaining sponsorship packages are also available at $275, $500, and $1,000, respectively.

According to a spokesperson, proceeds from the event will be used to restore and protect grouse and woodcock habitat.

Those interested in reservations and/or tickets may contact Harsh at 301-387-6587, or e-mail: jbhh@wildblue.net.

Information on RGS' its mission, management projects, and membership may be found on the web at: www.ruffedgrousesociety.org.

Point where we were far enough ahead to clear them on port. By that time we could weather the finish line and, picking up a breeze, finished first! I couldn't believe it; there's a lot of luck involved with sailboat racing on Deep Creek Lake in light air. (Maybe that's why it's written "... and the last shall be first.") With the late start and dying wind, the second race was canceled.

Sunday looked better, with an E breeze swinging S. As we checked in at the committee boat, I suggested that they go around only once since a storm was coming. They said the radar was clear. The committee boat seemed to be favored, but the air was better down the line. We rounded the first mark back in the pack, but on the spinnaker run my wife Carol did a masterful job on the 'chute and we passed most of the fleet.

On the last beat to the finish, Holloway just kept getting lifted and did a "horizon job" on the rest of us. I thought we had second, but Meehan nosed us out at the line; but with a first and a third we were ahead in the regatta. As we headed back, we saw flashes of lightning and we had to hustle to get the boat put away. The Challenger race had to be abandoned because of the storm.

On Monday morning the committee called us out in a light drizzle with, again, very light air. We were halfway out to the course when they blew three horns signaling cancellation. They felt that there was just not enough wind. But sailing back to the moorings the wind picked up... it's tough to make decisions when you're on committee!

One last comment: Dick Gregory, sailing mostly with his son Kirk (and occasionally with his daughter Allison), did something which, I believe, has never been done here before. In the July-August series he came in first in the Masters Fleet, second in the Championship Gold Fleet, and he was the Masters Fleet champion. He needed help carrying all the trophies home.

Hurricane Irene Purges Chesapeake Bay's Dead Zones

by Sarah Meehan
Capital News Service

Hurricane Irene's high winds breathed a little life into the polluted Chesapeake Bay, bringing some short-term relief to wildlife by temporarily eliminating the estuary's vast dead zone, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources.

The bay's dead zone -- a stretch of deep water running from Baltimore to Virginia with dissolved oxygen levels too low to support most aquatic life – emerges every summer and naturally fades with the fall. But this year's dead zone diminished earlier than usual after Irene whipped the area, mixing layers of water containing varying levels of oxygen.

The revived waters could provide habitat for marine life in places that were previously not livable, said Jenn Aiosa, Maryland senior scientist for the Chesapeake Bay Foundation.

"It might open up additional habitat that, three weeks ago, wasn't hospitable because the oxygen was low," Aiosa said. "A greater volume of the bay with oxygen is good, primarily for the fish that transit the bay, and you know, if there's more fish available, birds or the wildlife that rely on those fish species would also benefit."

The massive dead zone in the bay is largely responsible for choking out fish, oyster and blue crab populations over the past several decades. Ultimately, similar conditions will return next spring and the hurricane will have likely made little impact on the bay's long-term status, scientists said.

"Usually this time of year we are seeing some of our poorest conditions in terms of oxygen," Aiosa said. "Maybe for a short period of time we've alleviated some of that stress."

After making its way from the Caribbean, Hurricane Irene struck Maryland Aug. 27 as a Category 1 storm that left a trail of flooding, wind damage and power outages in its wake.

Hurricane Irene, and Isabel before it, had a positive effect on bay pollution. But past hurricanes, particularly Tropical Storm Agnes in 1972, set the stage for the bay's degradation by flooding it with nutrients from rainwater runoff, according to Don Boesch, president of the University of Maryland Center for Environmental Science.

This year's dead zone would have dissipated by mid-September regardless of the hurricane, DNR Resource Assessment Director Bruce Michael said, but an early flush won't hurt.

"This will certainly help the bay in the short term; it'll make conditions a little better," Michael said. "That is a good thing, probably one of the few benefits that you have."

Twin forces cause dead zones to occur -- water temperature and nutrient (mainly nitrogen and phosphorus) pollution. The bay's surface warms during summer, separating it from deep, cool, oxygenated water below. Then nutrients run in, feeding algae blooms that also deplete the oxygen. When they finally die, they sink and decay, further robbing the water of oxygen.

Because fall and winter weather brings higher winds that constantly mix the water column, dead zones disappear during colder months.

Weather will largely determine how long Irene's positive effect on the bay will last, scientists said. Because the hurricane also brought nutrients flooding into the bay, the right conditions could cause the dead zone to reform.

"My prediction is that you'll have a small return of low oxygen conditions over the next few weeks," said Boesch, "but it won't be like the extent or severity that we experienced this summer."

Next year is a different story. Scientists will not be able to assess this year's dead zone impact until they review more data, but if the nutrients Irene brought remain in the water, Boesch said they could help create a strong dead zone next year.

"If you have an intense event that brings a lot of nutrients into the bay late in the summer, early in the fall, it could very well give the whole process of oxygen depletion a head start for next year," Boesch said.

But Michael and Aiosa said they do not expect Hurricane Irene will play a major role in shaping next year's dead zone.

"It's got to be a pretty dramatic storm event to have long-term impacts on the bay," Aiosa said. "I don't think the impacts that we see from this one are (dramatic), or that Irene was that level of storm."

Ask The Everyday Scientist

WRITING ON IMPERFECT DISKS

by Dr. Tom Sheahen

Q. Why does a smudge or scratch on a blank CD sometimes mean that I cannot burn material onto it?

A. The tolerances involved in the "burning" operation are incredibly tiny. "Burning" data onto a CD is a process of heating a tiny region of the plastic enough to deform it, thereby creating a "pit." That little dent put into the bottom surface of the CD represents a "one" (and no-dent represents a "zero"). The depth of a "pit" burned into a disk is only ¼ of the wavelength of the laser light that will read the CD later on – that means maybe 1/10 micron, around 10^{-5} inches. The laser that reads the data relies upon extreme precision.

The amount of data on a typical CD is over 6 billion bits, and in addition to the track that contains the succession of ones and zeros, there are adjacent tracks that just make sure the beam is properly aligned. So each bit is certainly going to be very small, around 10^{-4} cm^2. Your eye can't detect such small differences.

Now suppose there is a smudge or a scratch on the CD that is barely perceptible, say by holding it up to the light at an angle to see a slight difference in reflection. What is the depth of such a scratch? Well, if you can see a scratch at all, it's going to be comparable to a wavelength of visible light, about half a micron. Or if it's a smudge that you can recognize, the coating of grease will be about a micron thick. If there is a single speck of dust, that will be bigger still. Any of those conditions is much larger than the ¼ wavelength depth of a pit on the CD.

The key point to recognize is that there are going to be errors associated with any CD.

Early CDs (the 1960s) were often useless because of that problem, but then error-detection and correction codes were introduced. By 1980 the problems had been overcome via very elegant mathematical techniques, and only then did the CD player became a commercially viable product.

These days the technology of handling errors is much more reliable, and the Reed-Solomon method is the accepted standard. Extra data is deliberately embedded in the record, to enable the decoder to tell when imperfections corrupt information. Probably 30% of the bits written on a CD are there for error-correcting purposes.

Reed-Solomon coding not only detects errors, it contains enough extra information to repair scattered errors. As the reader scans the data, it corrects small errors on the fly. The probability of a mistake getting past is negligible. The final "message" delivered to the user is totally error-free.

A gentle soap solution can often get rid of fingerprint grease on a CD. A single small scratch will cause no disruption whatever. To correct for smudges and other large data losses, additional information is placed elsewhere along the line, in another sector reserved for exactly that purpose.

When writing onto a CD, if a scratch or smudge is too big (typically: long and thin in the tangential direction), there won't be enough blank space to allow the correction to be written. When that happens, an error message will be displayed that it cannot write on this disk. That disk becomes a "frisbee." Take another clean CD, handle it by the edges, and try again. Thank goodness they're cheap.

PRODUCERS REMINDED OF DISASTER ASSISTANCE DEADLINES

U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) Farm Service Agency (FSA) administrator Bruce Nelson reminded producers this week about upcoming deadlines for disaster assistance. Nelson emphasized that losses must be the result of a weather event occurring on or before Sept. 30, 2011.

"This year brought a host of extreme weather challenges for America's farmers, ranchers and producers," said Nelson. "USDA is committed to use the resources at our disposal to reduce the impact of these conditions and help producers get back on their feet. And this year, especially, it's important for producers to be aware of program deadlines and to have their records in order so that they get the assistance they need."

The 2008 Farm Bill authorizes coverage of disaster losses through the following programs:

- Supplemental Revenue Assistance Payments Program (SURE);
- Livestock Indemnity Program (LIP);
- Emergency Assistance for Livestock, Honey Bees, and Farm-Raised Fish (ELAP);
- Livestock Forage Disaster Program (LFP); and the
- Tree Assistance Program (TAP).

SURE applications for 2010 crop losses will be accepted later this fall. SURE applications for 2011 crop losses will be accepted in the fall of 2012, when the 2011 farm revenue data required by statute become available.

The FSA is required to determine that the claimed loss was because of a disaster occurring on or before Sept. 30, 2011, and must determine if a qualifying loss meets the established disaster relief criteria for at least one crop.

At the time the SURE application for payment is filed, the producer will be required to identify and certify a crop of economic significance that suffered a qualifying loss of 10 percent or more. At least one such crop with 10-percent losses on or before Sept. 30 is required by SURE.

"We encourage all producers to read the applicable disaster program fact sheets and visit their local FSA county office. The staff can provide additional information, such as the deadline for filing a program application or the initial requirement for filing a notice of loss," Nelson said.

Fact sheets for the programs listed above can be found online at www.fsa.usda.gov. Users should click on Newsroom, then Fact Sheets. Additional online information regarding the programs is at http://disaster.fsa.usda.gov

Local Farm Named New Member Of Angus Association

Savage Farm, Oakland, is a new member of the American Angus Association, reports Bryce Schumann, CEO of the national breed organization which is headquartered in St. Joseph, Mo.

The American Angus Association, with nearly 30,000 active adult and junior members, is the largest beef breed association in the world. Its computerized records include detailed information on nearly 19 million registered Angus.

The association records ancestral information, keeps production records on individual animals, and develops industry-leading selection tools for its members. These programs and services help members select and mate the best animals in their herds to produce quality genetics for the beef cattle industry and quality beef for consumers.

AURORA/EGLON

GUEST MINISTER

Mike Amico will be guest minister at the 10:30 a.m. worship service this Sunday, Sept. 11, at Maple Grove Assembly of God Church, Horse Shoe Run. A Sunday evening service will also be held at 6:30 p.m.

AURORA CLASS OF '56

The Aurora High School class of 1956 met Aug. 27 at the Stemple Ridge Church pavilion for a class reunion. The ladies of the church provided the meal. Those in attendance were Helen Schrock Ferrell, Carl Shaffer and Darrell Rhodes, Dale and Charlotte Fike, Steve Stemple and guests Shirley Harsh Doolittle and her husband Vernon and Delores Wotring Kight, Jesse Gnegy, Bob and Lois Wilt Stawser, Catherine Martin Shuman, Laura McGinnis Frye, Earl and Alice Douglas Roth, Edward and Elaine Lipscomb, Larry Bolyard and Joan, Harley and Regina Beckman Donham, and class sponsor Virginia Martin.

GOSPEL SING

The annual sing at the Texas Bethel United Methodist Church, Horse Shoe Run, is slated for Sunday, Sept. 25, at 1:30 p.m. The church is located on Hog Back Road.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER

The Building Committee is sponsoring a buckwheat dinner at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Saturday Sept. 24, from 3 to 8 p.m. Donations asked are $8 for adults, $4 for children 5 and older. Preschoolers eat for free. Buckwheat cakes, sausage, applesauce, and beverages will be offered.

RECYCLING SATURDAY

Recycling Saturday is this week, Sept. 10, from 9 to 11 a.m. at Aurora Elementary School. Paper, plastics (#1 and #2), cardboard, paperboard, and metals are accepted.

AURORA CEOS

The July meeting of the Aurora Community Education Outreach Service organization met at the Union Ambulance squad hall to make "boo-boo" bears, which are given to various local community agencies. Mary Jane Hanline, Cleota Walker, Wilda Harsh, Rossie Conrad, and Dee Douglas created more than 50 little creatures in a variety of fleecy materials. One recipient was the Right From the Start agency with whom Preston County Health Department social worker Beth Bishop works.

The regular meeting on Aug. 14 was hosted by Dee Douglas with Beth Bishop as guest program leader. The lesson was "Karing for Kin." Beth discussed the many helpful agencies available to the community and for various needs. Child care, older adult care, low-income families, single mothers, dental care, and mental health care were covered and are all available.

Devotions were led by Martha Bolyard using Psalms 6:14 and reading "Let Me Dwell in Your Cabin" and "Grandmothers Are Dimming Now."

The Relay for Life sale was a big success. Rossie Conrad, Opal Myers, and Dee Douglas helped with that event. Opal Myers and Rossie Conrad served at the Summer Reading Program picnic held on July 26 following the summer program for children.

Plans were made to revamp the bulletin board in the post office. Dee Douglas will be chairing this committee. Once again this year, Dee Douglas and husband Keith, Opal Myers, and Rossie Conrad will sell chances at the Buckwheat Festival booth. Plans are also being made to prepare an exhibit for the Buckwheat Festival. A work day was held on Aug. 26 at the home of Opal Myers for that purpose.

Opal told the group of her trip to NVON, the national organization of volunteers to which CEOS is associated. She told of the activities in which she participated.

Rossie discussed how to call a law officer when one's old and can't get around anymore, her vice president's feature. The next meeting will be held on Sept. 20 with Opal Myers as hostess. Rossie Conrad is responsible for devotions, and Dee Douglas is responsible for the program and discussion.

GAS WELL MEETING

A meeting was held by the Mtn. Lions Club with guest speaker Dennis Xander of Denex Petroleum Corporation on gas well drilling. He spoke to the group concerning the safety of the wells, the care taken to avoid accidents, and the contents of the water to be hauled. He stated that nearly all of the ingredients of this "used" water are like those in one's kitchen cupboards. He gave a good presentation from a driller's point of view. He has worked in the field since he was a teenager.

PERSONAL

Brent Hauser was returned to his home near Terra Alta on Friday, Aug. 26, after being hospitalized for about a week. There was no definite diagnosis.

Visitors with David and Wilma Mae Teets on Monday, Aug. 22, were Nancy Stout, Philadelphia, Pa., and her sister Margaret James, Columbus, Ohio. They were also accompanied to Aurora by Steven Arnold, who returned to his home in Morgantown. Their grandfather and Mrs. Teets' grandfather were stepbrothers.

David Walker was transferred to an Oakland nursing home from Morgantown to continue his recovery from recent heart surgery to place bypass veins.

Sheila Moats, Amboy, has returned to her home. She had a large kidney stone.

Floyd Snyder fell at his home near Horse Shoe Run on Sunday, Aug. 26. He was taken by Union Ambulance to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for evaluation.

James and Deloris Slawter returned from a trip to Neosho, Mo., where his brother Henry Slawter died Aug. 10. Henry was born in Aurora on Oct. 26, 1944. He is survived by his wife, Diana Wilson Slawter; three sons; one daughter; and two brothers, James and John, both of Aurora. A visitation was held at Clark Chapel of Memories, Neosho, and cremation was done at his request.

Visiting last weekend in Martinsburg with Chuck, Emily, Noah, and Carter Young were her parents, Tom and Linda Lewis, Eglon, and aunt Sara, Morgantown. This was a special trip for Carter's birthday on Aug. 31.

John, Shirley, and Steve Parsons were hosts to a recent corn roast at the mountaintop home to honor Wilda Fint on her retirement. Her husband, Ralph Fint, and her employer, Fred Maxwell, were in attendance as well as her brother and wife Wayne and Diane Lewis and their two children, her friends, Martha Hollis and Jeanette Lantz, all of Terra Alta, and John and Connie Fint, and Carl and Betty Fint, all local.

GARRETT MENTORS TO "RUN FOR IT" ON SEPT. 24 – Garrett Mentors Inc. has planned to participate in the upcoming Tour of Davis – Run For It 2K or 5K Run or Walk event scheduled for Saturday, Sept. 24, at 10 a.m. in Davis, W.Va. The race (part of the Leaf Peepers Festival) is billed as "a run or walk for something bigger than yourself" and has been organized to benefit a variety of community causes. The Garrett Mentors team has formed for the benefit of that organization. Half of one's entry fee ($10) and every dollar participants raise will go to Garrett Mentors. Thousands of dollars in prize money are up for grabs in the following categories: best team effort, most money raised by each county, most money raised overall, and fastest runner and walker in each category. Those interested are advised to register with "Garrett Mentors" as their cause and "Garrett Mentors-On-The-Move" as their team name. Bonnie Swyter will serve as team captain. "This is a fun and easy way to help support our mentor program," stated a spokesperson. All registrations and collected money must be postmarked by Thursday, Sept. 15, and sent to: Tucker Community Foundation, P.O. Box 491, Parsons, WV 26287. For information or registration forms one may e-mail Swyter at bswyter@gmail.com or call her at 301-334-9568. Forms are also available at the TCF web site, tuckerfoundation.net. The current configuration of the team is pictured above. From left are: Reni Assi, Amy Assi, Ed Spurr, Swyter, and Camille Spurr.

tion, it like - (laughs) I mean - and then you find out you're with other people it makes you feel a lot better, even though you know you're in a very bad situation, at least there's other people.

"But then the strangest thing happened; this beam of sunlight came right in on us, like about 8 inches long, but it was clearly sunlight. It was all dirty and full of debris and it looked like pepper was floating around in it, sort of But it was sunlight, I'm like amazed now (laughs) a 110-story building above us and I'm looking up at the sun."

1:00 p.m.

Throughout the afternoon, volunteers, first responders, and construction workers arrive at the site to search for survivors.

Firefighters, police officers, paramedics, and other emergency service workers stream to the site to join in the firefight and rescue efforts. Operations continue around the clock.

3:00 p.m.

Ultimately, only 18 people deeply embedded in the debris pulled themselves out or were rescued, including 14 who were together in the shaft of a North Tower stairwell. The last survivor was found only 26 hours after the towers collapsed.

5:20 p.m.

Because lower Manhattan's waterlines have been compromised, the FDNY cannot get water to fight the flames.

10 YEARS AGO SUNDAY – The word "terrorist" perhaps never rang so true as on Sept. 11, 2001, when terror certainly gripped the nation as planes fell from the sky and thousands of lives came to a violent end. The photo above was taken at the Pentagon, shortly after the plane hit. (A computer glitch caused the date to be recorded incorrectly.) Photo courtesy of the U.S. Department of Justice. At right is a photo of the Shanksville, Pa., crash, which was only moments' "flying time" from Garrett County. Photo courtesy of Valencia M. McClatchy.

Adjacent to the North Tower, 7 World Trade Center had suffered significant damage in the collapse. Fires caused by the collapse of 1 WTC lead to structural instability, and ultimately, total collapse.

There are no casualties because the 47- tory tower had been evacuated that morning. However, the fall of the building sends first responders racing away from the collapsing structure to save their own lives.

8:00 p.m.

Rescuers locate PAPD Sgt. John McLoughlin and Officer William Jimeno in the debris of the World Trade Center. They free Officer Jimeno after three hours of dangerous tunneling work. Sgt. McLoughlin's rescue takes another eight hours.

Rescue operations continue throughout the night. Thousands of construction workers, first responders, and self dispatched volunteers converge at Ground Zero to search for survivors, improvising bucket brigades to remove debris.

Workers will extricate the 18th survivor, Genelle Guzman, from the remains of Stairwell B on the afternoon of September 12. She will be the last person rescued alive.

8:30 p.m.

Back in the White House, President Bush addresses a shocked nation, praising the strength of the nation in the face of the overwhelming events.

"Terrorist attacks can ... shattered steel, but they cannot dent the steel of American resolve," he says. "Today, our nation saw evil – the very worst of human nature – and we responded with the best of America. With the daring of our rescue workers, with the caring for strangers and neighbors who came to give blood and help in any way they could."

President Bush visits and speaks with rescue and recovery personnel at Ground Zero on September 14, 2001. A National Day of Prayer and Remembrance is observed.

Federal, state, and local officials initiated rescue and/or recovery operations at all three attack sites, supported by thousands of first responders, ironworkers, engineers, and members of the building trades.

The attacks resulted in nearly 3,000 fatalities – the largest loss of life from a hostile attack by a foreign entity on American soil. The Fire Department of New York lost 346 members of its force, the New York Police Department lost 23, and the Port Authority Police Department lost 37, the largest loss of emergency responders in a single event in U.S. history.

At the three attack sites, days and weeks – and in New York City, months – were spent extinguishing fires, searching for survivors and, ultimately, searching for remains of the victims. It took nine months to remove approximately 1.8 million tons of debris from the World Trade Center site.

In the aftermath of 9/11, donations of money and supplies poured in and thousands of people volunteered their help and support. Memorials, services, and vigils were held in New York City, Washington, D.C., Pennsylvania, and all over the world.

A federal fund compensated victims' families and severely injured survivors. Families of victims advocated for the formation of the 9/11 Commission, which investigated the attacks and issued a report with analysis and recommendations.

Advanced DNA technology continues to be used to identify the remains of victims.

However, human remains have still not been identified for approximately 40% of the WTC victims.

Public and private sectors partnered to support lower Manhattan's recovery, growth and revitalization, and worked to balance the need to remember and honor the victims with the need for a strong and vibrant community.

Many Dignitaries To Speak At Dedication Of Flight 93 Memorial

A two-day commemoration event will take place this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 10 and 11, at the Shanksville, Pa., site of the Flight 93 crash on Sept. 11, 2001.

A number of elected officials, including President Barack Obama and former presidents George W. Bush and Bill Clinton, are scheduled to make appearances, and a number of special musical groups will take part.

The schedule on Saturday, Sept. 10, is as follows:

Prelude music will begin at 10 a.m., followed at noon by a performance of the U.S. Navy Band. The dedication of the memorial will begin at 12:30 p.m., concluding at 2:20. According to reports, Vice President Joe Biden and Clinton will be included in this ceremony

Special activities with musical tributes and wreath-layings will begin at 3:30 p.m. These will continue through 5:30 p.m.

Parking will be in fields within the park, and shuttle buses will run from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m. Persons are advised to arrive at least two hours early to park and get through security, which will be heavy.

At the Memorial Plaza, the lighting of luminaria will take place at 7:30 p.m. The park will close at 10 p.m.

Persons should use the new entrance to the area located off U.S Route 30. Signs will direct visitors to parking areas, and all visitors will be shuttled to the ceremony area. Portapotties will be available in the parking areas. No pets will be allowed except for service animals.

The schedule on Sunday is as follows:

Prelude music will begin at 8:30 a.m., and the program will start at 9:30 a.m. and run until 11. According to reports, President Obama and George Bush are scheduled to be present for this ceremony, although this is not confirmed, and persons should contact the park office for complete details as the day approaches.

Special activities are to begin at 1:50 p.m., with music and wreath-layings. These will end at 5 p.m.

The park will close at 7 p.m.

Commemorative items will be on sale, and there will be a U.S. Post Office commemorative cancellation stamp.

Persons should note that security will be high, and all visitors will go through security scans. Chairs will be allowed but not in bags. No coolers (hard or soft-sided), and no large bags or backpacks will be allowed.

Visitors may leave the ceremony area/site and come back at any time; however, visitors will need to go through security upon returning.

Water will be provided, but in limited quantities. The public area will be in a large open field with no seating provided.

For complete information, persons may go to www.nps.gov/flni/index.htm.

The Garrett County Dept of Public Utilities will be flushing fire hydrants on the Mtn. Lake Park/Loch Lynn and Accident water systems during the week of September 12-16.

Please check your hot and cold water for discoloration before doing laundry or dishes. Allow the water to run until clear if discolored.

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY.

KEEPING LIPS ABOVE THE WATER LINE – As Phase I of the Garrett College Community Aquatic & Recreation Complex (CARC) nears completion and an Oct. 22 grand opening is being planned, training for pool lifeguards has been under way. In the photo above are lifeguards-in-training practicing various rescue maneuvers. Instructor Troy Strieby and assistant Nick Valentine assured that all lifesaving techniques were mastered by each applicant. Wisp Resort allowed Garrett College to use its pool for these training sessions. In the photo, instructor Valentine (left) and Jesus Rivero oversee the rescue mission from the side of the pool while (from left) Jamie George, Scott MacLennan, Abigail Getty, Jamie Resh-Kamp, and Mike Patterson support the "victim" (instructor Strieby) in the water. For updates and information on the CARC, persons may telephone 301-387-3786 or go online to www.garrettcollege.edu/carc/.

Facebook Group Established To Celebrate 40th

A Facebook group has been established to allow Garrett College students, alumni, faculty, and staff, as well as members of the Garrett County community, to join in the celebration of GC's 40th anniversary. The group is organized under the name "You know you were a student at Garrett College when...," but is not limited to former students.

"We're asking that people share their memories, their stories, and their off-the-wall observations of Garrett College past and present so that four decades of history may be preserved for Garrett College's future," said Ann Wellham, dean of marketing & enrollment management. "We think it will be fun for everyone to share their memories this way."

In order to contribute thoughts and memories to the group, one must have a Facebook account and request to join the group by logging on to Facebook, locating the "You know you were a student at Garrett College when..." group, and clicking on the "Join this group" button.

Persons may also contribute thoughts or recollections about Garrett College by visiting the web site www.garrettcollege.edu/mygc/.

Local Editor Reflects On Days Spent Helping Construct GCC

by Peggy Santamaria

As Garrett College celebrates its 40th anniversary, stories are coming in from the community relating experiences of the early years of the college history. One such reflection came from Don Sincell, editor of The Republican newspaper and co-owner of Sincell Publishing Company Inc., Oakland. Though never actually registered as a student at Garrett College, his experiences on the McHenry campus certainly qualify him to say, "This is my GC."

During three summers of his college career at West Virginia University, Sincell worked for William A. Shirer, an Oakland contractor, who was awarded the bid to build the first three buildings of Garrett Community College.

"My first summer working construction was spent at Garrett Community College in 1971, the summer just prior to its opening," he said. "Obviously, most of the major construction on the three buildings was completed; however, there were still many sidewalks to pour, the grading of topsoil, and landscaping to be completed outside, plus a considerable amount of finish work inside, such as hanging doors, carpeting, and painting."

Most of his work was outdoors. He helped pour the sidewalks and lay the white stone that surrounds the buildings to this day. But there was one task that stands out most prominently in his memory – and for a good reason.

"My biggest job of the summer was scrubbing every single brick on the exterior of the buildings, as well as the brick inside the theatre lobby, and then waterproofing all of that brick," he recalled. "I worked with one other guy on that project. We used wire brushes and brick acid, which stung like crazy when it got on your skin, and it really burned when you splashed it into your eyes!"

He said that most of what they scrubbed off the brick was the cement that had been splattered by the bricklayers.

Following that universal law that things can always get worse, Sincell described a particularly unforgettable moment while cleaning the brickwork.

"I remember vividly when we were working on the brick wall of the gymnasium above the breezeway – which, incidentally, was not enclosed in glass originally but added later," he said. "I accidently knocked over my bucket of acid, which immediately ate right through the new asphalt shingles of the roof of the breezeway. I thought Bill (Shirer) would be furious, and maybe even send me packing. But, to my great relief, his response was pretty much, 'Hey, accidents happen. The shingles can be replaced."

Sincell added that he thought his employer may have let him off easier on the shingle destruction because of the lifelong friendship between his father Bob Sincell and Bill Shirer However, Sincell may have been selling himself short in this conclusion because it seems he was an exemplary employee.

"When the scrubbing and waterproofing was all finished, I learned later that my buddy and I completed it in about half the time that Bill had figured in his bid," he said. "So we got a nice little cash bonus at the end of the calendar year, which came in real handy going back to WVU second semester."

As if the tedium and danger of scrubbing bricks with acid were not enough, the natural elements added yet another notable aspect to Sincell's Garrett College experience.

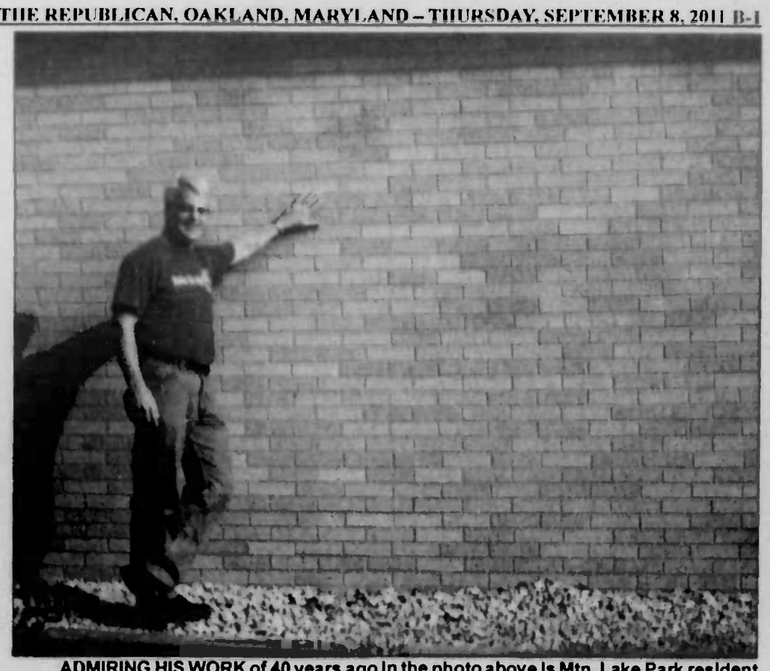
"I remember that I would come home from work every day looking like I had a major sun burn, but most of the redness was caused by the wind that seemed to never stop blowing on that campus," he said. "I suspect that students and staff today will confirm that fact, although there is now a little more protection from trees and new buildings that were not there at the time."

And then there was Sincell's close encounter with the political kind.

"I remember one day that an entourage of people, dressed to the nines, showed up on campus," he said. "There were several vehicles and probably 15 people in the group. In the center of them was none other than then-Governor Marvin Mandel (later convicted on bribery charges), who had come to the county that day and wanted to make the GCC campus one of his stops. They basically ignored us workers, but were relatively friendly when I initiated a conversation with a few of them."

It is fair to say that Sincell's summer job that year had a high point that created a "monument" of sorts to his relatively short-lived construction career.

"I recall the day that we erected the flag pole in front of the college, and I grabbed the metal ball that was to go on top of the pole," he said."I screwed the ball onto the pole before it was erected, and I clearly remember thinking that, for many years in the future, whenever I would come to the college for whatever reason, I could always look at that flagpole and be reminded of that day. Of course, I have also said to many people, even in recent years, 'You see that flagpole? You see that little ball on top of it? Well, I put it there.' Along with that, I often say, 'Do you see all of those bricks? Well, I scrubbed them, one at a time.' I rarely walk into the theatre lobby without glancing at the brick on the wall and remembering those wire brushes and that brick acid."



ADMIRING HIS WORK of 40 years ago in the photo above is Mtn. Lake Park resident Don Sincell, who was a summer employee of William A. Shirer, the Oakland contractor who won the bid to construct the first three buildings of the new Garrett Community College. While Sincell participated in a number of "finishing-work" assignments in the summer of 1971 just prior to the college's grand opening that fall, his primary job that summer – with one other employee – was to scrub every brick on all three buildings with acid and wire brushes. In the photo below, the now-editor/co-owner of The Republican newspaper recalls the day he put the steel ball atop the flag pole that still stands in front of the college four decades later.

Looking back across four decades, Sincell reflected on those with whom he worked side-by-side on the construction site.

"I enjoyed the company of my co-workers at the GCC campus and during the following two summers," he said. "Unfortunately, only two besides me are still walking the Earth today – Harry Beeghly and Luke Bowman – as all of the others have passed on, including my buddy Jim Zimmerman, who scrubbed all of those bricks with me. He was only one year older than I, but died of a heart attack a number of years ago."

Though Don Sincell never actually sat in a classroom as a student at Garrett College, he clearly believes that he got some good education on that campus in 1971 working for William Shirer.

You don't have to be a genius to save money with smart power strips.

It's shocking. Almost all electronic devices continue to draw electricity even after they are turned off, costing U.S. households approximately $100 per year. But by using a smart power strip, you can completely disconnect the power to electronics that are not in use. The smart part is that you can pick one device to control all the others. So you're not wasting energy on things you're not using.

For easy steps to control the size of your electric bill, visit energysaveMD.com or call 1-877-928-8928.

O'Malley Announces Infant Mortality Rate Drops For Second Year In A Row

Gov. Martin O'Malley was joined recently by Lt. Gov. Anthony G. Brown, Baltimore City mayor Stephanie Rawlings-Blake, and other officials, in announcing that Maryland's infant mortality rate has dropped substantially for a second consecutive year to the lowest rate recorded for the state. Reducing infant mortality is one of the O'Malley-Brown Administration's 15 strategic goals to improve the quality of life in Maryland.

Maryland's infant mortality rate has been above the national average for many years. In 2009, the infant mortality rate fell to 7.2 deaths per 1,000 births, a 10 percent reduction in the overall infant mortality rate compared with the previous year, according to data from the Maryland Vital Statistics Administration. The 2010 data announced by the governor, show that the infant mortality rate has fallen again to 6.7, a further 7 percent decrease from 2009 and a new milestone for Maryland.

"The Talmud says that 'to save one life, it is as if you had saved the world.' In our state, where there is no such thing as a spare Marylander, we lost 45 fewer infants in 2010 than we lost in 2009. But the loss of one young life is one too many," said Governor O'Malley. "Our work continues."

It was noted there is a significant racial disparity in infant mortality. According to the National Vital Statistics System and the Department of Health and Mental Hygiene (DHMH) Vital Statistics Administration, African-American infants have a higher infant mortality rate than white infants, both in Maryland and the U.S. In Maryland on average over the past decade, an African-American infant has been three times more likely to die in the first year of life than a white infant.

"Eliminating health disparities such as those associated with infant mortality is a top priority for our administration and the improvements we announced today are a sign of progress in that effort. But there is still much work to be done," said Brown. "We must strengthen our resolve and intensify our efforts to work toward a day when every infant born in Maryland has an equal chance to survive and thrive."

'In Baltimore City, we have made significant progress in reducing the infant mortality rate, but there is more work to be done. We must continue our efforts to educate pregnant women, new parents and infant caretakers on the ABCs of safe sleep: Alone, Back, Crib – no exceptions," said Rawlings-Blake.

Broad public health initiatives, led by DHMH, have been underway across the state to improve birth outcomes. The jurisdictions with the highest infant mortality rates have been targeted, including Baltimore City and Prince George's, Somerset and Dorchester counties. Baltimore City and Prince George's County account for 42 percent of all infant deaths in the State. In 2009, the greatest improvement was seen in Prince George's County; in 2010, Baltimore City had the largest decrease in infant deaths.

"Sustained progress against infant mortality requires a number of efforts and improvements over many years," said Dr. Joshua M. Sharfstein, DHMH secretary. "We are updating our strategy to do everything we can to improve birth outcomes."

CareFirst has committed $3 million over three years to B'More for Healthy Babies.

"It's encouraging to see positive movement on measures that are such an important gauge of community health," said Chet Burrell, CareFirst president and CEO. "Our goal in supporting B'More for Healthy Babies and other programs regionwide that focus on maternal and child health is to achieve measurable improvements in health status, and this is certainly a step in the right direction."

DIRECTORS SELECTED FOR VIVA – VIVA volunteers at Garrett County Memorial Hospital recently selected Earl Clark to serve as their volunteer director and Fern Foley as the assistant director. Clark and Foley have already assumed their new leadership roles and were welcomed into their new positions with a Meet & Greet reception hosted by the hospital's volunteer services department. VIVA (Volunteers in Various Areas) provides volunteer services in the hospital's lobby/reception area, emergency department, outpatient surgery waiting area, medical records department, a mailroom, and staffs an office in the basement for miscellaneous duties. Clark has served as a volunteer at the lobby/reception desk since August 2006, when he joined the volulnteer group. Foley became a VIVA volunteer in 1999 and has served at the lobby desk, coordinated the mailroom services, and volunteered in SIL (outpatient surgical area). GGBA Chicken Barbecue Slated For This Saturday

All are invited to Grantsville for a chicken barbecue and kettle corn sale this Saturday, Sept. 10, to help benefit the Greater Grantsville Business Association. Chicken and kettle corn will be available beginning around lunch time and throughout the evening hours.

This event coincides with the annual fall townwide yard sale. Residents of the town are invited to set up and have yard sales, beginning at 9 a.m.

Lumber Grading Course Offered At Allegany C

The Center for Continuing Education at Allegany College of Maryland will host a lumber grading short course, co-sponsored by the National Hardwood Lumber Association, Oct. 3-6 in Cumberland.

According to an ACM spokesperson, this workshop gives yardmen, sawyers, edgermen, sales and office staff, and management-level personnel an introduction to lumber inspection. The program will be led by veteran NHLA national inspector Barry Kibbey

The four-day course includes a thorough study and explanation of the NHLA Rules Book, emphasizing the basics of hardwood lumber inspection.

Participants will have a practical understanding of the NHLA grading system used to buy and sell North American hardwoods worldwide. Students should remember to bring a notebook and grading stick.

To enroll or learn more about the program, persons may go online to www.nhla.com/calendar or contact Autumn Becker, ACM director of workforce development, at abecker@allegany.edu or 301-784-5434, for additional information.

GC Habitat For Humanity Notes Open House

Garrett County Habitat for Humanity (HFH) will host an open house and information session at Hopeland Village on Saturday, Sept. 10, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. Persons interested in learning more about the non-profit organization are invited to attend.

Hopeland Village is a planned community of single family homes, and is located along Frank Custer Drive off Broadford Road near Deer Park.

Persons may be eligible to purchase one of the units currently under construction. The questions asked of prospective buyers are as follows:

1. Is your current housing unsafe, overcrowded, poorly maintained, or with no heat?

MOST WANTED – Pictured are the current Most Wanted persons who are being sought by local law enforcement officials, as submitted by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. From left are: Thomas Allen Donnelly, 63, Bloomington, bench warrant/violation of probation; Melvin Ray Howell III, 35, Terra Alta, W.Va., bench warrant/failure to appear; and Donald Eugene Allshouse Jr., 37, Oakland, bench warrant/failure to appear. Anyone with information on the whereabouts of these individuals is asked to call 301-334-1911 or go online to garrettcountycrimesolvers.org and leave an anonymous tip.

2. Are you and your family willing to work a minimum of 500 hours, or 250 hours for a single adult, to help build your home, and the home of your Habitat for Humanity neighbor?

3. Have you been steadily employed for at least 12 months?

4. Do you keep current with all bills and payments? Are all legal liens or judgments paid?

Persons who answered yes to these questions may be eligible to purchase. Monthly costs for mortgage, taxes, and insurance are generally between $400 and $450, a spokesperson said. Persons must meet the organization's minimum and maximum income guidelines dependent on family size.

There is 0 percent interest on the home loans. Persons only pay cost and "sweat equity" hours of 250 per adult or 500 total hours per family.

Current HFH homeowners will be available to answer questions at the open house, and HFH personnel will available to discuss qualifications for home ownership, and will provide applications. Refreshments will be served.

Each application will be reviewed for financial qualifications, need for decent housing, and willingness to partner with Garrett County Habitat for Humanity. For questions or more information, persons may call the HFH office at 301-533-0600 or go to www.garretthfh.org.

Recycling Booth Planned For Art And Wine Fest

The Garrett County Department of Solid Waste and Recycling will be participating in the 2011 Art and Wine Festival at the Garrett County Fairgrounds on Saturday, Sept. 10.

A recycling booth will be open from noon to 6 p.m. During that time, site attendants will be available to answer all questions related to the county's recycling program and solid waste disposal system.

Residents will have the opportunity to sign up and try their luck in winning one of six residential refuse stickers, which will be given away at the festival (one per hour). Winners will not be required to be present at the time of each drawing.

For a chance to win a sticker, for further information, and/or to discuss potential improvements to the recycling program, those interested may visit the recycling booth.

Individuals with questions regarding the recycling programs of Garrett County may contact the Department of Solid Waste and Recycling at 301-387-0322, or e-mail kmadigan@garrettcounty.org.

Driver Arrested For Operating On Revoked License

A local man was charged following a traffic stop by Garrett County sheriff's deputies last Friday afternoon.

Deputies stopped a black Toyota Camry on Maryland Highway near I Street for a passenger not wearing a seat belt. The driver was identified as David Richard Armstrong and was found to be driving on a revoked and suspended Maryland license. He was taken to the Garrett County Jail to await a bond hearing. Passenger Alisha Lynn Duckworth was cited and allowed to leave the scene.

Rally Sunday Set Sept. 11 At St. Mark's Lutheran

The Sunday school program at St. Mark's Lutheran Church will be kicked off on Sunday, Sept. 11, with the annual Rally Sunday event. St. Mark's offers a "Second Sunday Sunday School," with youth classes offered on the second Sunday each month.

The theme for the day will be "He's Got the Whole World In His Hands," according to Dawn Lewis, superintendent. The lessons, snacks, decorations, activities, and crafts for the day will all tie into the theme. Children of all ages are invited.

The 10th anniversary of the events of Sept. 11, 2001, will also be observe, according to Rev. Scott Robinson, pastor of the church.

Rally Sunday will begin promptly at 8:45 a.m. with an ice-breaker activity, followed by the theme-based activities and lessons, singing, and crafts, and will conclude with a snack. The church service begins at 10 a.m., during which the children may be invited to sing the theme song along with the pastor.

Volunteers are welcome to take part this Sunday and to continue to help throughout the year, Lewis said. Volunteering could consist of teaching a Sunday school class, sharing a lesson or craft, contributing a morning snack, and/or assisting with the Christmas pageant.

St. Mark's is located at the corner of Center and Second streets in Oakland, across from the Ruth Enlow Library. It is an Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA) congregation. For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-2668.

On Dean's List

Kaitlin McDade, majoring in biology at Davis and Elkins College (W.Va.), was named to the spring 2011 dean's list. McDade of Oakland is the daughter of Lisa McDade. Students on the Davis and Elkins dean's list must earn a 3.6 grade point average on a 4.0 scale, while taking a minimum of 12 semester hours.

THE PINK ICE LEGO TEAM recently kicked off the new season by designing attachments for the robot to affix a LEGO piece on the top of the light pole in the Northern Middle School parking lot. Team members expressed their excitement about their participation in the Food Factor Challenge, which was released to the public on Sept. 2. Pictured above, front row, from left, are Morgan Rush, Jinny Warn, Abby Burdock, Bailey Brewer, and Bethany Phillips. In the back row are Olivia Bennett, Kendra Friend, Kaitlyn Smith, Abby Schneider, and Bethany Hershberger.

The old-fashioned riverboat can float quietly along, or with the flip of a switch can power up its engines to go against the flow… whatever is required for the safe and timely delivery of trusting passengers to their destination. It does seem easier to "go with the flow". Life tempts us all; it's more difficult to rev up our engines and go with God's flow. Visit your house of worship and learn about the power His word can provide. Find the right direction for your life.

Failure Is Always an Option

In virtually every sporting event there are winners and losers. Almost everyone, including "A" students, has failed a test or two. For every job opening, there are many applicants who get turned down. It is better to view failures or losses as feedback or opportunities to learn rather than as catastrophes. It's only human to be disappointed when we lose a game or get turned down for a job, but we can usually learn something from these experiences. There is no shame in losing and making mistakes; the real shame is when we miss the opportunity to learn or grow from these experiences. We should never be too proud to admit that we are a finite, fallible creature who must live and learn from failure. So, if we consider that "F" might stand for feedback instead of failure and from now on make a commitment to learn from our setbacks. As Mother Teresa so concisely put it, "God doesn't require us to succeed; he only requires that you try." We must try, knowing that we will sometimes fail, but having faith that even our failures are stepping stones to success.

"I can do allthings through Christ who strengthens me."

Actress's ongoing televsion work is justified

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Margo Martindale

Q: What a season of "Justified"! We were in shock at Mags' demise; she was a very strong character, and we cannot imagine the show without her. Where is she going? And when will the show be on again? –Gaylene Kester, Lake Stevens, Wash.

A: Margo Martindale, the now-Emmy-nominated actress in question, is moving on to another series. She stars with Patrick Wilson in the CBS drama "A Gifted Man," premiering Friday, Sept. 23. Though FX has renewed "Justified" for a third season, there's no set date on when that will begin running; we'd expect that to happen during the first quarter of 2012 since that's the now-traditional time for the show's return.

Q: I bought Season 6 of "The Shield," but unless there is a Season 7, the series doesn't come to a conclusion. Am I missing something? –Bill Carpenter, Fort Lupton, Colo.

A: Yes ... Season 7. There was one, and it wrapped up the FX police drama's run in 2008 with what appeared to be a resolution to the saga of rogue cop Vic Mackey (Michael Chiklis). It was released on DVD in June 2009, and it also became available on disc the following November in a "Complete Series Collection."

Q: In the Subaru commercial with the little girl and the dad giving instructions, who is the older actress playing the girl? Is it Miranda Cosgrove or Sasha Pieterse from "Pretty Little Liars"? –Christine Barry, N. Patchogue, N.Y.

A: Neither. The car company decided to use a real-life father and his daughters (who share the role of the girl at different ages) for the ad, so the young woman in question is a nonactress named Launa Lyons.

Q: Is the actress who does the T-Mobile commercials the same actress who will be playing the new Wonder Woman, Adrianne Palicki? If not, who is she? –Tim Messing, Crowley, Colo.

A: The actress in the ads is Carly Foulkes, and Palicki ("Friday Night Lights") actually won't be playing Wonder Woman. Though she made that David E. Kelley-produced series pilot, NBC didn't pick it up.

Birding BITS

Window Reflections

One way to prevent birds from flying into windows is to place strips of tape or streaks of soap at least 1-inch wide and 10 inches apart on the outside of your window. Vertical works best. This helps break up the reflection, and birds are less likely to hit the glass.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was revered American comedian Bill Cosby who made the following sage observation: "Human beings are the only creatures that allow their children to come back home."

• Here's a disturbing statistic for parents. If your child is like the average American youth, between the ages of 5 and 15 he or she will see approximately 13,500 people killed on television.

• Most languages change dramatically over time. If we in modern America were to try to read "Beowulf" (which was written in Old English), for instance, only those who have spent time studying the language would be able to make out more than a word or two here and there. If you're from Iceland, however, this isn't the case; the written language there has remained virtually unchanged for more than 1,000 years. Modern Icelanders have no trouble reading sagas that were written in the 10th century. • Relative to body size, humans -- unsurprisingly -- have larger brains than any other animal. Of non-human animals, it's the bottlenose dolphin that has the largest brain.

• When Great Britain's current Queen Elizabeth -- then Princess Elizabeth -- wed Prince Philip, their wedding cake weighed a whopping 500 pounds.

• As legend has it, in 1288, when Dusseldorf, Germany, was granted its city charter, children all over the city began turning cartwheels for joy. The cartwheel has been an enduring part of the culture there ever since, and in 1937 the city even inaugurated an annual international cartwheel championship. • Those who study such things claim that when you're playing Monopoly, you're likely to land on Illinois Avenue and the B&O Railroad more than on any other squares.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Sept. 16, 1620, the Mayflower sails from Plymouth, England, bound for the New World with 102 passengers. The ship was headed for Virginia, but stormy weather and navigational errors forced the Mayflower off course. On Nov. 21, the "Pilgrims" arrived in Massachusetts.

• On Sept. 15, 1916, during the Battle of the Somme, the British launch a major offensive against the Germans, employing tanks for the first time. Although slow, the tanks showed promise and hundreds more were ordered.

• On Sept. 17, 1923, a fire threatens the University of California at Berkeley, kills two people and causes $10 million in damages. Homeowners fought the flames with garden hoses and buckets, and students from the University of California pitched in, as the fire came right to the campus gates.

• On Sept. 13, 1936, 17-year-old Cleveland Indians pitching ace "Rapid" Robert Feller strikes out 17 batters in a game, setting a new American League record. Feller allowed just two hits to help his team to a 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia A's.

• On Sept. 12, 1940, a collection of 600 prehistoric cave paintings and 1,500 engravings are discovered in a grotto near Montignac, France. The 5,000- to 17,000-year-old paintings consisted mostly of animal representations. The Lascaux grotto's main cavern is 66 feet wide and 16 feet high.

• On Sept. 14, 1964, writer John Steinbeck is presented the U.S. Medal of Freedom. Steinbeck had already received numerous honors and awards for his writing, including the 1962 Nobel Prize, and the 1939 Pulitzer Prize for "The Grapes of Wrath." He also wrote "Tortilla Flat," "East of Eden" and the novella "Of Mice and Men."

• On Sept. 18, 1987, cesium-137 is removed from an abandoned cancer-therapy machine in Brazil. Junkyard workers, fascinated by the glowing blue stone inside and completely unaware of its dangers, distributed pieces to friends, relatives and neighbors. Hundreds of people were eventually poisoned by radiation from the substance, and 40 contaminated homes had to be demolished.

Collecting

by Larry Cox

Q: I have collected more than 300 vintage aprons during the past decade or so and would now like to sell the entire collection, not parting it out. What do you suggest I do? -- Dianne, Sun City, Ariz.

A: One of the foremost authorities of older kitchen aprons is EllynAnne Geisel, author of "The Apron Book," published by Andrews McMeel. Recently, I spent an enjoyable afternoon visiting with her in my Arizona home. She is knowledgeable and has assured me she will help you. Her contact information is c/o Apron Memories, 605 West 17th St., Pueblo, CO 81003; ellynanne@apronmemories.com, and (719) 545-5704. A second book, "The Kitchen Linens Book: Using, Sharing and Cherishing the Fabrics of Our Daily Lives," also is highly recommended and available from Andrews McMeel.

Q: I have several Reikes bears and can't seem to find books at the library that can give me information about current values. They all have wooden faces and are numbered. Three that I have include Sebastian, Lionel and Christopher. I do not have the original boxes. -- Jim, Sun City West, Ariz.

A: It has been more than a century since the first Teddy bears were manufactured in the United States. Most of the earliest ones had humps on their backs, elongated muzzles and jointed limbs. Named in honor of Theodore Roosevelt and his much publicized bear hunts in the American West, the toy bears quickly became one of this country's favorite toys. Your bears are from a much later period, circa 1980s, and -- according to several collectors I contacted -- probably valued in the $50 to $75 range. As with most collectibles, the value of an item is based on rarity, condition and demand. I found your Sebastian bear listed on eBay for $55.

RECYCLING SCULPTURES WANTED – The Garrett County Department of Solid Waste and Recycling and the Garrett County Arts Council have requested entries for the 7th annual Regional "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest. All Garrett County high school students, grades 9-12, are invited to create sculptures made from recycled or recaptured materials. Sculptures will be judged on creativity, workmanship, and their use of recycled materials. The variety of recycled materials will also be considered. Three local judges will determine first- and second-place winners in each grade. Prizes will be provided by corporate and non-profit organization sponsors. Each year 4 to 6 sculptures are chosen by the local judges to represent Garrett County in the state sculpture contest held at the Maryland Department of the Environment (Baltimore). This year the state contest will be on Friday, Nov. 18. Additionally, many sculptures will be selected and shown at the GCAC Gallery Shop. To obtain an entry form to compete in the regional contest or more information, one may contact Garrett County's Solid Waste and Recycling Office at 301-387-0322, or by e-mailing kmadigan@garrettcounty.org. Those interested may also contact the art director at either Northern or Southern high school. The "Rethink Recycling" Sculpture Contest is made possible in part by an Opportunity Grant funded by the Garrett County Arts Council.

Remember?

Where you were on September 11, 2001?

When we were all New Yorkers?

When the planes all stopped flying for the first time in our lives?

Calling loved ones to confirm their safety?

How we admired the heroes running towards and into the burning towers?

Wanting so badly to volunteer?

Wondering if our lives were changed forever?

When the churches were suddenly full again on Sunday?

Wondering if our hometown might be next?

Our admiration for regular people fighting terrorists on Flight 93?

Holding close to our loved ones and thanking God for their safety?

TRUSTEE'S SALE
Case No. 11-C-10-011857
Of Valuable Improved Real Estate
located in Garrett County, MD
at 267 Mosser Road, Unit 4
McHenry, Maryland 21541

Under and by virtue of a Power Of Sale contained in a certain Deed Of Trust from Danny D. DeAngelo and Pamela M. DeAngelo to Stanley L. Merson and S. Lynne Pulford, Trustees, dated December 23, 2004, and duly recorded among the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, in Liber 1088, at Folio 550, docketed for foreclosure in Civil No. 11-C-10-011857, the holder of the indebtedness secured by the Deed Of Trust having appointed Martin L. Goozman and Jeffrey W. Bernstein as Substitute Trustees by Instrument duly executed, acknowledged and recorded among the Land Records of the said County, default having occurred under the terms thereof and at the request of the holder of the Note secured thereby, the undersigned Substitute Trustees will offer for sale at public auction at the front entrance of the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, Courthouse, 203 S. 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on Friday, September 9, 2011, at 1:30 p.m.

all that Property described in the said Deed Of Trust as follows:

All the real property situate in Election District No. 18, Garrett County, Maryland, known as:

CONDOMINIUM UNIT NO. 4, THE LANDINGS AT MOSSER CONDOMINIUM, as shown on the plat of said The Landings at Mosser Condominium being filed in Plat Case DKM 3, Page 176 A-G, one of the Plat Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

Together with the undivided interest in the common elements of The Landings at Mosser Condominium attributable to Unit 4, and the buildings and improvements thereon and the rights, roads, ways, waters, privileges and appurtenances thereunto belonging or in anywise appertaining.

Subject to the Declaration and By-Laws of The Landings At-Mosser Condominium dated October 12, 2004, and recorded in Liber 1071, Page 100, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland, as the same shall be amended from time to time.

Subject to a covenant and restriction that no portion of the property shall be sold or leased to any Lending, Banking, Credit or Mortgage Institution as set forth in Liber 957, Page 244, one of the Land Records of Garrett County, Maryland.

The Property will be sold in "AS-IS" condition, subject to all conditions, restrictions, easements, covenants, rights-of-way and agreements of record affecting the Property and subject to whatever an accurate survey or inspection of the Property would disclose, without any express or implied warranty of any kind.

A deposit of $17,500.00 cash, certified or cashier's check, payable to the undersigned Trustees, shall be required at the time and place of sale. The balance of the purchase price shall bear interest at the rate of 3.25% per annum from the date of sale to the date of delivery of payment to the Substitute Trustees. No deposit shall be required of the noteholder where the noteholder bids on the Property at sale and payment of the purchase price by the noteholder shall be made by crediting the purchase price against the foreclosure costs and expenses and the indebtedness secured by said Deed Of Trust. In the event that settlement is delayed for any reason, including, but not limited to, exceptions to the sale, bankruptcy filings by interested parties, court administration of the foreclosure sale or unknown title defects, there shall be no abatement of interest.

Adjustment of all taxes, public charges and special or regular assessments, annual front foot benefit charges and deferred connection fees, if any, shall be made as of the date of sale and thereafter assumed by the purchaser. Condominium fees and/or homeowner's association fees, if any, shall be assumed by the purchaser from the date of sale. Title examination, conveyancing, transfer taxes, recordation tax and all other costs of conveyance and settlement shall be paid by the purchaser. Purchaser agrees to pay $295.00 at settlement to Seller's attorney for review of the settlement documents.

The Property is sold subject to the right of any persons in possession of all or any part of the Property under recorded or unrecorded leases or rights of occupancy, if any. Purchaser shall be responsible for obtaining possession of the Property.

Compliance with the terms of sale shall be made and the balance of the purchase price shall be paid within ten (10) days after final ratification of the sale by the Circuit Court for Garrett County, Maryland, unless said time is extended by the undersigned Trustees in their sole and absolute discretion for good cause shown, time being of the essence; otherwise the deposit shall be forfeited and the Property will be resold at the risk and expense of the defaulting purchaser. In the event of resale, the defaulting purchaser shall not be entitled to any benefit, surplus proceeds or profits resulting from such resale.

The Trustees are not liable, individually or otherwise, for any reason. If title to the Property is not or cannot be transferred consistent with the terms hereof for any reason, the Trustee's liability is limited, at its sole discretion, to return any deposit, without interest, thereby rescinding the sale, and there is no other right or remedy against the Trustee at law or in equity.

Bloodmobile To Visit GC Three Times In Sept.

The American Red Cross will send a bloodmobile to Garrett County locations three times during the month of September, with the first local visit slated for next Monday, Sept. 12, at Zion Lutheran Church in Accident. Donors will be welcome to report there from 1 to 6 p.m.

Garrett College will host the bloodmobile next Wednesday, Sept. 14. Donors will be welcomed in Room 620A of the Learning Center from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The third visit of the month will be hosted by Dennett Road Elementary School in Oakland on Tuesday, Sept. 27. Hours for that visit are from noon to 6 p.m. A donation at this visit will help a Dennett Road student become a "Pint-Size Hero."

Persons with questions concerning blood donation may direct them to Carey Toth of the Western Potomac Area of the ARC at 1-800-542-5663, ext. 2641, or via e-mail to tothc@usa.redcross.org.

Registration Still Open For Living Well Workshop

A new Living Well with Chronic Conditions workshop is taking place at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland on Thursday afternoons through mid-October. While the sessions begin this afternoon, Sept. 8, this free workshop series is still open for registration. Persons may sign up by calling Suzanne Carley at 301-746-8232 or e-mailing scarley@garrettcac.org.

Living Well workshops, developed by Stanford University, meet once a week for six weeks (each Thursday, today through Oct. 13, 1 to 3:30 p.m.). Two trained instructors introduce new material each week and facilitate group discussions.

Living Well workshops in Garrett County are sponsored by the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging/Community Action Committee Inc., made possible by funding under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and with funds granted to the Maryland Department of Aging by the Federal Administration on Aging.

People with chronic conditions such as diabetes, depression, heart disease, stroke, arthritis, and lung disease often experience common problems and symptoms, a spokesperson said, including pain, loss of energy, sleep problems, depression, breathing problems, and concern for the future. The Living Well workshops teach participants to manage symptoms, communicate effectively with doctors, lessen frustration, fight fatigue, make daily tasks easier, and get more out of life, the spokesperson said.

Participants will receive a free copy of the companion book, Living a Healthy Life with Chronic Conditions. This is possible with funding from GGEAR, Geriatrics and Gerontology Education and Research Program, University of Maryland, Baltimore.

St. Mark's is located at the corner of Second and Center streets in Oakland, across from the Ruth Enlow Library.

This project promotes the Garrett County Community Action Committee strategy of creating an environment where Garrett County residents have access to health care and support on life skills, thus increasing the number of families and individuals able to live independently, the spokesperson concluded.

LAKE FRIENDS HOST COMMISSIONERS – The Friends of Deep Creek Lake took two of the three Garrett county commissioners on a "fact-finding" boat tour of the lake last Thursday to show them first-hand certain environmental issues on and in the lake that are of great concern to the Friends. The group is pictured above at the dock of the Deep Creak Yacht Club at Turkey Neck. From left are Pat and Paul Weller, Commissioners Jim Raley and Bob Gatto, Natural Resources specialist Cheryl DeBerry, Judi Fang (partially hidden), Friends director Barbara Beelar, and Ellen Williams. Among the concerns of the Friends are Eurasian watermilfoil, an invasive submerged aquatic vegetation that is rampant in several areas, serious erosion along the lake shoreline in a number of areas, and the ever increasing buildup of sediment in most of the lake's coves. Beelar says that the Maryland Department of Natural Resources should have taken steps many years ago to prevent the spread of the watermilfoil into the lake. "Unfortunately, DNR has no program requiring boat cleaning, which allows both the import and export of milfoil. Cleaning stations are not required by DNR, though this is common practice in many lakes around the country." She added that the DNR also has no eradication program, and has not yet even conducted a survey to ascertain the extent of the problem in the lake. Beelar said that the aforementioned environmental problems at the lake are already leading to a decline in lake property values, which results in lower tax revenues for the county. "The decline we have seen in just the past few years is very troubling," said Beelar. "We need leadership to protect our investment and assure that our grandchildren will be able to enjoy the lake in the future. We need for the county to get involved."

Autumn Glory 2011 Buntings Now Available

Autumn Glory bunting for the 44th annual Autumn Glory Festival are now available for purchase from the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. As the fall season approaches, more businesses and organizations begin to hang buntings to show their support of the county's largest festival. The colorful buntings add to the festive fall atmosphere and community spirit and invite visitors into local establishments.

"Show your colors," said chamber president Nicole Christian. "This is the 44th anniversary of our popular fall festival, and we invite your business to be one of the more than 100 area businesses and organizations that fly Autumn Glory bunting to celebrate the fall season and remind residents and visitors that Autumn Glory is approaching." The annual festival will be held Oct. 12–16, with two parades, dinners, a fall foliage tour, and musical entertainment to be featured.

Buntings are available from the Chamber of Commerce Visitors Center, McHenry, for $85/each, tax included. A limited number of sets are available. To order or to request more information, persons may contact Sarah Duck at 301-387-8746 or via e-mail at sarah@garrettchamber.com.

PRESENTS COMMEMORATIVE GIFT – A delegation representing Deep Creek 2014 LLC traveled to Bratislava, Slovakia, last week to observe the 2011 International Canoe Federation's (ICF) World Championship Canoe and Kayak Slalom Races. Garrett County's Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI) will host a similar event in 2014. (See related story and press release from the Garrett County commissioners on this trip in this week's issue.) The delegation is pictured above presenting a commemorative Simon Pearce glass canoe to ICF president José Perurena Lopez to mark the occasion of the world races coming to Garrett County. Left to right are Bob Campbell, Deep Creek 2014 board member and co-owner of Whitewater Parks International; GC commissioner Gregan Crawford, Deep Creek 2014 co-chairman; Lopez; Terry Hasseltine, co-chairman of Deep Creek 2014; and Suzanne Nicolas, ASCI and Deep Creek 2014. Below are just two of the more than 400 athletes from 49 nations who competed in the world races in Bratislava. Photos courtesy of Commissioner Gregan Crawford.

NO TRANSPORTATION MUSEUM would be complete without a "surrey with the fringe on top," and the one that is on display at the soon-to-be-open Garrett County Historical Society Transportation Museum in Oakland is exceedingly appropriate for this particular building. The surrey pictured above was owned by the Naylor family, who resided at Crook Crest in Oakland in the latter years of the 19th century. The direct descendants of those Naylors have made construction of the new museum possible, as the majority of funding for the project was awarded by the Howard and Audrey Naylor Family Trust. The new facility will actually be open to the public beginning next Monday; however, a ribbon-cutting and grand opening are slated for Saturday, Sept. 24, at 2 p.m. The museum will also serve as a host for the 66th annual Glidden Tour of Antique Cars next Wednesday, Sept. 21, which will feature approximately 270 antique – some unique – automobiles from all over the nation. See other museum photos on the back page of this section. Photo by John McEwen.

ARC Awards Grant To Start A Garrett College STEM Prog.

The Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) announced yesterday approval of a grant in the amount of $264,926 to Garrett College for a STEM (science, technology, engineering, and mathematics) Program. The college expects 113 students to enroll in STEM-related associate's degree programs, 25 high school students to participate on the FIRST Robotics team, and adults to participate in entrepreneurship training resulting in at least five new businesses.

"This project will provide the resources for Garrett College to start a STEM program to better prepare workers for both current and future jobs," noted an ARC spokesperson.

The project will have three components. The first will support associate degree programs in math/science, electrical engineering, cyber security and other computer information technology programs, and elementary and secondary education.

The second component will be the Rural Entrepreneurship Academy with a focus on starting STEM businesses.

The third component will be the formation of a regional FIRST Robotics competition team for high school students.

ARC funds will be used to purchase smart boards, laptop computers, a server, and other pieces of equipment necessary to implement the STEM program.

In addition to ARC funds, state sources will provide $82,000, and local sources will provide $182,926, bringing the total project funding to $529,852.

Who Was Joanna Nicolay? The Inspiration Behind The SavageMan

by Mary Sincell McEwen

A host of athletes from around the world will arrive in Garrett County this weekend, each prepared to put him or herself through a grueling test of stamina, strength, and mettle. They will jump into the fifth annual "Tri-to-Win" SavageMan Triathlon, slated for Sept. 17 and 18, and will run, swim, and bike multiple miles on one of the most difficult courses in the world.

JOANNA M. NICOLAY

All the while, the athletes will be raising funds and awareness for the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, known as "the voice for melanoma prevention, detection, care, and cure." Each year the name of the organization is included in all the stories and publicity, and each year thousands of dollars are raised to support the organization's mission. But who was Joanna M. Nicolay, and how did she inspire such a movement?

Joanna was a loving wife and mother, a woman whose own mother died when she was only 12. She was kind-hearted and funny and devout. She was dedicated and hardworking and brave. And after a very long and arduous struggle, she died of melanoma in 2003. Because of her legacy of courage and faith, her family and friends were inspired to build something in her honor The Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation was born a year after her death.

Joanna was first diagnosed

Antique Car Club Members To Tour Garrett County

The Antique Automobile Club of America will hold its 66th annual Glidden Tour next week in the local region About 600 people in 268 cars ranging from 1908 to 1938 will drive to various sites in Allegany County, Somerset County (Pa.), and Garrett County during the event.

Most of the club members will stay at RockY Gap Resort near Cumberland. They will travel to such points of interest as Polish Mountain, the Flight 93 Memorial, and the Quecreek Mine rescue site on Monday and Tuesday.

On Wednesday, members will leave Rocky Gap and drive to Swallow Falls State Park to watch a re-enactment of Henry Ford, Harvey Firestone, John Burroughs, and Thomas Edison camping near Muddy Creek Falls. Then they will drive to Oakland to eat lunch at The Elks Lodge.

Garrett College To Host Second Volunteer Fair

To spread the word about volunteer opportunities in Garrett County and to connect potential volunteers with organizations, the second annual Garrett County Volunteer Fair will be held next Thursday, Sept. 22, from 3 to 7 p.m. in the Garrett College gymnasium.

According to Judy Carbone, chair of the fair planning committee and GC director of advising, career, and transfer services, the fair is an information event at which non-profit organizations provide information about their missions, volunteer opportunities, and upcoming projects.

Carbone emphasized that the Volunteer Fair is not "a day of service" event and that there will be no volunteering projects that day

"It's a great place to talk with representatives from these organizations and to assess whether there is a match between the organization's volunteer needs and the individual's personal goals or reasons for volunteering. Those finding a good match can sign up for future projects or activities," Carbone said.

Volunteer opportunities can run the gamut from once a week to once a year, and may be structured to fill the need for student service learning hours at the high school or college level, she explained.

Participating organizations include the House of Hope, Deep Creek Lake Art

BOE May Have Uttered Final (Public) Prayer

The Garrett County Board of Education breached a sensitive subject near the completion of its regularly scheduled monthly meeting on Tuesday: its own tradition of a pre-meeting prayer.

The discussion was opened with consideration for a recent 2-1 decision of the Fourth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va., which stated that the Forsyth County Board of Commissioners (N.C.) was not allowed to give opening prayers at its meetings that focused on a single religious denomination or specific deity.

It was the consensus of the board that the court's decision might open the door for law suits against governing bodies that practice denominationally specific pre-meeting prayer.

The idea of a more generic prayer unspecific to any one

Info Sought On $5,000 In Damage Done To Golf Course

Garrett County sheriff's deputies are investigating a destruction of property complaint that occurred last week.

Unknown suspect(s) reportedly caused more than $5,000 worth of damage to the Wisp Resort golf course sometime between the evening hours of Sept. 9 and the morning hours of Sept. 10. The suspect(s) reportedly entered the golf course in a unidentified vehicle and proceeded to spin tires in a manner that caused severe damage to the greens. It was

Garrett Co. Officials Take Information Gathering Trip To Bratislava, Slovakia

Gregan Crawford, Board of Garrett County Commissioners, and Director Jim Hinebaugh, GC Department of Economic Development, traveled to Bratislava, Slovakia, to get a behind-the-scenes look at what it takes to stage an international sporting event.

The capital city was hosting the 2011 International Canoe Federation's (ICF) World Championship Canoe and Kayak Slalom Races. More than 400 athletes from 49 nations competed. Garrett County will host a similar event in 2014.

"It was a very productive week," Crawford said during the commissioners' public meeting on Tuesday. "A lot of areas that were typically off limits to many, we were fortunate to have access to. It's extremely rare. There were eight different categories, and we had access to all eight areas."

Those included the athletes' village and medical, judging, video review, and protest areas.

Crawford indicated the ability to observe the race and talk with ICF members from around the world provided valuable information and would help the county prepare for its own event.

Following its April 15 board meeting in Paris, the ICF awarded the Adventure Sports Center International's (ASCI) bid to host the federation's 2014 Canoe Slalom World Championships. ASCI beat out competing entries from Austria and Poland.

Crawford and ASCI executive director Matt Taylor made the bid presentation and were on hand for the award in Paris. The official title of the local event is Deep Creek 2014: ICF Canoe Sla-

GEARING UP FOR THE 62ND HARVEST SALE – These felted and leaf-printed hangings were made by the students of the Swan Meadow School, along with their art teacher and community helpers. The leaf prints were collected during a visit to Hickory Environmental Education Center, and Swan Meadow School's first and second graders made the felted hanging during a visit with Dave and Darlene Terlizzi of Sunnyside Wools Farm. These works will be among many on display at the 62nd annual Harvest Sale, slated for Friday, Sept. 23, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center, beginning at 5:30 p.m. The event is a fundraiser hosted by the Swan Meadow School PTO, and features an auction of farm produce, handmade items, and baked goods. The public is invited to attend. See story on Page A-2.

PACK 70 PRESENTS COLORS AT PNC PARK – Cub Scout Pack 70 of Oakland recently served as color guard at a Labor Day game for the Pittsburgh Pirates, who played the Houston Astros. Rain threatened to dampen the Scouts' presentation, but the program was completed as scheduled. Pack 70 will hold a back-to-school night for those interested in joining or returning to Scouting. The event is scheduled for Wednesday, Sept. 21, at 6 p.m. and will take place at Broad Ford Elementary School. The organization invites the public to attend. Eight Scouts presented the colors at PNC Park: Nick Easterday, wolf cub; Jacob Park, wolf cub; Aerik LeBon, tiger cub; Nicolas Morfe, tiger cub; Chance Friend, wolf cub; Gavin Piper, wolf cub; and Ben Jubb, wolf cub. Leading the Scouts were: Chad Easterday, cubmaster; Jim Jubb, assistant wolf leader; Frank Morfe, assistant tiger leader; and David LeBon, assistant cubmaster and tiger leader.

Swan Meadow To Host 62nd Harvest Sale

The 62nd annual Harvest Sale, a fundraiser hosted by the Swan Meadow School PTO, will be held on Friday, Sept. 23, at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. This auction of farm produce, handmade items, and baked goods features items provided by families and students of Swan Meadow School, many of whom are Amish and Mennonite.

Glazed doughnuts made on the day of the sale will be available for purchase by 5:30 p.m. Caramels, taffy, cookies, fudge, and cinnamon rolls will also go on sale at 5:30 p.m.

Half and whole dozens of doughnuts and cinnamon rolls and gallons of apple cider will be sold under the white tent located by the entrance of the Pleasant Valley Community Center. This way people who come to the Harvest Sale for homemade items have the option of purchasing them outside of the community center, then taking them to their vehicles before going inside for dinner and the annual auction.

Inside the center, participants can buy taco salad, fruit salad, nachos, chili dogs, sloppy joes, hot dogs, coffee, chocolate and regular milk, lemonade, and apple cider. Swan Meadow School students will open the evening with songs at 6:45 p.m., and the auction will follow at 7 p.m.

One of the highlights of the auction will be the bidding on 12 dinners to be served in an Amish cabin.

The center is located along Joni Miller Road, off the Paul Friend Road, which is off Rt. 219 South.

READY TO DIG IN?? Local dentist Dr. Abe Getty is apparently perfecting his pig-eating skills as he prepares for the Cindy's Fund/Archie's Barbeque Mountain Man Food Challenge Pigout. Getty previously tried unsuccessfully to accomplish this feat, and thinks he is now ready to devour the entire meal. Anyone else who would like to sign up for the challenge can obtain a registration form at any Garrett County branch of First United Bank, Archie's Barbeque, or online at www.cindysfund.org or www.archiesbarbeque.com. The event will be held on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 4 to 8 p.m. at Archie's restaurant, located along Rt. 219 just north of McHenry. The actual eating challenge will begin at 6 p.m. There will be a barbecue buffet for spectators, as well as music provided by Jonny Rock. Local radio personality Jim Van will emcee the event. All proceeds will benefit Cindy's Fund, a local non-profit organization that provides assistance to Garrett County cancer patients.

Oakland Woman Charged Following Traffic Stop In MLP

An Oakland woman was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on Tuesday following a traffic stop in Mtn. Lake Park.

Amy Elaine Warner, 27, was stopped in a 2001 Mitsubishi on E Street for displaying expired tags. Further investigation revealed that Warner was driving without a license. She was also charged with operating an uninsured vehicle, operating an unregistered vehicle, failure to display a front registration plate, and holder of a learner's permit operating without required supervision.

She was transported to the Garrett County Jail, where she was released after posting bond.

Reservations Still Available for Civic Club Celebration

The GFWC Civic Club of Oakland is gearing up to mark a milestone next month, as the organization turns 100 years old. Founded in 1911 by Thekla Fundenberg Weeks, the Civic Club of Oakland has a long history of community improvement, assistance to local children, and support of a wide range of local organizations, among many other projects and efforts.

A Century of Commitment dinner dance will be held on Saturday, Oct. 1, from 6 to 10:30 p.m. at Dutch's at Silver Tree, Deep Creek Lake. Members of the community are invited to join with the club at the event, during which Sounds Fun Entertainment will provide music selections ranging from the 1920s to the 1990s. The dress is festive attire/business casual, a spokesperson said.

The ticket price per person is $50, and ticket reservation is due on Sept. 20. To obtain tickets, persons should e-mail gfwcoakland@gmail.com, or mail a check to GFWC Civic Club of Oakland, P.O. Box 167, Oakland, MD 21550-0167.

The 85-member group made a national mark this summer, as its publicity book won first place in the country, having placed first regionally, as well as in Maryland. The organization is active in a number of efforts, including the annual Warm the Children campaign, which serves hundreds of local children in need each year. That program will begin in late October.

W.Va. Man Sentenced To One Year For Conspiracy Theft Charge

A West Virginia man was recently sentenced to one year in the Garrett County Jail by Judge Leonard J. Eiswert on a conspiracy theft of $500 plus value charge.

David Hans Moyer, 33, Romney, was not prosecuted on theft $500 plus value, theft scheme $500 plus value, and conspiracy theft scheme $500 plus value charges. All but three days of his one-year sentence was suspended, and he was placed on three years of supervised probation, to be monitored by the Maryland Division of Parole and Probation. He was also ordered to pay restitution of $9,600 to Pioneer Conveyor.

Moyer was one of two suspects who reportedly stole over 20,000 lbs. of steel from the business and sold it to a local salvage yard for an amount totaling over $8,000. The metal was allegedly stolen and sold on several occasions during 2009. Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated the incident.

In other court news, Timothy Wayne Walden, 35, Oakland, was found guilty on a failure to register as a sex offender charge. He was sentenced to six months suspended and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He reportedly moved from the area to Bayard, W.Va., without notifying the proper authorities.

Christopher Ryan Funk, 19, Grantsville, was found guilty on a possession of marijuana charge stemming from an incident in May investigated by Maryland State Police. He was sentenced to 90 days suspended and placed on two years of unsupervised probation. He was also fined $500, of which $250 was suspended. He was one of several people located in a vehicle at a northern Garrett County school who were in possession of three smoking devices and a bag of marijuana. He was not prosecuted on a possession of paraphernalia charge.

Chester Dale Burgess Jr., 33, Oakland, was found guilty on a violation of a protective order and sentenced to 90 days suspended. He was also fined $500 suspended and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He reportedly called the petitioner of the order 17 times while incarcerated. The matter was investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in April. He was not prosecuted on two additional counts of the same charge.

Amanda L. Swist, 21, Kings Park, N.Y., was given a probation before judgment (PBJ) verdict on a possession not marijuana charge and sentenced to 60 days, with 58 suspended. She was given credit for two days served and placed on 18 months of unsupervised probation. She was also fined $500 with $300 suspended. She was not prosecuted on possession of marijuana, possession of paraphernalia, two counts of possession with intent to distribute, and three counts of possession not marijuana charges.

Max Tyler Watson, 21, Northport, N.Y., was found guilty on a possession of marijuana charge and sentenced to 30 days with 28 suspended. He was given credit for two days served and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was also fined $500 with $300 suspended.

Swist and Watson were in a vehicle stopped on I-68 by Maryland State Police in July. A search of their vehicle revealed a quantity of marijuana, LSD (packaged for sale), heroin, and psilocybin mushrooms, as well as two Percocet pills, and three smoking pipes. A total of $400 was also confiscated.

William Preston Nichols Jr., 44, Hagerstown, was given a stet verdict on a second-degree assault charge stemming from a domestic dispute at a Meadowview Drive apartment in December 2009. Garrett County sheriff's deputies were the responding officers. He was not prosecuted on a first-degree assault charge. The conditions of his stet are that he obey all laws.

Joel Sickles Lancaster, 26, Louisville, Ky., was given a stet verdict on a handgun in vehicle charge stemming from a traffic stop by MSP in June. The conditions of his stet were that he forfeit the Beretta handgun.

Matthew Aaron Cuppett, 29, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge that stemmed from a domestic dispute investigated by GC sheriff's deputies in June.

Justin Shoemaker, 22, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge that stemmed from a domestic dispute in June investigated by Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Stevie Jean Ervin, 27, Oakland, was not prosecuted on first-degree assault and second-degree assault charges that stemmed from a physical altercation with an adult female. Garrett County sheriff's deputies investigated the incident in August.

SCHOOL BUS VIOLATIONS

Robert Tommy Davis, 18, Md., was found guilty on a failure to stop for a stopped school vehicle operating alternating flashing red lights charge stemming from an incident investigated by GC deputies in April. He was fined $350.

DUI/DWI

The following driving while under the influence (DUI) and driving while impaired (DWI) cases were heard in recent District Court proceedings, with Judge Eiswert presiding.

Brian Lee Uplinger, 36, Pennsylvania, was given a PBJ on a DWI and sentenced to 30 days suspended. He was fined $500, with $250 suspended and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was arrested in April by Maryland State Police. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DUI per se charges.

Mark William Biche, 50, Ohio, was given a PBJ on a DWI charge stemming from a traffic stop by MSP in March. He was sentenced to 30 days suspended and placed on one year of unsupervised probation. He was also fined $500, with $200 suspended. He was not prosecuted on DUI and DUI per se charges.

RAM CADETS ATTEND LEADERSHIP CAMP – Students enrolled in the Army JROTC leadership academy at Southern High School recently attended the one-week JROTC leadership camp at Camp Dawson, W.Va. The camp is held each year for select cadets and focuses on development of leadership skill. Cadets from several schools joined in physical training and personal skill exercises, and map and compass training, as well as rappelling and swimming drills. This year's camp brought together over 200 cadets from Maryland, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. Typically, only 10 percent of all students enrolled in JROTC are allowed to attend this all-expenses paid Army camp. The cadets representing Southern High are pictured above. In the bottom row, from left, are: Brian Rinker, Ben Rhodeheaver, Darren Large, Colton Wassel, Elizabeth McClean, and Tiffany Longacre. In the center row are: Carl Cosner, Nathan Ford, and Killian Fitzwater. At top center is Emily Nazelrod.

American Legion Post #71 Reopens After 18 Months

The American Legion Post #71 has reopened after nearly 18 months of construction and restoration. The facility was destroyed in April of 2010.

"The construction of the building was a long time coming due to the fact that the contractors had a difficult time getting materials from the suppliers," stated a spokesperson.

"All of the contractors, from the project manager to the individual contractors, worked together with the American Legion Building Committee to make this as nice looking a project as they could for the money that we had to work with.

"A thank-you goes out to all members for their willingness to wait for the job to be completed."

Post #71 has extended an invitation to members and eligible veterans to "stop by and see their new post," as well as renew their membership or pick up a membership application.

The Legion's monthly meetings are scheduled to take place the third Monday of each month.

"I would like to thank the VFW Post #10077 for allowing us to hold our meetings and other functions at their facility," stated a spokesperson.

Arrested On Drinking And Driving Charges

A West Virginia woman was arrested by Garrett County sheriff's deputies on drinking and driving charges on Sunday.

Patricia Darlene Anthony, 54, Fairview, was stopped on Maryland Highway near Philadelphia Ave. Investigation led to her being charged with driving under the influence, DUI per se, driving while impaired, and other traffic violations. She was released on personal recognizance until her court date.

From there, they will drive to downtown Oakland at about 12:30 p.m. to park on Liberty Street and the surrounding parking lots and will tour the historic Oakland train station, the new Transportation Museum directly across from the station, and the Garrett County Historical Society Museum. Club members will also tour the downtown area.

On Thursday, members will travel the National Road, making stops at Nemacolin Trails Resort, OhioPyle, and Falling Water in Pennsylvania.

The tour will conclude the following day, with members visiting a Corvette collection, touring museums, and taking a steam train ride. A closing banquet and awards presentation will be held on Friday night.

Weather Trivia

Does the risk of sunburn increase with altitude?

Answer: Yes. At high altitudes, there is less atmosphere to shield you.

Weather History

Sept. 16, 1989 - Showers and thunderstorms, representing what remained of Hurricane Octave, brought locally heavy rains to California, impeding the drying process for raisins and other crops. Sacramento, Calif., was soaked with 1.53 inches of rain in six hours.

Sept. 17, 1965 - A storm produced a band of heavy snow across parts of Wyoming. Totals of 23 inches at Rawlins and 20.7 inches at Lander easily surpassed previous snowfall record totals for so early in the season.

Detailed Local Forecast

Today we will see mostly sunny skies with a high temperature of 61°, humidity of 42%. East wind 3 to 6 mph. The record high temperature for today is 85° set in 1955. Expect partly cloudy skies tonight with an overnight low of 40°. The record low for tonight is 30° set in 1966. Saturday, skies will be mostly sunny with a high temperature of 62°, humidity of 46%. Skies will be partly cloudy Saturday night with an overnight low of 45°. Expect mostly sunny skies Sunday with a high temperature of 63°.

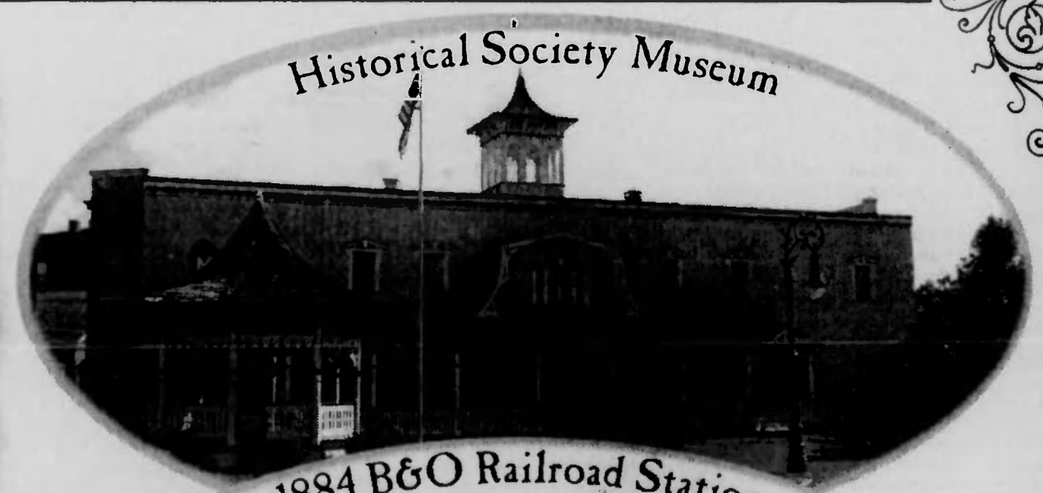
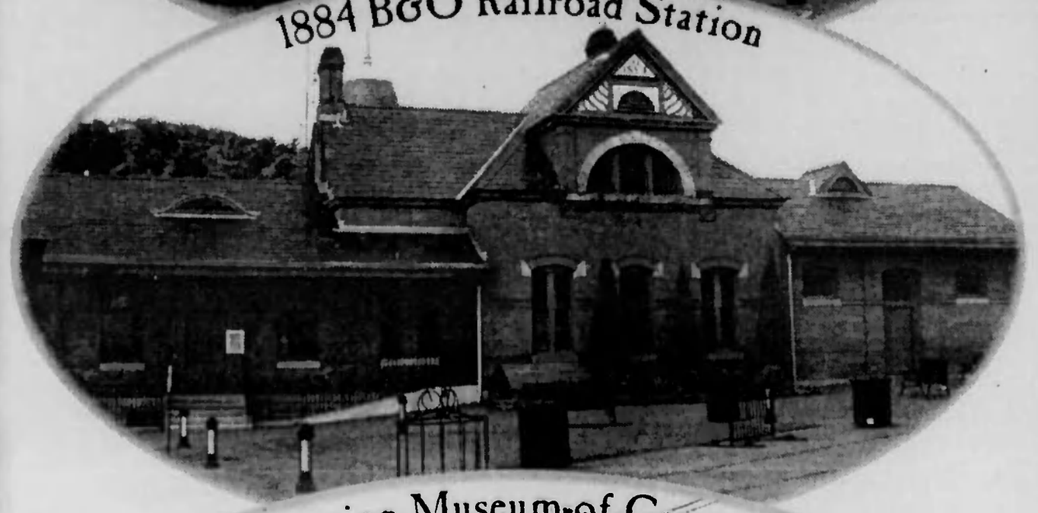
All events take place in historic downtown Oakland, Maryland.





Let's Embrace Them...

Athletes literally from around the nation and representing a number of other countries will descend upon Garrett County once again this weekend to participate in the now world-famous SavageMan Triathlon, a grueling swimming, biking, running competition, the course of which stretches many scenic miles up and down our roadways. Participants in past SavageMan races rave about not only how well the event is organized, but also about the friendliness of us local folks toward them, the beauty of the course itself, and the extreme level of challenge it offers. In fact, the editors of Triathlete magazine deemed the SavageMan the "#1 hardest race on Earth."

The SavageMan is an economic godsend for Garrett County, as all of our motels, restaurants, gas stations, and many other businesses will be kept busy accommodating all of these visitors. So it only makes sense that we all do our best to roll out the red carpet, provide a warm welcome to the participants and their families, and show them the kind of courtesy and hospitality that will make them continue to heap praise upon our county and this event, and thus make them want to keep coming back.

Because the bike portion of the race traverses so many miles of our roadways, it is imperative that all motorists drive with extra caution, obey the various traffic restrictions, and simply be patient if one's travel plans are temporarily slowed down because of the event. The single worst thing that can happen is for an athlete to be injured, or worse, because of a lack of focus by the operator of a motor vehicle.

Another positive aspect of an event like this is that the participants tend to be people who are generally highly respectful of the environment in which they compete. They and the members of their families are not likely to be among those who, for example, would leave trash scattered around Deep Creek Lake State Park, the starting and finishing point of the SavageMan. They will arrive en masse, compete in the race, enjoy our beautiful county (it is hoped), and then leave things in good order upon their departure.

It is exciting that the uniqueness of our beautiful county makes it a focal point of world events, not only the SavageMan, but also for various whitewater competitions, thanks to both our natural rivers as well as the man-made course atop Marsh Mountain, which will be the site of the 2014 World Canoe and Kayak Slalom Championships. That event, and likely many others between now and then, are extremely beneficial economically to our county, and thus should be embraced by all of us who call Garrett County our home.

Letters to the Editor

Writers of letters to the editor are reminded that letters will not be published if they exceed 400 words, do not include contact information, and/or are deemed to be libelous.

To the Editor:

My wife and I are native Garrett County residents and have resided on Marsh Hill Road for 55 years. When the public water lines were installed several years ago, hooking onto the system was optional, as it should be.

Now, according to a notice from the Department of Public Utilities dated May 20, 2011, we are told that it is mandatory that we hook into the public water system.

Has no consideration been given to the elderly or to families on fixed incomes? What ever happened to "of the people, for the people, by the people," or "with liberty and justice for all"?

We are now being forced to give up our well, a well that has provided us with perfectly good water for over 50 years, and to spend thousands of dollars to buy water from county wells. Nobody, regardless of financial status, should be forced to purchase something they don't need and don't want.

To the Editor:

For as long as I've lived in Garrett County, I have treasured the steadfast values of its people. I believe that your word is your bond, that a firm handshake is an unbreakable promise. I like people who are straightforward and caring, and who appreciate life and don't whine about it. I lament the fact that when our people are lied to or misled, they tend to knuckle under with the attitude that they deserve to be swindled because they weren't well-informed. As honest people, they had assumed honesty in others.

I've talked with people who were hoodwinked five years ago about the leasing of their land for fracking. They were deceived; they hadn't done their homework about possible legal and environmental repercussions, and now they are frantic and embarrassed – they are asking themselves why they didn't look into the potential problems of fracking. Their pride paralyzes them. They were easy marks who settled for a tiny amount of revenue per acre or head of fowl, if they could get it now.

The corporate reps played the patriotism card, calling upon us to furnish energy for our country so that we could wean ourselves from foreign oil – not revealing that Marcellus shale gas is being sold to foreign countries for big money. Our people feel used and naïve. At the time of the signing of the leases dealing with the Marcellus, there was only a limited amount of material available about the ramifications of fracking. It was difficult to be informed and simple to be led down a path of easy money.

I am heartsick for the people who have signed away their heritage. I've suggested that they seek counsel from a lawyer, but I see their reluctance – some are prideful and feel insecure about consulting an attorney, and they are hesitant to spend the money to get some advice. My suggestion is, don't sign an updated lease or any recent checks from gas corporations without consulting a lawyer. Each lease is different; make sure you understand your own.

Weeks ago a gentleman wrote a rather disparaging letter about the outsiders who come into Garrett County to change it. I guess I'm one of those people; I love a lot of people here – enough to risk the wrath of those who might misinterpret my concern as meddling.

To the Editor:

The ahhh moment! You got it! Thank you, Mr. Thomas; you are a rare breed in Garrett County.

As to Mr. Kauffman's reply, you never made any racist comments in any of your letters, and I made no comments about you being racist!

Also, I never believed your "small-minded homophobe" comments would lead to racism. I am completely ecstatic you have a black son-in-law; it should balance out your family nicely. BTW, thanks for the prayers. I need them.

Now it has come to my attention we have another cub reporter on staff, besides Boob Wayward (me), plus he is doing double duty too! He has apparently squeezed investigative journalism in his busy science schedule. He brings a fresh new view to this paper and his new by line could be, "How to pick fly droppings out of pepper!"

His letter asserts "there is too much dependence on government grants, and not enough initiative in the private sector." I agree with his comment, but the problem is not solar subsidies, as he describes. The real problem is private-sector big-oil subsidies. If he wants to make a point about subsidies, he should at least pick one that is meaningful.

He writes about being upset at a $16,000 solar subsidy. I guess he didn't read the online July 3, 2010, New York Times "Oil industry officials say that the tax breaks, which average about $4 billion a year, according to various government reports." And in the same issue, "An examination of the American tax code indicates that oil production is among the most heavily subsidized businesses." The issue of corporate welfare is one of the major political issues of the day.

I find it ironic that when the solar industry gets a relatively small subsidy, you feel compelled to write a letter? Are you still honing the unsettled science of global warming? Or maybe it's the solar flux, or is it the sun spots?

And to Tom Sheahen, concerning your Nov. 16, 2008, prediction: "One day back in February on a ski-lift, I commented to the others that 2008 would be the year when the 'Anthropic Global Warming' (AGW) bubble would burst. My prediction seems to be coming true." Is it?

Remember, you are either part of the problem or part of the solution!

"This is not a fundraising event or a membership event," Carbone said. "Organizations will not be pressuring people who stop at their table to give money or sign up to be a member of the organization. It is an information event, and an opportunity to learn about specific projects interested persons can volunteer for and give back to their community."

A consortium of women's groups created the concept of the Volunteer Fair as a way to work together to help the community. The fair is sponsored by Garrett College, WMD Radioworks Broadcasting, and local women's organizations including the Garrett Federation of Women's Club/Civic Club of Oakland, American Association of University Women (AAUW), and the Business and Professional Women (BPW).

religion was discussed. At least three board members felt that the move from an open pre-meeting prayer to a moment of silence and reflection was in order, though the BOE has taken no official stance on the subject.

Earlier in the meeting, the board received presentations on a proposed Lions Club initiative to screen Garrett County public school children (age 3-6) for the medical condition amblyopia, which affects eyes and if is left untreated may result in severe loss of vision.

Dr. Porter Welch demonstrated the equipment, already purchased by the Lions Club, necessary to provide immediate screening results.

The board expects to take action on the suggested preschool vision screening program at its October meeting.

The board was also given a presentation on the Dancing Classrooms program and its effectiveness in social development in children. The presentation was made by Jennifer Christophel, who has implemented the program at Garrett County schools in the past.

The BOE also made the following personnel appointments: Carrie Ashby, custodian III, Southern High, effective Aug. 29; Odus Hemline, custodian III, Southern High, effective Aug. 29; Daniel Gardener, academic advisor, Northern High, effective Sept. 6; Andrea Sessa, academic advisor, Southern High, effective Sept. 9, and Donald Lipscomb, custodian IV, Southern High, effective Sept. 19.

Joanna Nicolay

with melanoma in the mid-1970s. Her daughter, Denise Nicolay Safko, remembers that time well.

"My mom always had a small spot on her forehead – she wore bangs to cover it. She told us it was caused from when she was a teenager and was playing in a softball game and was hit in the head with a bat!" Denise said. "Something about the mole changed and she went to see a doctor. She was in her 40s and I was in high school. When she got the diagnosis of skin cancer, we really didn't think much about it. But when it came back again and we learned more – that is was melanoma – and could be deadly – I was scared. I kept thinking, 'My mom has cancer.' With each recurrence of the disease, in the '70s and '80s, the melanoma became dramatically more aggressive."

Despite the illness, Joanna was a busy mother, with both Denise and son Keith, and a happy wife to Robert (Bob). Lifelong Baltimore area residents, they met as teenagers and married when she was 18. In addition to caring for her family, Joanna, a devout Catholic, had a daily habit of praying for people.

"She had a prayer list of people for whom she would pray several times a day," Denise said. "She would add people she didn't even know to her list. She would ask me every now and then, 'How is so and so – do I need to keep praying for him/her?' She would not take someone off her list until she knew."

The melanoma continued to grow in Joanna, and she continued to beat it back down. She endured a 12-hour operation in 1985 to stem the disease.

"That surgery was to remove the cancer and do reconstructive surgery," Denise explained. "The stress of waiting through the surgery was incredible for us. I had recently started my first job after college and had to call in sick the next day because I was so exhausted from the stress."

This experience taught the Nicolay family firsthand how strenuous, frightening, and arduous the "cancer journey" can be for both the patient and loved ones.

"Surgery and waiting for biopsy results is very hard on everyone," Denise said, "They call it the 'waiting game.' After that surgery we really didn't think we would have my mom very long. The melanoma had made it through the bone to the protective covering of her brain. My dad was able to retire a year earlier around that time, and I remember praying for them to have five cancer-free years together. We got that and more. For 15 years after that procedure, she was cancer free."

During this time, Joanna lived her life with as much enthusiasm as she could muster, and her family cherished the days with her.

"We were so fortunate to have her that much longer," Denise said. "She was prepared to go back then, and we all knew what a gift it was to have her with us. As a result, her joy of life came through stronger and stronger every year. She loved the extended family that came when I married Greg [Safko] and then had our two sons, Trevor and Robbie. Everyone who met her during that time felt her joy and outreach of love."

Joanna was known for her cheerful personality, and Denise said her friends would call the house simply to hear her signature greeting.

"She answered the phone with a singsong voice, 'Hellloooooo!'" she said. "When my friends would call just to hear her, that made her laugh."

Her favorite things were her faith, her family, the pet dog, and shopping, Denise said.

"My mom always looked perfect – she even wore lipstick to come down to breakfast in the morning in her robe. That is what made melanoma such a hard disease for her any many others – it can be so disfiguring because of the need to have radical surgeries," Denise said. "Beyond her outside beauty, my mom was just incredible on the inside."

It was in 2000 when the melanoma returned with a vengeance, this time as a brain tumor. Joanna once again waged war against the deadly disease. Her own acceptance of the illness, and her willingness to fight it, gave her family comfort and strength as well.

And she continued to find ways to enjoy her journey, even as the disease raged.

"Mom was 'dark Irish' – dark brown eyes and hair – and fair skin," Denise said. "She really wanted to see what it would be like to be blond. So in her last year with us, she bought a frosted blond wig. She didn't wear it often, but had worn it two times when my friends had seen her and I hadn't. Finally on my birthday she wore it to take me shopping. She made a beautiful blond, too."

At long last, Joanna's body was no longer able to fend off the melanoma. She died in March 2003.

Upon her death, Joanna was awarded a Maryland Governor's "Celebration of Life" citation noting "...the life accomplishments of a woman who made a positive difference in the lives of all who had the privilege of sharing her wisdom, love and friendship..."

The new and painful absence of Joanna caused the family at first to struggle with their loss.

"There was a huge hole when Mom was gone," Denise said. "We thought a lot about what we could do – something that would last and would honor her. The idea of a melanoma and skin cancer foundation was formed around our kitchen table. Friends and family members were our first board members, with my dad, Bob Nicolay, as the chairman. Greg was also a founding board member. During our first years as a non-profit, we held one dining event each year to raise money for awareness and research with our all volunteer organization."

Then the young organization took over a triathlon in its local area, the "Tri-To-Win" South Carroll Sprint Triathlon, with Greg as the race director. It wasn't long after

GC Commissioners Issue Press Release On Crawford's Recent Trip To Slovakia

The Garrett County commissioners issued the following information this morning about Commissioner Gregan Crawford's recent trip to Bratislava, Slovakia, and reviewed issues that led up to that event.

In April, the Adventure Sports Center International (ASCI), in conjunction with USA Canoe and Kayak, was awarded the winning bid to host the 2014 World Championship Canoe and Kayak Slalom Races, the premier event for Olympic Whitewater Canoe and Kayak Races. ASCI competed with Poland and Austria for this prestigious designation.

Following the award, "Deep Creek 2014 LLC," a subsidiary of ASCI, was created in order to act as the official host entity for the races. Board of Garrett County Commissioners chairman Gregan Crawford will serve as co-chairman along with Terry Hasseltine of the Maryland Office of Sports Marketing, which recently helped to organize and facilitate "with great success" the Grand Prix auto races in Baltimore City.

Crawford, Hasseltine, Garrett County Department Economic Development director Jim Hinebaugh, Suzanne Nicolas of ASCI/Deep Creek 2014 LLC, and board member Bob Campbell of Whitewater Parks International of Boulder, Colo., recently spent eight days in Bratislava to observe the 2011 World Championship and Kayak Slalom Races.

The races in 2014 will mark 25 years since world championship canoe and kayak slalom races were held in the United States on the Savage River in Bloomington. Those races helped to generate over $12 million of economic benefit to the state and to Garrett County.

The value of seeing firsthand how the current races are organized and orchestrated cannot be underestimated, according to the commissioners. Throughout the event in Bratislava, the group's credentials allowed for unprecedented access to all areas of the race venue including medical, judging, athlete village, video review, protest challenges, media sources, in addition to areas around the course typically off limits to many event organizers.

"This was quite a rewarding experience," Crawford said.

In addition, the group representing Deep Creek 2014 had access to senior members of the International Canoe Federation (ICF,) which sponsors the event, many of whom had participated in the 1989 World Championship.

"The ICF was excited to see members from the 2014 committee there, and they were very willing to discuss any and all aspects of the World Championship venue," Crawford said. "The ICF looks forward to expanding more into the U.S. marketplace and gaining greater exposure for their sport, and the Board of Garrett County Commissioners is willing to help them to achieve those goals when practical."

The commissioners said they are committed to building a long-term relationship with the ICF, as well as establishing new relationships with other paddle-sport disciplines such as sprint canoe and marathon canoe.

The commissioners said they are firmly committed to making the 2014 World Championship Canoe and Kayak Slalom Races a successful event. They have appropriated $25,000 to Deep Creek 2014, which will be administered by the GC Department of Economic Development.

In addition ASCI, Garrett County government, and the state of Maryland will be placed on the international stage with such cities as Bratislava, Slovakia, Prague of the Czech Republic, and London, England, which will play host of the 2012 Summer Olympics, the commissioners noted.

100 MILES IN 100 DAYS – In response to the local Seventh Day Adventist Church's challenge to become more physically active and to exercise regularly, 36 members participated in and fulfilled the challenge to "Walk 100 Miles in 100 Days." From February 18 to May 28, the persons pictured above walked a total of 4,001 miles. Kneeling in the front, from left, are Harley Harbourne and Kyle Harbourne. Directly behind them are Marie Schuberthan and Susie Broadwater. Seated at far left is Lisa Harvey, and standing are Jean Brownlee, Jimmy Iden, Jennie Saunders Smith, Kathy Ridder, Rhonda Hershberger, Linda Bowman, Mary Brown, Bonnie Harbourne, Christy Trembly, and Bob Hershberger.

lom World Championships.

The races, to be held Sept. 16-21, 2014, will mark the 25th anniversary of the 1989 World Championships held on the Savage River in Garrett County. It will also represent the return of world championship whitewater canoe and kayak racing in the United States for the first time since the 1989 event.

"We have a tremendous amount of work that needs to transpire between now and 2014, but we will host a championship race in 2014 that will exceed all expectations," Crawford said. "I pity the people who follow us in 2015; we will set the bar so high."

He noted the ICF wants to expand into the U.S. marketplace and gain greater exposer for its sports.

"We look forward to partnering with them to help achieve these goals," Crawford said. "Garrett County is going to be placed on the international stage with such cities as Bratislava, Slovakia; Prague, Czech Republic; and London, England, which will host the 2012 Summer Olympics."

London will also host the ICF's 2015 Canoe Slalom World Championships

In addition to Crawford and Hinebaugh, Suzanne Nicolas and Bob Campbell of Deep Creek 2014 LLC and Terry Hasseltine, Maryland Office of Sports Marketing, traveled to Bratislava.

Crawford indicated the group spent much time exploring the challenges of staging an international sporting event.

Funding for the no-frills trip came from the Garrett County Department of Economic Development budget. The commissioners recently approved a $25,000 line item in the department's fiscal year 2012 budget for promotional and operational expenses for Deep Creek 2014.

An amendment to the budget will be officially approved in the next few weeks, county administrator Monty Pagenhardt noted.

"This event will bring in millions of dollars," Crawford said about the 2014 championships. "This is a large economic development event."

He noted that the 1989 Savage River race brought in between $12 and $15 million.

"It's the old 'You've got to spend money sometimes to make money,'" Commissioner Jim Raley said about using county funds for the trip. "I think that we did the right thing. I think we're going to have to support the whole venue, if we want to see the county prosper from this venue."

He said he appreciated that Crawford made the trip and appreciated the input that he received.

"We're kind of under the microscope; we have to do this right," Raley said about Deep Creek 2014. "We're Maryland; we have to make sure that we put Maryland on the map – ASCI, Garrett County – and that means our chance is going to be 2014."

Crawford indicated the whitewater/paddle sports industry was an area of tremendous growth for the county.

"It brings thousands of people into the area," he said. "The ICF wants to move back into the U.S. market. It's been 25 years since they were here in the United States, and we're a target market for their sports."

He said the county wanted to get into the foundation's events cycle.

"We don't want to wait another 25 years," Crawford said. "We want to get back in and be a contender for 2017."

The commissioners issued a press release this morning about the Slovakia trip and appears in this week's issue of The Republican.

Scrapbooking To Celebrate Family History Month

The Ruth Enlow Library invites children and teenagers to celebrate family history month with scrapbooking programs at several locations in October. The Oakland branch will offer Heritage Scrapbooking for children ages 6 to 10 on Monday, Oct. 3, and for children ages 11 and up on Monday, Oct. 24. The time for both programs is 4:30 to 6:30 p.m.

The KiTzmiller branch will hold its scrapbooking projects for children ages 3 to 5 on Tuesdays, Oct. 11 and 25, from 11 to 11:30 a.m. each day.

The Accident branch will hold its program on Wednesday, Oct. 19, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. for all ages.

The Friendsville branch will celebrate family history month the week of Oct. 17-22. School-age children may stop at the library and pick up a free 8x8 photo album with embellishments. All materials and a different scrapbook page will be available each day to finish at the library.

All programs introduce participants to the art of scrapbooking, with the opportunity to create a family scrapbook. All materials, with the exception of family photos, will be provided by each library. Registration at the Accident and Oakland locations is required, as limited space and materials are available.

Those needing to register for the Oakland events should call Keela at 301-334-3996, ext. 115, or e-mail her at keela@.relib.net. Those in need of registering for the Accident event should contact Jessi at 301-746-8792 or e-mail her at jessi.relib.net.

The Moment that You Left Me

The moment that you left me,
my heart was split in two;
one side was filled with memories,
the other side died with you.
I often lay awake at night when the world is fast asleep, and take a walk down memory lane with tears upon my cheek.
Remembering you is easy,
I do it every day;
but missing you is heartache that never goes away.
I hold you tightly within my heart and there you will remain,
you see life has gone on without you,
but will never be the same.

We miss you very much...

David Yeany To Speak At Garden Club Meeting

The Mountain Laurel Garden Club will meet at 10.30 a.m. on Tuesday, Sept. 20, at the Will O' the Wisp. Following a business meeting, David Yeany will give a presentation titled "Important Bird Areas in Garrett County: Tools for Conservation."

Yeany coordinates the National Audubon Society's Maryland-DC Important Bird Areas (IBA) program and provides technical support to Audubon science and conservation projects. During his talk, he plans to discuss how Audubon Maryland-DC has used citizen-scientists to identify IBAs, how IBAs are used for local bird conservation, and what conservation projects Audubon is currently undertaking around the state. The program will be followed by a lunch.

Using spatial tools, Yeany identifies new sites as IBAs, coordinates volunteers and groups in monitoring and stewardship activities, and leads on-the-ground efforts for targeted bird conservation projects, such as the Saltmarsh Habitat and Avian Research Program.

He joined Audubon in 2009 to coordinate a IBA Bird Blitz survey and has earned his M.S. in conservation biology and applied ecology from Frostburg State University, where he studied peatland breeding birds and their habitat relationships at the Finzel Swamp (a designated IBA).

Yeany also has a B.S. in biology and a minor in environmental science from Messiah College (Pa.), which allowed him to study field ecology in the rugged Patagonia region of Chile and Argentina.

His experience also includes time as a wildlife technician at Fort Indiantown Gap National Guard Training Center in Pennsylvania. There he assisted with prescribed fire habitat management.

"David brings a passion for birds, conservation experience with wildlife and avian monitoring, as well as skills with geographic information systems to his position with Audubon," stated a spokesperson for MLGC.

"David is also an avid birder and outdoorsman, spending as much time as possible in the field, hiking trails and chasing after Maryland birds."

According to Yeany, Garrett County has remarkable biodiversity and ecological value, as it has more IBAs than any other county in Maryland.

These areas, eight in all, represent diverse habitats, including grasslands, high-elevation peatlands, and mountain top forests – all of which provide habitat for some of Maryland's most vulnerable bird species.

Audubon Maryland-DC contends that by identifying the best places for birds, it can home in on which areas are most in need of conservation and ensure that these birds and their habitats will be here for generations to come

Those interested in more information about the Mountain Laurel Garden Club may contact Ginni Neff at 301-387-7387 or Barbara Sanders at 304-789-6450. The Mountain Laurel Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Maryland Inc. and the National Garden Clubs Inc.

Adorable Adoptables

LOOKING FOR HOMES – Currently housed at the Garrett County Animal shelter are three young cats, one with long hair, that were brought in by someone who said people have been dropping them off at her house; a young white-toed, smallish mixed breed canine that was picked up in McHenry; and a large female bloodhound (below) that was picked up as a stray along Potomac Camp Road. "These and others are available for adoption," said a GC Humane Society spokesperson. "There are many to chose from as the dog kennels are pretty full and the cat room is as well. Last week, one dog was reclaimed, one adopted, and several taken to rescue by HART. "For more information, persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553. Located along Oakland Sang Run Road, the county-operated facility is open Monday through Friday. Photos courtesy of the GCHS, a nonprofit volunteer organization.

Living Well With Chronic Problems Workshop Slated

A free Living Well with Chronic Conditions series of workshops will be taking place in Accident at the Flowery Vale Fitness Center starting next month. A free information session about this workshop series is scheduled for Oct. 5 at Flowery Vale, beginning at 1 p.m.

The free Living Well workshop will take place from 1 to 3:30 p.m. on the following Wednesdays: Oct. 12, 19, and 26, and Nov. 2, 9, and 16.

Anyone 21 years of age and older is welcome. To register, persons should call Suzanne Carley at 301-746-8232, or e-mail her at searley@garretteac.org.

Living Well workshops, developed by Stanford University, meet once a week for six weeks. Two trained instructors, Joanne Harsh and Carley, will introduce new material each week and facilitate group discussions.

Living Well workshops in Garrett County are sponsored by the Garrett County Area Ageney on Aging/Community Action Committee Inc., made possible by funding under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and with funds granted to the Maryland Department of Aging by the Federal Administration on Aging.

People with chronic conditions such as diabetes, depression, heart disease, stroke, arthritis, and lung disease often experience common problems and symptoms, a spokesperson said, including pain, loss of energy, sleep problems, depression, breathing problems, and concern for the future. The Living Well workshops teach participants to manage symptoms, communicate effectively with doctors, lessen frustration, fight fatigue, make daily tasks easier, and get more out of life, the spokesperson said.

Participants will receive a free copy of the companion book, Living a Healthy Life with Chronic Conditions. This is possible with funding from GGEAR – Geriatries and Gerontology Education and Research Program, University of Maryland, Baltimore.

Flowery Vale is located at 204 S. South Street, Accident.

This project promotes the Garrett County Community Action Committee strategy of creating an environment where Garrett County residents have access to health care and support on life skills, thus increasing the number of families and individuals able to live independently, the spokesperson concluded.

Miss Smithson Weds Mr. Bernard In Outdoor Norfolk, Va., Ceremony

Lara Ashley Smithson and Jason Alvin Bernard exchanged wedding vows on Sunday, June 26, in Norfolk, Va. Pastor Joel Cortes, DDS, from Hagerstown performed the outdoor ceremony at the Sheraton Waterside Hotel. Violinist Steven Campbell provided music for the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Robert and Nancy Smithson, Moyock, N.C. She is an honors graduate of Old Dominion University with a bachelor's degree in dental hygiene, and currently works as a hygienist in Waynesboro, Pa.

The groom is the son of Alvin and Nancy Bernard of Swanton. He is a summa cum laude graduate of Frostburg State University with a master's in business administration. He is currently employed at First United Insurance Group in Hagerstown.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father

Serving as maid of honor was Victoria Quintero, Los Angeles, Calif. The bridesmaids were Andi Thornton, Bristol, Va.; Sara Weishampel, Outer Banks, N.C.; Chelsea Boone, Virginia Beach, Va.; and Taylor Roth, Oakland. Serving as flower girl was Mary Bernard, the groom's niece.

Serving as best man was Steven Allison, Greenville, N.C. The groomsmen were Rodney Bird, Oakland; Jeremy Whitacre, Finzel; Jamie Bernard, Warrenton, Va.; and Brenton Smithson, Moyock. The ring bearer was Micah Thornton, the bride's nephew.

The cake was a two-tier pineapple and lemon layer cake adorned with peacock feathers. Special music was performed by Daniene Cortes, Los Angeles.

Rainfall Index Program Available To Hay Producers

For the first time, Maryland producers of pasture and hay and beekeepers can apply for the Group Risk Protection by enrolling in the Rainfall Index Program offered by private crop insurance providers through the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Risk Management Agency. The Rainfall Index uses National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) data to trigger crop insurance payments. The deadline to apply is Sept. 30.

"We continuously look for innovative risk management tools for our farmers," said Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Earl F. Hance. "The Rainfall Index is a tool that we hope helps an important part of agriculture in Maryland: livestock and equine producers, hay producers, and beekeepers."

Farmers and beekeepers who sign up for this crop insurance can expect to receive indemnities from losses occurring during a drought, based upon the deviation from normal precipitation according to NOAA.

The USDA's Risk Management Agency and the Federal Crop Insurance Corp. expanded the Rainfall Index, considered a pilot product, to include Maryland earlier this year. The Maryland Department of Agriculture had asked for this consideration for the state's producers since it has been available in parts of Virginia and Pennsylvania.

In 2011, in the 16 states with the Rainfall Index available, farmers have received $98.7 million in crop insurance indemnities

Farmers are advised to contact a crop insurance agent as soon as possible to explore this risk management tool. They can find a crop insurance agent by going online to the RMA Web site: http://www3.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents/. At MDA, persons may telephone Mark Powell at 410-841-5775.

Oktoberfest Set For Sept. 17 At Alpine Resort

Oktoberfest will be held at Alpine Lake Resort, near Terra Alta, W.Va., this Saturday, Sept. 17, beginning at noon. Oktoberfest is a fundraiser sponsored by the Property Owners Committee. Admission is free.

A golf scramble will be held beginning at 8 a.m. Additional activities offered will include hayrides, line dancing, live music, various craft vendors, and entertainment. Authentic German food will also be available.

Accordian player Joe Fertitta will play throughout the afternoon, and the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department's Oktoberfest band, under the direction of Manning Smith, will perform from 4 to 7 p.m.

For more information, persons may call 304-789-2481 or visit web site www.alpinelake.com.

Missing Man Ceremony Set For Sept. 16

The Preston County Chapter 977 of the Vietnam Veterans of America has planned to conduct a "Missing Man Table" ceremony to coincide with National POW/MIA Recognition Day. The event will take place at the Wal-Mart in Kingwood from 1 to 4 p.m. on Friday, Sept. 16. Since 1986, the third Friday in September has been set aside to recognize prisoners of war and those missing in action.

The event is billed as "a remembrance to honor the more than 83,000 Americans missing from World War II, the Korean War, the Vietnam War, and the Persian Gulf War."

The Vietnam Veterans Chapter will display and explain its "Missing Man Table" as the centerpiece of the day. The table is a small round table with an empty chair and other symbolic elements. There will be an individual honor guard procession every 15 minutes for the duration of the event. The guard will carry the POW/MIA flag. The public is invited to attend and participate.

Corinth Church To Hold Revival

ROBERT FLETCHER

Revs. Paul and Cathy Snyder along with the Corinth Pentecostal Holiness Church congregation will hold revival services on Sunday Sept. 18, at 6 p.m., and Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, Sept. 19–21, at 7 p.m.

Rev. Robert Fletcher Sr. will be the guest speaker. He pastored at Loch Lynn Church of God for 32½ years and is currently a cluster elder for the Church of God's western Maryland region.

Corinth Pentecostal Holiness is located about 4½ miles east of Terra Alta off Rt. 7 along Russ DeBerry Road in Corinth. Persons from the Oakland area can take Maryland Rt. 39, which becomes West Virginia Rt. 7 about ½ mile outside Hutton, to Corinth. Russ DeBerry Road will be on the left.

For more information, persons may call 301-334-2496 or 301-533-0551.

PUPPET MINISTRY TO PRESENT PROGRAM – The Happy Hands for Christ Ministry Team will present a puppetry program on Sunday, Sept. 25, at 6 p.m. at Faith United Methodist Church, 6639 Cranesville Road, Terra Alta. The ministry team comprises about 15 members of Glade Mennonite Church, Accident, who have been performing in the tri-state area for 11 years. They will present "Go Out With Joy," featuring music, dance, drama, and radio station WHPY DJs Keith and Ang, who share positive songs and spread "good news about Jesus."

AURORA/EGLON NEWS

GOSPEL SING

The annual sing at the Texas Bethel United Methodist Church, Horse Shoe Run, is slated for Sunday, Sept. 25, at 1:30 p.m. The church is located on Hog Back Road.

BUCKWHEAT DINNER

The Building Committee is sponsoring a buckwheat dinner at Maple Spring Church of the Brethren on Saturday, Sept. 24, from 3 to 8 p.m. Donations asked are $8 for adults, $4 for children 5 and older. Preschoolers eat for free. Buckwheat cakes, sausage, applesauce, and beverages will be offered.

CORRECTION

The Aurora High School class of 1953 was incorrectly identified as the class of 1956 in last week's news.

NEW BABIES

A son was born Sept. 7, 2011, to Jessica and Carroll Hartsell, Corinth. His name is Logan Troy, and he weighed 6 lbs., 11 oz. and was 20 inches long. He has an older brother, Braxton, and an older sister, Hallie. Carroll is the son of Claud and Brenda Hartsell, Eglon, and the great-grandson of Rose Ina Harsh.

A welcome party was held Aug. 30, at the home of Mark and Ladeana Teets, Amboy, for their new grandson, Benjamin Ellis Teets. He is the son of Lindsey and Rebecca Teets, Savannah, Ga. Local great-grandparents are Clayton and Dorothy Hauser.

MARRIAGE

Courtney Fint and Gregory Zimmerman exchanged vows on Saturday, Sept. 10, at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Aurora. The bride is the daughter of Joe and Stacey Fint, Aurora. The groom is the son of Edward and Barbara Zimmerman, Uniontown, Ohio.

The bride has a B.S. in civil engineering from West Virginia University and an M.S. in historic preservation from Columbia University. She is an architectural historian with the Division of Highways in Charleston. Greg is an aquatic biologist and vice president of EnviroScience Inc., Stow, Ohio. He has a degree in environmental biology from Hiram College and a master's degree from Kent State University.

UNION SENIORS

Union District Seniors met Sept. 8 for their regular meeting, with 25 in attendance. The group prayed the Lord's Prayer.

The group went to the Fall Fest on Sept. 7 at the Kingwood Civic Center, where they had a huge dinner, and each present received a canvas chair. The group then divided some attending a presentation at the American Music Theater and others went home.

A special "thank-you" was prepared for Sid Murphy in regard to the Fall Fest and the fact that those 60 and older will no longer have to pay to travel on shopping trips. The next shopping trip will be Sept. 21. Those interested in attending should contact president Janice Tackett.

A sign-up sheet for those interested in doing devotions was filled out. Voting on new officers was a sign that the present ones seem to be doing a good job, as they were all retained.

Pat Barlow of the Tunnelton club invited the group to a game afternoon on Sunday, Sept. 18. Those going will need to meet at the church in order to be there by 12:30 p.m.

Karen Bright will be teaching a cooking class at the Extention Office during September and October. The classes are held on Tuesdays, from 10 a.m. to noon.

Doris Bernard was responsible for devotions, and Wilma Mae Teets then closed the meeting with a funny story. The meeting adjourned to play bingo.

KAMINSKI DEATH

Relatives here received word of the Sept. 8 death of Nellie Slaubaugh Kaminski, 99, Warren, Mich. A full obituary for Mrs. Kaminski appears in the A-section of this issue.

They joined the reunion of the Carrie and Nelson Harsh family on Sunday, at which there were 45 family members and friends.

Rose Ina enjoyed company again Aug. 31–Sept. 3. This time it was Bill Ochs, Covington, Va., and Stephanie, Troy, Ala. They are the husband and daughter of Rose Ina's late cousin, Hester Fague Ochs.

Soup, Sandwich Café Set For Sept. 30, Oct. 1

Wesley United Methodist Church will hold its Soup and Sandwich Cafe on Friday, Sept. 30, and Saturday, Oct. 1, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the church fellowship hall.

Hot bowls of vegetable or potato soup will be offered with ham or chicken salad sandwiches and a beverage. Prices vary by items ordered.

Locally made quilts will be on display, and a baked goods table set up. The church is located at 107 W. High Street, Kingwood, in close vicinity of the Buckwheat Festival.

Proceeds will benefit the church's local benevolence fund and the Wesley Community Center, both of which assist Preston County residents in meeting emergency needs.

Terra Alta Betterment Group To Celebrate 10 Years Of Contributions

Terra Alta Betterment Inc. (TABI), composed of a small group of grass-roots volunteers, is marking 10 years of accomplishments toward revitalizing its town with a celebration this Saturday, Sept. 17, from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the Shaw Pavilion in the Terra Alta Community Park.

The celebration will offer a light lunch and an opportunity for local residents to meet and talk with leaders of the civic organizations active in improving the Terra Alta community. A representative from all clubs and organizations will be present to answer questions and provide membership information. Anyone interested in seeing improvements in the town of Terra Alta is invited to stop by, learn about what has been accomplished, offer input, and find out how to become involved. Current president of TABI Loretta Wotring and vice president Penny Kelly will both be present to share information about TABI's current and future projects.

TABI has as its goals the improvement of the physical appearance of Terra Alta, the creation of opportunities for healthy lifestyles, and the renewal of community spirit. The group has installed a new playground, worked with the National Park Service to create a Master Trails plan, constructed a trail from park to school, partnered with a regional group to build senior housing overlooking the park, started the Veterans Memorial Gardens project, funded many improvements in the park, purchased two gateway signs for entrances to the town, and annually coordinates the expanding July 4th festival and Christmas tree lighting event.

A current project under construction is paving the Park-to-School Trail funded by a grant from the Federal Highway Administration, WV State Department of Highways, and a matching grant from TABI. Also under way is the senior housing apartment building with grants from the U.S. Dept. of Housing and Urban Development and the WV Development Office.

"TABI began in 2001 when a small group of local volunteers decided they had witnessed the gradual deterioration of their town for too long and banded together in improvement efforts such as planting over 80 trees and other beautification efforts," said a spokesperson. "The nucleus of this group of longtime residents of the town included Penny Kelly, Shirley Smith, Mary Jo Gregg, Bill Phillips (deceased) and Carol Burdick."

The group was selected as a Community Design Team (CDT) applicant during 2002 by West Virginia University. The Community Design Team was a group of professionals under the aegis of West Virginia University, which included landscape architects and specialists in the areas of historical preservation, economic development, recreation, tourism, and health.

TABI worked with the CDT team over a year to assess problems and opportunities for revitalization of the town, culminating in a "CDT weekend," which brought over 150 people (10% of the town's residents) for all the community input meetings. The CDT Team provided TABI with a written assessment of recommendations for revitalization in many areas, along with a grant toward achieving some of these goals.

Terra Alta Betterment Inc. became a 501(c)3 nonprofit in 2004, which allowed it to begin applying for other grants and receive donations for its projects. Grants are written by TABI members to apply for federal, state, and private funding sources. TABI partners on projects with the mayor of Terra Alta, Charles Feather, along with the town council and other local civic groups.

TABI meetings are held on the first and third Mondays of each month at 7 p.m. at the town hall. For more information, persons may call 800-743-0995. Tax deductible charitable donations for TABI projects may be sent to Terra Alta Betterment Inc., 701 East State Ave., Terra Alta, WV 26764.

The Arts

DRAMA DOWN THE ROAD TO OPEN WVU THEATRE SEASON – The story of two writers, husband and wife Dan and Iris, who are writing a book together about the life of a serial killer, will be the first play of the West Virginia University Division of Theatre and Dance season. Down the Road, written by Lee Blessing, will open next week, with performances on Sept. 23, 26, 27, and Oct. 1 at 7:30 p.m., and on Sept. 23 and Oct. 2 at 2 p.m. The show is being given in the Gladys G. Davis Theatre in the Creative Arts Center, Morgantown, W.Va. Kara Haas is directing the play, which follows Dan and Iris as they try to get their story written while at the same time deal with relationship issues, insecurities, and the ongoing presence of a serial killer in their lives. Pictured from left are MFA acting students Gregory Jernigan, Branden Chowen, and Amy Byrne. For tickets and more information, persons may call the box office at 304-293-7469. A trailer for the show is posted on YouTube at www.youtube.com/watch?v=Iz69dzAEan0.

Auditions For Quilters Slated At Our Town

Quilters, a musical written by Barbara Damashek and Molly Newman, will be presented at Our Town Theatre in Oakland Nov. 15 through 20. The production has parts for seven females ages 14 to 70. Auditions for these roles will be held at the theatre, located along Center Street, on Sunday, Sept. 18, from 1 to 4 p.m., and Monday, Sept. 19, from 7 to 9 p.m., or by special appointment.

Jane Avery, director of the play, noted that auditions will include reading, improvisation, and singing. Musical director Susan Peterson is encouraging those auditioning to prepare a song to sing. They may bring their own sheet music or choose a well-known piece such as "Amazing Grace" or "God Bless America."

"Through interrelated scenes, Quilters captures the challenges and rewards of frontier life for a woman and her six daughters," Avery said. "It is a story that explores the human spirit and celebrates human dignity in the face of adversity."

Quilters will be produced via special permission of the Council.

Questions about auditions or the production should be directed to Avery at the theatre. A message can be left for her at 301-334-5640, ext. 3.

Blizzard's Photos On Exhibit At GCAC Gallery

A special exhibit of photos of Garrett County will be featured at the Gallery Shop in Oakland from Sept. 19 through Nov 4. "Chasing the Light" is the title of the one-woman show highlighting the work of Caroline Blizzard.

The Garrett County Arts Council invites the public to meet and talk with the artist during a reception at the Gallery Shop, 206 E. Alder Street, on Friday, Sept. 23, from 5 to 7 p.m.

Blizzard has been a resident of Garrett County since 1993. She said she has had a lifelong interest in studying nature, and her professional career as a naturalist has helped her hone her skills of observation of the outdoor world.

"Chasing the Light" is a collection of photos that showcases the four seasons of Garrett County. Blizzard has been planning and capturing images for the exhibit during the past year. Visitors to the show will be provided with a 360° view as the photos take them through the changing landscape, according to Karen Reckner, executive director of the arts council.

Blizzard owns Hawk's Flight Studio and is one of the resident artists of Four Storm Artists' Studio, located near Swallow Falls.

For more information, persons may contact 301-334-6580 or visit www.garrettarts.com.

FOUR SEASONS CELEBRATED BY BLIZZARD – A special exhibit of scenic photos of Garrett County will be featured at the Gallery Shop in Oakland from Sept. 19 through Nov. 4. The work of photographer Caroline Blizzard will make up the exhibit titled "Chasing the Light," a series of photos taken during all four seasons on the Mountaintop. The Garrett County Arts Council will host a reception for Blizzard on Friday, Sept. 23, from 5 to 7 p.m. at the Gallery Shop, 206 E. Alder Street, Oakland. See story.

Spruce Forest Artisan Village Now Open For Fall Classes, Workshops

Registration is now open for fall classes and workshops at Spruce Forest Artisan Village. Classes and workshops are taught by resident and visiting artists who are experienced in both making and teaching their crafts.

The Artisan Village, adjacent to Penn Alps, has recently renovated the Victorian house once belonging to Penn Alps and Spruce Forest founder Alta Schrock. The White House, as it is aptly named, is now home to the Village office, as well as two classrooms appropriate for fine crafts classes and workshops. Prospective students may contact the individual instructors to learn more about various workshops and to learn what materials and equipment are required for each workshop.

Metals artist Doug Salmon (pictured above) will offer two weekend workshops: Jewelry Fabrication, Sept. 16 and 17 and Nov. 5 and 6.

"Play with fire in an exciting workshop that allows students to explore cutting, forming, and joining techniques in a number of jewelry metals," said a spokesperson.

Salmon is the metals artist-in-residence at Spruce Forest. He has taught for 15 years at Frostburg State University, and his jewelry and metal sculptures are in collections all over the world. His courses are open to all levels. For more information about these workshops, persons may call 301-895-3332.

Visiting from Morgantown, W.Va., artist Reita Marks will offer a course in paper quilling, the art of rolling narrow strips of paper to form designs. This workshop is set for Wednesday, Oct. 12, from 9:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

Quilling, also known as paper filigree, was thought to have originated with the invention of paper in China in the first century AD. It spread to Europe over 500 years ago, where the colorful curled designs were used by nuns to decorate religious texts. In the U.S., examples of quilling are found in Colonial era museums, such as those in Williamsburg, Va. In Marks's class, students will learn basic techniques of quilling and complete one project. Questions about this workshop should be directed to Marks at 304-599-1746.

Gary Yoder will offer two weekend workshops, Sept. 24 and 25 and Oct. 29 and 30, in feather carving and painting. In these workshops, students will carve and paint both a blue jay feather and a cardinal feather.

Yoder is a world champion bird sculptor who has been an artist-in-residence at Spruce Forest for nearly 40 years. He is known for his life-like carvings and "exquisite" painting techniques, which he uses on his sculpture, but which may also be utilized in other painting applications. He emphasizes the use of traditional tools with a foray into woodburning, which is useful for detailed texture. Those interested in more information about these workshops should contact Yoder at 301-268-4318.

"Gary is not only a master carver, but a masterful teacher and guide, whose courses will resonate for the absolute beginner and the advanced carver alike," said a spokesperson.

Spruce Forest Artisan Village is a non-profit arts and heritage center with a mission to preserve and showcase arts and fine crafts of the Allegheny region. Spruce Forest Artisan Village comprises historic log cabins and plank buildings dating back to 1775. All of the 13 historic structures were moved to the Village during the 1970s and 1980s and converted into artisan studios. Two structures, the Compton one-room schoolhouse and Miller House, remain museums honoring the area's Appalachian past.

To register for workshops, persons should call the Artisan Village office at 301-895-3332 or visit the web site at spruceforest.org or the Spruce Forest Artisan Village Facebook page.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

The Bible tells us that we walk in nighttime and darkness, but joy comes in the morning. The last 10 years since that black night in American history (9-11-2001) have shown us the true meaning of heroes and courage, and we learned that we must guard against the kind of evil that attacked us so cruelly.

We have especially seen the sacrifice of our brave soldiers who served almost endlessly, and what their absence means to their families.

We have seen many deep, sometimes very divided, debates about peace and wars. We found comfort in our churches, synagogues, and mosques. And now we see people of all religions together pledging their allegiance to our shared nation.

And we see our national life still going on. We can remember that our unity is our power. And we can visit the monuments and remember. Yes, we suffered a cruel blow, but we still endure. God bless those whom we lost, and God bless America.

I had to watch the ceremony at Ground Zero, although I hated to do it. But it was very beautifully planned, and movingly executed. It changed what used to be "the pile" (the massive pile of rubbish from the Twin Towers) into a place of peace and renewal. There is a reflection pool, and they poured two waterfalls into a deeper pool. The water constantly recycles endlessly.

There was one lone tree barely standing after the World Trade Center came down. Now there is that one, plus many new trees around the site. Can anyone fail to be moved by the sound of bagpipes and drum corps, which are often part of the funeral of first responders? That sound was very memorable and essential during each Garrett Community College graduation.

Much like 10 years ago, today's remembrance inspired a rare unity in most American citizens, united by shared tragedy and suffering, and resolve that this kind of event will not strike our nation again.

I think the most beautiful moment in all of the reflections of the 10th anniversary of 9/11 was a picture on the front page of the Wall Street Journal, a photograph showing Laura and George W. Bush standing together, close to Michelle and Barack Obama. Both presidents believe in the deepest of their hearts to act in the best interest of all American people, even if they made mistakes now and again. But both deserve credit for leading America to safety after the start of the war against terror.

You can see in their faces that both Bush and Obama are decent men with good marriages. But they are far apart in their family backgrounds. Bush was the heir of an ultra powerful family from Texas, and the Bush family wealth was based on oil.

Obama had the unusual legacy of a father: bright and looking foward to coming to America to seek the American Dream. He wed a bright liberal Kansas girl, and they both deeply felt a belief in the best possible education.

I wish Bill and Hillary Clinton were also in that photograph. George W., Bill, and Barack led well during one of the most challenging times in the history of the world and America. All three are good representatives of the confused world of our baby boomer generation. It often was and is deeply divided, especially about America's role in the world, beginning with the Vietnam War. Our generation suffered deeply with the Earth-shaking events that played out as the background of our lives. And no issue has made us what we have become as much as war and peace. It is far less simple than the generation of our parents. World War II seemed clear-cut and easy, compared to the conflicts we have faced daily since I was in the first grade.

I think all three understand the difficulty of our nation's idea of "liberty and justice for all," which is a close link to our national economic life, and so far from fair.

All three also have a spouse who has been a life partner. They didn't just play a ceremonial role in their presidency, but were an important souree of counsel and steadiness. Laura Bush stood in the background, unlike Hillary and Michelle. I could easily imagine a pleasant private social evening with all three once-young presidents and their first ladies.

I am moved by the sight of the places that were hit so hard 10 years ago: the financial district in lower Manhattan, the Pentagon in northern Virginia, and Shanksville in Somerset County, Pa., only a short driving distance from Garrett County. Each place had a remembrance ceremony featuring the reading of names who died there during the most massive attack on America.

The names of the victims in the Twin Towers included all kinds of ethnic, racial, and cultural backgrounds. Yes, there were many English surnames, but there were also equal numbers of names with a heritage in the Middle East, both Jewish and Muslim names, and all kinds of names from every corner of the world, because the Twin Towers was the World Trade Center, and many people from across the world were working there.

I heard the voice of Paul Simon singing his iconic song, "The Sounds of Silence." One line was very closely related to the memorials. Sunday was another perfect September day, very similar to Sept. 11, 2001. A crowd of 10,000 gathered together, maybe more, and people did not speak.

Each disaster site's remembrance service always included several periods of silence. A speaker at Ground Zero held a container of dust from the burned and collapsed buildings. When it was analyzed, that analysis showed a huge combination of many known toxic substances. How can anyone seriously doubt that it caused so many deadly cancers in the communities of first responders?

We are supposed to be a nation where everyone can better themselves. But not as long as the people in power in our economy cling to most of the American money, and always put profit over the American people. It is not a shared sacrifice. The only people who sacrifice anything are those of the working class, who saw their jobs sent overseas into places where the cost of labor is obscenely low, so low that working people can't even earn a living wage. That is how our business leaders send the wrong message to other nations: We came here to exploit you.

The world does not belong solely to America. There are many other kinds of people who deserve a decent living for their families. We have a long history of exploiting other nations to benefit a few rich Americans.

On my trip to Europe in 1976, many people in those nations said to us that Steve and I did not seem like Americans, because we had such limited funds that we couldn't be regarded as rich Americans – the kind of Americans who come into other nations and readily show their belief in their superiority.

A family from the Netherlands with one young daughter with massive and severe burns all over her body struck up a friendship with me on a beach in Spain. She told her family when she called that Steve and I would be there any day. We did not call, but we showed up at their home and got a very warm greeting. We spent about a week with them, then went on to Amsterdam, which has some of the finest art museums I ever saw – especially the Van Gogh museum. His original masterpieces are more outstanding than reproductions.

Amsterdam's layout is a complex of many canals lined with accents of small houses. There were many more bicycles in the road than cars.

The first half of the Steelers-Ravens game was so painful that I had to change channels to the Pirates game. The young Pirates were in high school on Sept. 11. McCutchen spoke about the events that deeply shocked him in his native southern Florida.

When I turned it on, the Pirates were behind in the 6th inning.

This is a strange time of the year, when there are so many somewhat appealing sports, with the waning of baseball and the beginning of professional football, and college football coming into the full blast of the season.

My daughters were fairly pleased with the two Mountaineer victories over much less powerful teams. But next weekend, they plan to head down to College Park for the big game against the University of Maryland. Zach Beitzel was able to get hold of some tickets for them. I am still inclined to root for my school, Maryland, over West Virginia. But in general, they are pretty closely matched.

Well, the Steelers failed to recover from their large number of turnovers. So it was all on the Pirates to save this day for Pittsburgh. But the Marlins swept the Pirates in Pittsburgh after another sweep in Florida earlier in the season.

Yesterday, I felt so bad that I thought I was dying, but I only had a bit of a fever. I only experienced a real brush with death in 1994. The doctor gave me a 5% chance of surviving the first night in ICU at Cumberland Memorial. But I was far from ready to die then, with three lovely little daughters. I still want to get a chance to see them as brides.

The year of 2001 was as bad for me as it was for America, as I watched my marriage unravel, and there was apparently nothing I could do to stop that process.

One former student recently told me that all my students believed that I would return to them as good as ever. But alas, that did not happen. It was especially painful that it happened when my daughters were almost ready to fly out of the nest. Although I still have two located about one hour's drive away, they both live such busy lives in Morgantown that they rarely come home. That is very hard to bear, especially on bad days like yesterday when I was not sure I would ever see them until it was too late. And today, television coverage of the 10th anniversary of the terrorist attacks focused heavily on the suffering of the families of lost loved ones.

Yesterday, when I felt so bad, I remembered a phone call from my father asking me to come home and look at Carol's horse Rocket. He believed that something was very wrong with him. But I am pretty sure that he knew something was wrong with himself, and he wanted to see me one more time. I did come home the weekend that his fatal heart attack took him away. But I felt terrible that he did not tell me the truth about how he himself was feeling. It was not that I felt more concern about a horse than him. That was not even close to the truth.

That was in 1977 when his youngest son was a senior in high school. In fact, Scott came home after his senior prom and found our Daddy on the floor in our living room being worked on by Uncle Ralph Hummel, who was an MD as well as a psychiatrist. I was at Rodney's house near Oakland when Rodney got a call telling him that our father was in an ambulance headed to the Cumberland hospital. Although Rodney and I rushed as fast as possible to get down there before it was too late, we didn't make it.

When we got to the emergency room, my mother made the painful, but right, decision to donate the corneas from his lovely blue eyes, to perhaps save someone from blindness.

I looked at an old black-and-white photograph of him wearing his World War II unitorm, and he looked so young and handsome. It was only a few inches from a color photograph of his baby Scott in Africa wearing his African costume.

During the early 1960s, there was a popular song, "Me and God are Watching Scotty Grow." And it was only 10 years after Daddy's death that we also lost Scott, in 1988, when he was only 28 years old, at the very beginning of a very promising adulthood. My father was on the verge of retiring after a long and hard working life. He was only 62.

Now when I am 57, that seems very young to die. But in the last few years, I lost three or four close friends, and they were in their 50s. There were Andrew McGowan, Dennis Friend, Charlie Teets, and the last was Sophia McDonald, only a bit older than Stan Steyer. And sometime in the last decade, Bob Crone died from a heart attack.

Over Labor Day weekend, I enjoyed a visit with my father's sisters Helen and Betty who are in their 80s, but they seem so much younger. And Dot is in her 70s. So painful was the death of my Glotfelty grandparents in their 80s or early 90s, and they suffered long illnesses. But they definitely lived full lives.

Altar flowers at St. John's on Sunday were given by Marvin and Ruth Beckman in memorial tribute to those who lost their lives as a result of the events of Sept. 11, 2001. A special litany of remembrance was included in the worship service at each church of the Bittinger Parish on Sunday.

The Bittinger Lutheran Parish will hold its annual Appalachian Sunday service at Emmanuel on Oct. 2 at 10 a.m. Choir practice for the service will be held immediately following church service on Sunday, Sept. 18. Everyone is invited to participate.

Rams Drop Lead To Jackets, Set For Road Test Against Spartans

In its second game of the season, the Southern High School football team entered the fourth quarter up 21-20 on visiting Moorefield. The Yellow Jackets managed, however, to score two touchdowns in the final minutes of the game, steal the win (33-21), and hand Southern a heartbreaking 0-2 season start.

"The 0-2 start doesn't reflect how hard we've played," stated Southern head coach Steve Savage.

"We've made some key mistakes that have cost us 12 points in two games. We need to clean up some mistakes and stay focused, and hopefully our record will begin to reflect the players' effort.

"If we stay focused and injury free, I feel we'll be better and better."

To upset the Rams, who beat Moorefield handily last season 55-7, the Jackets scored three touchdowns in the final 4:52 of the first half, then scored two more in the final 1:21 of the game to overcome two deficits and escape Garrett County with a victory.

The Rams took a 14-0 lead in the first quarter on one-yard runs by Danny Sislo (8:18) and Knotts (2:45). Knotts carried 12 times for 63 yards, while Mason Dick led the Rams with 66 yards on seven carries.

With his team trailing 14-0 late in the second quarter, Moorefield's Lucas Smith broke loose for a 31-yard touchdown run with 4:52 left in the half. The point after was missed. Less than three minutes later, with the score then notched at 14-6, Smith again showcased his run game, scoring on a dash from 20 yards out.

After a pair of penalties, Lance Taylor was forced to attempt the extra point from 40 yards. He hit it to bring the Yellow Jackets to within one (14-13).

Moorefield again regained the ball and was able to capitalize on the possession, as quarterback Adam Snyder, who threw for 137 yards in the game, found Zach Laughlin for a 20-yard touchdown pass with three seconds remaining before halftime.

The Rams came back strong after the break, adding another touchdown in the third period to regain the lead, after Zack Knotts hurdled the defensive line for the second time in the game, punching it through for a 2-yard touchdown run. The score came for Southern with 6:06 left in the third. Wyatt McBee's successful point-after kick made it 21-20, Rams.

Southern got the ball back and seemed poised to mount a last-minute drive before a Kurt Gangler pass was intercepted by Laughlin at the Rams' 27-yard line and returned for a defensive touchdown with 37 seconds left in regulation. Taylor's kick made the final score 33-21.

Louis Richardson carried 17 times for 86 yards for Moorefield and Smith, 12 times for 70 yards.

Derek Noble had 11 tackles for the Rams, while Tim Glotfelty and Sislo both recorded eight.

Southern (0-2) looks ahead to its Friday matchup at Hampshire. Kickoff is scheduled for 7 p.m.

"They have a player, Spencer Malick, who is very athletic, very proficient in their wing-T offense," Coach Savage said of Hampshire.

"We look for them to be a tough opponent."

Southern's Josh Wotring, a senior, and junior teammate Garrett Campbell are both expected to miss the Rams' next game, and possibly a few more. Campbell has suffered a shoulder injury, while Wotring is dealing with illness.

SOUTHERN SUFFERS TOUGH LOSS – The Southern High School football team is now 0-2 after losing its fourth-quarter lead and its game (33-21) Friday evening while hosting Moorefield. Huskies Lose Game As Well As QB Sines In Clash With Wildcats

The 21-14 loss of a football game to host Williamsport on Monday paled in comparison to the other loss experienced that evening by the Northern High School varsity players, coaching staff, and fans, as senior quarterback Pat Sines was most likely lost for the season with a broken collarbone.

Sines, who broke nearly all of Northern's passing records last season, and was thus destined to set marks that might never be eclipsed this year, sustained the injury on the Huskies' first offensive play from scrimmage. It was not, however, until the end of that 69-yard scoring drive that Sines, a first-team All-Area pick last year, came off the field and the broken bone was discovered by team trainers.

"There is no question that Pat is the best quarterback in the area," said Husky head coach Phil Carr, "so, obviously, losing him is a huge blow to our team."

Carr said that he will definitely be out of action for four to six weeks, and could miss the remainder of the season.

"We are hoping that he can make it back and be able to play in our last couple of games," Carr added, but only time will tell if that can happen."

It was on a 14-yard carry that Sines was injured, but he stayed in the game and, a few plays later, fired a 36-yard pass to set up the Huskies' first touchdown. The drive was capped by a three-yard touchdown run by Alex Baker.

The kick for the conversion was no good, and the Huskies led 6-0 with 9:18 to play in the first quarter.

The Wildcats wasted little time taking the lead in the contest, as Williamsport sophomore quarterback Brandon Jackson connected with Tyler Wise on a 45-yard touchdown pass at the 6:41 mark of the first period. Kyle Marshall's conversion kick put the Wildcats on top, 7-6.

Northern reserve quarterback Chris Murdock, playing from his defensive position in the Husky secondary, put his team back on top late in the second quarter when he picked off a Jackson aerial and raced 75 yards to the end zone. Murdock then hit Cody Rodeheaver with a two-point conversion pass to give the Huskies a 14-7 advantage.

An errant long snap, with the ball soaring over the Northern punter's head, set up the tying score for the Wildcats, as they took possession on the Northern 10-yard line late in the third stanza. The ensuing touchdown was scored via a five-yard carry by Buddy Threewitts with 3:20 to play in the period. Marshall's extra-point kick knotted the score at 14-14.

The Husky offense was unable to mount any successful drives in the second half of action, and it was a fourth-quarter, 13-play, 85-yard scoring drive that gave the Wildcats the victory.

Quarterback Jackson had five carries in the sequence that began with 7:42 remaining. His fifth carry was a three-yarder that ended in the end zone with 2:01 left in the game. Marshall was successful once again on his extra-point kick.

The winning drive also featured 20- and 15-yard carries by running back Alex Fridley, who finished with 68 yards rushing.

Baker finished with 85 yards on 16 carries for the Huskies, while Murdock completed six of 13 passes for 79 yards in his backup role as quarterback. He was also tagged for a pair of interceptions.

Rodeheaver had three catches for the Huskies, while Wise finished with four catches for 131 yards for Williamsport.

Pacing the Northern defensive unit were Baker with 10 tackles, Zach Merrill with nine tackles, including one sack, and Kyle Rosenberger with two interceptions.

The game was originally scheduled for Friday, but was postponed until Monday because of wet/flood conditions in Williamsport.

"Under difficult circumstances, Chris Murdock did a good job taking over at quarterback," Carr said. "Unfortunately, injuries are a part of football, and everyone on

Garrett Lakers Open Inaugural CC Campaign

The first varsity cross-country team in Garrett College history competed in its first event on Saturday against teams from 11 other colleges and universities in the Waynesburg University Invitational, held at the Greene County Airport in Waynesburg, Pa.

Besides the Lakers and the host team, other squads came from Muskingum, Grove City, Geneva, Washington and Jefferson, Point Park, Mt. Aloysius, St. Vincent, University of Pittsburgh at Johnstown, and Chatham colleges/universities.

The Laker teams had incomplete teams, with three women and two men in the competition. (Minimum [illegible] for team placement is five).

The top finisher for the Laker women was Lindsey Smith, who was 47th among 107 runners, recording a time of 28:54 in the 6-kilometer run. Ashley Gordon placed 66th in 31:02, and Katie Welch was 105th in 37:39.

Winning the women's race was Ivette Mejia of St. Vincent with a time of 2[illegible], well ahead of second-place finisher W&J's Kristen [illegible]nigan in 24:04.

Grove City won the women's team title, followed by Waynesburg and Geneva.

Among the male runners in the 8-kilometer race, Garrett's Shane Davis was 77th among 96 finishers, recording a time of 33:54. Joshua Armstrong placed 87th in 35:43.

Scott Ryan of W&J was the fastest male runner of the day, recording a time of 26:41, while Geneva's Nick Edinger placed second in 27:25.

Muskingum captured the men's team title, followed by Grove City and Geneva.

"This was our first meet, and a first-time experience for our athletes to compete at the college level," said Laker coach Angie Sincell. "As freshmen and sophomores, our five runners did a great job considering the fact that many of our opponents were juniors and seniors as well as four-year colleges. [illegible] year round and have [illegible] years of experience [illegible] belts. With [illegible] of training, [illegible] did pretty well [illegible] but we have a lot of work ahead [illegible] of us. Our endurance is good [illegible] work comes [illegible]

2nd Josh Custer Memorial Softball Tournament Set

The second annual Josh Custer Memorial Softball Tournament will be held Saturday, Sept. 24, at Broadford Park, Mtn. Lake Park.

The tournament will have a double elimination format with seven-inning games. Only Amateur Softball Association (ASA) bats and .44 core 375 compression balls will be permitted. Softballs will be available for purchase at the field for $5 each.

The entry fee is $100 per team. The tournament will be limited to the first eight teams to register. Teams may consist of all men, all women, or be co-ed.

The payouts for the tournament will be as follows: first place, $300; second place, $200; third place, $100.

To register a team or for more information, persons should contact Doug Copeland at 240-321-3868. Volunteers are needed for the concession stand.

Josh Custer died on Sept. 7, 2010, from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. He was an active member of the community and the Oakland Softball League.

Garrett County Readies For Run For It Challenge

Three Garrett County teams are set to participate in this year's Run For It 2K/5K walk or run hosted by Tucker Community Foundation. Run For It is held on the streets of Davis, W.Va., during the Leaf Peepers Festival (Sept. 23-25). Race proceeds support regional non-profit organizations, educational programs, civic groups, community projects, and charities.

According to a spokesperson, Run For It 2011 will provide more than $34,000 in race-day grant awards to benefit programs and projects in Garrett County, as well as in the West Virginia counties of Barbour, Grant, Mineral, Pocahontas, Preston, Randolph, and Tucker.

The fundraising program began in 2007 and has since distributed more than $200,000 for a wide array of causes in a growing number of regional communities.

"The response to Run For It has been overwhelmingly positive," stated Anne Wardwell, chair of the Run For It committee.

"It's a very social gathering that generates a lot of good will throughout the region. The costumes, the dogs, the festival – it's a great package. Walking or running for grant funds appeals to many. It's a fun way to raise money for good programs."

Garrett Mentors' run team, On-the-Move, was the first Garrett County team to ever participate in the Run For It event. It entered the program in 2009. The team's captain, Bonnie Swyter, said she became interested in the run because "it seemed like a fun and easy way to raise money for the Garrett County mentoring program. Each year the organization benefits from raised awareness and support."

The Mentors, and teams representing Garrett College Foundation and Always Fit, will all vie for the Best of Garrett County award. Interested businesses or individuals that would like to contribute to that award may contact the Tucker Community Foundation office at 304-478-2930.

Donations from First United Bank & Trust, Garrett College, and The Republican newspaper have increased the Best of Garrett County award, much like donations from Cupp's Furniture and Phil Tomblyn have added to the Best of Randolph County (W.Va.) award.

As many as 28 different teams from five counties have participated in the program, and new teams join the roster each year. Six libraries from three local counties are registered for this year's race.

Matching donor support from around the region has increased, generating more than $34,000 for race day awards, the largest purse since the program started in 2007. The Tucker Community Foundation dedicated $10,000 to the purse, while match donor contributions ranging from $100 to $5,000 have added more than $24,000.

Cash awards are added to entry fees and sponsor donations and are distributed back to the causes represented in the program.

The Tucker County Convention and Visitors Bureau, the Alpine Festival Board, and the WV Division of Tourism MAPP grant provide advertising support for the event.

Teams that raise the most sponsor support are eligible for the largest race-day grant awards. Over a period of three years, the Davis Riverfront Park project has received $50,255 from race proceeds. Teams must register before Sept. 15.

Team members and individual racers may sign up any time prior to 10 a.m., Saturday, Sept. 24.

An event packet with rules, entry forms and information is posted under a Run For It link at www.tuckerfoundation.net. Half of the $10 entry fee is donated to a racer's cause. On-site registration will be available at the Davis fire hall, Rt. 32, Friday, Sept. 23 from 5 to 7 p.m., or race day morning before 10 a.m. Late arrivals should anticipate traffic delays.

The race starts and finishes at the Davis fire hall. Residents, visitors, and outdoor enthusiasts of all ages and abilities, as well as "well-behaved, leashed" dogs are invited by the Tucker Community Foundation to attend.

The event is billed as a day of "early fall leaf peeping, food, music, and festivities, while race participants walk, stroll, run, or roll (wheelchairs and strollers allowed) for a good cause." Those interested in further information may contact the Tucker Community Foundation at 304-478-2930.

SHS To Benefit From Ford's Test Drive Fundraiser

Shaffer Ford Sales in Oakland has partnered with Southern High School to offer Ford's Drive One 4 UR School program in an effort to raise funds for the school's sports program. The event will take place at Shaffer Ford this Saturday, Sept. 17, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

"Our community has been fortunate to have the support of a business leader like Shaffer Ford," said director Matt Redinger, SHS Athletic Department. "We are happy to partner with Ford for a program benefiting our school and our kids."

For every valid test drive completed, Ford will donate

Rams Storm Past Fort Hill, But Slip Up At Northern

The Southern High School girls' soccer team played its home opener last Thursday, beating Fort Hill, 4-3, after Kristen Yant scored an unassisted goal late in overtime for the win.

Then on Tuesday, the Rams traveled to Northern High and were edged, 2-1, in the Garrett County matchup.

Against Fort Hill, Southern was first to score when Cara Brack found the net on an assist from Lindsay Crabtree.

Fort Hill tied it a few minutes later on an unassisted goal by Kristen Smith. Leah Yurko broke the tie and put Fort Hill up 2-1 with an unassisted goal early in the second half.

Sophie Schwab, on a feed from Taylor Germain, tied it for Southern, and Alli Shaffer put the Rams up 3-2 with an unassisted goal with 9:25 to play.

The Rams led in shots 18-13 and in corner kicks 7-3. Annie Martin made 10 saves in goal for Southern. Ashlee Stumbaugh had 14 for Fort Hill.

Southern's Friend Takes Top Honors At Fore Sisters

Evan Friend led all golfers with a 40 to give Southern High School the win over Garrett County rival Northern High School Tuesday after even team play forced a card-off between the two teams in a quadrangular at Fore Sisters.

The Southern and Northern teams shot 176, while Mountain Ridge tallied 183 and Allegany 200.

Caemen Feller led Northern with a 41, Joe Patterson and Jacob Timney had 44s for Mountain Ridge, and Keegan Ott led Allegany with a 50.

Northern and Southern are set to meet each other again on Monday along with Allegany, Mountain Ridge, and Bishop Walsh at Rocky Gap beginning at 1 p.m. The regional tournament will follow on Tuesday at Black Rock Country Club.

Husky All-Star Leads Bobcats To 5-0 Start

The Frostburg State University women's soccer team finds itself off to its best start in years, thanks, in part, to the aggressive scoring of former Northern High School standout Adria Graham.

In FSU's game against Capital on Saturday, Graham scored two quick goals in the first five minutes and kept the Bobcats undefeated. She nearly made it 4-1 for Frostburg, but Capital goalkeeper Maggie Donnellan made two big saves to rob Graham later in the match.

Graham is an area scoring record-holder and finished her senior year as a Husky with 36 goals, 24 assists, and 96 points. The four-time all-area, all-conference star holds AMAC records for career goals (112), career assists (68), career points (292), and career scoring average (4.49).

So far this year, Graham has scored five goals in five games. Frostburg State's 5-0 start this season is its best since a 5-0-2 start in 2004.

$20 to the school, up $6,000.

"We've always believed in our community, and the best way to demonstrate that is to support it in every way we can, starting with kids," said Kathy Shaffer, owner of Shaffer Ford Sales.

Various SHS athletic teams will offer a variety of activities during the fundraiser, including a chicken barbecue, dunking booth, baked goods sale, and a car wash.

The day will also feature a live performance by country singer Travis Minnick and an appearance by New York Met and SHS grad Tobi Stoner.

Brittany Williams and Breanna Mallow combined for 24 service points to lead the Northern High School volleyball team in a sweep of Keyser. The win came at home after the Huskies suffered a defeat at Southern High School (see other story for details).

Williams led with [illegible] points and six aces and Ma[illegible] low totaled 11 points and had seven aces. Northern beat Keyser by scores of 25-11, 25-23, and 25-19.

Kayla Porter added seven points, had four aces and made three kills in the effort, while Husky teammate Ashley Brenneman scored four points, with four aces and four kills.

Carrie Riggleman led Key[illegible] Bean scored eight.

Keyser won the junior varsity match by a margin of 2-1 (23-25, 25-10, and 15-11). Katie Wiltison played a key role in the jayvee victory, as she tallied 21 pints and 17 digs. Katie Tasker had 13 kills and 14 digs, and Hayley Foster made 12 digs and had nine assists.

Rhiannon Dodge led the Northern jayvee squad with nine pints and seven aces. Natalie Johnson hit for five points, three aces, and six kills.

Northern (1-1) is set to host Mountain Ridge this evening. The jayvee game is scheduled to begin at 6 p.m. Varsity action will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Rams Topple Huskies, Fall To Falcons At Home

The Southern High School volleyball team went one-for-two in back-to-back home games this week, getting the best of intra-county rival Northern High School last Thursday, 3-1, but failing to match that performance against Keyser, 0-3.

In their game with the Huskies, the Rams went 16-25, 25-10, 25-10, 25-10. Alycia Horner had 22 points, 15 aces, six kills, and eight assists. Janessa Bassford had 13 points and two aces, while Sara Sweitzer had eight digs and six assists.

For Northern, Kaitlyn Yommer had 14 points and five aces, while Kayla Porter had five points, four kills, and one ace. Brittany Williams had four points, two aces, and one kill.

The Husky jayvees swept Southern, 25-12 and 25-23, as Rhiannon Dodge had 18 points, 11 aces, and four tips. Northern teammates Jordyn Folk and Natalie Johnson had five points, one ace, and one kill and three points and one kill, respectively.

Becca Lee had six points and five aces for Southern (0-2), while Katie Bowman had four points, three aces and two kills.

In their matchup with Keyser, the Rams were swept by the Falcons, as Saydi Whiteman tallied 21 service points, five aces, three kills, and 12 digs. The game scores were 25-5, 25-11, and 25-19.

Horner led the Rams with four points, three aces, three kills, and a block, while Brooke Spiker had two points, three assists, and a kill. Lindsay Lipscomb had four points and an ace.

Adding to Frankfort's domination was Mikala Miller, who had 10 points, six aces, and nine kills.

The Falcons won the jayvee match (25-13, 25-11). Bowman had six points, five aces, and a kill, while fellow Ram Rachel Warnick had three points and three aces in that game.

Southern (1-2) will play away today at Hampshire. The game is scheduled for 6:30 p.m.

Three Inducted Into So. Football Hall Of Fame

Three more individuals were inducted into the Southern High School Football Hall of Fame during pre-game ceremonies Friday evening when the Rams hosted Moorefield. The new members are Frank Custer, class of 1980, Greg Shockey, class of 1978, and Tim Tharp, class of 1984.

Custer did not play the game of football for the Rams, but began helping the team with athletic training services while he was still a student in high school, and continued to do so while a student at Garrett College and West Virginia University.

At WVU, Custer was an athletic trainer for the football team and the women's track and field team. He traveled with the Mountaineers to several bowl games, including the 1982 Gator Bowl and the 1983 Holiday Bowl. In 1983, he received an outstanding service award from the Mid-Atlantic Athletic Trainers Association.

Custer graduated summa cum laude from WVU in 1984 with a bachelor of science degree in secondary education. He then became a licensed funeral director upon his graduation from the Pittsburgh Institute of Mortuary Science in 1988.

Custer founded the Mountain Top Monument Company in 1986, and in 1994 purchased Tri-State Memorial Company, both of which he owns and operates today

Custer was awarded the Dr. H. Robert Gibson Citizen of the Year Award in 1996 for outstanding service to the Southern High School Athletic Department.

He is a member of the Oakland/Mountain Lake Park Lions Club and St. Paul's United Methodist Church. He is currently an assistant coach for the W.O.W Little League Baseball team and the trainer for the Oakland Rams Pee Wee Football team.

Custer resides in Oakland with his wife Amy, son Joey, and daughter Gracie.

Shockey and his family moved to Oakland from Glenelg after his sophomore season. At Glenelg High School, he was named an All-County junior varsity first-team offensive tackle and linebacker.

For the Rams, he was a two-year varsity starter at offensive tackle and linebacker. He played on Coach Tom Woods' first team at SHS and earned All-Area honorable mention. Coach Woods named him Best Offensive Lineman his senior year

Shockey furthered his academic and football carcer at Frostburg State University, from which he graduated in 1983 with a bachelor of science degree in business administration. He was a four-year varsity starter for the Bobcats as an offensive guard, starting in 38 consecutive games from his freshman through senior seasons. He was considered an integral part of one of the best offensive lines in FSU football history

In his senior year, the Baltimore Sun named Shockey first-team offensive guard on the Maryland All-State college football team. Next month he will be named the 169th member and 38th football player to be inducted into the Frostburg Bobcat Athletic Hall of Fame.

Shockey is a member and past president of the Oakland/Mountain Lake Park Lions Club. He is a member of Little Meadows Chapter, Maryland Society of the Sons of the American Revolution and is a Garrett Mentor. He has coached numerous Little League teams over the years and is a member of the Southern-Garrett Alumni Association.

Greg is currently the owner and president of Team One Chevrolet-Buick-GMC in Oakland.

Married to the former Susan Glotfelty, Greg has one son, Dan Shockey, a stepson, Steve Shaffer, and a stepdaughter, Renee Shafler-Lantz.

Tharp was an outstanding fullback and nose guard who helped to lead the Rams to the Class C state semi-finals in 1983. As a three-year starter, he amassed over 1,700 yards rushing, even though his primary duty was being a lead blocker for the Hall of Fame tailback Dave Terrant.

Tharp was equally important in his role as a havoc-creating nose guard for three years, as his outstanding quickness and strength made him one of the best-ever SHS defensive linemen.

He was named to the All-Highland Football Conference and Potomac Valley Conference teams as running back both his junior and senior seasons. He was also named an All-Area running back as a member of the Rams' 9-1 state semi-final team in 1983. He received numerous team awards during his three years as a starter.

Tharp was unable to be present for Friday's ceremony, but sent words of appreciation to the induction committee, to former coach Tom Woods, and to the SHS fans.

Huskies Lose

the field is just one play away from getting hurt. But you have to figure out a way to overcome it when it happens.

"Chris is not quite the passer that Pat is, but he is a very good runner and he has a lot of game experience," Carr continued. "With more time and more reps, he is going to get more confidence and get better."

Carr said that Williamsport altered its defensive scheme when Sines was sidelined.

"They really came after Chris, so he was under a lot of pressure," he said.

Murdock and the rest of the Huskies will be in another high pressure situation this Friday when they host Keyser, a team that rolled over Petersburg in its opener, but was then manhandled by Fort Hill this past Friday

"Keyser is not quite as strong as usual, but they still have good speed, size, big numbers, and great athleticism," Carr said. "They will run their usual 4-4 defense, and they are using a fast-pace, sometimes no-huddle offense."

The Golden Tornadoes are led offensively by senior Jamison Jones, who is listed on the roster as quarterback, but has been filling the running back and split end spots.

Another key player, particularly on trap plays, is sophomore fullback Danny Fife, whom Carr describes as both powerful and quick.

"Their lines are also solid, as usual," he said, "not huge, but of good size and quick."

Carr said that his team will not make drastic changes on offense with Murdock as the starting quarterback.

"We will pretty much stick to what we have been doing this season, because that is also what Chris is most familiar with as the backup QB," he said.

Friday's kickoff at the Northern athletic field is set for 7 p.m.

SHS Jayvees Blank Huskies, Fall To Sentinels

The junior varsity football team of Southern High School opened its 2011 season on Saturday by shutting out county rival Northern 25-0 on the Huskies' field, but were then edged by visiting Fort Hill on Monday, 14-7.

Reese Haskiell recorded a pair of touchdowns in the win over Northern, one via a six-yard carry, and the other by being on the receiving end of a 15-yard TD pass from Matt Mayles.

The Rams had a 12-0 lead at intermission, and went up 18-0 in the third quarter when Austin Reckart scored on a one-yard dive.

The final Southern score came in the fourth stanza, with Josh Adams breaking through the Husky defense and racing 38 yards to the end zone. Mayles booted the conversion to conclude the scoring.

The Rams scored first in their game against Fort Hill on Monday, with Mayles capping a drive with a one-yard scoring run early in the second quarter. He also kicked the conversion.

The Sentinels rallied to tie the score at 7-7 when Devin Shreve scored on a two-yard run just before halftime, and Chris King booted the extra point.

After a scoreless third period, Fort Hill won the contest when Dekarai Darr scored a touchdown on an eight-yard run, and King again added the extra point.

The Ram jayvees are slated to host Hampshire on Monday, with the kickoff set for 7 p.m. The Northern junior varsity is scheduled to play at Allegany on Monday

Pee Wee Rams Undefeated, Top Reds Saturday

The Oakland Rams of the Tri-State Pee Wee League continued their winning ways Saturday, as they defeated the Cumberland Southside Reds, 30-19, at Southern High School. The A/B squad of the Rams is currently undefeated at 4-0 and tied with the Cumberland Saints for first place in the American Division of the league, while the Rams' C squad is currently 2-1-1 on the season.

The A/B squads opened the 2011 campaign with a 51-7 romp over the Hampshire Mini-T's, with the C squad also gaining its first victory, 13-12, behind two touchdown runs by Will Moon.

The Rams then played their first game at home, and A/B squad defeated the Ridgeley Hawks, 24-6. The C squad completed the sweep with a 33-12 victory to go to 2-0.

The Rams then made it three in a row when they traveled to Cumberland and rolled over the Cumberland Raiders, 57-0. The C squad battled to a 19-19 tie with their Raider counterparts.

The Southside Reds came to Oakland this past Saturday, also undefeated at 3-0. The Ram B squad quickly jumped to a 12-0 lead, as Caid Andrews and Luke Adams scored on touchdown runs.

The A squad added to the lead when Hayden McLaughlin scampered into the end zone to make it 18-0.

The Reds then answered with a touchdown to cut the lead to 18-6, but the Ram A squad scored again, with Alec Horner running for a touchdown to make it 24-6.

The Reds cut the lead to 24-12, but the Ram B squad returned to the field and quickly padded the score to 30-12 on a second touchdown run of the day by Andrews.

The Reds added another touchdown and extra point to close the scoring out at 30-19.

This was the first time that the Oakland A/B squad ever defeated the Reds. Meanwhile, the Ram C squad tasted defeat for the first time this season.

The Pee Wee Rams will travel cross county to take on rival Northern Maddawgs this Sunday, with the kickoff on the Northern High School athletic field set for 5 p.m.

Div. I Steelers Whip Patriots, Still Unbeaten

The Division I Northern Steelers remain unbeaten in Cumberland Area Youth Football League action, as they rolled to a 32-14 victory over the host Patriots on Saturday.

Northern's Noah Werner fired an 11-yard scoring strike to Brady Bittinger to open the game's scoring early in the first quarter. Jake Vernon's two-point conversion kick gave the Steelers an 8-0 lead.

The Patriots knotted the score later in the same quarter when Raen Smith broke through the Steeler defense and raced 44 yards to the end zone, and Brandon Harper booted the conversion.

The Steelers took the lead for good in the second period with a pair of Aaron Rodeheaver touchdowns. His first was scored on a four-yard run, and his second via a 12-yard carry. Vernon kicked both conversions, and the Steelers held a 24-8 advantage at intermission.

Bittinger recorded his second touchdown of the game in the third quarter, this time on a 21-yard run, and Vernon concluded the Steelers' scoring with his fourth perfect conversion kick to make the score 32-8.

The Patriots put one more TD on the board later in the third when Harper scored on a 41-yard scamper. The converson kick was no good.

Rodeheaver finished with 85 yards rushing on 16 carries, while Bittinger added 71 yards on just seven totes.

The Steeler defensive unit was paced by Kyle Beard, Logan Fratz, and Saylor Wampler, while Jorden Warner, D.J. Powell, and Chad O'Neal led the Patriot defense.

In the second game of the day, the Division II Steelers were handed a 28-12 defeat by their Patriot counterparts.

A one-yard TD carry by Luke Hamilton, followed by a Brayden Brown conversion pass to Xavier Trimble, gave the Patriots a 7-0 lead in the first quarter.

The Steelers took the lead in the second period with a pair of touchdowns, both scored by Austin Evans. The first was on a 12-yard carry, and the second via a 41-yard punt return. Both conversion kicks failed, and the Steelers held a 12-7 advantage at halftime

The Patriots regained the lead in the third quarter when Hamilton scored on a two-yard run, and also ran successfully for the conversion to make it 14-12.

Brown then capped a Patriot drive with a six-yard touchdown run, and then passed to Spencer for the conversion to increase the lead to 21-12.

The final score of the game was a 32-yard interception return by Patriot Kaleb Harden. Chance Tyler added the conversion run to conclude the scoring.

Nate Durst and Jacob Toothman excelled on defense for the Steelers.

The Northern teams will be back in action this Sunday at home against Keyser.

Sailboat Racing On Deep Creek Lake

THE MAGELLAN – A RACE AROUND THE KNOWN WORLD

by Dan Muss

Ferdinand Magellan lived and died during the high renaissance, a period of awakening after the deadly 14th century with its 100 years war and Black Death, roughly 1450 to 1520. It was a yeasty time of an amazing emergence of art, music, architecture, philosophy, and commerce. And in commerce, the great wealth and source of power was the trade in spices. Columbus sailed west in service to Spain to find a water route to what they called the Spice Islands. He failed to find them, but did stumble across our Western Hemisphere.

Magellan, in service to Portugal, sailed east from the Atlantic to the Pacific via the Magellan Strait (a very tough passage even today under sail) and did find them. He himself never made it back, as he was killed in a really stupid battle in the Philippines, but his crew completed the first circumnavigation of our planet.

This was a very significant event because it showed, without any doubt, that the Earth was round. To the majority of Europe's population, most of whom were still bound in serfdom to the land and illiterate, this was very disturbing because their view of things was that heaven was up, hell was down, and the Earth was flat.

Today, 500 years later, there are still some who question this spherical Earth assumption, and they are known as the "Flat Earth Society." It was the local chapter of this group that observed that, to us sailors here in Deep Creek Lake, the known world is just our end of the lake, south of the Glendale Bridge. So the race around the entire "world" was conceived and called the Magellan Race since it covered our "world."

So, last Saturday 18 Flying Scots started their trek "around the world." It was a completely fun race; I'm surprised that there were no water pistols used. On one beat, I heard the following exchange: "Starboard tack boat!" The reply from the port tack boat was, "What did you say?"

My wife Carol and I were able to keep up with the hotshots for the first half of the race, but then we slipped all the way back. The interesting story is that our local world champion, Joni Palmer, with her husband Ray Gauthier up front, just sailed rings around all of us. I saw her round one mark twice. I was told she rounded some three times. She would drop back and then, like there was an engine on her boat, would catch up and pass the lead boats. She actually never crossed the finish line.

The "official" winners were Don and Barbara Griffin, with Jim Munford and Gordy Clefton, runners-up. Not bad for the Griffins; they are both over 80, and Barbara is still recovering from a concussion.

This is my final column for this season. Stay healthy, all you sailing fans; we'll see you next spring., that when Greg met up with Kyle Yost, who was already laying the groundwork for the SavageMan. One year later, the local event was born."

Growing in leaps and bounds, the foundation required a full-time director by 2009, so Greg quit his job to fill that role. Bob Nicolay remains as chairman. Having remarried a few years ago, his wife Nancy also serves on the board. Denise, Keith, and the rest of the family will unite once again this weekend for the local event, as they have each year.

Now the foundation works year-round, striving to alert the public of the dangers of melanoma, and garnering funding for education and prevention. The foundation (also known as JMNMF) increased 2011 funding by 40% in announcing seven nationally competitive Research Scholar Awards (RSA), presented to exceptional graduate student researchers, at leading cancer centers across the U.S. The JMNMF annual $10,000 scholarships significantly enhance the potential for advancements in the melanoma cancer field, and encourage a larger number of students to choose melanoma research as a professional career path. This is just one effort of the organization.

More information about the foundation and its efforts can be found at www.melanomaresource.org. Persons may also read about the organization, as well as the fifth annual SavageMan Triathlon, which has its start and finish this weekend at the Deep Creek Lake State Park. The site for the event is www.savagemantri.org.

Denise said her mother had a habit of cutting things out of newspapers or magazines, just recipes or notes or things that she thought were especially noteworthy. She often saved these things in her nightstand.

"After she died, we found this special poem. We couldn't believe it – it was so like her," Denise said. The poem follows.

To Those I Love
author unknown

If I should ever leave you whom I love, to go along the Silent Way, grieve not, nor speak of me with tears, but laugh and talk of me as if I were beside you there.

(I'd come – I'd come, could I but find a way! But, would not tears and grief be barriers?)

And when you hear a song or see a bird I love, please do not let the thought of me be sad... For I am loving you just as I always have. You were so good to me!

There are so many things I wanted still to do, so many things to say to you...

Remember that I did not fear... It was just leaving you that was so hard to face...

We cannot see beyond... But this I know: I loved you so – 'twas heaven here with you.

As the SavageMan gets under way this weekend, perhaps all involved will think a moment on the woman who inspired the foundation, a kind and giving person who suffered with courage, and whose family learned both to love and to let go, because of her strength and faith.

When asked what her mother might say about the SavageMan, Denise laughed and replied that first, she would say to her family, "Stop working so hard!"

But she also said Joanna was not someone who wanted her name in lights at all.

"She would be amazed that we've done this," her daughter said. "I know she'd be smiling."

Persons are advised that he roads of the Deep Creek Lake State Park, as well as the boat ramp and beach area, will be heavily congested for most of the weekend as a result of the SavageMan Triathlon Festival. The competition will begin and end at the Deep Creek Lake State Park beach area. Visitors should expect traffic congestion and a large number of people moving throughout the park from 6 a.m. until late afternoon each day, officials said.

There are more than 500 athletes registered to participate each day of the event. The swim event begins and ends at the park's beach. Boaters should plan to recreate in other parts of the lake away from the Meadow Mountain Bridge and the shoreline of the state park. Other segments of the race use the roadways and service road throughout the park.

Visitors who anticipate using the boat ramp during the Sept. 17-18 weekend are encouraged to be watchful for athletes crossing through the ramp area, and are asked to access the ramp as late in the day as possible.

For more information, persons may call the park office at 301-387-5563.

A LEGACY OF COURAGE AND CARE was left by Joanna M. Nicolay, pictured above left as she hugs her daughter, Denise Nicolay Safko, in a photo taken about 10 years ago. Joanna was diagnosed with melanoma in the 1970s, and dealt with it for nearly 20 years, finally succumbing in 2003. Her stamina, faith, and bravery throughout her illness kept her family buoyed, and helped them to cherish life, short as it sometimes is. She was the inspiration for the Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation, the organization that hosts the annual SavageMan Triathlon, set for this weekend in the county. See feature story.

Maryland College-Bound Seniors Exceed National Average In SATs

by Gina Cairney
Capital News Service

Maryland's college-bound students managed to maintain high scores in each of the SAT's categories – critical reading, mathematics, and writing – bucking a national trend of sinking scores, according to the College Board's College-Bound Seniors 2011 SAT report released Wednesday.

The report reveals that the national average critical reading scores have dropped to an all-time low of 497 out of 800, but Maryland surpassed the national average at 499. Maryland scores in mathematics were slightly lower than the national average at 502, but the state's writing scores, averaged at 491, were above the national average of 489.

SAT participation grew by 1 percent in Maryland, according to a statement from the Maryland State Department of Education. In 2011, the College Board reported that 47,787 Maryland students took the SAT, up from 46,370 students taking it in 2010.

The Maryland State Department of Education also said in a news release that "the state's long-running partnership with the College Board has helped increase the number of students in urban and rural communities involved in both the Advanced Placement and SAT programs."

Not all counties in Maryland received their individual scores, but two counties that did saw improvements.

Anne Arundel County Public Schools said its schools continued to exceed state average scores for the 15th consecutive year. The county also noted in a statement an increase in its SAT participation among its Hispanic and black students.

Montgomery County Public Schools also did not follow the national trend. The county's 2011 graduates "significantly outscored their peers in the state of Maryland" and the country, the news release said, with an average combined score of 1,637 out of 2,400, 145 points higher than the state combined score and 137 points higher than the national combined score.

MCPS also saw Hispanic student scores increase, with a combined average score of 1,477, compared to the state combined average of 1,434. Its black students scored an average of 1,382 compared to the state average of 1,266.

MCPS Superintendent Joshua P. Starr cautioned against interpretations of race and ethnicity comparisons between the county, state and nation "because results are not available for students identified within the multiple race category in Maryland and the nation."

Montgomery County is working toward improvement, Starr said in his memo. There is a review being done by the Office of Shared Accountability as to why there was a slight decline in SAT performance. There will also be a focus on whether there were differences in academic achievements in algebra I and algebra II between the classes of 2010 and 2011.

Prince George's County Public Schools have not received their county data, and would not comment on the scores.

The gains among the counties' Hispanic and African-American students are important, but the College Board's report reveals an even more significant gain among its non-citizen and immigrant students.

Compared with students who are United States citizens, immigrant and non-citizen students in Maryland scored higher in math, with an average score of 551 compared with U.S. citizen students' average score of 504 out of 800. Immigrant students also scored on average higher in the writing portion of the SAT at 497, compared to U.S. citizen students' average score of 494.

These scores by immigrant students will be important in their pursuit of a college degree. The Maryland DREAM Act, signed into law by Gov Martin O'Malley in May, would provide in-state tuition benefits to non-citizen immigrants who meet certain criteria, but opponents are trying to repeal the act through a referendum in 2012.

Looking for a Used Vehicle?

THE DEER PARK HOTEL, the most massive of all of the county's hotels constructed in the 1800s, actually had its own railroad station, and the stage coach pictured above was used to transport patrons to and from that B&O station. Probably the most famous person to have ever ridden in the vehicle was then-president Grover Cleveland, who spent his honeymoon in Deer Park. Below left is the oldest automobile on display, a 1911 International Harvester auto buggy, on loan to the museum by Gary Fitzwater, Mtn. Lake Park. Below right is a 1932 Chevrolet Sports Roadster, originally owned by a dentist in Argentina, and now on loan to the museum by owner Rich Rohrbaugh, Turkey Neck. Pictured bottom is Flying Scot #4, donated by Clark and Rhoda Ashby of Illinois. The Scot was a creation of the late Gordon "Sandy" Douglass, who was an Oakland resident, and the boat is still manufactured in Deer Park. The second floor of the museum is dedicated to the history of Deep Creek Lake and the state parks of Garrett County.

Flowery Vale To Host Living Well Workshop

A free workshop titled Living Well with Chronic Conditions has been scheduled at at the Flowery Vale Fitness Center in Accident. Persons are invited to find out more about the workshop by attending an information session scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 5, at 1 p.m. at Flowery Vale.

The Living Well workshop will convene from 1 to 3:30 p.m on the following Wednesdays: 10/12, 10/19, 10/26, 11/2, 11/9 and 11/16. Anyone 21 years of age and over is welcome. To register, persons may telephone Suzanne Carley at 301-746-8232, or e-mail her at scarley@garrettcac.org.

The Living Well workshops were developed by Stanford University. Trained instructors Joanne Harsh and Suzanne Carley will introduce new material each week and facilitate group discussions.

Persons with chronic conditions such as diabetes, depression, heart disease, stroke, arthritis, and lung disease suffer with common problems and symptoms, including pain, loss of energy, sleep problems, depression, breathing problems and concern for the future.

"The Living Well workshops teach participants to manage symptoms, communicate effectively with doctors, lessen frustration, fight fatigue, make daily tasks easier, and thus help participants get more out of life," stated Carley.

Participants will receive a free copy of the companion book Living a Healthy Life with Chronic Conditions. This is possible with funding from the GGEAR (geriatrics and gerontology education and research) program at the University of Maryland, Baltimore.

Living Well workshops in Garrett County are sponsored by the Garrett County Area Agency on Aging/Community Action Committee Inc., made possible by funding under the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 and with funds granted to the Maryland Department of Aging by the Federal Administration on Aging.

CELEBRATING 40 YEARS OF SERVICE TO THE COMMUNITY

GC IS CLOSE TO HIS HEART – Rob Michael, successful Garrett County businessman and community supporter, shows that underneath it all, he is a Garrett College graduate who appreciates the roots and wings of his education. Michael is so connected to his alma mater that he had the original college gym floor installed in his family room, complete with original scuff marks.

"This is My Garrett College"

As Garrett College celebrates 40 years of service to the community, the request has gone out for people to contribute their stories and memories of GC, or GCC, as it was known for many years. Personal memories have been posted on the Garrett College web site and will appear in this column from time to time. This week the focus is on Oakland resident Rob Michael and the memories he has expressed. To share a story, persons may visit www.garrettcollege.edu/mygc.

by Rob Michael

There is not a single day in my life that I don't think of Garrett College. I came to Garrett in 1972 shortly after the doors opened officially Dr. Luther Shaw was president and Dr. Jan Janssen was dean. They treated me like family, and I knew I was at the right place. What I didn't know at the time was that my days at Garrett would take me from being a student to president of the board.

Some of you will remember the names of the professors in those early days. I can tell you that they all were uniquely qualified in their respective areas, passionate about education and committed to the overall success at Garrett.

I was fortunate to have Dr. George Dailey for U.S. history. You didn't want to miss one of his classes. He was that good. We still remain friends today, and my Christmas Eve is always special because for years we talk on the telephone on that day.

Joan Crawford was our English teacher. Her patience and skill enabled me to become a writer. Her love of teaching inspired many of my friends to enter into that profession.

Dr. Woodrow Castle was my economics teacher. We studied Keynesian economics, which is still used today and I still have my textbook.

Miss Thayer taught accounting, and we learned all about debits and credits. In one class, our friend Dave Martin stood up, walked over to the window, opened it, and stepped outside. He then walked around the building to the entrance door and walked back into the classroom and took his seat. Not a word was said to him. You would never attempt that maneuver with Mrs. Crawford or George Dailey.

Then there was Troy Fike, a gentle man who kept Garrett up and running mechanically. In those days there was a work study program that allowed students to earn money by working part time with the college in some capacity. If you worked in maintenance, you were known as one of "Troy's Boys," a high honor and sought-after position.

We took our meals in Servomation, which is now the art gallery and art work studio. For many of us, it was the first vending machines that we ever used and the first microwave oven we had seen. Marilyn Glotfelty stood guard over all the activities. The lunch room became in part a casino for the game of hearts. Cards paid better than work study.

Tom Bosley, Bill Elliott, Barney Teets, Dave Martin, Bill Ravenscroft, Dennis Gibson, and Torte Helbig spent many hours trying to come up with the best hand. Despite all of the gaming, none of them were ever late for class. It was that kind of respect they had for our teachers.

We had a school newspaper, rec league teams, musical performances, and some field trips. There were also some field trips not sponsored by the school to the Glen Haven (now Uno's), and one or two trips to the airport runway to try the latest taste of Boone's Farm.

It was a time when teachers invited you to their homes for dinner and for holiday celebrations. It was a time of innocence and understanding. Vietnam was winding down, long hair was the style, and we respected our school, teachers, and fellow students. We also treasured life and experienced the tragedy of losing our friend Kent Kamineck by an auto accident. His passing taught us that life is fragile, meant to be shared and enjoyed.

I am a better person because of attending Garrett. I treasure my memories and the total academic and student life experience. I cannot walk the halls of Garrett without hearing the many voices of my past days at Garrett. I will never let that feeling change.

CRAWFORD MEMORIALIZED – Garrett College graduate Rob Michael shares words (below) that he delivered at a memorial service held last year for Joan Crawford, pictured above in 1974. Crawford was a member of the GC faculty for over 30 years, serving as an instructor of English and journalism, and as yearbook advisor. A lecture series in her memory will be held once again this fall on the GC campus.

In Memoriam For Joan Crawford

Rob Michael spoke the following words to friends and family at the memorial service last year for Joan Crawford, who taught at Garrett College for more than 30 years.

It's a beautiful autumn day; the maple leaves are burnt, ready to return to the surface, the sumac and oak fading as the last few breaths of autumn whisper to me goodbye. I have returned to the woods and pond where I would often write my English compositions for school. I'm safe here. The tall blue spruce and chestnut stand have watched me transition from innocence to manhood here. The pond is still and patient. This place has always been in my life, but today it seems more peaceful than I can remember, for I am here to write about my friend, teacher and mentor, Joan Crawford. I need her now more than ever to give me a beginning and end to this essay.

How do you craft a hundred memories into words? I should know, rather, I'm supposed to know this because she taught me the way. Good writers create from their experiences, great writers create from their heart, and with each word that is etched I begin to feel both her passing and her presence, making it painful and peaceful in a surreal way.

You would notice her walking into school from her car to the administration building that housed our school president, dean, accountant and assorted staff. Her pace was the same, despite the weather. She seemed to appreciate the rain that would touch her skin, and respect the wind that was ever present. It was like she was in her sailboat all alone, braving the elements at hand, confident of her skills, and knowing her place in the storm.

She came to school, not out of duty or contract, but out of love for what she was – a professor, yes, a dedicated employee certainly, but above all, a teacher with a soft voice and a huge heart. She was someone who saw in a student what can be accomplished versus what cannot be accomplished.

Welcome to English 101, sometimes called freshman English or college composition. It's the one course that almost every first-year student in every American college and university is required to take. It should be one of the most enjoyable and rewarding courses in your college life. And it was!

Joan suggested and encouraged us to always make a space in our lives to write and create, but don't do it as a purpose-driven effort; let it happen. So I find myself here on the bank of this pond where it all originally began, but will not end.

Incidentally, Joan would always review our papers and critique them with red ink. I politely requested that she use a different color, as red symbolized a mistake, and how can our own thinking be any type of error if it comes from our heart? This apparently was the first time she had this request, and I got the Crawford stare. After a momentary pause, she asked, "What color do you feel is appropriate?"

"Green, Mrs. Crawford, green is a positive color."

"Ok," she said, "I will use green on your papers from now on."

And so she did. Lots of green!

With Joan's help, we started the first college newspaper and produced the first-ever yearbook. She was instrumental in the formation of our student government association. These were huge undertakings, but she knew these projects would keep us focused, continually writing, and create a bond between many of the students that still exists today. Joan wanted every student to have a positive experience at Garrett.

She was a teacher who gave you something to take home to think about besides homework. She was a friend who wanted you to succeed. Joan taught me to believe in the magic of my dreams and share them with others. I, like many of her students, saw many of those dreams come true.

I went from a student, to a member of the first foundation, to adjunct instructor, to search committee, to chairman of the board of Garrett. Joan was there lending encouragement all the way. It was my way of giving back to a college that introduced me to Joan. In my own way, I wanted to instill the values that I learned from Joan by remembering our school's past such that we could improve upon its future. Most students came to Garrett for two years, but because of Joan, I made it a lifetime avocation.

The last time I stood on this stage was when I gave the class talk at our graduation exercise. Joan was sitting right there listening attentively with a broad, reassuring smile on her face. I don't recall exactly what I talked about, probably dreams, pathways, and goals, which are what graduates normally discuss, but I do remember thanking the faculty and especially teachers like Joan Crawford, who had such a profound influence on me. My life is better, more complete, satisfying, and distinguished because of your mom, your grandmother, your friend.

The afternoon sun has shifted, changing the shadows and light on the pond. I begin the short walk home knowing that this day has been comforting while reflecting back on yesterdays. I encourage all of you to find that safe spot where you can think and write. Share your writings and thoughts. Use green ink more and red ink less. Joan would like that.

Joan was your mother, your grandmother, friend, and sailor. She was someone who really lived every day to the fullest. While I know that my words are only a small gesture of support, I want you to know that her spirit has touched many people's lives as it has mine. You and your family will continue to be in my thoughts and prayers in the days that follow, but more importantly, the rest of my natural life.

And, I wish for the sailor in all of you, fair winds and calm seas. May your memories be sweet and calorie-free.

Joan Crawford Lecture Series Fall Agenda Set

In honor of the late educator Joan R. Crawford, who was a member of the Garrett College faculty for many years, the Joan Crawford Lecture Series will be offered once again this fall.

Crawford, who died October 5, 2010, had served the Garrett College community for more than 30 years and was named the school's first professor emeritus. The fall schedule is as follows, with all lectures slated from noon to 1 p.m.:

- Thursday, Sept. 22, Room 224 – Prof. Peter Skylstad will present "Siempre Adelanate: Walking in Humboldt's Footsteps – Neotropical Adventures in Nicaragua and Costa Rica."
- Wednesday, Oct. 12, Room 511 – Garrett College president Dr. Richard Mac-Lennan will present "Semester at Sea."
- Wednesday, Oct. 26, in the auditorium – Maj. Gen. Joseph P. Franklin, U.S. Army ret., will present "Building Leaders the West Point Way"
- Wednesday, Nov. 16, Room 511 – Prof. Beth Luers and GC students will present "Voices from the Holocaust."

For more information on this series, persons may telephone Luers at 301-387-3020.

Prof. Skylstad To Kick Off Lecture Series At College

Prof. Peter Skylstad (pictured) will kick off the Joan Crawford Lecture Series at Garrett College on Thursday, Sept. 22, from noon to 1 p.m. His presentation, "Siempre Adelanate: Walking in Humboldt's Footsteps – Neotropical Adventures in Nicaragua and Costa Rica," will offer a visual tour of the rain forests of those Central American countries featuring photos taken by Skylstad and his students over a six-year period.

Skylstad, assistant director and professor of natural resources and wildlife technology at Garrett College, annually offers a field-study-abroad course during intersession at sites in Nicaragua and Costa Rica. This popular course draws not only Garrett College students, but students from major universities across the country.

"The field studies in these rain forests provide the subject matter for brilliantly colored and startling photographs of plants, wildlife, reptiles, and birds," said Skylstad. The title of his presentation reflects his philosophy of education and life. "Siempre adelanate is Spanish for 'always forward.' It is how we must move. However, it is vitally important that we know where we came from in order to know where we are going," he noted, underscoring the importance of blending history and science.

The lecture title refers to Alexander von Humboldt, a 19th century naturalist who was the first European to study the physical sciences in Central and South America. He viewed nature holistically, creating an enduring foundation for others who would follow this scientific approach, including Charles Darwin.

For more information on the Joan Crawford Lecture Series, persons may contact Beth Luers at 301-387-3020.

COLLEGE EXPO

The annual College Expo is scheduled for Monday, Oct. 10, at Garrett College. There will be a financial aid seminar at 6 p.m. The doors will open at 6:30 p.m. Approximately 40 college, technical school, and military representatives will assemble in the gymnasium. Up to three scholarships will be raffled off that evening. To be entered into the drawing those interested need simply attend the expo. Those who win the drawing may use the scholarship money to purchase books at any college.

SENIOR PANORAMIC

SENIOR CLASS MEETING SET

There will be a senior class meeting on Sunday, Sept. 18, at 2 p.m. in the cafeteria. Students are asked to bring their parents. The meeting will be about the senior class trip, fundraising, and senior class expectations. Ms. Zumpano and Ms. Sanders expect all seniors to attend.

THEATRE PROGRAM SEEKING SPONSORS

Playbill ads are now being sold to community businesses and organizations. Ads will run in the programs of all four of this season's theatre program productions. Those interested in contributing may contact Erin White at 301-334-9447.

STUDENT PAGE PROGRAM

The Maryland General Assembly is seeking candidates for its student page program. All high school seniors who are residents of Maryland are eligible to apply. Selected pages work for two non-consecutive weeks at the state house in Annapolis and are assigned to either the house of delegates or the senate. For more information and to pick up an application form, one may contact Beverly Sincell. Applications are due to the Guidance Office by Monday, Sept. 26.

VOLUNTEER FAIR

On Thursday, Sept. 22, from 3 until 7 p.m., Garrett College will sponsor a volunteer fair in order to assist participants in doing charitable work. This event is designed to assist individuals in completing their service learning hours, which are required for graduation. Those with questions may contact Judy Carbone at 301-387-3046. Additional information may be found at www.garrettcollege.edu/volunteer.

JOIN THE 2011-2012 PROM COMMITTEE

Southern High School junior class officers have extended an invitation to any SHS parent or student to join the 2011-2012 prom committee. The first meeting will be on Sept. 28 at 6:00 p.m. in Room 1116. Those interested but unable to attend this meeting may e-mail shsprom@gmail.com, or call 301-334-9447 to speak with Melissa Pyle or Hollie Wund, junior class advisors.

PATRIOT'S DESCENDANT PRESENTS FLAG – The Little Meadows Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution recently received a Maryland state flag that flew over the Maryland State House in memory and honor of Patriot William Groves, a Maryland veteran of the American Revolution. The flag was presented to the chapter by member Terry R. Grove, a third great-grandson of Groves. Pictured is chapter president Luther Parrack receiving the flag from Grove.

AFTER-SCHOOL SAT PREP COURSES

The verbal portion of the after-school SAT prep course will be offered by Mr. Graham in numerous sessions. Each session will meet for one hour beginning at 3:45 p.m. Students are encouraged to sign up, even if they will miss some of the sessions. Session dates: Sept. 27, Nov. 1, Nov. 29, Jan. 24, March 6, and May 1.

2010-11 YEARBOOKS

Graduates must pick up their 2010-11 yearbooks from Ms. Zumpano as soon as possible. Extra yearbooks are available for sale also.

SENIOR PORTRAITS

Senior portraits will be taken on Sept. 26, 27, and 28 on the school stage. Seniors will receive a flyer from the yearbook staff along with a postcard from Life Touch photographers. There will be a sitting fee of $10 due at the time of one's scheduled appointment. Sessions will include photos of seniors in cap/gown, traditional dress (black drape for girls, with a white shirt and red tie provided and black jackets for boys), as well as casual dress. Any and all questions about senior portraits may be directed to Maria Zumpano at mzumpano@sh.ga.k12.md.us or mariazumpano@hotmail.com. More information about senior portraits may be found on the school's web site.

PSAT INFORMATION

Any 9th or 11th grade student who wishes to take the PSAT on Oct. 12 may sign up in the Guidance Office by Sept. 28. In order for students to qualify for any national merit scholarships, they must take the PSAT in their junior year. There is a $15 fee to reserve PSAT test materials. All 10th grade students may take the PSAT on the same day free of charge. Those with questions may see Mrs. Bell (Guidance Office).

Bark 'n Bites

Of Your Garrett County Forest Conservancy Board

by Paul Shogren

After a hiatus of some months, it is hoped that this column will become a monthly report of your Garrett County Forest Conservancy District Board activities and advice. The board's responsibilities are to encourage sustainable management on private woodlands and to inform the public about advances and problems with the wood products industry and the profession of forestry.

The board meets on the second Monday of every month in the DNR Mt. Nebo Work Center building at 9 a.m. The officers and members are as follows: Charles Hoffeditz, chairman; Phil Kisner, treasurer; and Carl McIntire, Paul Shogren, Joe Winters, Ken Fisher, Fred Peacock, Gregan Crawford, and Mike Kozier.

The board supported the annual Natural Resources Careers Conference, held in July at the Hickory Environmental Education Center located behind Northern High School. During the weeklong conference, 29 high school students from all over Maryland received instruction on the wise use of our natural resources of soil, water, timber, and air. The campers visited a sawmill, state park, and state forest, took forest measurements to the end that they produced management plans that took into consideration the many uses of forest land such as timber production, watershed, protection, wildlife, and fish production, and they also had various forms of recreation. The conference program director was Steve Resh, director of the Allegany College of Maryland Forest Technology program.

Youth activities were promoted by the board, including tree plantings at interested public schools. A 4-H Tree Photo contest was held at the annual county fair, with cash prizes awarded for the top three places.

In the area of forest protection, the emerald ash borer has been detected in Allegany and Anne Arundel counties. The Maryland Department of Agriculture (MDA) has therefore placed all counties west of the Susquehanna River and the Chesapeake Bay under quarantine. This order prohibits the movement of ash trees and wood, as well as all hardwood firewood, out of the quarantined area. The EAB is an invasive pest from Asia that feeds on and kills ash trees within three years after infestation.

The fall webworm has shown up all over the county. According to the MDA and the University of Maryland Extension Service, the fall webworm is more of an aesthetic problem than a threat to the trees. The worm comes at a time when the trees have completed their growth for the year, so it has little effect on the trees.

GCMH To Hold Diabetes Classes Sept. 19 And 20

Garrett County Memorial Hospital will hold two specifically designed classes on diabetes next week, both to be held in the Board Room of the hospital.

A pre-diabetes class is slated for Monday, Sept. 19, from 2 to 3 p.m. This class is intended for people who have been told they are at high risk for developing diabetes. Participants will learn how to prevent or delay the start of diabetes, as well as ways to lead a healthy lifestyle. The class will discuss nutrition, activity, monitoring, medications, and coping strategies. The class will be taught by Kendra Thayer, RN, WCC, diabetic educator at GCMH.

The hospital will also hold a gestational diabetes class on Tuesday, Sept. 20, from 4 to 5 p.m. This class is for women who have been diagnosed with diabetes while pregnant. Participants will learn about how to keep their blood sugar levels down throughout their pregnancy and reduce their risk for complications. The class will focus on nutrition, activity, monitoring, and coping strategies to use throughout the pregnancy. It will also be taught by Thayer

There is no charge for either class, but participants must register by calling 301-533-4271.

RECOGNIZED FOR "EXEMPLARY PATRIOTISM" – The Little Meadows Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution recently recognized Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Nixon, proprietors of Classy Car Wash, Cumberland, for "exemplary patriotism" through the display of the American flag. "Mr. and Mrs. Nixon exhibit devotion to honoring the American flag and its proper display," said a chapter spokesman. "They display the flag of our country, the MIA flag, and the flag of the state of Maryland regularly, and replace the flags as necessary." Left to right are flag chairman Ansel Shircliffe, the Nixons, and Luther Parrack, chapter president.

102nd Broadwater Family Reunion Recently Held

The 102nd annual Broadwater family reunion was recently held at the Grantsville Community Park, with approximately 200 relatives and friends in attendance.

Entertainment was provided by Loretta Hummel, Robert Broadwater, Pete Leasure, Dione Broadwater, and DJ Perry Kamp and son Sean. Margie Broadwater opened with a blessing on the reunion, and Karen Braodwater was in charge of games. President Marvin Broadwater presented gifts to Dorcas Wampler, oldest woman, Frostburg; Clyde Norris, oldest man, Ridgeley, W.Va.; Zoey Humbertson, youngest baby, 3-month-old daughter of Amber and Will Humbertson, Frostburg; Becky and Eddie West, Fayettesville, N.C., who traveled the farthest; and Thelma and Russell Broadwater, married 62 years, Grantsville. Also recognized were Roy and Diona Broadwater, married 61 years, Lonaconing.

The largest families with 13 members present in each were those of Marge Uphold, Rawlings, and Jonas Broadwater and Mike McFarland, Cumberland. Secretary Christine Tirado was in charge of the gifts, and Shelley Ault and Danielle Fruik registered the guests.

The 103rd Broadwater family reunion will be held on Sunday, Aug. 5, 2012, at Grantsville Community Park.

RECOGNIZED FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT SERVICE – The Little Meadows Chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution recently recognized Lt. Chris Helbig, Garrett County Sheriff's Office. On the recommendation of Sheriff Rob Corley, Helbig was presented the Law Enforcement Commendation Medal and Certificate, which are awarded in recognition of outstanding achievement and dedication to the maintenance of law and order. Left to right are Little Meadows president Luther Parrack, Helbig, and Corley.

Massie Unit Sets Picnic/Reunion

The annual Joseph S. Massie Unit picnic/reunion will be held on Sunday, Sept. 18, from 1 to 5:30 p.m. at Rocky Gap State Park, Pavilion #7, for Massie alumni and families.

Persons should bring their own food and picnic supplies. Provisions for cooking will be supplied.

For more information, persons may contact Shelly Warnick at the Massie Unit at 301-777-2285.

History Course On Appalachia Slated At Garrett College

Dr Truett Rogers, a retired West Virginia University honors professor, will teach an Appalachian history class through the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division of Garrett College. Classes will be held on the McHenry campus on six Wednesday mornings, from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. starting Sept. 21 through Oct. 26.

The class will address such topics as Appalachian immigration, coal extraction, unions, and forestry. Cultural aspects such as Appalachian music, glass making, and religion will also be covered by Rogers and a host of specialty guest speakers.

For additional information or to register, persons may call 301-387-3069.

"Diamonds: Mine To Market" Slated At Northern Ctr.

Linda Watson, a graduate gemologist (GIA), will lead students on an exploration of the value of a diamond by following its path from the mine to the market place. This course, titled "Diamonds: From Mine to Market," is offered through the Northern Outreach Center (NOC) of Garrett College in Grantsville. Classes are slated for four consecutive Mondays, beginning Oct. 3, from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m.

Watson will examine today's marketing structure, explain the actual control of DeBeers since 2001, and look at the Russian and Canadian influences to provide insight on the control of diamond prices. Misconceptions about common simulants (imitations) and synthetics will be addressed as to their value on the market.

Students will then hear about "value factors," the universal grading systems now in use, and how diamond value is determined by color, clarity, cut, and carat weight.

There will be a demonstration of how a diamond is identified using lab equipment. Students will view diamonds with a gemological microscope and learn to use a loupe.

For more information on this course, persons may contact NOC program coordinator Terry Beachy at 301-895-4700 or terry.beachy@garrettcollege.edu.

Anyone interested in registering for this course may contact the Continuing Education and Workforce Development Division at 301-387-3069.

Loar Auxiliary To Host Public Reception Friday

Founded in 1951, the Loar Auxiliary of Garrett County Memorial Hospital is celebrating its 60th year of service to the hospital. The general public is invited to share in the milestone by joining the Loar Auxiliary volunteers at a public reception scheduled to be held at 1:30 p.m. in the hospital lobby on Friday, Sept. 16.

The agenda for the reception will include a check presentation to the GCMH Foundation. Refreshments will be available, and staff will be on hand to provide tours of the hospital facility.

Staffed entirely with volunteers, the Loar Auxiliary services include the operations of the gift shop, located in the hospital lobby, and the Cup O' Joe coffee shop and vending area. The group periodically holds various special fundraisers, including bake sales and jewelry sales. All proceeds from Auxiliary activities benefit the GCMH, and its patients, employees, and visitors. Volunteer members also sponsor regular blood drives for the American Red Cross on the hospital campus, providing both volunteers and canteen services.

The Loar Auxiliary has a long history of funding special needs at the hospital like the HUGS infant security system used in the Family Centered Maternity Suite and the renovations necessary for the opening of the hospital's Wound Care Center. The auxiliary accepts nontraditional projects like the welcoming of flags in the hospital parking areas and a special arts project that complements the hospital with local works of art. Additionally, the Loar Auxiliary has become one of the major donors to the GCMH Foundation with donations totally $243,000.

Current officers are president Betty Wolford, vice president Denise Shay, treasurer Jim Croston, recording secretary Lisa Malone, and committee member Phyllis Gank. Individuals interested in more information should contact volunteer services at 301-533-4041.

Replacing a 10-year-old room air conditioner with a new ENERGY STAR® qualified model will save an average of $250 over the lifetime of the unit. That's because models that are at least 10 years old use 35% more energy. In fact, using a new ENERGY STAR qualified AC will save enough energy over its lifetime to run an ENERGY STAR qualified refrigerator for more than a year.

God and Time

Time marks the beginning of life. It measures the growth of our bodies. It provides opportunity for our work and play. It reveals to us our human limitations, and then, one day, time leaves us behind. But God is the origin of life; He measures the growth of our souls. He provides our strength and forgives our weakness and reveals His infinite love. If we follow Him, God will lead us on, even beyond the circle of time. Make time for God this week at your house of worship.

Speak Little, Especially of Oneself

There is perhaps no greater boost to our egos than speaking well of oneself and one's accomplishments, unless it is to hear someone else speak well of our accomplishments. But, what do we get from this urge to expound on our virtues and accomplishments? Simply put, people will take us to be egocentric boors. Only a self-centered fool tells others how wonderful he is. Indeed, in the act of boasting about our virtue, we destroy it, or at least we destroy the specific virtue of humility. If you desire to be thought well of, speak little, and when you do speak, put the focus on other's virtues rather than your own. Good teachers know that their job is not to babble on endlessly, but rather to get their students thinking and talking about the subject matter. Speak less, listen more, and remember that there is the potential for both vice and virtue in every conversation. So keep your speech charitable, and turn the conversation to subjects which edify those involved.

"Know this, my beloved brethren. Let every man be quick to hear, slow to speak, slow to anger."

R.S.V. James 1:19

Q: What has happened to "Switched at Birth"? When will it come back? –Bill and Bette Leatherwood, Salisbury, Mo.

A: As with so many cable series, its season has been split. The first 10 episodes ordered by ABC Family ran their course, but the good news is that they performed well enough for the network to order another 22 episodes to complete the first year.

Those are expected to begin running in January ... and a 32-episode order is pretty hefty for any show these days, so it also bodes well for the future of the drama that features Lea Thompson (whose daughter, Zoey Deutch, has just started as a co-star of the new series "Ringer" on The CW).

Q: Is the actress who plays Jane's mother on "Rizzoli & Isles" the same actress who played opposite Sean Connery in "Medicine Man"? It's her voice, not her look, that is familiar. –Jeanne Starkey, Superior, Wis.

A: Indeed, there is no mistaking that voice. In both cases, yes, it's Lorraine Bracco – who is known to even more people from her much-praised run as Dr. Jennifer Melfi, confidante to mobster Tony (James Gandolfini), on the iconic HBO series "The Sopranos." She's also well remembered for her link to another screen mob member: Henry Hill (Ray Liotta), whose wife, Karen, she played in director Martin Scorsese's 1990 classic "GoodFellas."

Q: What is the name of the actor who plays Officer Sutton on "Memphis Beat"? I think I also saw him on a couple of episodes of "Lost." And what is his height, weight and marital status? –Brenda Rankin, Lakewood, Colo.

Lea Thompson

A: DJ Qualls did one episode of "Lost" in 2005, and his other television credits of recent years have included "Breaking Bad," "The Big Bang Theory," "CSI: Crime Scene Investigation," "Law & Order: Criminal Intent," "Criminal Minds" and "My Name Is Earl."

His movie work has included "Hustle & Flow," "The Core," "Lone Star State of Mind," and "Road Trip." He stands 6 feet 1 inch, and if we ever come that close to the Nashville-born actor, we'll be sure to bring a a scale to get his accurate weight; meanwhile, we also can report that he's unmarried (or at least was as of this writing).
